Iturbi's Recital Is to Bring Variety of Musical Selections

Noted Spanish Pianist Appears in Missoula January 26; Program Will Include Works of Old Masters As Well As Those of Moderns

Playing selections from the old classical masters and the newer modern musicians, Jose Iturbi, noted Spanish pianist, appears here January 26. The recital will take place in the Missoula county high school auditorium. More than five hundred and fifty Missoula townspeople and approximately sixteen hundred state university students hold tickets which will enable them to hear Iturbi.

Although Iturbi understands and likes modern music, he retains his love for the old masters, especially Bach, Beethoven and Mozart, and his program here will contain selections from all three musicians' works. Iturbi's recital will be the first during the state university-Missoula community concert association's five-program schedule. In February, music lovers will hear Kathryn Meisle, contralto, and in April, the Barrare-Salzedo-Britt ensemble. The first of two speeches on the outside entertainment program was held last month when Dr. G. F. Simms spoke on "A Windjammer Voyage to Treasure Island." The fifth program, a lecture, will be held late in the spring. The lecturer has not been announced.

Iturbi played more recitals in America in 1933 than any other pianist. His formal debut in this country took place in 1929, when the then 34-year-old pianist appeared in New York. Since that time he has appeared in all the leading cities of the country, both as a pianist and as an orchestra conductor. So popular was he in Mexico when he appeared there several years ago that an orchestra was named after him, and once each year he returns to Mexico to direct it.

Students who plan to attend the recital will be given tickets upon the display of their A.S.U.M. cards. Any person who holds a ticket of the Missoula association will be admitted free to any concert sponsored by city concert associations in this country. Tonight in Helena, Jascha Heifetz, celebrated violinist, will play. State university students who are able to go to Helena should secure tickets from the registrar's office. Tickets will be given on display of the student activity card.

Education Group Hears Dr. Kast At First Meeting

Professor Discusses German School System; Musical Numbers Complete Program

Dr. Mattheus Kast, a professor in the economics department here, was the principal speaker at the first meeting of the Education club for winter quarter held last Thursday at Main hall. Dr. Kast spoke on the public school system of Germany.

Approximately forty students attended the meeting to hear the speaker discuss the educational methods used in the training of German students in elementary schools, high schools and colleges, as well as qualifications for teachers there. He compared German education before the war to that of the post-war period, and explained the emphasis that has been placed on education of the middle classes. He also explained the differences between American and German college systems.

Dr. Kast has a thorough knowledge of the German educational system, having been educated in Germany and graduated from the University of Munich. A round table discussion followed the speech. Most of the interest centered around the inflation period of 1920 and educational systems under the present Hitler regime.

As an added feature of the program, Richard Farnsworth sang three solos, accompanied by Dorothea Eder. Professor W. R. Ames and Katherine Copeland were in charge of the entertainment committee.

The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, February 14.

SPAULDING IS SPEAKER

T. C. Spaulding, dean of the forestry school, attended the annual meeting of the Northwest Scientific association at Spokane on December 28 and 29 of last year. Spaulding gave the opening address at a meeting of the forestry section of the association. He spoke on "The New Deal in the Forest Industry."

Smith Will Be Honored At Union Youth Banquet

Tickets for the Union Youth banquet to be held in honor of Dr. F. B. Smith, January 30, may be procured from the Rev. O. R. Warford for 50 cents.

Dr. Smith, executive secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches, will be in Missoula only one day and Mr. Warford assures interested students that they should avail themselves of this opportunity to hear the guest speaker.

In connection with the University church, J. Maxwell Adams, who has taken the place of Dr. Young, former director of university work for the Presbyterian churches, will be in Missoula Saturday and Sunday, February 2 and 3.

Kast Tells Group Of German Youth In Sunday Talk

Newman Club Hears Professor; Open Forum Discussion Follows Morning Speech

Dr. Mattheus Kast, professor of economics, was guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Newman club Sunday morning, January 13, after the 9 o'clock mass. His subject was "The Youth Movement in Germany."

Following the speech, a discussion was held on its various facts of interest. Questions were asked and Dr. Kast answered them, bringing in other points which added to the value of the talk. Leo Valton, president of Newman club, said that this type of open discussion would probably be used in future meetings.

Dr. Kast told about Germany's concentration camps which are somewhat like the United States CCC camps, but the German workers receive no pay. In speaking of university students of that country, he said that as a rule, the German youth is older than the American when he enters, and evinces a far greater interest in political and social problems. Universities are in large cities, and students usually have their room and board in private homes, the dormitory system being used practically not at all. It is seldom that a student works his way through school in Germany, and scholarships are not given often, although awards which take care of tuition are sometimes presented.

Many of the old castles which are still standing have been remodeled into centers of hospitality for overnight parties of hiking students and travelers. It was found that groups organized to take walking tours through the country cared for young people who did not have much to do and spent their time worthlessly as "soap-box orators." Clubs were organized for both men and women.

Katherine Thayer, who was detained from school due to illness, returned to school Monday.

J. Learned Brow Coming for Annual Dance

Noted Jurist Signifies Intentions of Attending Barristers' Hubbub and Giving Decision On Capabilities of Damsels Engaged in Terpsichorean Art

Bernard Allard, chairman of the social committee for the Barristers' ball, reports the receipt of a cablegram from J. Learned Brow of Worcester-shire, England, which signified the jurist extraordinary's intentions of being at the Elks' Temple on the evening of Friday, January 18 and rendering a decision on a much contested subject. The ruling will be the capabilities of the fair damsels in their varied efforts in the terpsichorean art. This decision will be rendered in a spectacular Steve Brodie fashion.

The cablegram received states: "Gladly accept invitation to warm the bench at the Barristers' Ball to render decisions on 'ex party matters' and to exercise my prerogative in the trial of ex. rel. Les Smith and his two pianos v. s. et. al. barristers and guests" (signed) J. Learned Brow: B.A. 0005; LL.B., 0005; J.D., 0005; Ph.D., 0005; LL.S., 0005; XYZ., 0005.

In the year 0005, J. Learned Brow presided as chief justice over the twentieth term Michaelmas, egro quia emptores. Since then said chief justice has made all his rulings in private chambers but this year after long and continuous deliberation he has graciously consented to be publicly presented at the Barristers' Ball where he will render a decision favoring some fair damsel who has put forth the most skill in the above-mentioned art. New Students Increase Total Of Attendance

Enrollment Totals 1,640; Gain of 264 Is Noted Over Last Year

Gains in enrollment over last winter quarter are 264, or 16 per cent, the President's office said yesterday as registration figures for this quarter were made public. The enrollment now is 1,603 men and 637 women, a total of 1,640 students. The figure for last year was 1,376. The increase sent the gross registration for autumn-winter to 1,851.

The registration report reveals that 911 men and 607 women who attended school last quarter returned this quarter. Thirty-one new men and 13 new women students entered, along with 55 men and 14 women who, while former students, did not attend during fall quarter. Six men and three women, all of whom dropped out during the course of last quarter, made new registrations since January 3.

Significant was the drop in the number of students who did not return to school this quarter. The figure this year is 156, a decrease of 13 from last year and 58 from 1933. The President's office called attention to the fact that this division of the statistics showed a net drop smaller than decreases of previous years, but that the enrollment this year had been consistently from sixteen to twenty per cent higher. Comparative figures show that approximately twelve per cent of the students in attendance fall quarter, 1933, did not return to school. Only nine per cent failed to return this quarter after having gone to school in the fall.

Gross registration for this quarter is in line with the great increase shown during fall registration. The figure of 1,640 this quarter compares with 1,376 at this time last year; 1,345 at this time in 1933, and 1,398 at this time in 1932. Last year at this time 59 per cent of the enrollment was composed of men, with women students forming 41 per cent. This year the women students' enrollment is 39 per cent of the total.

Gross registration for fall-winter quarters shows approximately an eighteen per cent increase over fall 1933-winter, 1934. This year 1,116 men and 735 women, a total of 1,851 students, have been registered either this quarter or last. The figure for the same time last year was 897 women and 649 men, a total of 1,546; for 1932-33, 960 men and 659 women, a total of 1,559, and for 1931-32, 952 men and 634 women, a total of 1,586.

The gross registration figure confirms President C. H. Clapp's estimate last fall that enrollment for the entire year would reach nineteen hundred students. The present figure of 1,640 does not include new registrations during spring and summer quarters.

Mines Basketball Game Shows Profit Saturday

A profit of $16.16 on the state university-School of Mines game Saturday night was announced by Kirk Badgley, athletic manager, as financial reports for the game were completed.

The report showed that $51.39 was received in admissions, which ranged from 10 to 75 cents. Expenses totaled $35.23. This figure included $20 for officials, $11.73 for the ticket and scoreboard force and $3.50 for advertising.

The game involved no guarantee for the School of Mines team, since the contest was a trade. The Grizzlies will pay their own expenses to Butte for a return game later in the season.

Executive Board Changes Rulings On Frosh Dates

Women Will Have More Freedom This Quarter; Definitions Given By A. W. S.

Freshman women will have more freedom during winter quarter, the executive board of Associated Women Students having changed the rules concerning dates. A date is defined as "being seen with a man after 6 o'clock on week nights."

The rule now reads: Freshman women may have dates from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and after 4 o'clock on Friday. However, no men will be allowed in North hall until Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The penalty for first offense in breaking date rules is the loss of one entire week-end. A second offense will be punishable by taking away dates indefinitely.

During winter quarter last year, freshman women were allowed dates any place from 4 to 6 o'clock on week days and in the dormitory from 4:30 to 6 o'clock. All restrictions were lifted spring quarter.

Awards Will Be Made At Thursday's Party

The W. A. A. start their winter quarter activities Thursday evening, January 17, with a party at the women's gymnasium.

Presenting of letters and other awards will precede the entertainment and refreshments in the evening program.

Helen Bateman, Choteau, has chairman duties for the party and has as her assistants, Virginia Bode, Butte; Betty Gray, Thompson Falls, and Alberta Wilcox, Missoula.

There is no admission charge. Co-eds are invited and urged to come.

Marian Niestad, who has been attending Northwestern university, has enrolled here and is living at the Kappa Delta house.

All-University Show Will Tour State, Playing in Seven Cities

Phil Pollard and Dave Duncan Are Co-Authors, Directors Of 45-Minute Vaudeville Act; Large Cast To Be Picked in Tryouts Soon

Acting to fill the breach left when the Glee club tours were discontinued a few years ago and to give the people of the state a taste of the creative work of the university, an all-university show will be placed on the road early next quarter it was announced this morning by Phil Pollard, Red Lodge, and David Duncan, Billings, co-authors and managers of the production.

Carrying a cast of 26 people, including a large orchestra and a chaperon, the show will be on the road six days, giving two performances each evening in the Fox theaters in Great Falls, Butte, Billings and Lewistown and in the independent show houses in Bozeman and Helena. The show will play at the Fox-Wilma here upon completion of the state tour. All performances will be given in connection with a regular feature picture.

Les Smith, Chehalis, Washington, well-known campus orchestra leader, will serve as musical supervisor. Smith will do all the orchestration for the show, probably writing some original music for the production.

Tryouts Coming Soon

Bolstered by the favorable reception accorded the project by William Steege, division manager of the Fox-West Coast theaters, Pollard and Duncan, in announcing the show, said that they hoped tryouts could be started as soon as possible. "We hope to be able to announce tryouts at an early date, probably in the next issue of the Kaimin," they said. "We want everyone who would like to take the trip to tryout. Especially do we want to see any group who have been singing together or have been putting on a co-operative skit or act of any kind in the past."

"I believe that this should be an example of creative work done here at the university," Dr. C. H. Clapp, president, said, "and I am glad to endorse it."

Although all arrangements with the theaters have not yet been completed and a few production details have yet to be ironed out, the managers have expressed the opinion that rehearsals would start soon with the idea of having the show ready to go on the road in ample time.

Project Impresses Steege

"Mr. Steege has been favorably impressed with the project," they reported, "and we hope to make the tour during the second week of spring quarter."

The company, comprised of both men and women, and accompanied by a chaperon, will travel by motor bus, going first to Helena where the show will open in the Marlowe theater. From the Capitol city the show is to move on to Great Falls, Lewistown, Billings, Bozeman and Butte, playing here the next evening. Stage settings and costumes will follow the bus in trucks.

Skating to Start Thursday If Cold Weather Remains

Approximately Sixteen More Hours Of Work Required To Effect Rink's Completion

The state university skating rink, which is now being flooded, will be ready for skaters Thursday if the cold weather that has hit Missoula continues throughout the week. The rink is being built on the R. O. T. C. drill field south of the campus and is being constructed by members of the forestry school.

Jack Oliver, who is in charge of preparing the rink, said yesterday, "There hasn't been much frost this year, and it is difficult to freeze the rink as the water drains off. We have had to put one thin layer on top of the other to make a substantial base."

The forestry school has had charge of the rink for the past few years. Before that department took over the responsibility it was in the hands of the maintenance department of the state university.

Members of the school are aiding the work, each member volunteering to do part of the labor. Oliver said that if more students offer to help in the work, the rink would be finished sooner. At the present time, there are approximately sixteen hours of work required to finish the rink.

This eminent jurist will come out of a long-period lethargy this week-end when he arrives at Missoula Elks' Temple to pass judgment on the actions of the eds and co-eds of this, our state university.

Mr. Hearst Takes It

The recent outburst of student editors against William Randolph Hearst's criticism of radicalism in the colleges brings to life once again the burning issue that has troubled the waters of college education and outlook for the past few months. The 14 college editors who took exception to Mr. Hearst's statements, declared that he was on the vanguard of Fascism in America, and that he was advocating the academic goose-step as well as trying to stir up a red scare.

As usual, there is much to be said for both sides, but in this case, there is much to be said and not much of it worth saying. The recent squabbles throughout the country following student refusals to submit to compulsory military drill and the trouble in New York over the anti-Fascist demonstration staged by the students of the College of the City of New York have given many college newspaper editors the chance to shoot off their heads before they knew exactly what the whole thing was about. Of course, there were those conscientious objectors who had reviewed the situation carefully and then had given their personal views, but there were others who wrote at great length about the injustice of it all when, in some instances, they had never taken military drill and didn't know just what they were missing regardless of their attitude toward the training plan.

Student editors preached against the growing threat of Fascism—they said that Italy's iron hand was extending into America's colleges and universities. At these offices here, we have received literature from certain groups designed to sway the opinion of college editors against "this growing threat of Fascism." From all this, came the Hearst criticism.

On the other hand, Mr. Hearst, being a newspaper man of experience, probably has material which, he is convinced, proves that colleges and college students of today are growing radical. But there is no immediate danger of that. That time when all students rise to the tune of the "Internationale" or shout Communism, radicalism or vandalism from the rooftops, is far, far in the future. So far, in fact, that neither Mr. Hearst or the college editors will be present to worry about the outcome of the whole thing when and if it does blow off.

A New Slant on An Old Question

With the mass of protests against military training in the colleges of this country today, it is interesting to view the actions of other nations of the world and to see just how they are handling the attitude on military drill. In almost every country where such training is compulsory, there is a fight between two factions—one in favor of the plan and one heartily opposed to any compulsory drill for the students and young men of today.

In England, the argument has reached a climax just as it has in this country. Although there are not as many publicized trials wherein students and young men have refused to submit to military drill, there is an antagonism present among one group. Most of the argument in England is centered around the military training in boys' schools, in which students up to the ages of 18 years are required to enroll in an Officers' Training Corps.

When the O. R. C. system was first introduced in the public schools in England in 1908, the matter of enrolling was entirely up to the students themselves. The schools welcomed the plan, and most of them mustered units within their own confines. During the war, moral persuasion was used to urge the boys to enroll, and at the present time, some schools are so governed that it is almost impossible for a boy to refuse to submit to military training.

However, there are schools in England in which the headmasters and governing officers are opposed to the plan of military drill. There are those schools which retain the training, but the so-called "progressive schools" are abandoning it or have never introduced it. The method they use is the formation of classes to supplant the military classes. Students are given instruction in mechanics, building and other industrial arts. At Brembridge, students are taught to make things for school use, and at Dauntsey's School for Boys, such occupations as housing, agriculture and machinery are taught during the time that would ordinarily be taken up with military training. The aim of these schools, in the words of their headmasters, is to foster internationalism and constructive work, and to reduce the amount of military training so as to make the students forget that "war is inevitable, a human institution and a destructive element in the minds of man."

Still Another Step Ahead

If there is no hitch in plans between now and the beginning of spring quarter, a vaudeville show, made up of university talent and carrying the name and reputation of the university with it, will tour the state. The show should be a success; there is ample musical, dancing and dramatic ability in school to put on a production far better than the second-rate performances which have been playing Montana cities recently.

The authors and directors, Phil Pollard and Dave Duncan, have worked long and faithfully to write an act which they felt would at least equal the vaudeville entertainment now being dished out to the gullible public in this state. They have planned the show for years, no doubt, at first, entertaining little hope of seeing the realization of the dream and later, when there was a possibility, working harder to bring it about. In short, they had an idea. It is soon to be put to the test.

They are doing their best to put on a creditable performance and that, we feel, they will, despite the responsibility that falls upon them with the undertaking. The show must be kept at professional levels; there can be no laxity in the conduct of the cast while on the road for then one of the main objects of the undertaking would be lost. "The Desert Song" did much toward restoring the confidence of local people in university productions. This project should do much toward creating a favorable impression of the university among the people of the state. We salute the authors for their idea but warn them that the biggest part of the job is still ahead of them.

Mountaineers Take Sunday Skiing Climb

Trip to Anaconda's Winter Sports Carnival This Week Billed

Aided by a low temperature which kept the snow in excellent condition, four Mountaineers and their friends climbed Petty mountain on skis last Sunday, going as far as the divide of the Grave creek range. Those making the trip reported fine skiing.

The low temperature kept the pressure of the skis from melting the snow and making it sticky as is the case when the mercury is at freezing or slightly below, those making the trip pointed out.

The four who took the climb were all connected with the university or were former university students. They are Professor Edward Little, leader; Stephen Wilkie, Lester Rees and Peder Pedersen.

There was no wind as there had been in Missoula nor had there been as was evidenced by heavy snow on the trees.

Tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock the Mountaineers will hold their Sentinel Supper stroll. The second event on the weekly calendar will be volleyball for men and women at the Willard gymnasium, Thursday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

On Saturday and Sunday several car loads of the club's members and friends are going to the Anaconda Winter Sports carnival to witness the ski jumping, curling, speed and fancy skating, dog team racing and other events scheduled for those days. Several Mountaineers and university students are entering the cross-country ski race Saturday afternoon, it is reported. All who are interested in making the trip, whether members or not, should call Dr. C. B. Spahr, president of the Mountaineers, or Professor Edward Little.

University Band Offers Program To City Audience

State university musicians offered a new type of entertainment for the townspeople and students here last night when the state university band, under the direction of Stanley Teel, presented a concert at the Missoula high school auditorium. The concert was well received by the large number of people that came to hear the new symphony arrangements.

The concert was staged under the sponsorship of Missoula's service clubs, for the purpose of raising money with which to buy instruments for the high school band. The Missoula scholastic group has long wanted a band but was forced to go without one because of lack of finances. This, and other plans of entertainment as well as voluntary offerings, will go toward a fund with which officials hope to equip the Missoula band.

The concert last night was altogether new to music followers of the city, and one of the numbers played—Headlines—is a modern rhapsody new to the people of Missoula. This and other modern arrangements composed the program.

The program was:

Business Office Figuring "Take" As Students Pay

When the business office staff, registrar and all, goes home at night, it probably dreams about long lines of students waiting to give it money. Anyway, it would be a pretty normal thing to do if all its days were like yesterday when a continuous stream of fees and dues-paying students surged at the windows and offices, where the staff labors to catch as many as it can, to take their money and send them away happy.

The business office was just catching its collective breath after a mad scramble of fees-paying at the beginning of the quarter. This lasted several days. Now it is time again for the students to pay their dorm and sorority and fraternity dues and board and room bills, and the business office has ordered a new supply of receipts from the printers. If they haven't, they soon will have to.

But fees and dues-paying aren't the only things the office of Business Manager J. B. Speer looks after.

At the beginning of each quarter, it's true, approximately sixteen hundred and fifty students register. The big majority pay their bills, but some want bills deferred. That means conferences and more bookkeeping. No sooner is registration disposed of than board and room bills are due. So are sorority and fraternity dues.

Right now prospective June graduates—approximately two hundred strong—are paying small fees. Other students are paying fees for changing courses. Then there are those who want their bills sent to their parents. Others want loans. And meanwhile, the student organizations on the campus are either depositing or withdrawing funds.

This year with the addition of the FEER for student employment, the business office also handles disbursement of monthly pay checks. Next month approximately two hundred and eighty students will get pay checks. It's a pretty big job.

Grizzlies Turn Back Miners' Threat, 32-24, in Title Defense

Score Knotted Five Times During Opening Half as First Of State Opponents Defeated; Idaho, Southern Branch, Comes Here Wednesday

Montana Grizzlies withstood the first onslaught on their state basketball title Saturday night by defeating the School of Mines quintette, 32-24. Although the score was tied five times during the first half, the Grizzlies began to find the hoop and gained a 16-12 margin before the first half ended. Neither team was able to score on free throws during the first half, the first gift toss being sunk by Waddell who replaced Hileman at left forward.

Soon after his substitution he flipped one free throw; a minute later another, and finally sank two more to open the way for other free throw scores. Keithley led the Grizzly team with 10 points, while Hammond converted 10 for the Miners. Heller, with eight points, was in third position for scoring honors.

Few easy counts were made although Keithley took advantage of a couple of open shots and Heller grabbed the ball to send it home with no Miners intervening.

Despite the difference in height between the huge Walsh at center and Heller, the latter usually took the tip-off and with the aid of his teammates, took the ball into scoring territory. The Grizzly offensive showed weak spots when taking the ball from the back-board, the Miners proving themselves more efficient at that task. Although the Grizzly passing showed a great deal of improvement, many passes were wild and several long losses were intercepted.

The contest with the Orediggers paved the way to the game with Idaho, Southern Branch, tomorrow night. Last year, the Grizzlies barely managed to win, 33-37 at Pocatello.

University Riflers Begin Competition

Men, Women Sharpshooters Fire First Matches in Contest

Sharpshooters of the state university will open their competitive season in the Garden City Rifle association matches tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, meeting the Company B team from Fort Missoula. Ten men will fire in the opening match, the five highest scores being counted in the team total.

Men from last year's team who have reported for the team this season are Eugene Haugen, Solista Pickett, Robert Lumby, Byron Price, Ben Taylor and Olaf Bredeson. Several freshmen have been reporting for drills in an attempt to gain a place on the men's rifle team. They are Roderick Mahrherr, John Swift, Matthew Calvert, John Preston, Jack Swartz, Robert VanHaur and Arnold Holding.

The next match for the men's team will be January 23, at which time they will fire against the Fort Missoula, Company A team.

The state university women's team opened competition for the university in the Garden City matches, winning their first match from the Fort Missoula, Company B team by a total score of 1,312 to 1,289. Women who fired on that team were Alice Berland, Margaret Kitt, June Day, Madeline Bonner and Dorothy Russell.

Board Members Decide on Rules In Minor Sports

Bergquist, Caven, Holloway Selected To Referee Games Aided By FERA Workers

Questions of eligibility, rules and possibilities of having a hockey league were discussed at the meeting of the minor sports board yesterday afternoon.

It was decided that no one pledged to a fraternity after the first game of the basketball season would be eligible for that fraternity's team during that season. This rule was deemed necessary because of several pledgings made in recent years of certain athletes in order to win an athletic contest.

The rule "All men who have earned their numerals in that sport or who have played with a varsity team are ineligible for interfraternity competition" was discussed and accepted by a majority vote.

Instead of barring all members of the freshman squad as was done last year, it was decided that only those who have played in a freshman game will be considered ineligible. When a player competes with the freshmen he becomes ineligible for the fraternity teams.

Don Holloway, Pat Caven and Vincent Bergquist were selected to referee the games. Acting with each referee, an FERA worker will act as umpire, thus making for a more efficient system of officiating. In order that the officials selected may be paid, each organization is assessed $2.50 which should be paid immediately at the business office.

In reference to hockey, all organizations who wish to enter a hockey team are asked to notify Harry Adams not later than this evening of such intentions. Those expecting to enter a team are expected to send a crew to prepare the hockey rink at 11 o'clock Sunday morning.

Those organizations wishing to enter a bowling team are requested to notify Adams immediately as the first games are scheduled for Saturday morning. Several have made preparations to enter the double round-robin tournament already and it is hoped that at least six teams will enter. Each bowler is expected to furnish finances for his own games, which amount to 45 cents each Saturday throughout the tournament.

Barb Tournament Is Planned Again

Adams Discusses Hoop Competition For Winter Quarter

Plans for the revival of the Independent basketball league as it existed last year are being considered by officers of the organization and Harry Adams.

Last year, after Interfraternity council decided not to organize the Independent basketball team, a league was formed to permit the Barbs to play basketball. A team from both the East and West wings of South hall, a Missoula team and a team from the Student Co-op took part in the contests.

A double round-robin system of play was completed and each team expressed its appreciation for the chance to play.

A similar play may be put into effect this year but more teams would be welcomed into the league and a single round-robin of play would be sufficient.

This league would not interfere with the Barb team in the Interfraternity league as men playing on that team would not be eligible for any of the teams in the Independent league.

"I am fully in favor of this play," stated Harry Adams, "as there are numerous Barbs who do not get to play on the Barb team. Everybody wants to play basketball and this system would greatly increase the number that may play. Judging from last year's games, the plan is a good one."

As the Independent women are not in the Intersorority league for athletics, this plan has been suggested to enable them to play basketball also.

Former Student Hunts Gold in Santo Domingo

Hiram Marcyes, a former student from Missoula, left for Santo Domingo on a gold hunting expedition last week. He expected to drive to Miami, Florida, and ship the car from there to Santo Domingo if possible.

He is the representative of a company formed to investigate and develop the resources of a grant of land to his aunt from the island republic. Gold in commercial quantities has been discovered in nearby regions, and Marcyes expects to spend a year or longer prospecting the company's property.

Grizzlies Meet Touring Idaho Hoop Machine

Tigers of Southern Branch Invade University Gym Tomorrow Evening

Montana Grizzlies play their second home game against a college rival tomorrow evening at the state university gym when the Idaho Tigers invade Missoula in the first of their series against Montana college basketball teams. The Tigers will follow their game here with a brace at Butte against the School of Mines Orediggers who lost a close contest to the Grizzlies here last week-end.

The scoring combination that will keep the state hoop title in the hands of Coach A. J. Lewandowski's men has failed to appear, and the Grizzlies must be on their toes tomorrow if they are to beat the Southern Branch squad from Pocatello. Hileman, Keithley and Waddell stood out among the forwards in last Saturday's game, but only Keithley was able to hit the basket consistently. Waddell scored six points, four of which came from accurate tossing at the foul line.

Hileman started the game at forward, but was transferred back to guard where he was one of the outstanding Grizzly defensive aces. Heller played the entire game at center, but was unable to connect in his usual style with his specialty jump shots. In all probabilities, the same lineup will face the Idaho Tigers tomorrow, but that combination will have to be more accurate if the Grizzlies are to score another win.

Not much is known of the Southern Branch squad this year, several of the stars in that squad having left. Carte and Mulica, two of the aces on last year's aggregation, transferred to the University of Idaho at Moscow, and then dropped off the squad during the Christmas vacation just when they had first-string berths in their grasps. Katsilometes, the elongated hoop toser of two seasons ago, is now a member of the Vandal squad at Moscow.

Last season, the Grizzlies invaded Pocatello and came away after edging over the Tigers by a 38-37 margin, staying off a last-half rally that fell one point short as the gun ended the game. The year before that, the Tigers came to Missoula and split a two-game series with Montana.

However, the Idaho Argonaut stated

-:- Sporty Vents -:-

Montana Grizzlies got their second chance at a college rival on the home courts tomorrow evening when they entertain the Idaho, Southern Branch, Tigers here. The Tigers are touring the state, and will meet the School of Mines Thursday and Friday.

Before the Miners came here, Coach A. J. Lewandowski said that he was trying to dig out a winning combination from his list of veterans and newcomers. Well, his combination won Saturday, but we think he'll agree that it will have to show more than it did Saturday night if it is to keep the state hoop title out of the hands of the Dillon or Bozeman sharpshooters.

Keithley was high scorer for the Grizzlies, tossing 10 points during the evening, but he shared honors in the game with Hammond, the Oredigger ace forward who also looped 10 points that night.

Heller didn't hit the basket with his usual accuracy, but if he is hot tomorrow night, the Grizzlies stand a good chance to repeat the last year's win over the Idaho Tigers. Waddell, a Cub star of last year who started this quarter, was accurate from the foul line, making four of his six shots from there.

Jimmy Brown, out of the fray last week-end because of a back injury suffered at Seattle during the holiday tour, has been practicing with the squad and will probably be available for duty tomorrow, adding punch to the Grizzly scoring combination.

The Idaho Tigers aren't as well known this season as they were last year and the year before. They dropped a 38-37 decision to the Grizzlies at Pocatello last season, and came here to split a brace the year before. But they lack the aid of Carte, Mulica and Katsilometes, all of whom joined the Idaho Vandal squad.

Carte and Mulica transferred to Moscow to play basketball under Coach Rich Fox, but left the squad there without getting started. It was reported that they had a different view than Fox, and turned in their suits because his measures didn't satisfy them.

However, the Idaho Argonaut stated

Independent teams beginning the rivalry. Last year, a mad rush for the pennant ended with the A. T. O.'s on top and the Phi Deltis right after them.

New rules will make the game more enticing to non-varsity men, because varsity and Cub men who have played in any games this season will be ineligible to play in the interfraternity competition. That will make the common herd step out and play more, none of them caring to expose their talents to the ridicule of the men who are natural stars at the game.

Hockey and bowling also are to be given a chance this year. Last season, the fraternity men enlisted the ranks of the faculty in the bowling league, but the instructors proved more adept at the ancient game than the young men and ran away with the honors.

Financial Report Reveals Disbursements Totaling $17,055.95 for Football Season

Grid Game Made Profit Last Fall, According to Figures Released By Athletic Manager Kirk Badgley

Disbursements of funds during the football season last fall total $17,055.95, a financial report made public by Athletic Manager Kirk Badgley reveals. The report is dated January 12. Badgley's report includes receipts and expenses for all football games, comparing the budget estimates with the funds actually spent. In most cases, the actual expenditure was smaller than the amount specified in the budget revised early this month.

The report shows that total receipts totaled $19,776.98 to January 12. This included a balance of $246.56 from 1933-34; $3,869.26 from student activity fees; $4,382.17 from gate receipts (home games); $10,951.56 from guarantees and share of gate at games played away from home, and $327.44 in miscellaneous receipts such as players' charge for the training table, gifts for the training table, sale of used equipment and rental of Dornblaser field to Missoula county high school.

Expenditures, as listed in the Badgley report, show home games costing $1,484.33; games away from home, $6,141.44; salaries, wages, coaching, part-time assistants, $90; trainer, $75; field and equipment labor, $278.05; towel room labor, $66; playing equipment and operating supplies, $3,397.25; medical equipment, $324.27; field equipment, $79.77; sundry equipment, $51.52.

Other expenses were publicity supplies, $327.24; training table and banquet, $1,586.65; conference travel, $123.27; convention travel, $70; other travel, $3.32; medical service, $134; awards, $268.06; office supplies, telephone and telegraph, $109.79; sundry office expenses, $63.63; conference commissioner, $225; repairs to permanent equipment, bleachers and scoreboard, $144.49; loudspeaker, $7.87. The total expenditures amount to $17,055.95.

The report reveals that $2,970.04 is either available or will be received for distribution during the remainder of the year.

Home games during the season showed a net loss. Receipts for the School of Mines game here were $405.87; expenses, $690.81; net loss, $284.94. Receipts for the Idaho game were $2,074.63; expenses, $1,667.04; net profit, $407.59. Receipts for the Gonzaga game were $1,757.28; expenses, $1,601.57; net profit, $155.71. Receipts for the Bobkitten game were $144.39; expenses, $524.91; net loss, $380.52.

The net loss on home games was $102.16.

Games away from home, of which there were five, showed a net profit. The Washington state college game showed receipts of $1,200; expenses, $782.85; net profit, $417.15. U. C. L. A.—receipts, $5,500; expenses, $2,330.73; net profit, $1,169.27. Oregon—receipts, $2,200; expenses, $1,175.59; net profit, $1,024.41. Montana state college—receipts, $2,051.56. Expenses, $567.77; net profit, $1,483.79. Oregon state college—receipts, $2,000; expenses, $1,401.50; net profit, $598.50.

Total receipts from games played away from home were $10,951.56; expenses, $6,263.44, and net profit, $4,688.12. Thus the small loss of $102.16 was more than made up by the outside game receipts.

The biggest item in the receipts' column was guarantees from games away from home. This total was $8,900. Similarly the greatest item in the disbursements' column was traveling expenses, $5,775.04.

Smith Announces Army Promotions For 49 Students

Student Production To Tour Montana

45-minute act, they have expressed the belief that the university contains enough talent to produce a show which will excel the current vaudeville attractions now playing in Montana theaters.

With the exception of Tom Wigal, Missoula, who will act as publicity director and advance man for the show, production staff members, if any other than the managers will be necessary, have not yet been selected.

Result of Hard Work
The idea of a state tour has been with the authors for the past few years and during the last summer they began work in earnest to bring the long-planned and hoped for project to life. The two spent several weeks during the summer months in writing and revising and rewriting acts until they could finally achieve one, satisfactory to both of them, and which they felt would please the theater-going public of Montana. When they returned to school last fall, they immediately set themselves to the task of interesting theaters in the show, handling the mass of details connected with it and further polishing the act and embellishing it with new ideas. Not only have they concerned themselves with finding talent for the show, but budgets, business negotiations and countless other necessary preparations have occupied their minds and time.

Both of the managers and authors have been prominent in campus dramatic work. Both are members of Masquers, Duncan being the only actor to achieve the distinction of Masquer Royal. This requires 65 points. Duncan has also been stage manager for Varsity Vodyl and was the author of one of the one-act plays which was entered in the Masquers' annual playwriting contest last spring and produced on the Little Theatre stage. Polard has written and directed the last two prize-winning Varsity Vodyl acts. Smith has distinguished himself in music both here and at Washington state college, which he formerly attended. During the autumn quarter of the current school year he was the leader of the "Desert Song" orchestra.

Editors Condemn Long From Convention Floor
Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, was outwardly condemned for his censorship of the Louisiana State university Reveille newspaper by 37 editors of college daily newspapers meeting in convention in Washington, D. C., recently.

The editors invited Senator Long to the convention for a "showdown." The invitation was declined.

The convention further decided in an association resolution that, where communist factions have been active in colleges, interference with the rights of free assembly would not be offered, but the editors resolved to editorially maintain points against injurious action.

A code of ethics, similar to journalistic ideals, was implied in a set of resolutions at the convention. It is hoped that similar meetings may be held each year, providing that sponsorship is adequate. Regional meetings are also being arranged.

Stan Beaubaire, editor of the Stanford Daily, who organized the convention, was chosen by the western delegates as regional chairman of the Pacific coast.

George Grover, Deer Lodge, spent the week-end at the Sigma Phi Epsilon house.

Tonight Marks Song Tourney Entry Deadline

First Match Among Three Groups Starts Contest Saturday Night

All groups entered in the song contest that is to start January 19, during the half of the Grizzly-Normal college game must submit the names of their chosen songs and the names of the people representing them to Virginia Bode, who is secretary of Central board, by tonight.

Every organization is urged by Central board and A. S. U. M. to participate in this contest. Fraternities and sororities will be required to sing their fraternity and sorority songs, while the Independent men and Independent women will sing state university songs or any Montana song. The different groups can bring their own piano player if they so desire, but it is not required. The judges for the contest will be picked from local people and faculty members. Those chosen to be judges will be announced at a later date.

Three winners will be selected from both the men's and the women's divisions. These will compete in the finals on March 2, the winning group in each division being awarded a cup. These cups are to go to the winning organization each year, three successive victories being necessary to obtain permanent possession. In the event of this happening, the A. S. U. M. will purchase a new cup to put in circulation for the competition.

Fraternities and the Independent men are expected to enter quartettes while the sororities and Independent women are to have their choice of either quartettes or trios.

Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Kappa are scheduled to sing the first songs that are to initiate the opening of the song contest—an event Central board hopes will be made a tradition—the night of the Grizzly-Normal college basketball game, January 19.

Fighters Training For Club Tourney

Last Year's Champions Are Planning To Defend Titles

Champions of last year's dope-upsetting M club tournament are starting intense training for the defense of their titles. Many coming fighters are training for those titles and will make the club tourney this year a real thrill.

Hub Zemke, Rex Henningsen, Virgil Stephens, Leonard Kuka and Robert Meyers will make their second appearance as undefeated champions.

Other winners of last year's bouts are Randall Jarvis, Leland Yates, Wilfred Gits, Harold Lewis, Orvo Kinonen, Roy Rimel, Roy Babich and Larry Bowler.

All the champions have not signified their intentions of protecting their titles as they have not as yet turned out for training, but there is little doubt any of them will refuse to defend their crowns.

Last year Hub Zemke won the cup award for giving the best exhibition. This year, he is showing good form and has an excellent chance to retain this honor.

STORY TO BE REPRINTED FOR COLLEGE TEXTBOOK

Miss Dorothy Scarborough, English professor at Columbia university in New York, has been granted permission by Frontier and Midland editors to reprint story, "Hounds of Cyclops," by P. M. Sterling which appeared in the winter issue of Frontier and Midland. Miss Scarborough will use the story in an anthology of short stories for college textbook use. She is editing the collection for Farrar and Rhinehart, publishers.

Quinn Blackburn Heads Expedition In Polar Region

University Graduate Returns Safely After Coming Within 180 Miles of South Pole

Quinn Blackburn, former state university track star, accompanied by two fellow members of the Byrd expedition, returned safely after a 1,410-mile sledging trip which took them within 180 miles of the South Pole. It was the farthest south any man has gone by dog sled since 1912 when Captain Robert F. Scott, gallant British explorer reached the Pole and then perished on the return to civilization.

Blackburn and his companions spent 88 days on the trip during which they fought terrific winds with the temperatures 50 degrees below zero. At other times they were stripped to the waist as they traversed the jagged ice floes. Within 200 miles of the South Pole coal deposits were discovered as well as fossil remains of trees which had grown trunks 12 and 18 inches thick, mute testimony to an epoch when the Antarctic could support life.

Blackburn is making his second trip to the southern ice-cap with Admiral Byrd in the capacity of a geological expert. He lectured on the campus during the fall of 1930. While a student locally he was a member of the varsity track squad, running the two-mile. He was graduated in 1922.

California Debate Team Heads Here

Detering and Anderson Have Met Idaho Forensic Combination

Richard Detering and Ervin Anderson, California student debaters, recently met the University of Idaho debate team composed of Paris Martin and Lewis Orland in a no-decision debate. The California team is on a tour of the west.

Both men have had practical experience in speaking and debating, Detering having toured Europe last fall and also having been a Democratic campaign speaker. Anderson is a social science student with several years' experience in debating.

They are now touring the northwest, meeting college and university debate teams. According to reports from them, they are debating teams from Idaho, Montana, North Dakota as well as Southern Methodist university and the University of Southern California.

At Idaho, they argued the question of the burden of taxation in social projects.

Bob Carmody, Kalispell, was a Sunday dinner guest at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house.

Sales Managers Are Named to Handle Tickets for Big Annual Foresters' Ball

Chief Push Lloyd Hague Warns Students to Buy Ducats Now as Half of Number Are Reserved

Ticket sales will begin Thursday, January 17, for the annual Foresters' Ball which is to be held February 1 in the men's gymnasium. Tickets will be divided into four series so each person can tell what time he is to eat and so that the times for eating will not be crowded. The first series, 1 to 100, will eat during dance six at approximately 10 o'clock; second series, 101 to 200, will eat during dance nine at approximately 10:30 o'clock; third series, 201 to 300, will eat during dance 12, at approximately 11 o'clock and the fourth series, 301 to 400, will eat during dance 15, which will be approximately 11:30 o'clock.

The foresters chose the following men to carry on the sale of tickets in various groups:

George Neff, Alpha Tau Omega; Julian Scheytt, Delta Sigma Lambda; Joe Clemow, Phi Delta Theta; Pat Wilcox, Sigma Chi; James Doyle, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Jim Zadra, Phi Sigma Kappa; John Morrison, Sigma Nu, and Robert Moody, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Those who will manage ticket sales in South hall are Burt Hurwitz, third floor; Boris Vladimiroff, second floor; and Donald Lynch, first floor. Joe Wagner, Richard Gallup, Robert Myers and Lester Robbins will handle the ticket sales in the Forest Service, and Joe Swan and Louis Demorest will be in charge of ticket sales for the Independents.

There is a limit of 400 tickets sold for the Foresters' Ball. Tickets this year will be $3, the regular price for tickets up until 1932, because of added features. George Roskie, Billings, and Jack Price, Missoula, are in charge of ticket sales.

There are approximately two hundred tickets reserved for the Ball already ready so Chief Push Lloyd Hague, Missoula, says that those who wish to be sure of meeting Paul Bunyan and seeing Babe, the Blue Ox, should get their tickets immediately. When talk of Paul and his Blue Ox began, the size of these individuals was never measured in terms of feet or pounds and so it is difficult to give exact dimensions, but it was agreed that the Blue Ox, Babe, measured 42 axe-handles and a plug of tobacco between the eyes, while Bunyan himself once had the misfortune to lose two large logging engines in his mackinaw pocket and did not find them for a month.

Anyone desiring a ticket can get it from the above-mentioned men or in the forestry school office.
