Hi-Jinx Re-introduced as Razz Fest Revue Scoring Campus Celebrities

"Dirty Socks," Scandal Sheet, Will Be Sold at Fox-Wilma Theater Before Each Performance

Reverting almost to its original form, Hi-Jinx, State University musical comedy, again this year will be something of a razz fest of campus customs and of students, faculty members and departments. The show will be presented at the Fox-Wilma theater Friday evening, with two performances, at 7 and 9 o'clock.

Traditionally, it is a razz show put on one year by men students making fun of the co-eds and the next year by women ridiculing the men. The production two years ago was changed to a non-personal musical comedy. Last year a professionally-written musical show was offered, but this year Leslie Pace of Bozeman, a sophomore, has written and is directing a revue of 22 scenes, mildly satirizing campus figures, called "Must We Go On." Emma Bravo of Sand Coulee is the manager of the production.

Important roles are handled by Paul Keith and Richard Farnsworth, Missoula, Dick O'Malley and Helen Scott of Butte, Margaret Bielenberg of Deer Lodge, Tom Coleman of Haugan, Don Morris of Harlowton, Jean Gordon of Hamilton, Owen Bateman of Libby, and Carol Wells of Scottsville, N. Y.

Because of the change in nature of the show, "Dirty Socks," razz newspaper, also will be issued and sold on the evening of the production for the first time in three years. The paper will be published by Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, two journalism fraternities on the campus.

In connection with the show a popularity contest is being staged, with five co-eds competing for the title of "Miss University of Montana." They are Virginia Cooney and Lina Greene of Missoula, Kathryn Bailey of Corvallis, Adelaide Olinger of Great Falls, and Helen Lea Silverman of Butte. A ballot is issued with each advance ticket sold. The contest will close Friday noon. The five contestants will be introduced and the winner announced at each performance. A picture of the winning contestant will appear in College Humor's Collegiate Hall of Fame. Pictures of the contestants are now on display in the case at the north end of the Higgins avenue bridge.

The meeting was sponsored by the art department of the Women's club.

Mrs. R. E. Bates and son Robert were Saturday evening dinner guests at the Phi Delta Theta house.

Fund Allows Playground To Be Built

Department of Physical Education Will Give Courses In Supervision

As a result of the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to the State University, students majoring in the Department of Physical Education will eventually be able to have practical experience in playground supervision.

The lot north of the Library, which has been cleaned and leveled as a part of the recent campus cleaning project, will be made into a playground where Missoula children may congregate and play games under the direction of major students in the Department of Physical Education.

Until a sufficient supply of money is available for the application of a better surface to the field and for the procuring of playground equipment, the field will be used for baseball and intramural athletics.

"The ground has been at the disposal of the department for several years but until the University obtained the loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, its development was out of the question," Dr. W. E. Schreiber of the Department of Physical Education, said yesterday.

Magazine Agency Takes Christmas Orders to Boost Local Circulation

In order to increase its circulation, the Frontier magazine, edited by Prof. H. G. Merriam, has opened the Frontier Subscription Agency, which will take orders for the sale of the Frontier and other magazines throughout the country.

George Hartman, as student representative of the agency, will solicit orders from persons of Missoula interested in the Frontier and those who desire to buy other magazines. All popular magazines in the country are on the list and rates are being offered if more than one magazine subscription is taken. Special rates will be offered if the magazines are bought in conjunction with the Frontier.

As a special Christmas offer, the agency will introduce rates on all the latest book releases which are on the list with the Frontier magazine.

Students Will Take Pre-Medical Test

One Dollar Is Charged to Defray Committee Expenses

"All pre-medical students at the State University will be required to take special aptitude tests on December 9, beginning at 2 o'clock," Prof. W. G. Bateman of the Department of Chemistry, announced yesterday. "The tests are arranged and sent out by the Association of American Medical Colleges and must be taken before the student can enter a medical school. Any student who plans to enter a medical school in 1933 should arrange to take the test on December 9 as they can be given only once each year."

Last year the tests were taken by 9,173 students from 537 colleges, and this year more than ten thousand are expected to take them. They are used by nearly all medical schools of the United States as a factor in the selection of their students. A fee of $1 is charged each applicant to defray the expenses of the committee in charge.

Physical Ed Group Loses Its Charter

Delta Psi Kappa Loses Old Grant; Has Been Installed Twelve Years

After 12 years of existence on the State University campus, the local chapter of Delta Psi Kappa, national honorary fraternity for women's physical education majors, has been forced to give up its charter.

For the past two years the lack of funds has prevented the chapter's sending a delegate to the national convention, and for this reason it became necessary to relinquish the charter. A small membership, and large national dues weakened the financial structure of the organization.

The local chapter of Delta Psi Kappa was installed in May, 1920, only a month after it had petitioned for membership. Previous to that time, women's physical education majors and minors had been members of a local organization known as the P.E.P. club, which had been in existence one year. Sixteen of the 25 members of the local club were initiated as charter members of this chapter of Delta Psi Kappa.

The national organization was founded in 1916, and at the time of the installation of the local chapter had only eight additional chapters.

When a student withdraws from a course after the ninth week he shall receive one of the regular grades. This may be any of the passing grades, provided the work of the course has been completed; otherwise the student may receive an incomplete grade, a condition or a failure, according to the judgment of the instructor. (See student handbook). Saturday, December 3, is the end of the ninth week in the autumn quarter, 1932.

Lyle Hurt spent the week-end with friends in Thompson Falls.

Fall Quarter Examination Schedule Is Announced By Registrar's Office

All Examinations Will Be Held in Men's Gymnasium; Schedule Begins Thursday, December 15 and Continues Through December 17. Conflicting Examinations Are Scheduled for Monday

The final examination schedule for the autumn quarter of 1932 will be from Thursday, December 15, to Monday, December 19. The schedule is as follows: Thursday, 8-10, 8 o'clocks; 10-12:10, 3 o'clocks; 1:10-3:10, 11 o'clocks; 3:20-5:20, Military Science.

Friday, 8-10, 9 o'clocks; 10-12:10, P. and E. P. and Economics 14a; 1:10-3:10, 2 o'clocks; 3:20-5:20, Accounting.

Saturday, 8-10, 10 o'clocks; 10-12:10, English F11a, 11b; 1:10-3:10, 1 o'clocks.

Classes meeting 4 or 5 times a week at the hour given will have two-hour examinations. Classes meeting Tuesdays, Thursdays only may use the second hour of the examination period assigned. Classes meeting Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, may use two hours if there are no conflicts with an examination in some subject (a Tuesday, Thursday class) in which the examination is scheduled for the second hour of the examination period. If there are conflicts, only one hour may be used by the Monday, Wednesday and Friday class.

Physics 115, Electrical measurements, 8 o'clock classes, Thursday 9-10. Pharmacy 27, Commercial Pharmacy, Physical education 143; Physiology of Exercise, 9 o'clock classes, Friday 9-10. Journalism 45a, Advertising, 10 o'clock classes, Saturday 9-10. Fine Arts F13a, Elementary Design, 1 o'clock classes, Saturday 2:10-3:10. Music F26a, Elementary Harmony, Physical Education 143a, Principles of Coaching, 1 o'clock classes, Saturday 2:10-3:10. Pharmacy F12a, Metrology, English 189a, Currents in Nineteenth Century Literature, 3 o'clock classes, Friday 2:10-3:10.

Dr. R. H. Jesse, dean of the faculty, said today: "The original plan for ending the autumn quarter was to complete examinations Friday, December 23. To alleviate the situation, the period of examinations was reduced from four to three days and examinations were scheduled for Saturday, December 17. Because of this, the rule permitting students who have three examinations in one day to petition to take one of the examinations at another time has been suspended except in special cases. In each case where it is permitted, the third examination must be taken on Monday, December 19."

Prof. A. S. Merrill said: "The schedule is somewhat inconvenient but I hope that the faculty and students will co-operate to make it successful."

Philip Patterson Designs Scenery And Furniture for Play

Modernism was the theme carried out in the settings of "R. U. R.," the Masquers' major production which was presented Thursday and Friday of last week. The scenery was designed by Philip Patterson, under the direction of Barnard Hewitt, dramatic director. Esther Porter was in charge of the technical department which executed the designs.

The first act featured futurism with the use of lines and colors. Black and red were the colors carried out in the settings and furniture. All the furniture was especially constructed along futuristic lines.

Curves and pastel shades predominated in the use of modernism in the second and third acts, which were laid in the boudoir of Helena Glory. The furniture in these acts was done in white and lavender. Orchid and green were the other colors used in settings.

The feature of the epilogue was its simplicity. There were large undivided windows in the back through which could be seen a single steel girder. This scene was the laboratory of the factory.

The background of the first act was distant factory buildings, and in the second act an ocean bay. The lighting on these backgrounds carried out the idea of the passing of time.

DAUGHTERS WILL TALK BEFORE PROFESSORS

Dean Freeman Daughters of the School of Education, will talk before the Montana chapter of the American Association of University Professors Friday, December 2, at the Chimney Corner.

Dr. Daughters will discuss "Improvement in College Teaching—Suggestions from Public Schools."

WE WENT to see the Masquers' play when it was given at the Little Theater. And we were so impressed that we forgot to notice whether all the back-drops were straight, or at what word an actor started to walk. Lighting and off-stage noises, setting, makeup, and for the most part, acting, all gave this show a professional atmosphere. We think this would be a good play to tour the state.

THANKSGIVING is over. Now all we have left to anticipate are Hi-Jinx, three weeks of school and final examinations. Hi-Jinx is worthy of anticipation, we hear, so we are concentrating our hopes on it. Three weeks of school is an appallingly brief time before our last fall quarter slides into the past tense. And final examinations might be more welcome, indicating the imminence of Christmas vacation as they do, but for the temporary unpleasantness involved. It requires a peculiar temperament to enjoy taking an examination. So far we've only heard of people like that. Some examinations require only the exercise of memory. That means hours of cramming and organization of notes into crammable condition. Other examinations require only a basic knowledge of the subject, and the ability to elaborate and deduce according to the requirements of the question. For that sort of subject, a rested mind is necessary. It is just too bad if you need to be rested for one test and have a cram test following. And it is even worse if the cram test comes first.

THERE is an appalling amount of knowledge in the world. Or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that there is an appalling amount of things that we don't know and will probably never have an opportunity to learn. We once figured a schedule of all the courses at the State University of Montana that we would like to take, and, averaging 16 hours a quarter, it would take us approximately 12 years. And even in that time we would be getting educated in only four schools. Twelve years is quite a chunk of time to subtract from anyone's life. It is done by would-be doctors, of course, and by struggling in other professions. But the doctor's education is perforce narrowed, which is just what we object to. There is too much to know in this world for anyone to get even a vague smattering of it all. As far as we are concerned, we are extremely grateful that the system of dividing the school year into quarters has enabled us to nibble around the edges of one third again as many subjects as the semester system would have permitted.

SHOES and ships and sealing-wax are very fine topics to talk or write about, as Lewis Carroll once ascertained. And he was right in those subjects, but he entirely overlooked buttons and alarm clocks as conversational possibilities. To us there is something very intriguing about buttons. We are particularly fond of big, polly-called silver buttons. We like to look at the brass buttons lined up on military uniforms and we like to count "Rich Man, Poor Man" on civilian buttons. As for alarm clocks, we always had a sneaking fondness for the persistent little machines. Of course, an alarm clock can be more than a little annoying when it blares forth in the black of a cold winter morning, to get you up for a class that you don't care for, anyway. But it is worth its weight in gold if you are catching the early train home for the week-end, or are going hunting and plan to start early.

Grizzlies Are Beaten by Gonzaga Bulldogs in Last Game of Season

led by Krause, Carroll and Frasier, Gonzaga Amasses Score of 56-13 To Win Easy Victory

Gonzaga university's Bulldogs ran rough-shod over the Montana Grizzlies at Spokane Saturday, piling up a score of 56 to 13, ending Montana's disastrous season in a dismal manner. Except for one drive which carried all opposition before it and netted Montana a touch-down in the first period, the Grizzlies were kept on the defensive, fighting to hold the Bulldogs' score down. Krause, Carroll and Frasier pounded the Montana line and skirted the ends for long gains almost at will.

Max Krause, big all-Pacific fullback, led the attack against the floundering Grizzlies, scoring four touchdowns, one of them after a run of 74 yards. Carroll, halfback, dashed 75 and 85 yards through the Grizzly team for two touchdowns.

Stansberry led the Montana offensive before he was removed from the game in the second period because of injuries. His running, passing and kicking were the chief Grizzly threats and were largely responsible for both of Montana's scores. Frankie Vesel divided the ball-carrying assignment with Stansberry in the march toward the first touchdown. He smashed the last three yards for the score.

The other Grizzly counter was scored by Vidro after he pulled in one of Stansberry's passes and, behind fast-forming interference, dashed over the Gonzaga goal-line.

The game marked the final appearance in a Grizzly uniform of Augie Vidro, veteran end. Vidro was the only three-year man on the Montana squad this year.

Coaches Will Hold Meeting Saturday

Invitations have been sent to all coaches of girls' basketball in Bitter Root high schools, asking them to attend a meeting here Saturday.

The group will meet for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock at the Coffee Parlor. A discussion of the use of women as referees for all girls' basketball games will feature the meeting. This plan is advocated by the National Amateur Athletic federation. Local coaches are asked to co-operate with this movement. Rules for girls' basketball and other points also will be discussed.

"R. U. R."

"R. U. R.," the Masquers' production of last week, was the most unusual play produced in the Little Theater in our memory, and was the most outstanding play, in all respects, that we have had the pleasure of seeing.

Karel Capek's idea of the island factory where robots were turned out by thousands and tens of thousands, to eventually overwhelm the world, was unusual enough to insure an interesting play. The settings, carried out in perfect detail and judiciously and cleverly lighted, helped to create the illusion which the story and actors completed.

Elmo Cure, playing the part of the aging Mr. Alquist, did the most outstanding bit of acting in the play when he told Helena Glory that the human race was doomed. His performance in the epilogue, finished though it was, just missed the artistic perfection of those few moments in the second act.

Ruth Wallace, in the part of Helena Glory, representative of the Humanity league and wife of Harry Domin, was a lovely addition to the picturesque quality of the scenes. She was almost too easily excited to breathlessness in several instances, but her worry for the robots seemed sincere. Martha Kinnball's performance as Nana was nicely done.

Leslie Pace, Taylor Gardner and Eugene Manis, as factory officials and directors, gave the smooth and effortless performances that Little Theater audiences have come to expect of them. The hearer felt that each man was sincere in his belief in robots, in his belief that robots would free the world for humans, instead of destroying the humans. Robert Bates and Jerome Frankel, the two other factory officials, were equally convincing. The reaction of all the officials under the stress of the attack was very well done. During that attack they acquired individuality.

Estelle Fletcher, playing the robotess, Sulia, was both decorative and proficient in her portrayal. Curtis Barnes as RADIUS, the robot who led the revolt, was successfully threatening and terrible in his part. The climax of the play, when RADIUS proclaimed the robots the rulers of the world, was dramatic to a high degree. The mechanical, expressionless movements of the additional robots were well done.

One peculiarity in this play, we felt, was that the destruction of all human beings did not impress us with any distinct sense of loss. We did not know whether this was due to the way the author wrote the play, or to the

Seven Sororities Enter Swimmers In Girls' Contest

An Award Will Be Given to Group Earning Greatest Number Of Points

Seven sororities have entered teams in the intersorority swimming meet to be held December 8. The Women's Athletic association is sponsoring a series of intersorority athletic contests this year, and the sorority earning the greatest number of points for the three quarters will receive an award at the close of spring quarter.

The teams are as follows: Sigma Kappa—Marcella Malone, Gladys Larson, Katherine Rand and Betty Kelleher; Delta Gamma—Alberta Wilcox, Virginia Wilcox and Jean Gordon; Zeta Chi—Lois Elda Howard, Mildred Renshaw, Eleanor Shields, Ruby Micaud and Harriet Eastman; Alpha Phi—Margaret Murray and Kathryn Bailey; Alpha Xi Delta—Thelma Buck, Louise Geyer, Marion Rusk and Dona Bond; Kappa Alpha Theta—Marion Callahan, Catherine Breen, Ruth Stephenson, Dorothy Johnson, Jean Martinson, Mary Montana MacDonald, Florence Harrington and Virginia Bode; Kappa Kappa Gamma—Mary Hobbins, Betty Robinson, Virginia Graybeal, Jane Leonard, Betty Ann Polleys and Mary Taaffe Corrette.

acting. But we felt almost the fiercest elation of RADIUS when he announced the robots as masters and owners of the world. In the epilogue, we were glad to see the aged Alquist insist on RADIUS as the subject for his dissecting experiments. And we worried more lest he insist on using one of the robot lovers for a similar experiment than we did lest the humans be killed, earlier. Helena and Primus, the young inquisitive robots of this last part of the play, were portrayed charmingly by Margot Milne and William Haegg. For artistic and sustained acting, the epilogue was the outstanding act of the evening.

All in all, we feel that this play has raised the level of Masquers productions to a point that will be difficult to meet in the future.—B. F.

R.O.T.C. Tournament Will Open Tonight

First Game Is Scheduled Between Companies A and B

The first games of the intercompany basketball tournament will be played tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock, when Companies A and B will begin their battle for supremacy. Both army teams are instructed to stack all arms at the doors and to meet their opponents bare handed. Holding and slugging in clinches will be forbidden. At present the betting odds favor the army.

After the first two teams have held the floor for an hour, they will surrender it to Company C and the Band. The latter, whose lungs have been conditioned by tooting trombones, clarinets and saxophones, is ready for as many overtime periods as may be necessary.

Captains of teams are: Company A, Cale Crowley; Company B, Clarence Watson; Company C, William Erickson, and Band, Archie Kimpel.

Games for this week are: Tuesday at 7:30 o'clock, Company A vs. Company B; 8:30 o'clock, Company C vs. Band; Wednesday, 7:30 o'clock, Company A vs. Company C; 8:30, Company B vs. Band; Thursday, 7:30 o'clock, Company C vs. Company B, and at 8:30 o'clock, Company A vs. Band.

Earl Barry and Waldo Ekegren of Helena were visitors at the Phi Sigma Kappa house over the week-end.

"Monk" Andrews Will Act As Grizzly Hoop Captain

Contrary to a statement appearing in the Kaimin last week, a Grizzly basketball captain has been selected. At a meeting of last year's lettermen at the close of the season, Lloyd (Monk) Andrews of Big Timber, was unanimously selected to lead this season's quintet. Andrews was an outstanding forward during the last two years and it will be remembered that his work was instrumental in the upset of the state champion Bobcats in the final game of the 1932 season. He will be playing his last season in a Grizzly uniform.

Chesterfields are Milder

Chesterfields Taste Better

To make tobaccos mild and mellow for Chesterfield cigarettes, just about four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe Domestic leaf, stored away to age for two years.

The greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in these tobaccos. Is it surprising that Chesterfields are milder? That they taste better?

Everything known to Science is used to make Chesterfields right! They're mild—and yet They Satisfy.

"Stalling" Tabued By Hoop Doctors At Big Conclave

Slow Game on Maple Court Hopped
Up by Rules Committee
On Basketball

Basketball fans who have so strenuously objected to the so-called "stall game" as practiced by many quints so successfully the last few years, will be pleased to note that a change in the rules will practically eliminate this phase of the game. Last spring at a meeting of the rules committee on basketball the following addition was made to the official basketball guide:

RULE 8

Sec. 8. (a) When a team gains possession of the ball in its own back court, that team must advance the ball over the center line within a period of ten seconds unless the ball, while out of control of the team, touches or is touched by an opponent. In the latter event, a new play results and the ten-second period begins again when possession of the ball is regained in the back court. When a team has advanced the ball over the center line this team may not return the ball to its back court until

(1) a try for goal has been made; or,

(2) a jump ball at center or elsewhere has taken place; or,

(3) an out of bounds award has been made; or,

(4) the ball has been recovered from the possession of the opponents.

(b) When a team gains possession of the ball in its front court as a result of (1), (2), (3) or (4) under (a), it may cause the ball to go back over the center line once only.

Penalty—Awarding the ball to opponents out of bounds.

This rule will tend to speed up the game and prevent teams with a slight lead from "hanging on" to the ball. Offensive teams will benefit by this revision of the rules.

Dinosaurian Football

Intercollegiate football is ill. In fact it is generally known that in some schools the grand old game is in the final throes of death, while in others rigor mortis has already set in.

The great American game, which for more than a quarter of a century has thrilled millions of fans and filled institutional coffers to overflowing, is suffering from a complex and malicious malady.

The plague, which specialists say has undermined this specific form of "Big Business," has three distinct symptoms. The first and most pronounced is the over-emphasis of the sport; secondly, the cost is out of proportion to the resources of the majority of schools; third, the demoralizing effect upon the student bodies throughout the nation.

Now these three symptoms cannot be attributed to all of the hundreds of institutions who do send a spirited eleven onto the gridiron, but the first concerning over-emphasis of the sport is undoubtedly true in all cases.

Football, that twentieth century dinosaur of the sport world, has run rampant over our collegiate playgrounds. Its start was at first slow but it gradually gathered greater momentum year after year, until it reached that apex after which gate receipts reversed field and cut back and public favor looked on with a critical eye. As specialists have diagnosed, King Football and his mighty realm will soon become so large and so powerful that it will become unwieldy and thereby cause self-extinction.

If one were to ask any 12-year-old boy or even a college man to name the presidents of the Pacific coast schools, the question would in all probability be left unanswered. If the same question were asked relative to coaches of that conference, the reply would most likely be nearly perfect and in addition, a fair discourse on the success or failure of each school mentor.

Biology Graduate Gets Scholarship

Herbert Eastlick, who was graduated with the class of 1930 in the Department of Biology, has received a graduate assistant scholarship at Washington university in St. Louis, according to news received by Dr. M. J. Elrod.

In a letter written to Dr. Elrod, Mr. Eastlick informed him that he was spending part of the time working in the class and laboratory of the university and part time studying graduate work. During the past year he was awarded a money prize by Phi Sigma, national biological fraternity, for his studies in biology. With this money he went to the Marine Biological Laboratory at Wood's Hole, Mass., where he studied embryology of marine invertebrates. While at this laboratory he won a scholarship in embryology, which will give him the opportunity of studying at the same place next summer.
