Intercollegiate Oratorical Competition Takes Place On Campus Friday Evening

State University Will Be Host to Representatives of State College, School of Mines, Intermountain and Normal Colleges; Sonstiele Represents Grizzlies

For the first time in six years the State University will be host to five other Montana collegiate institutions represented in the annual oratorical contest here May 20. The six best students orators of the state, winners in local competition, will appear in Main hall at 8:15 o'clock Friday in the contest sponsored by the Montana Intercollegiate Oratorical association.

The Northern Montana school at Havre, and the Eastern Montana Normal college at Billings will not be represented this year. W. Lee Rheims, a former student of the State University, the delegate from the State School of Mines, Butte, will speak on "The Sword of Peace." Rheims placed third in the 1931 contest at Helena.

Intermountain Union college, Helena, will send Delmar Leeson, whose subject is "Just Around the Corner." Mount St. Charles college, Helena, will be represented by Edward J. McGowan. The title of his speech is "When Will America Plan?" Jerry O'Connell of Mount St. Charles placed first in the 1931 contest.

Speaks on World Peace

Montana State College's representative is Chester W. Huntley, who will speak on "The New Americanism and Patriotism as a Step Toward World Peace." "The Spirit of George Washington" is the title of the oration of Virginia Randolph of Montana State Normal College, Dillon. James Sonstiele, the winner of the 1932 Aber Oratorical contest held last week, will represent the State University, again giving "The Rise of Racial Inferiority." Marciano Raquel, the State University representative in the 1931 contest, placed second last year.

For five consecutive years the State University has won second place in this contest but has never yet held the silver cup awarded to the winner of first place. Mount St. Charles college has won the cup six years out of ten.

Cash Awards Are Given

Prizes awarded to the winners by the association are as follows: $30 and a gold medal to the winner of first place, with the silver cup going to the school he represents; to the winner of second place, $20 and a silver medal, and for third place, a prize of $10 and a bronze medal.

Darrell R. Parker of the Department of English is president of the association, Frank L. Harrington of Mount St. Charles is vice-president and Walter T. Scott of the School of Mines is secretary.

Chairman and judges for the contest Friday evening have not yet been selected.

"Will the Next Generation Know 'School Tradition'?" asks the featured article in Collegiana, our next Thursday issue for the college time, next Thursday is the magazine's fourth appearance on the campus.

Two attitudes on traditions will be presented. Joe Turrell, Ovando, is the author of the article championing campus traditions. "The Yearling," by Richard Lake, Judith Gap, the story which won the Joyce Memorial prize this year, also will be featured in this issue. An article by E. M. Little, associate professor of physics, an article on the R. O. T. C., and a sketch by John Houston, Bozeman, will be included in this issue.

A meeting of the outgoing and incoming boards of editors of Collegiana was held Monday, May 9, to plan for the continuation of the magazine. Those present at the meeting included Maxwell Gates, Bridger; Grace Doggett, Red Lodge; Mercedes Sprague, Centralia, Wash.; Kay Evans, Whitehall; Richard Lake, Judith Gap; Leonard Kenfield, Inverness; John Houston, Bozeman; Betty Foot, Helena, and Henry Larom, Valley, Wyo. High School Instructors Hold Session

Value of Preparing High School Plays in the Class Room Is Discussed by Council

Discussion of "Preparing High School Plays in the Class Room" was given Friday morning at the annual meeting of the Montana Council of Teachers of English by Mary Harris, dramatic director at Missoula county high school.

Miss Harris explained the advantages of such a plan and how much more successful dramatics may be handled under such a system.

Evelyn Clinton, a graduate of the Department of English with the class of '28, who is teaching in the high school at Windham this year, spoke on "Rewriting of Verse in the High School." She explained the progress she had made with a class of sophomores in this work, and the means of presenting such a course successfully.

At a business meeting of the council, a committee was appointed to revise the constitution. Three years ago a committee was appointed to investigate conditions in high school libraries throughout the state. The Montana Education association selected a standing committee two years ago to investigate and improve the libraries. At this meeting a new committee was chosen to re-check the work done previously. Prof. Lucia B. Mirrieles of the Department of English will head the committee in charge of this investigation.

Turney-High Ends Lectures Tonight

Dr. Harry Turney-High will close his lecture series on anthropological subjects tonight at 7:30 with a discourse on "Certain Problems of North America." The lecture will be held in Main hall.

The course has been given for the benefit of townspeople of Missoula and has proved a very popular series. Crowds of more than five hundred persons have been in attendance at most of the lectures. In the lectures Dr. Turney-High has told of peoples and civilizations now extinct.

Ray Birk, a former student, who visited friends during track week, returned to his home in Corvallis Saturday.

Gordon Rognlien, who was graduated from the State University School of Law in 1930, visited friends on the campus yesterday.

Rognlien is the assistant county attorney at Kalispell. He left yesterday to attend the Democratic state convention at Helena.

Track Meet Will Be Held Another Year

Officials Expect Favorable Returns After Expenses for Meet Are Deducted

Missoula will have the Interscholastic Meet for at least another year. This was determined Saturday when a preliminary check by committee officials indicated a balance of several hundred dollars would be left after all expenses had been paid. This was, however, only an estimate but it is certain that there will be no deficit this year.

For the past several years there has been an annual deficit of nearly $700. This was cut this year through the student co-operation and the rate concession granted by the railroads of the state.

"On behalf of the committee, I wish to thank the students for their co-operation in making this a successful meet," said Dr. J. P. Rowe, committee head. "We are very grateful to them for their contribution, because it was primarily through their purchase of season tickets that we were able to come out financially even. They did aid us materially and we hope they will continue to do so."

Graduates Accept Instructor Jobs On English Staff

Marjorie Shane and Charles Hilton Will Serve As Department Assistants Next Year

Marjorie Shane, who will be graduated in June from the University of Oregon and Charles Hilton who will be graduated in August from the University of Washington, have been selected to serve as graduate assistants in the Department of English next year.

Mr. Hilton has written stories, verse and criticisms, many of which have been published in national magazines. Miss Shane is interested in creative writing and has done some work along this line, but has published nothing of this kind as yet.

The State University of Montana has had graduate assistants in the Department of English for only three years. Paul Treichler, one of this year's assistants, is the only graduate of this institution who has ever done any of the work.

Since the State University has no course open to graduate students only, it is necessary for a student working for a master's degree to do independent work, as most of the graduate courses have been included in his curriculum as an undergraduate. For this reason it is hard for graduates of this institution to work on their masters degree here after their graduation.

Press Club Meets To Elect Officers

Dean Stone Night and Annual Field Trip Will Be Planned

Members of Press club will hold their final meeting of the year in the Journalism building tomorrow night. Election of officers for the coming year and plans for Dean Stone night and the Press club field trip will be discussed at the meeting.

Under the old constitution, officers for the club always were elected in the fall of the year. When the new constitution was written a few weeks ago it was decided that it would be better to elect officers in the spring and let them become acquainted with their duties. The new officers will be in charge of Dean Stone night and the field trip. Committees for these two events will be appointed in the near future.

The last issue of the Shack Splinter, official club paper, will be printed and given out at the meeting.

BRANNON IS VISITOR

Dr. M. A. Brannon, chancellor of the University of Montana, was a visitor at the State University yesterday, conferring with Dr. C. H. Clapp on problems connected with the university.

Clarence LaCombe, Superior, was in Missoula last week for track meet.

Clapp, president of the institution. Canon S. H. Middleton, president of St. Paul school, Cardston, Alberta, has accepted the invitation of the State University to give the Baccalaureate address on Sunday, June 5.

Commencement Speaker

Dr. George E. Barnes, who was graduated from the State University in 1902, will return to the campus to deliver the Commencement address during the Alumni Reunion, June 3, 4, 5 and 6. Dr. Barnes is pastor of Overbrook Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. He was Montana's first Rhodes scholar.

Culver Addresses Interchurch Group

Lecturer Stops Here While on Tour Of Pacific Northwest

"The Plans of the Pacific Northwest Student Conference" was the subject of the talk given by Dr. Raymond C. Culver of the Y.M.C.A. before the Interchurch Fellowship group at a luncheon Thursday at the Chimney Corner.

Dr. Culver is on a tour of the Pacific northwest states comprising Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington, visiting the associations that are members of the Pacific Northwest Field council. While in Missoula, Dr. Culver conferred with the Fellowship group about the local program of the group and reported the plans of the Pacific Northwest Student conference which will be held at Seabeck, Wash., June 11 to 18.

Dr. Culver is executive secretary of the student division of the national council of the Y.M.C.A. and is field secretary for Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. He is a graduate of Yale and received his Ph.D. degree from the same school. Just recently he wrote a book entitled "Horace Mann and Religion in the Massachusetts Schools" which has attracted much comment in this country and England. He left for Helena last Thursday afternoon where he will meet with a student group at Intermountain Union college.

Co-eds Participate In Archery Contest

Members of archery classes at the State University will compete this week in the Third Intercollegiate Telegraphic meet, sponsored by the National Archery association. The archers are required to shoot 24 arrows at targets which are 30, 40 and 50 yards distant. The eight highest scores are submitted to the headquarters.

Last year the highest scores were made by Jeanette Duncan, with 195; Emma Bravo, 186; Ada Wood, 161; Lorraine Rowe, 143; Iyle Rich, 116; Dorothy Miller, 115, and Grace Ludwig, 106.

There is no prize offered for the highest score other than the honor of national recognition.

Jack Kelleher, Butte, was the weekend guest of his brother, Grant, at South hall.

Dr. Barnes is one of the few graduates of the State University to return to speak at graduation exercises. He also has the distinction of being the first Rhodes scholar from Montana. He began his work in England in 1904 and finished in 1907 with first honors in theology. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry during the same year.

Granted Doctor of Divinity Degree

In 1916, Alma college of Michigan granted him the degree of doctor of divinity. His activities during the war were in connection with the chairmanship of the Presbyterian War Service commission for the states of Michigan and Wisconsin. He was chaplain of Camp Custer, Mich., in 1918. In 1922 he went to Philadelphia to be pastor of the Overbrook Presbyterian church.

Canon Middleton already has talked in Montana for the Montana Educational association. He gave a series of addresses at district conventions at Helena, Lewistown and Miles City. He is the president of the Cardston Rotary club, and will be the Canadian chairman at the International Peace Park dedication exercises in Glacier Park on June 18.

1902 Class Outstanding

Dr. Barnes was a member of the same class with which Benjamin D. Stewart of Juneau, Alaska, was graduated.

"The class of 1902 was one of the most outstanding classes that has ever been graduated from the State University," Dr. F. C. Scheuch, vice-president of the school, said in an informal interview. G. E. Sheridan of Butte was another classmate of Dr. Barnes and Stewart.

Commencement exercises this year will be incorporated in the program planned for the 1932 Reunion, June 3, 4, 5 and 6, when alumni and former students of the State University will return to Missoula.

Journalism Groups Will Hold Banquet

Annual Affair Will Be Held at Nimrod This Evening

Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism fraternities for men and women, will hold their annual joint banquet at the Byrne resort at Nimrod tonight. Andrew Cogswell, instructor in the School of Journalism, will be toastmaster.

Speeches will be made by all graduating seniors, Dean A. L. Stone and Mrs. Leah Abbott.

Inez Stewart, Helena, is in charge of the Theta Sigma Phi committee. Felicia McLemore and Margaret Raitt, Stanley Helena, are her assistants. Stan Hill, Sand Coulee, is chairman of the Sigma Delta Chi committee, assisted by Ray Kennedy, Belt, and Tom Coleman, Haugen.

"About thirty-five are expected at the banquet," Hill said yesterday.

BOTANY CLASSES STUDY LOCAL FLORAL FAMILIES

The general botany classes under Dr. C. W. Waters and Esther Larsen took field trips up Mt. Sentinel last Tuesday.

The trips, which are designed to supplement the work in the laboratory, were but some of a series to be taken this quarter. About forty-two families of wild flowers were found on this side of the mountain. The students were taught how to distinguish the different flowers that are common around this region and to be able to give their common names as well as their scientific names. About one hundred ten students took the trips.

Warren St. John, '31, Corvallis, was a track meet visitor on the campus.

ONCE upon a time we climbed Mt. Sentinel. We were somewhat unused to mountain climbing, and still remember the wobbly feeling we got in our legs, the way our heart pounded, the nice sunburn we had acquired by the time we reached the top. But our arrival at the top did give us a feeling of accomplishment—as well as relief. Coming down was quite different—so easy it was almost involuntary. And we arrived at the bottom with a sense of relief—as well as a feeling that it had been a little foolish to climb the mountain anyway. The approach of graduation gives many a graduating senior somewhat the same feeling. The long struggle to the top has left them feeling a bit triumphant but a little wobbly and a bit dazed. Now, they are sliding down a hill faster than they want to, and their energies were so absorbed in the uphill climb that they can't stop themselves. Not that most of them would mind the slide especially, except that they don't know just where they're headed.

ONE of today's news service bulletins brings several paragraphs on the subject of fraternities. Which makes us wonder again why this subject should get as much time and attention from the ordinary college student as it does. After all, a fraternity is a thing that has a place in the life of the average individual at almost every age. Nearly all of us are of a gregarious nature. Most college students first became fraternity men when they were about six years old, and joined the neighborhood gang that most suited their tastes. These gangs were as "choosy" in their membership, as fervent in their rivalry with other gangs as any college fraternity. When their members became of high school age, there was a tendency to adopt secret signs and curiosity-arousing symbols. And when the same students got to college they found that their ideas were not as individual as they had thought, so they founded a national organization. As long as the fraternity lasts, it will have faults along with its good points—naturally; and if it goes, it will merely be superseded by another organization that will grow into the same thing—naturally. So why argue about things that can't be helped?

PRONE as we are to criticism, we are going to lay aside our little hammer for a few moments and give a big boost where it is the least expected—the local R. O. T. C. unit. For years (yes, we are older than we sound) we have been accustomed to almost daily and most certainly monotonous exposures to the various dislikes of the student military organization. Many of the gripes, we admit, were well founded, but after so many years of them, we seize with great pleasure upon an incident which reflects much on the credit of the much vituperated organization. We refer to the policing of the near side of Mount Sentinel last Friday. For the first time that we can remember, the crowds on Mount Sentinel did not have better seats than those who paid their admissions at the gate. Those who did troop up the mountain to see the meet had to go so far up that those without field glasses had to go home and read about the meet in the papers.

HAVING been disappointed in our hopes to have this the last column we would write for the Kalmin, we are quite despairing of finding topics on which to write during the rest of the year. We thought of starting a question box—or rather, a suggestion box—so that all those people who know of so many interesting topics could furnish them to us. But knowing these people as we do, we thought it would probably be futile. However, to those who do have causes they'd like to have aired, we can gladly say as the advertisers do—"tell your friends about us."

THE CURSE OF VERSE

Consider, please, the column bard, Who works so terribly, terribly hard, To make his rhymes and meters fit And be the very soul of wit; He sits up, cursing through the night, And does his level best to write To please his readers every day By saying things a different way.

The column poet must abjure The cause of better literature, Rhyme a host of clever jokes About a lot of other folks, And spend his life just cracking wise So we may laugh at other guys, Knowing well that only we Are just as all mankind should be.

Now that the Track Meet is over, children, you may throw away those addresses you so carefully wrote down Saturday night, because they really don't expect you to write. They know very well you're too busy, with college and all, and you such a big activity man on the campus.

Writing a column is a peculiar thing, Unk has decided. Just before a columnist goes to sleep at night, he invariably thinks up some beautiful column material, only to find, upon awakening the next morning that it's all faded away into nothingness, leaving only the realization that it was awfully good stuff, if only he could have remembered it.

Probably there is no human being in the world more persevering than a parking attendant. Armed with a synthetic rainstorm apiece, they have done their level best for several years to make the sidewalks in the University district grow, but without success.

But when our children register as freshmen, they'll probably still be trying.

The dandelions, to date, have been much more responsive to their care.

Unk wants to warn you, children, about snap judgment. For instance, now that spring and its days of sunshine are here, just because a girl wears a slip is no sign that she's bowlegged.

She may be modest.

Unk's pipe dream for this week, children, is exactly the same as it was a year ago today. In fact, it's his favorite pipe dream, because he dreams it so often.

It is that love letters merely comprise another method of teasing. You know it's there, but two cents won't deliver it.

Dear Children:

This is your Uncle's swan song. Since a year ago last January, he's tried to think of something twice a week for your entertainment; to bring a smile, perhaps a gurgling of enjoyment now and then; to help you to forget, once in a while, the seriousness of this business of education. Whether or not he has succeeded, Unk will probably never know, but he's glad he tried, anyway. And if even one of you, just once, was able to get a chuckle out of his nonsense, he feels that he's been fully rewarded for his efforts. He hopes that you'll enjoy his successor and that his successor will get as much pleasure out of the job as he did.

Your loving Uncle,

HUD.

Goodbye, children.

French Group Will Elect New Officers

The Cercle du Chevalier de la Verdendry will end its year's activities with the last meeting Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. O. Smith, 408 Daly avenue.

Election of officers will be the main business of the evening. The program will be in honor of Joan d'Arc, and other famous names connected with the month of May. "La Paix Chez Soi," a play by Georges Courteline, will be read by Emma Bravo, Sand Coulee, and Henry Larom, Valley Wyo. The following short talks will be given: "Joan d'Arc," Ellen Galusha; "Daudet," Esther Epstein; "Death of Napoleon," Genevieve Krum; "Death of Musset," Geraldine Ede; "Death of Massenet," Eleanor Smith. Joan Smith accompanied by Marion Wold, will play a violin solo by Massenet.

Plains; Joe FitzStephens, Belgrade; Dorothy Hannifin, Butte; Vernon Hoven, Antelope; Fred Ironside, Missoula; Walter Murphy, Deer Lodge; Dalton Pierson, Oswego, Ore.; Floyd Small, Deer Lodge, and Leonard Schulz, Sheridan.

Carl Tysel, '29, a graduate of the School of Business Administration, was a visitor on the campus yesterday. He intends to return to Missoula for the Reunion in June.

The Twenty-ninth Interscholastic Meet is over. Contestants, champions and visitors who thronged Missoula for three days have returned to their homes throughout the state, carrying with them varying impressions of the State University. While here they learned much about us, our school and our traditions. If the aim of the Interscholastic has been fulfilled they have gone back with the desire to return some day to be a part of us. The 1932 meet was a success—financially and as a track meet. For the first time in a number of years, a favorable balance is shown on the books instead of the usual deficit, insuring the State University the meet for at least another year. A great deal of credit for the financial success of the meet goes to the students who supported it by buying season tickets.

Without the meet, the State University would lose its best means of contact with high school students, the contact that brings them back to Missoula as students. Other cities throughout the state have indicated their desire to have the meet transferred to them. So while we have the experience we have in handling a meet, the field, the track, the town and the student co-operation—let's try to keep it here as one of Montana's finest institutions.

Approximately two hundred students will be graduated from the State University in less than three weeks' time. They will be faced with the same problems that have confronted each group of students who have accepted their sheepskins with a feeling of accomplishment and gone forth to find that the real opportunity for accomplishment had not yet been tapped. Reports are that the unwieldy economic machines of the East and on the coast are being oiled and stoked for more rapid acceleration than in the past few months. Montana, apparently, is still inert, economically—and Montana is the field in which the majority of State University graduates will invest their educational stock. Agitation for employment of Montana graduates in their state was begun in some professional circles before the depression became acute. The program is being pushed more aggressively with an increased number of Montana students to be taken care of. Doubtless those who are graduating, and who best realize the justice of such a program, will push it still further.

Some university graduates, though probably much less cocksure and more willing to begin at the bottom than they have been given credit for, still cling to the old illusion that there is a niche in the world of affairs carved just to fit them. Perhaps there is, if they can find it. Just as many are coming to realize that any niche will do, even though they do rattle around in it a bit; that unless they get there first, someone with the advantage of more time and experience will have taken the place that might have been theirs in ordinary times.

Men in position to know inform us that there are jobs to be had. They aren't specific. They provide no formula. They only maintain that there are positions available for the student who goes after them, who proves that he has the necessary knowledge and the ability to put it to use for his employer. It is up to each one to show that he has stuff, just as it has been for successive groups of graduates in the past. That it is more difficult this year is not a stopper—but a challenge.

The student who has gone through four years of training with indifference to the test that he will meet in getting and holding a job will probably be trampled by business leaders who have been put on their mettle with the passing of opulent prosperity.

The one who began in his freshman year with the formulation of a definite purpose and took every means offered in the State University for preparing himself for service in his field will find his niche. If he looks for it in Montana first, it is less likely that he will have to carve his own.

Just about a year ago today a new editorial staff published its first Kaimin, and today another new staff replaces that of last year. Today, we who are finishing our work on the Kaimin take this opportunity of putting our thoughts into print on this page for the last time. Since we have been associated with the paper, numerous things have happened—some of them pleasant, some not so pleasant. We have had failures, and we have had successes. For the former we are sorry and for the latter we can be but thankful, for had not things been willed so, they would not have happened.

Also we have had many things happen—seemingly of great importance at the time—which have been nearly forgotten now. At the moment they were of first consideration and, after the soothing effect of time had done its work, they have passed into near oblivion to be remembered only as are all written things remembered—buried somewhere in a musty file of clippings. Except that these things will be remembered in one other way for they were a part of us for so long that, even in the years to come, we will look back and meditate upon them and their importance—for they were important to us if to no one else.

To the new staff, we extend our congratulations and may they make all the contacts, meet all the friends and have all the experiences we have had during our administration. For endeavor's greatest reward is experience—and life is but the sum total of our experiences.

FORMER STUDENT VISITS

Evelyn Clinton, '28, was a Track Meet visitor on the campus. She is teaching in the high school at Windham. She was a speaker on the program of the Montana Council of Teachers of English held here Friday morning.

Robert Matsen, a senior in the School of Forestry, left for Glacier park Saturday where he accepted job to work for the Bureau of Public Roads.

No wonder men smoke PIPES!

EVERY PIPE SMOKER has the satisfaction of knowing he has one masculine right that the women won't take away from him. They do leave our pipes alone.

And though the girls may not know it, they're leaving us one of the finest smokes a man can have.

There's something calm and soothing about a pipe and good tobacco. It leads to clear-headed thinking. Perhaps that's why the leaders—the real men of the world—are pipe smokers.

College men like a pipe—packed with cool, slow-burning Edgeworth, the favorite pipe tobacco in 42 out of 54 colleges. It's cut especially for pipes, to give a cooler, drier smoke. You can buy Edgeworth wherever good tobacco is sold. Or for a special sample packet, write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.

EDGEWORTH SMOKING TOBACCO

Edgeworth is a blend of fine old burleys, with its natural flavor enhanced by Edgeworth's distinctive and exclusive eleven-step process. Buy Edgeworth anywhere in two forms—Edgeworth Ready-Rubbed and Edgeworth Plug Slice. All sizes, 15¢ packet package to $1.50 pound humidifier tin.

Montana Grizzlies Lose Dual Meet With Idaho Vandals Here Saturday

Visitors Garner Eleven Firsts in Track and Field Events, Totalling 83 Points to 48 for Montanans

Montana salvaged but four firsts out of the wreckage left by the Idaho Vandals here Saturday, losing the dual meet, 83-48. Idaho showed great strength on the cinders, scoring seven first places there and four on the field. Russell Peterson's discus throw, Art Caven's low hurdle time, Robertson's broad jump and Clarence Watson's courageous two-mile run were the bright spots in a drab Grizzly day.

The day was cold, the spectators cold and apathetic, but the relay race—the last event of the day—proved a heart-warming, game struggle which brought the few remaining faithful to their feet. Idaho won it in 3 minutes 30.6 seconds. Kalbus opened a 12-yard gap over O'Neill, Montana, Griffin evened up the next lap with a long-sustained sprint against Pope of Idaho. Livingston, Idaho, gained three yards on White which Covington closed to one yard as the race ended.

Peden Wins Exhibition
Roy Peden won the century and furlong from Kenneth Duff in 10.2 seconds and 23.5 seconds, respectively. Glenn Lockwood, who may compete in the Olympic tryouts at Seattle, tossed the javelin 185 feet in an exhibition. Walter Custer, former Washington Husky pole vaulter, cleared 12 feet 2 inches in a duel with Billy Burke, former Grizzly pole vaulter. Blanche Kramer, Roman, won the 100-meter special event from Mary Morgus, Camas Prairie in a close race in 13.5 seconds.

Sigfred Jossis, Idaho, topped the field with 11 points for high-point honors of the day. He won the century, the quarter-mile and a third in the broad jump.

Each team swept one event. Idaho took three places in the 100-yard dash while Montana garnered nine points in the discus.

Final Golf Combat Is Novice Contest

Meet Is Open to All Except Entrants in All-School Tournament

A novice golf tournament employing medal play is scheduled for this week. The tourney is the last one of the quarter for State University students. Entries must be turned in to Phil Patterson at the State University course on or before Friday noon.

The tournament is open to all State University students except those who were in the all-school tournament. Persons who have been taking golf for a physical education credit are required to enter. Play will be on the State University course.

Entered players will make their own pairings for the first 18 holes of play. The low four men will play as a foursome for the second 18 holes and the low scorer for this play will be declared the winner. All play will be medal.

Corbly Lash, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, visited in Great Falls during track meet.

Sporty Vents

Our two track meets were officially closed Saturday afternoon, but Monday morning saw many of the boys engaged in dashes ranging from 100 yards to the mile, endeavoring to make their 8 o'clocks on time. A week of celebrating made it pretty hard to roll out of bed.

The bull-throwing contest, though not printed on the programs, was another event that went into an over-time period, the boys being still competing in the fraternity houses at a late hour Sunday night.

Many wisecracks have been directed at the radio announcer who describes the beautiful scenery of California during athletic contests, but we would just as soon listen to him as our own announcer crying about ice cream and popples.

Bob O'Malley, the Butte sprint star, caused much comment by starting from a standing position in the 100- and 220-yard races. What could he do from the orthodox starting position? Does he find that he can hit his stride quicker from a standing start or is he really handicapped with a strained tendon? At any rate his new state record of 9.9 in the 100-yard dash is better than the best athletes from six colleges in the Pacific Coast conference could do in meets Saturday.

Jossis of Idaho won that event here in 10.1; Bledsoe of Washington won the century against Oregon in 10.2.

This Week's Games

Games for the coming week are: This afternoon, Sigma Chi vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Wednesday, Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Delta Sigma Lambda; Thursday, Phi Delta Theta vs. Sigma Nu, and Friday, Kappa Sigma vs. Independents. This ends the regular schedule but postponed games will be played in order of postponement, starting Saturday morning.

Independents took Alpha Tau Omega into camp, 7-0. All runs were made in the first two innings.

Sunday morning Sigma Phi Epsilon and Alpha Tau Omega played, the latter winning, 3-1. Lloyd was put in near the end and starred at second base, catching two of three spectacular flies in the fifth inning, Wilcox catching the third.

Alpha Tau Omega 0 0 0 1 0-1 4 1
Sigma Phi Epsilon 2 0 0 1 0-3 2 1
Batteries: Emery and Stroup; Corriel and Disbrow.

Leading hitters in the league are: Vesel, Kappa Sigma, .562; Rotering, Independents, .470; Hinman, Kappa Sigma, .437; Disbrow, Sigma Phi Epsilon, .384; F. Flanagan, Sigma Chi, .375; Silfast, Kappa Sigma, .375; Schmoll, Sigma Nu, .357; Lamb, Sigma Nu, .350. All these have been to bat and O'Connell of Oregon State could only do it in 10.1 in his team's meet against Washington State.

G. Davis, Missoula hurdler, in winning the high hurdles tied the record time of 16.2, but failed to receive recognition because he knocked down one hurdle.

Chester McNorton, Missoula, showed plenty of gameness when, after stumbling near the first turn of the half mile, he got up and made up 20 yards of lost ground, passing many runners but not quite gaining enough ground to place in the race.

After the excitement of the preceding days, Saturday's meet failed to arouse much excitement. The chilly wind also served to dampen the enthusiasm of the crowd on Saturday.

When the Vandals won a clean sweep in the 100-yard dash they served notice of what was to come later on. But the Grizzlies wiped this out with a clean sweep in the discus a few minutes later.

Idaho placed two men in nearly every event while Montana won more places in the discus, shot put, broad jump and 440-yard dash.

Although the action of Livingston of Idaho in slowing down to a walk to enable his team-mate, Bowler, to win a first in the half-mile and a letter, may not have been appreciated by the Idaho officials, it made a great hit with the crowd and he received more applause for his act than the winner of any of the races.

Montana was conceded little chance to win the relay but great running by Griffin and Covington closed a wide gap between the two teams and Idaho won with only a few feet to spare.

Frankie Vesel, Roundup home-run clown, cleared the decks twice Sunday with circuit swats as the Student Store nine bowed to Fort Missoula, 9-6. For five innings the State University boys led, 6-2, but were overcome by a savage Soldier assault in the last four innings.

Whites Down Black Squad In Last Game

Grizzly Football Contest Concludes 1932 Interscholastic Track And Field Program

Approximately one thousand persons saw Coach Bunny Oakes' 1932 gridsters pace through their plays for the last time this spring when a special benefit game was played on Dornblaser field, Friday, as a finale to Interscholastic.

The two teams, the Whites and the Blacks, fought one of the hardest-played games of the entire season. Tackling and blocking was hard. Only one casualty was recorded. George Kuka, tackle on the Black team, suffered a wrenched knee in the first quarter and was unable to finish the game.

The Whites, coached by "Lew" Lewandowski, downed the Blacks, coached by Ted Rule, 14-6. As the whistle announced the end of the game, the Whites were on the Blacks' two-yard stripe and a touchdown was imminent.

The first White touchdown was made on a pass, Stansberry to Blatic, and a short five-yard run over the goal line on the next play. The conversion was also by the pass route, Stansberry to Vidro. The second touchdown was a long pass, Stansberry to Erickson, who crossed the marker untouched after a 15-yard gallop. The point was kicked.

The Blacks scored during a moment of laxity on the part of the Whites, late in the last period. A series of brilliant runs carried the ball to the four-yard line and Dalley carried the

Stewart Has Scheduled Preliminaries For Thursday and Friday; Freshmen Compete

Selection of track and field squads that will represent the State University at the Pacific coast conference meet in Seattle May 27 and 28 is to be made at the all-school championship track and field tryouts Thursday and Friday. Freshmen tracksters will have the final attempt to qualify for numerals during the same tryouts.

Because of the high caliber of the ball over for the tally in one play. The place kick was wide.

All scores were made in the last period.

The ball was put in play according to the new rule change made by the rules committee on intercollegiate football at a special meeting last week. The change was concerning the use of the punt as one method of kicking off. The punt is now barred as it gave the kicking team too great an advantage.

The coaches were pleased with the showing of their proteges on the field and the spectators demonstrated their approval by keeping up a continuous applause.

competition entered at the conference meet, only those men who qualify with time or with distance that is sufficiently good to insure possible placement in the meet, will be taken to Seattle. This also will be the final opportunity for students and Grizzly supporters to see the last track team coached by "Jock" Stewart at Montana.

Fresh also will enter this meet and attempt to qualify for their "35" numerals. Fast times in the track and good distances in the field events are expected in this meet.

Wayne Laine of Thompson Falls spent Thursday on the campus making arrangements to attend the State University next fall.

Touring Foresters Visit San Francisco

Men Find Journey from Corvallis to Crescent City Scenic

Crescent City, Calif., May 10.—(Special) —Montana's barnstorming foresters arrived here this afternoon after a 350-mile hop from Corvallis, Ore., where they were guests of the Oregon State college foresters at an informal gathering in the "Arboretum"—the O. A. C. foresters' social playground and workshop—located approximately seven miles from the city.

When the Montana timbermen arrived in Corvallis they immediately were escorted to the picturesque camp and there the two crews mingled, making new acquaintances and renewing old friendships. During the course of the evening both factions aided the entertainment committee with songs, toasts and short speeches. When the party returned to the city the visitors inspected all of the large buildings on the campus.

"Our trip from Corvallis to Crescent City was one of the most beautiful and interesting phases of the entire journey thus far," said T. C. Spaulding, dean of the Montana School of Forestry. "It was the first time that most of the boys had seen the Pacific ocean, and the rocky coast on the west and towering redwoods to the east, together with the smooth winding highway along the coastal bluffs made the trip most exciting."

After the men arrived in Crescent City they visited the piers where fishing dories were unloading fresh cargoes. They will spend the night here and in the morning leave for Eureka, Calif., where they will inspect pulp and logging mills before continuing on to San Francisco, the southern point of the tour.

On the return trip the party will tour the central and eastern sections of California and Oregon. They expect to arrive in Missoula on May 23.

Snell and Pederson Take Ski Trip to Missions But Find Ice Picks More Practical

Perhaps the most hazardous ski trip ever attempted by any of the State University enthusiasts and mountaineers was taken by Prof. Hampton K. Snell and Peder Pederson Saturday morning.

The climb was started at the icy St. Mary's peak in the lower Mission mountains and continued to the High Park region east of Grey Wolf mountains. Starting the ascent at an altitude of 4,000 feet, the two climbed to a point nearly 9,500 feet high with many thrills to keep up the spirit. The low temperatures had turned the crust of the snow into solid ice and the going was slippery. Steps had to be cut in the ice to gain footholds and at several points the steep walls of the mountain necessitated almost ladder-like notches being cut into the icy mass before ascent could be made.

Probably the biggest thrill of the trip was when Professor Snell lost his footing over a high ledge and slipped to the edge of the precipice where he was able to catch himself by grabbing bushes and brush frozen in the ice. The wind blew a gale and whipped the falling snow flakes into the faces of the explorers, and impeded their progress. Only a few times along the entire route were the skis of any use.

Stone Asks Alumni Aid in Exhibit Here

Letters have been sent to all graduates from the School of Journalism asking them to send copies of the papers and magazines they are working on to Dean A. L. Stone. These papers will be put on display in the Journalism building at the time of the Reunion next month.

"So far we have received several replies from graduates, and although we do not know how many will reply, we believe that nearly all graduates will comply with the request," Andrew Cogswell said yesterday.

Oakes Shows Films To Helena Alumni

Alumni Group Hears Talk by Coach And Sees Campus Movies

Bernard F. Oakes, professor of physical education, gave a talk to the alumni organization of Helena, Monday, May 9. He accompanied his talk with short moving pictures of campus scenes and celebrities. The pictures were taken by Percy Frazier and Dean R. C. Line.

The first part of the picture shows scenes around the Alpha Tau Omega house, including a picture of Harold Fitzgerald, the Rhodes scholarship winner. A football scrimmage, showing the men practicing shifts, passes and line bucks, occupies the next group of pictures. Then come pictures of members of the faculty, the Library, and Richard Kessler, of the heating plant. Views of a baseball game and pictures of Dr. C. F. Deiss and Dr. R. H. Jesse follow.

The conclusion of the picture shows the classes of '41, '43 and '45 and the class of '52, the three Line children and Peggy Clapp, respectively. Coach Oakes gave a series of talks to alumni associations throughout the state last week.

William G. Kelly, '30, of Kalispell visited at the Journalism shack yesterday. Since graduation, Kelly has been working on the Flathead Monitor. While in school he was a member of Sigma Delta Chi, international professional journalism fraternity.

Emily Maclay, instructor in the School of Business Administration, spent the week-end at Thompson Falls.

PLAINTIFF IS VICTORIOUS IN PRACTICE COURT CASE

Fred Ironside, Missoula, attorney for the plaintiff, was awarded the verdict in a $3,000 damage suit against the Northwestern States Utilities corporation tried in Judge Walter L. Pope's practice court Thursday evening, May 5. The defense was conducted by Leonard Schulz, Sheridan. The case involved an explosion, which, caused by fumes from a leak in the gas main, wrecked the home of Hans Oleson, the plaintiff, who was seriously injured as a result. Schulz attempted to prove that the leak was not in the main pipe and that the gas company had taken all due precautions to warn householders of the escaping fumes. Plaintiff's counsel proved that it was escaping gas which had caused the explosion and that the gas company should have turned off the gas when it learned of the leak. As there was no jury, Judge Pope handed down the decision.

DO YOU INHALE?

Certainly . . .

7 out of 10 smokers inhale knowingly...the other 3 inhale unknowingly

Do you inhale? Seven out of ten smokers know they do. The other three inhale without realizing it. Every smoker breathes in some part of the smoke he or she draws out of a cigarette.

Think, then, how important it is to be certain that your cigarette smoke is pure and clean—to be sure you don't inhale certain impurities!

Do you inhale? Lucky Strike has dared to raise this much-avoided subject . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

Campus Comment

A recent Kaimin carried a communication criticizing our lack of convocations on this campus. It seems to me that the idea of having more outside speakers, men of prominence, who know whereof they speak, is a good one. I personally have felt for some time that we do not have enough of that sort of thing.

Surely there would be a sufficient number of men in this and other communities who would be willing to address the student body, men of experience who could give information that would be of great value to them.

Further, I believe that the student body would support such a plan. I have heard quite a number of them speak favorably of adopting it and have heard them express their intention to attend such talks, if arranged.

There is, I believe, a committee whose purpose it is to arrange for such events. Perhaps they would be willing to schedule some, if members of the student body were to show a sufficient interest. Or, perhaps a student committee might handle the matter. At any rate something should be done about it.

In other schools there is set aside a special period for just such convocations. Why not have one here?—R. H. M.

Chalmer Lyman has withdrawn from school.
