FRESHMAN
FANCIES

Today the graduating seniors say goodbye to school and many old friends. We are sorry to see them go, and hope they are a little sorry, too. Eight o'clock classes and surprise tests will be past misery to them, but perhaps even those will soften into pleasant memories. We want to wish them happy and successful futures.

Freshmen are looking reflectively at the calendar and absorbing the fact that soon the ignoble title of "fresh" will give way to that of "worthy sophomore"—for most of us. And meditating with something of satisfaction and pleasure on our first year, we look ahead with anticipation to the future, resolving to really study, scintillate in class, and warm the hearts of the old folks at home. The plan sounds good, anyway.

Flunking students, rally around and ponder on this idea. If serum from pulverized ticks gives immunity to tick fever, why not run down two or three "flunkers" who will sacrifice themselves for the protection of other shaky students against this horrible disease of "flunkitis." An injection of that serum would do most of us good.

Often we hear mutterings on the general decline of school spirit, traditions and reverence of old customs. Sometimes we wonder why said mutterers never offer probable solutions or suggestions for improvement. Oh, well, it gives them something to talk about and bothers the rest of us very little. But there are all varieties and sizes of school spirit. It breaks out on some like measles, and is quickly and easily obliterated, while with others school spirit takes a different form—a truer, deeper significance of that spirit, which shows itself in action and deed, not words.

We are expecting big things of this freshman class of ours, and feel sure we will not be disappointed. Here's to them!

Registration this fall showed a total of 437 freshmen—278 men and 159 women.

Permanent officers were voted upon Wednesday, November 4, to replace temporary officers chosen the first week of school. Alex Blewett, Butte, retaining the office of president; Dorothy Powers, Missoula, was succeeded as vice-president by Isabelle Spitzer; Ruth Polleys, Missoula, retained the office of secretary; Buster Ellsworth, Helmsville, was succeeded as treasurer by James Brown, Butte.

Thursday, May 5, freshmen elected officers for the coming year. John Cougill, Conrad, was elected president; Ossia Taylor, Missoula, vice-president; Dorothy Powers, Missoula, secretary, and Gladys Avery, Helena, treasurer. James Brown, Butte, was elected as sophomore representative to Central Board.

Under the leadership of a new coach, the freshman football and basketball teams finished their seasons undefeated.

The pigskin heroes played only one game but then they romped away from the Bobkittens on the long end of a 40-6 score. This was the first time the Cubs ever brought home a victory. Thirty-six men received numerals.

The basketball team played eight games, scoring 323 points to its opponents 128. Twelve hoopers received numerals.

The track team did not get much outside competition. Missoula high was defeated in a practice meet.

In the intercollegiate meet between the State University and the State College, freshmen carried off boxing and swimming honors.

Results of Examination
Are Received

Comprehensive Test Grades Have
Been Returned from the
Co-operative Service

Results of the comprehensive examinations taken by sophomores and seniors of the State University on May 4 and 5 have just been received from the Co-operative Test service, which sponsored the examinations. Announcement of the date when students may obtain their scores from the registrar's office will be made later.

A hasty examination of the results shows some interesting facts. The highest score made by a senior man, was more than five times larger than the score made by the lowest senior man. The scores bear out the theory of greater variability of scores for men than for women, since the six largest scores were made by men and the four lowest scores were also made by men.

The Montana median in the English test was almost exactly the same as that of the University of Pennsylvania where the tests were given last year. Montana students were somewhat behind the Pennsylvania students when the total scores were compared, the eastern school showing superiority in the foreign literature and fine arts tests. The Montana group appears to be more nearly the equal to the median scores in history and general science, with about exactly the same median intelligence test score.

It is impossible at this time to make comparisons with the numerous other colleges taking the same test, as the tabulations have not yet been completed for all schools. A complete report of all the results will be published later by the American Council on Education.

A timely article by Wiggam appears in the June issue of Cosmopolitan magazine under the title, "What's in a College Graduate's Head?" Wiggam analyzes some of the results of the Pennsylvania study, pointing out some of the significant facts, especially with regard to the vocabulary. English literature and general science tests. Copies of this magazine have been placed at the Library loan desk for use of persons interested in this topic.

Forestry Kaimin,
School Yearbook,
Is Off the Press

Special Articles Feature '32 Annual;
Kelley, Smith and Hutchinson
Are Contributors

Articles by Maj. Evan W. Kelley, regional forester; Glen A. Smith, assistant state forester, and Frank Hutchinson, '22, who is now teaching forestry at Christchurch college, New Zealand, are featured in this year's Forestry Kaimin, annual publication of the Forestry school. The booklet is being distributed today.

The staff is composed of Kenneth Beechell, Missoula, editor; Joseph Woolfolk, Spearfish, N. D., managing editor; Howard Coon, Missoula, business manager, and Fred Benson, American Falls, Idaho; Evans Hawes, New Bedford, Mass.; Joel Frykman and Dick Whitaker, Missoula, assistant editors.

"The Forestry Kaimin is an annual publication of the Forestry school, sponsored by the Forestry club," said Joe Woolfolk, managing editor. "It is financed by advertising, by local dealers, and larger out-of-town forestry equipment houses."

The book consists of four sections. The first is a section of articles and stories by the students and technical articles by professors and forestry service officials. The second consists of activities of the school, the third, a directory of alumni, and the fourth is a section for the graduating seniors.

These sections with pictures and advertising make an 85-page book. It is bound in a paper cover with a mountain scene by Irvin Shupe on the cover. The book will be sent to alumni, present students of the Forestry school, its advertisers, and other forestry schools throughout the country, as well as to the forest service men.

"The Forestry Kaimin was started in 1915," said Woolfolk, "and so far it has always met with success."

Students of Law
School Will Take
Exams This Week

Honor System Used in Tests Which Will Determine Admission of Graduates to the Bar

Law school students will begin their final examination schedule today and will continue through next Friday.

Seniors will take four examinations which will determine their admission to the bar of the State of Montana. If they fail they may take another year's work or take the bar examination this summer. If the examination is satisfactory they will go to Helena later in the year to be formally admitted to the bar.

Freshmen and juniors will also take their examinations.

During the four hours of an examination the law school student is under the honor system. He may write any place in the law building and may speak to others. One quarter's work will be covered in some instances and three quarters in others.

Local Officer
Assigned to West Point

Lieutenant Albert E. Rothermich
Will Take Position At
State University

Captain Thomas D. Davis, who is leaving the R. O. T. C. department June 1 for a post at West Point, will be replaced by First Lieutenant Albert E. Rothermich of Fort Missoula, a graduate of La Salle Extension university in Illinois, the army infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia, and the tank school at Fort Meade, Maryland.

Lieutenant Rothermich returned from the tank school in the summer of 1931 and will take his post in the University, June 15.

Major G. L. Smith, who was head of the Grizzly battalion from 1922 to 1926, returned to the State University last summer.

"I cannot judge the improvement in the R. O. T. C. for the last few years as I have not been here since 1926. Judging from that time, the improvement has been tremendous. This year's freshman class is the best I have ever seen. I am extremely proud of it," said Major Smith.

In the Ninth Corps area, which includes Montana, California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Utah, the R. O. T. C. units are allowed a certain number of advanced corps students, that is juniors and seniors. Montana is allowed 22. Students who are willing to take advanced Military Science without pay are not affected by this rule.

There are 26 students registered for the advanced course. Nine will be selected from those.

Those who have registered are: B. Aubrey Benton, Roland Carnie, Rufus Hall, Allan Harrison, Malcolm Stotts, Jerome Frankel, Eddie Flated, William Erickson, Milton Wertz, William Wade, Lawrence Prather, Norman Mikelson, Melvin Magnuson, Carl Lantz, Howard Nelson, Robert Clarke, K. Masquers Select Secret Retreat
For Social Affair

Montana Masquers' Memorial Day
Picnic Schedules Program
Of Athletic Events

"An interesting array of events for both men and women, that will produce keen competition and tax the athletic prowess and skill of all contenders," is the promise of Peter Meloy to the Masquers, University Players and their guests who attend the third annual Masquers' picnic on Memorial Day. Meloy, who is chairman of the program committee, says that "Weather permitting, many records should be broken, including several victrola records of last year."

Members of the Montana Masquers, University Players and their guests are scheduled to meet at the Little Theater at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. They will be taken by car to a secret rendezvous which will not be known to the Masquers until their arrival.

The day's events will be similar to those of former years. The tentative program is: A super-mixed baseball game, featuring Captain Barnhill's Barnstormers vs. Bill Brown's Brownies. An Amazon tug-of-war, Ruth Wallace and Alice Taylor, captains. A Hairy Ape tug-of-war; team captains, Peter Meloy and Dave Duncan. Running Broad Spit (female), won last year by Miriam Barnhill with a distance of 12 feet 7 inches (official record). Running Broad Spit (male), 1931 winner, Adrian Tyree, distance 13 feet 3 inches (not a record). Ball-and-Chain Three-Legged Race and the Mixed Dizzy Relay.

"Other events will be included when definite selection has been made," said Meloy. "At present there is considerable demand amongst the women for a wheelbarrow race. There will also be the usual horseshoe pitching contest for the championship of the Rattlesnake."

A feature of the day will be a melodramatic sensation entitled, "Death Takes a Holiday in the Far Off Hills, or the Hairy Ape's Disciple." The cast for this play will be composed of the stage crew and graduating seniors.

Committees for the outing are: Food—Alice Taylor, Bob Busey, Cliff Hemgren, Ramona Noll; transportation—Jack Robinson, Miriam Barnhill; program—Peter Meloy, Dave Duncan, Ruth Wallace, Ruth Bernier, Dean and Mrs. R. C. Line, Mrs. Asendorf and Prof. Matheus Kast will be chaperons.

Journalists Plan
Annual Field Trip

Council Grove, O'Keefe Ranch and
Remount to Be Visited Sunday

Members of the Press club and instructors in the School of Journalism will make their annual field trip to several historic spots in Western Montana, Sunday. The party will leave the Journalism Shack at 8:30 o'clock by automobile and will return that evening.

Heligate, original townsite of Missoula, will be the first stop. Heligate was the scene of the last Vigilante activity in Montana. The old Higgins and Worden store is the only building left in the town.

From Heligate the party will travel to Council Grove where, in 1853 and 1855, Governor Stevens held councils with the chiefs of the Selish and Nez Perce Indians to arrange peace treaties.

The next stop on the trip is the old Baron O'Keefe ranch, one of the oldest ranches in Western Montana.

The Journalists will then go to the Nine Mile valley where they will visit the Forest Service Remount station. They will be shown the methods used in packing supplies and will be given the opportunity of seeing Rosin, the $6,000 stallion at the remount station. The Journalists will be given a forest service dinner after which they will visit the old gold mining camp of Stark which is now the site of a logging camp.

At the remount station a baseball tournament will be held between the four classes with the finals to be played at the Dean Stone picnic next Wednesday. Horseshoes and other games will be in progress for those who do not play baseball.

The field trip this year is in honor of Mrs. Inez Abbot, who recently submitted her resignation as an instructor in the School of Journalism.

Date of May
Fete Is Set
For June 3

Dramatic Production Will Be Given
In Connection With Commencement

May Fete, an annual dramatic presentation supported by orchestral and vocal music, given in connection with commencement week and featuring the crowning of the May Queen, a senior girl, will be held on June 3.

This year's production will be "Under the Greenwood Tree." For the past two years, Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has been given. May Fete has evolved from a May pole dance given on the campus on May day. A May pole was erected on the oval and a platform built, on which the Queen of the May was crowned. A program of singing and dancing was given for her pleasure. This program was later substituted by a student mixer.

Jeanette McGrade, Butte, has been selected as this year's May Queen, and she has the privilege of selecting her attendants.

Interfraternity Council Finishes
Successful Year

Renewal of Sports and Passing of
New Rushing Rules Are Some Of Accomplishments

Unfiring effort, harmony and a spirit of unity has marked this year as a most successful season for the Interfraternity council, which closed its books Wednesday after a busy calendar during which many improvements and additions to the fraternity system were made.

Throughout the year the council has straightened out the difficulties and questions of the fraternities and has brought about several new features for the governing of the houses on the campus.

Mainly through the council's efforts, Interfraternity sports were brought back from a lethargy which has lasted many years, and put on the calendar where they have enjoyed great favor amongst the participating students. At the present time contests in baseball, tennis, golf, horseshoes and track are being played. Members of the advisory committee are Harold Dean, Owen Loftsgaarden, Robert Hendon, Charles Gaughan and Peter Meloy.

One of the best functions of the Interfraternity council this year has been the passing of new rushing rules, which are designed to govern the rushing tactics of the fraternities in the fall.

Much credit is due the council for the way in which it has assisted and aided the University in many undertakings. The council, with the State University, sponsored the pep rallies of last fall quarter, and promoted a spirit of loyalty to the school.

In addition to the other accomplishments of the council, it sponsored the most successful dance of the year, the Interfraternity Formal. This dance, an annual affair, is always the best and most-looked-forward-to social function of the season. The social season of the council was closed by the Interfraternity banquet which is an annual affair given for the delegates of the Council.

The Interfraternity council is composed of two delegates from each fraternity on the campus. The officers for the past year, who have successfully guided the affairs of the council, were Charles Gaughan, president; Lynott Horan, vice-president, and Hubert Simmons, secretary-treasurer.

are progressing smoothly and include new features which will make the entertainment especially attractive to both alumni and students.

Dr. Emerson Stone, president of the Missoula Alumni club will assume charge of S. O. S. at 8:30 o'clock, June 4. Words to school songs will be printed on strips of canvas hung from Main hall tower.

Plans for the "Old-time" convocation at 10 o'clock, June 6, indicate that it is to be an informal and humorous affair. Pranks of bygone days will be re-enacted by members of the Alumni club.

Games in Helena and Great Falls this week-end will put the baseball team in good condition for the Varsity-Alumni game Saturday afternoon, June 4.

Fraternities and sororities report the following list of alumni who will be in Missoula for the Reunion:

Cleve Westby, St. Ignace; Bill Jameson, Billings; Merle Gallagher, Great Falls; Hans Hansen, Worden; George Haney, Fairview; Richard Robinson, Livingston; Annabelle Desmond, New York City; Mrs. Maureen Desmond Flitner, Greybull, Wyo.; Elizabeth Bennett, Great Falls; Marion Hobbs, Butte; Mary Louise Davenport, Butte; Marjorie Stewart, Helena; Billie Kester, Helena; Unasone Flannery, Great Falls; Ruth Nickey, Billings; Jane Thelen, Great Falls; Gordon Rogulien, Kalispell; Catherine Calder, Billings; Walter Sanford, Billings; Eddie Reeder, Butte; Archie Grover, Billings; George Grover, Deer Lodge; Bob Warden, Great Falls; Mrs. Helen Warden, Great Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Burr Smith, Anaconda; Lloyd Whiting, Omak, Washington; Eddie Chinske, Miles City; Fred Dayliss, Billings; Mrs. George Huber (Babe Mathews), Helena; Dorothy Duval, Anaconda; Olive Fitzgerald, Livingston; Annie Jean Stewart, Hamilton; Nel Porter, Stevensville; Ruth Jackson, Livingston; Alice Maves, Denver; Ruth Larson, Anaconda; Cleo Flint, Kalispell; Pauline Astle, Hardin; Gloria Grafton, Portland; Pat Sughrue, Anaconda; George Hillman, Livingston; Bill Crawford, Los Angeles; Midge Griffith, Butte; Frances McGrath, Billings; Frances Ruckman.

Once a year the officials of the School of Journalism entrust the editing of the Montana Kaimin to the freshmen of the school. This issue is the result of their faith in the Class of '35. We have done our best to maintain the high standards set by those who have been publishing the Kaimin in the past; we have attempted to prove that we have benefitted from their teaching, and we have tried to show them and the upper-classmen, who have willingly advised us in the work, that we appreciate their efforts in our behalf. We take this opportunity to thank them.

A freshman's impressions of college life as that status is about to fade from him is a well-hashed subject, but one which might be revived just once more before the first milestone is entirely lost in the swirl of dust raised as we rush on to the added responsibilities of the title of "sophomore." The hypocrisies of rushing combined with the intricacies of registration left the neophyte numb at the end of the first week and furnished him with a moot gripe for many ensuing ones. Yet had he been plunged directly into the monotonous routine of classes—had he been spared the maelstrom—he would have been bitterly disappointed and vastly more dissatisfied.

The "wearing of the green" and other traditions that tend to deflate the freshman's sense of dignity and poise kept him well supplied with "beefs" for several more weeks. Yet the prospect of watching next year's fledglings burdened with the same stigma and the half-wistful thought that never again will he don that distinctive badge make the memory not such a bad one after all.

Sleep-provoking lectures, tedious studies, nerve-racking exams—all connived to make that sheepskin seem a thing of the dim, distant and improbable future, or at least so he assured sympathetic listeners. But upon honestly considering these factors, he realizes, whether he cares to admit it or not, that his work has been relatively no more difficult than any of that of his high school days.

So the freshman's year in retrospect, replete with gripes though it may seem at first glance, isn't such a bad proposition after all, if he pauses to take a second longer and more thorough look. In fact, we'll venture to say that very few of us would have missed it for any amount of beer.

Did we hear a booidie?

When asked whether or not he has a philosophy of life, the average college student will hedge with, "Well, I've really never thought much about it." If he is pinned down, however, it will generally develop that he doubts, if not entirely disbelieves in, the existence of God. He is apt to state that love is an illusion; that the moral code is an antiquated tradition handed down from a hypocritical age; that life itself is futile, tempting us with possible future happiness when utter oblivion is the only possible end. It is such a philosophy which prompts the "eat-drink-and-be-merry-for-tomorrow-you-shall die" sort of life.

Mary Roberts Rinehart says the world's greatest cynics are college students. She claims they are passing through a stage when there seem to be no conclusive proofs to any of the accepted precepts of their parents. Seeing a lost link here and there causes them to cast aside the entire chain of established religions and beliefs and to adopt a more or less devil-may-care philosophy upon which to base their lives.

The reason for this is that college life is, at best, abnormal. The hectic rush to accomplish all that is demanded and to digest all the knowledge that is crammed down throats not always ready to receive it, with the resultant impossibility of correctly weighing and judging it according to merits, are necessary evils of college life. Youth is an age of no compromises with ardent loyalties and prejudices. Indifference and cynicism, however, are mere masks and the result of a disgust on the part of youth for being unable to fathom the problems which have been presented. But as college years pass, youth assumes more of the conservatism of middle age. At the same time it drops the radical, and so often cynical, viewpoint which was held so fervently during college days, and adopts in its place the more comforting philosophy of "Life is real, life is earnest and the grave is not its goal!"

Apparently our sacred traditions of years' standing are passing through a stage of evolution, as higher education has a tendency to put more and more responsibility upon the students. Even in attempting to put over such a desirable objective as class attendance and control of freshman women dating mid-week, the faculty has placed more responsibility and less restrictions upon the student body. As one may know, it has become almost a near necessity for a man or woman to attain a college education if he or she expects to rise in any particular field of endeavor; seemingly, when they enter college they should be old enough to be treated as grown up, making their own decisions and passing their own judgment on matters of campus interest.

We do desire constructiveness, in traditions as in thought, which calls for the expulsion of certain petty traditions. However, we sincerely believe, "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," and in all probability the majority of the students have and would take an interest in such traditional activities as tugs-of-war, flag rushes and hare and hound races, because lively men and women enjoy a battle for supremacy, whether it be physical or mental. Although we need to stimulate constructive traditions, many students bitterly rebelled against the introduction of school spirit with a paddle, and as the old saying goes, "you may lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink." Those fostered traditions, such as S.O.S., Aber Day, and school spirit at athletic contests, tend to bring the student body closer together in a spirit of unity and good fellowship. So let us all put our shoulders to the wheel; although we may not be able to attain perfection, we should try to come as near it as possible.

Uncle Hud has left us but his memory is dear, and there's a big family of nieces and nephews who will always love him. Nephew Oswald comes this week to endeavor to do the column and flatteringly hopes that it will not be made—by typographical error—a tuddle. But Oswald is at bat only for today.

These duties, while not overtaxing Nephew's poor nerves, nevertheless take up a great deal of time and place a great burden on his mind (if any).

Nephew expects to grow up to be a great columnist some day.

Then he will get a job in Russia. They have a lot of columnists over there but they don't spell the word right.

Then his business will always be rushing.

This week's medal goes to the sophomore who changed a tire before he found out that it was not the flat one.

The M didn't get painted this spring. We think it was the hot weather.

It might even be blamed on the depression; everyone else is making his old coat last another year.

Since Bear Paw lost his paddle, Nephew at last dares to appear on the campus without that pillow he used to wear.

Somehow he misses it, though. It used to come in handy while sampling Unk's home brew.

Unk has not made any for a long time. After the last batch George K. hung around for almost two days. Now Unk has gone Eighteenth amendment but we believe that he will reform about graduation time.

We never found out who opened the beer season, but we are sure that someone did. One morning when we woke up we found it wide open—and the beer all over the ceiling.

Unk had some trouble this year about where to place the poem in the column. He tried it at the top, the bottom, both ends and in the middle. Still some people were dissatisfied—so we're putting it in the waste-basket.

Lions Are Lambs

They Fall Before Slaughter Of Kiwanis; Rotarians Last In Desperate Struggle

Fat men, thin men, tall, short, old and young ran and jumped before a howling mob of wives and children last evening in the triangular track meet between the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs of Missoula.

Prexy Clapp defaulted in the shot put by heaving a baseball instead of the regular 16 pound sphere. Gilson and McEwen, Kiwanis, took first and third places, respectively, with Olsen of Rotary, second. The length of the puts were not measured because a tape measure was not on hand. Three speedy Kiwanis snared places in the 50-yard dash. Fleming took first, Martin, second and Hill, third. Babe Ruth, former Grizzly star, leaped into first place in the broad jump. Simmons and Delaney of the Lions club took second and third places.

Wilbur Graham, lanky Kiwanis, took first place in the high jump with a five foot leap. In a run and jump and run test, the 100-yard low hurdles, Bachman, Corette and Howard gathered points for Kiwanis by taking first, second and third places.

The famed Babe Ruth broke the cable in the 220-yard dash with a running time of less than five minutes. Corette took second place for the Kiwanis, while Dixon, Rotarian, took a close third.

E. K. Taylor of the Kiwanis club flashed past the finish in record time of 7 flat seconds in the special President's race.

After running for one minute ten and eight-tenths seconds Bachman breathed hard as he crossed the finish line of the 440-yard dash. Lion Howatson copped second place, while Howard, Kiwanian, took third. Prexy Clapp chased McEwen, Kiwanis; Olsen, Rotarian, and Shepard, Kiwanis, into first, second and third places, respectively, in the 50-yard fat-men's race. Fleet Kiwanians took the 440-yard relay.

Kiwanis scored 65 points to take the meet, while the Lions scored 27 points and Rotary 16.

Grizzly Team Leaves for Seattle To Compete in Pacific Coast Meet

Watson Placed at Disadvantage Due to Changes in Original Plans; Cox, Murray and Peterson Expected to Make Good Showing

Montana's track squad, accompanied by Coach J. W. Stewart and Lawrence Neff, manager, left Missoula yesterday afternoon to compete in the Northern division of the Pacific Coast conference track and field meet and the Olympic trials to be held in Seattle today and tomorrow.

Men making the trip and the respective events in which they are entered include: Monte Robertson, broad jump; Clarence Watson, 5,000 meters; Henry Murray, shot and discus; Walter Cox, discus; Russell Peterson, discus; Robert White, 800 meters; Elbert Covington, 440-yard dash, and Al Flint, broad jump.

Glenn Lockwood intends to compete in the Olympic javelin trials although he is not going to Seattle with the track team. He has thrown the javelin more than two hundred feet and should be strong in that event.

Word was received from Seattle Monday that the originally planned half-mile and two mile races had been changed to the 800 and 5,000 meter races. This change places Watson at a disadvantage because he has been training for the two-mile race and the 5,000 meters is well over three miles.

Montana will be especially strong in the discus throw with both Cox and Peterson throwing the platter around one hundred and forty feet and Murray capable of heaving it well over one hundred and thirty feet.

Genevieve Krum will spend the week-end at her home in Anaconda.

Students to Obtain Copies Before
Close of Quarter; Some
Will Be Mailed

Nineteen thirty-two Sentinels will be available for graduating seniors on June 6, according to present plans. The rest of the student body will be able to procure them as they come from the press, stated Walter Cooney, editor of the Sentinel.

Students who have not attended school every quarter will be required to pay one dollar for each quarter they have been absent in order to secure their copies. Those who leave Missoula before receiving their copies may have them sent by leaving their addresses with either Herbert Verheek or Walter Cooney and a 25 cent deposit to cover mailing charges.

The Sentinel will have an attractive cover, a background of black with designs and lettering of blue and gold. Page borders and division pages will be blue with new features in the scenic section trimmed in the same color. A general index will also be contained in this year's issue.

The covers for the 1932 Sentinel were made by the Coast Envelope and Leather company of Portland, Ore., and the engraving was done by the Bureau of Engraving located in Minneapolis. The photography was done by Ace Woods of Missoula and the printing and binding is being done by the Missoulian Publishing company.
