World Renowned Trio Is Scheduled to Play In Fourth of Concerts

Flute, Harp, 'Cello Group Featuring Georges Barrere, Carlos Salzedo and Horace Britt Will Give Final Performance of Season

Fourth in the series of outside entertainment programs, the Barrere-Salzedo-Britt ensemble comes here April 3. The ensemble has been called the outstanding flute-harp-cello group now appearing on the concert stage. Their performance here will be the last recital of the winter season; on the same series, however, Upton Close, noted American traveler and newspaper man, appears during the middle of April.

Georges Barrere, who plays the flute, has been called the "greatest flutist in the world." Formerly he was first flutist in the New York Symphony orchestra. Later he organized the Barrere Little Symphony, which was instantly famous.

Carlos Salzedo, harpist, who is considered among the greatest performers in his field, has appeared on recital stages in almost every country of the world. He toured extensively both as a harp soloist and as a member of the ensemble. He was organizer of and soloist for the Salzedo Harp ensemble of 12 harps.

Horace Britt was solo cellist for the San Francisco orchestra for many years and was later soloist with the New York symphony.

When Barrere, Salzedo and Britt decided to join company several years ago, the musical world thrilled with the expectation of three of "the greatest" appearing together in concert. Their many engagements since their combination and their numerous repeat performances, they believe, have justified their ensemble.

The current outside entertainment series, of which the ensemble will be the fourth, has drawn huge audiences. Dr. G. F. Simmons lectured in December on "A Windjammer Voyage to Treasure Island." During January Jose Iturbi, noted pianist, played before a packed Missoula county high school auditorium. Early this month Kathryn Melsie, contralto, who has just been signed by the Metropolitan Opera company for next season, sang here.

Upton Close, lecturer, who will close the five-star program with his appearance here in April, is widely known as a lecturer, traveler, newspaper man, political commentator and authority on Chinese habits, customs and history. His subject for his Missoula speech has not yet been announced, but it probably will be concerned with the situation in China and Manchukuo.

Students will be admitted to the ensemble performance and the Close lectures by exchanging their activity tickets for outside entertainment cards.

Alpha Kappa Psi will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in room 109, Craig hall.

College Editors State Opinions On Digest League-Court Ballot

To war or not to war is one question, but "when a fellow in a uniform goes away with your best girl, that is the last straw" says the Parthenon school paper at Marshall college, Huntington, West Virginia.

Last straw or no straw, however, the 112,607 students from 118 leading American colleges and universities who returned the Literary Digest Ballots showed a tendency to be lovers of peace and seem to realize the necessary conditions to preserve it.

United States' entry into the League of Nations was the most controversial of the questions and their reply was negative by 50.53 per cent. The vote was more than 2 to 1 in the affirmative to the question, could United States stay out of another great war.

If the borders of the United States were invaded, $3.54 per cent said they would bear arms, but if the United States was the aggressor $2.18 per cent would not.

The undergraduates balloted nearly 5 to 1 for universal conscription of all resources of capital and labor to control profits in time of war and by the overwhelming vote of more than 9 to 1 they showed their advocacy of government control of armament and munition industries.

State University Students Warned On Registration

Enrollment Cards to Be Available March 4 and 5; Withdrawal Rules Are Stated

Advance registration for spring quarter starts March 4. On that day and on March 5 students will be able to get enrollment cards at the registrar's office. Cards must be turned in and enrollment must be completed—except for payment of fees—during the week from March 6 to 14.

All students in attendance this quarter, including those who are doubtful if they will return next quarter, were urged to register in order to escape paying late registration fees.

The registrar's office also announced that March 2—Saturday—is the end of the ninth week of school, and that withdrawals from courses without receipt of a grade will not be permitted after that date. The office pointed out that the student handbook says concerning such withdrawals after the ninth week:

"When a student withdraws from a course after the ninth week (in the quarter) he shall receive one of the regular grades, as follows:

"A passing grade if the work of the course has been completed.

"Otherwise, an incomplete grade, a condition or failure, according to the judgment of the instructor."

Oratorical Drafts Show Great Variety of Topics

"First drafts of the Aber' day speeches are on a great variety of subjects which should be of real interest as a reflection of student opinion on the outstanding problems of the day," said Dr. E. H. Henrikson, debate instructor.

Contestants have handed in their first drafts and are busy on the work of revision. There will also be preliminary treating in delivery. Plans for the contest are being drawn up by a committee consisting of Clyde McCall, S. S. Frisbee and Margaret Holmes.

Military Fraternity Sponsors Smoker

Scabbard and Blade Members Hold Annual Affair at Fort

Members of Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, held their annual smoker at the Officers' club at Fort Missoula last Saturday night. Scabbard and Blade actives and associate members, alumni and pledges were present at the gathering.

Major G. L. Smith, sponsor of the local Scabbard and Blade chapter, acted as master of ceremonies and provided some enjoyable entertainment. Associate Members Harry Turney-High, professor of economics and sociology; H. K. Snell, professor of economics; and J. E. Miller, dean of men, took active part in the evening's entertainment.

C. F. Deiss, professor of geology, and Major Hammond of Fort Missoula, guests of the fraternity; Captain A. L. Rothermich and Captain George B. Norris, members of Scabbard and Blade chapters at other schools, also attended the smoker.

Co-ed Shooters Are Honored By Gun Club

Markus and Bonner Receive Honorary Memberships In Organization

Dorothy Markus and Madeline Bonner, both of Whitefish, who shoot on the university women's rifle team, have been made complimentary members of the Roosevelt Highway Rifle and Revolver club at Whitefish.

The letters received by Miss Markus and Miss Bonner read in part:

"Enclosed please find annual membership card for the year 1935. This membership entitles you to participate in all the activities of the club. We appreciate the very excellent work you have been doing at Missoula and feel you are helping to promote the same spirit of sportsmanship and fair play that has always been our chief aim.

We are firmly convinced that there can be found no sport that surpasses the standing of rifle shooting for both men and women. We hope you may find time to meet with us and take an active part in our club affairs. Please feel free at any time to consult with any of the club officers on matters pertaining to arms and ammunition and any troubles that might befall riflemen or riflewomen."

The letter was signed by A. L. Dunagan, secretary of the Roosevelt Highway Rifle and Revolver club. Miss Bonner and Miss Markus accepted the membership cards and expect to shoot at the club whenever the occasion arises.

Miss Bonner and Miss Markus placed second and fifth respectively for high averages in the six matches that the women's rifle team fired in the Garden City Rifle association tourney. They will both receive bronze medals, as the women with the five highest averages for the six matches will receive medals. The other women to receive medals are Alice Berland, Brady; Virginia Bode, Butte, and June Day, Cleveland, Ohio.

Former University Teachers Honored

Work of Baumgartner and Owen Receives Recognition

News of high honors for two former members of the state university faculty were received here this week.

Dr. Leona Baumgartner, member of the biology staff at Montana from 1926 to 1928 and now of the Yale university faculty, has been awarded the John Lovett Morse prize for research on "Age and Antibody Production," it was learned here. The award is made annually for the outstanding research of the year in New England.

Coincidentally, news was received that Professor Humphrey Gray Owen, of the biology department here from 1919 to 1925, had been made chairman of the biology department at the University of Denver.

African Tribes Will Be Topic Of Turney-High

Professor of Anthropology To Discuss Cultures Of Primitives

"Peoples and Cultures of Africa" is the title of a lecture by Dr. Harry Turney-High, which will be delivered at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the second of a series of university lectures being given in Main hall. Dr. Turney-High's subject will include a presentation of the ethnology and anthropology of many African tribes.

During his studies in Africa Dr. Turney-High secured first-hand information from the negroes of Dark Africa and from the people of Hamitic and Semitic origin farther north. Of the people on the north Africa coast Dr. Turney-High said, "Many of the coast tribes will have nothing to do with white men except to kill them. Even in the well-policed cities a white man can not be too sure of his life. They are queer people. Some have been subdued, while others are still the fighters they were centuries ago."

In his lecture, Dr. Turney-High will discuss something of the religion, habits, customs and rites observed by the Africans, and the part they play in the economic life of the world.

This series of lectures was started last Tuesday by Dr. G. F. Simmons, who spoke on the subject "Sins of Science." His lecture, which was illustrated by colored slides, had as its theme an adventure in the Sargasso sea. He related how his ship "Blossom" and its crew of scientists, hunters and sailors explored the islands of the south Atlantic. A large crowd, composed mostly of students, heard the lecture.

Other talks are to follow that of Dr. Turney-High's tonight, and will be announced at a later date. The time for these lectures will be the same—Tuesday evening.

Nevada Students Withdraw Many School Traditions

Other Campus Violations Punished By Paddling; Dissension Causes Action

Abolishment of more than a dozen campus traditions by the senate of the Associated Students of the University of Nevada was announced last week. At the same time the senate empowered men's committees in the upper classes to punish violators of the remaining traditions by paddling.

The organization hoped to regain lost prestige by taking a stand on a question that has bothered the Nevada campus for more than two years.

The surprise stroke on the part of the student legislators, who were moved to action by the fact that numerous underclassmen were wearing cords and cutting campus, and other students were smoking in campus buildings, climaxed a long period of dissension and dissatisfaction.

As a result of the senate's sweeping action, the following traditions and rules are now things of the past:

Sophomore lakings, paddlings and sophomore-freshman field day; carrying frosh bible at all times; compulsory freshman attendance and singing at student meetings; wearing of sombreros and growing of moustaches by seniors; spring contests between the two lower classes; tubing as a punishment; the use of the front steps of one of the halls by upperclassmen only, and the rule prohibiting "queening" in the library.

One of the outstanding acts included in the sweeping revision was the abolishment of the sophomore vigilance committee, which was accused of using high-handed tactics and of punishing for personal grievances.

Powers of enforcement of all remaining traditions will be given to the enforcement committee, which for several years has been helpless in its attempts to make students observe traditions. The new regime begins on March 11. The committee, if it finds that students continually violate the rules, may ask the central agency to withhold student privileges.

Women debaters should see Dr. Henrikson concerning debate tryouts at Wednesday afternoon at the latest.

Line to Address Normal Graduates

Winter Commencement in Billings Will Be March 21

Robert C. Line, dean of the business administration school, has recently accepted an invitation to give the winter commencement address at the Eastern Montana Normal school in Billings, Thursday, March 21. Dean Line's invitation is among the first of many which are received each year by university faculty members to speak at commencement exercises over all parts of the state. The majority of these addresses are delivered at the June graduations of the many high schools.

Dean Line plans to leave a few days earlier than would be necessary for the address so that he can attend a meeting of the Kiwanis club in Billings. He has been asked to speak on business conditions at the gathering of that group on March 19.

Finals of Song Contest Moved By Committee

Alpha Phi Group Is Winner In Elimination Matches Saturday Night

Finals in the state university song contest will be held March 4 and 5 instead of March 1 and 2 as had been previously planned, the new schedule being adopted at a recent meeting of Traditions committee. At that time, winners of the men's and women's contests will compete for the final honors and the right to take possession of the cups that are to be awarded by the A. S. U. M.

Alpha Phi sorority won the song contest eliminations held during the half-time intermission of the Ellensburg-Grizzly basketball game last Saturday evening. Elizabeth Ruffcorn, Leah Orris, Harriet Gillespie and Marjorie Miles sang "Alpha Phi, My Fraternity." Alpha Delta Pi singers sang "It's Just a Tiny Pin" and the Alpha Chi Omega quartette sang "Girl of the Golden Lyre."

The judges for Saturday night's contest were Dr. Emerson Stone, Mrs. DeLosa Smith and Mrs. Harold High.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Tau Omega, Independent men and Delta Sigma Lambda will sing Friday night, March 1, while March 2, the date that was previously set for the finals, will be the first basketball game out of six starts that a song contest has not been staged.

March 4, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Alpha Theta and Alpha Phi sororities, winners of the women's groups in the song contest, will sing in the finals during the half-time intermission of the House of David-Grizzly basketball game. Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta and the winner of the Friday night's contest will sing in the finals of the song contest for the men's group on March 5.

Lister to Explain Use of Machines

Business Ad Department Sponsors Talk on Office Equipment

Through the sponsorship of students and faculty of the business administration school a demonstration and explanation of the mechanical operations of office machines will be conducted Thursday, February 28, in the accounting room in Craig hall.

Alvin Lister, a partner in the Lister Typewriter service, will explain the uses of typewriting, adding, accounting and calculating machines. He will also speak on the different kinds of these machines so that future business administration graduates will be better qualified to purchase such office equipment.

Levira Hart, '33, an assistant to Dr. N. J. Lennes, will explain the mechanical operation of each machine.

Dean R. C. Line particularly wants business administration students to attend.

Many New Champions To Be Decided Tonight In M Club Tournament

Five Titleholders Return to Defend Crowns as Boxers And Wrestlers Meet; Opening Gong Sounds At 8 o'Clock in Men's Gymnasium

State university championships in boxing and wrestling will be decided tonight when the annual M club tournament is staged bringing together twenty-eight contestants who either hold campus titles or have fought their way to the finals through the elimination bouts. The tournament which is the biggest amateur ring show in Missoula and Western Montana, will be held in the men's gymnasium and the first gong will be sounded at 8 o'clock.

"The success of the M club tournament is assured," stated George Sayatovich, president of the organization and general manager of the card. "Ticket sales are progressing, but there are a few good seats still available."

Sayatovich also stated that those who attend the ring show would not only be royally entertained but they also would be contributing to a worthy cause. The proceeds from the tournament are devoted to providing scholarships for future Montana athletes.

For the first time since the history of the M club tournament, the members of the club have decided to reserve a special section for all women who attend the bouts by themselves or in the company of another woman companion. The location of this section of seats will be chosen. The main purpose in doing this is to encourage women to attend and be sure of a good seat and plenty of company.

The card this year packs more than the usual amount of interest because of the lack of returning champions. Only five champions in the boxing and wrestling divisions are returning to defend their crowns this year, and the program is filled with new talent. The tournament is the final stage for more than a score of fighters who have fought their way over opponents in the elimination bouts started some time ago and continuing up until last Friday.

Each of the winners in tonight's battles will be crowned champion in different divisions of the boxing and wrestling games, but there is an added incentive for the fighters. Each year the most outstanding fighter and sportsman on the card receives the M club trophy, emblematic of his skill and ability. Last year this cup was won by Hub Zemke, state university middleweight titleholder. Zemke will not defend his title this season.

The ring will be placed in the center of the gymnasium floor with seats around it—ringside seats placed close to the ring and general admission seats being those bleachers which are used during basketball games. Members of the M club have been acting on committees under President Sayatovich in order to get arrangements in readiness for the card.

The lineup for the program:

Boxing
Bantamweight—Grantier vs. Raffety.
Featherweight—Gits (champion) vs. Akhn.
Lightweight—Jarvis (champion) vs. Carmody.

Applications for Coaching Job Here Pour in to Athletic Body

Applications for the job of Montana football coach are pouring in from all sections of the country and the successor to B. F. (Bunny) Oakes will be chosen as soon as possible. More than a score of applications, coming from Massachusetts, California and many other states have already been received. It is expected several former state university students will seek the job.

Montana is one of the three coast conference schools which will have new coaches next year and is the only one which has not yet chosen theirs. Idaho has appointed Ted Bank, assistant coach at Tulane university, successor to Leo Calland who resigned following the completion of the 1934 Vandal campaign. Bank was quarterback at Michigan in 1920 and 1921.

Leonard Allison, formerly assistant at California, will step into the shoes vacated by Bill Ingram. Among those definitely known to have made application for the job is Sam Kain, Missoula county high school coach and a Montana alumnus. Kain played halfback here in 1925, 1926 and 1927 and was an outstanding Grizzly player. Since his graduation he has been engaged in high school coaching, first at Miles City, next at Great Falls and finally at Missoula. He coached one of the outstanding high school teams in the state last season, Missoula playing in the finals against Billings for the Montana title. Although Missoula lost the title game, the team had previously won 10 contests. The 1933 Missoula team under Kain's tutelage won the Western district honors. Kain also groomed state championship contenders while at Miles City. Kain first became connected with football while attending Helena high school from which he was graduated. He has been playing or coaching for the past 15 years.

The Organ Faces Facts

From the time plans for an organ in the Student Union building started to take serious toll on the interest of the students and faculty members of the state university, the Kaimin has been against the proposal. Many arguments were sent forth from the headquarters of the organ proponents in which various reasons were given for the advisability of buying an organ. Recently we heard the only argument that could possibly be interpreted by us as vital.

Time after time we have heard arguments advanced in which the organ proponents told the students and the campus at large that an organ would bring sentiment and tradition into our university life. These proponents stated that an organ would never be forgotten if used as a part of a convocation, a student assembly or a mass meeting. These arguments passed through our heads without our thinking of them because we didn't care whether or not the organ brought beautiful sentiment or never-dying pleasures. The beautiful tones and magnificent grandeur of an organ did not affect our ideas.

Last week we were visited by representatives of a music house in a nearby city and at that time we heard our first solid argument in favor of an organ. If the students of the state university can effect such a plan as these representatives suggested, there can be no objection from this department to the organ's installation. Here is the plan: First, the organ could be purchased by paying a reasonable down-payment. The remainder of the payments could be made in installments, using funds gained from rentals and fees brought in by the organ. Second, the money to buy the organ would come neither from the Student Union fund nor from any special assessment of the students.

That plan, according to our way of thinking, is the only one which could prove satisfactory from the students' viewpoint. The grace and charm of the instrument mean nothing if the students are forced to sacrifice their money and the money that should go into other departments of the building. However, if the organ can be purchased through the use of funds that do not come from the Student Union reserve or from any tax or assessment that might be placed on the students, that organ has a place in the building.

Proponents of the organ have stated that the instrument would prove itself by bringing in money from rentals and fees collected by it. The organ now has a chance to prove itself. Students who care where their money is going should investigate that matter and see that the organ is purchased through such a plan—a plan that would not take money from other sections of the building.

"Their Gain Is Our Loss"

Last Thursday's news ushered in a change of events for Colorado and brought something of a problem to the state university here in Missoula. Telling the story of B. F. Oakes and his appointment as head football coach at the Boulder school, that news left Montana in somewhat of a dilemma and gave it time to think over the truth of a recent statement: "Their gain is our loss."

Coach Oakes is undoubtedly transferring to a better job; at least he is transferring to a job in which he may find some rewards other than the complaining tongues of the "grandstand quarterbacks" and the "sideline coaches." He will have a larger squad to work with and he will have a larger coaching staff to help him. He will have a larger student body behind him as well as more money and alumni support to aid him. Everything is in his favor, but what is left for Montana?

The long line of Montana coaches who have served here and then moved on to other schools is filled with those who have given everything they had and were not appreciated by students, faculty members or alumni. The man before Oakes, Major Frank Milburn, was one of the best liked of these coaches, yet he had his difficulties with certain elements. Bernie Bierman, who left Montana and wound up last year at the helm of the unbeaten Minnesota Gophers, also was opposed by a certain group in the university.

With a new coach ready to step into Montana's vacancy, may all members of the anvil chorus remember a few things. Remember how long and how hard "Bunny" Oakes worked for the Grizzlies and what satisfaction he received from you. Remember how Montana used to rate among the Pacific Coast Conference schools, and then remember how it has rated in the past year or two. Remember how much good the complaints did to improve the team's morale, the student backing and the general outlook for football. And if you can remember those things and feel that the anvil chorus is justified, Heaven help the next coach at Montana.

Believe It or Not, We're Lucky

Among the opportunities that are offered to state university students by the school, many have proved popular and well worth the students' time. Study and discussion groups have offered much to the students and faculty members and the outside entertainment programs have broadened the scope. The latest program to meet with the approval of the students and faculty is the public exercises program featuring interesting speeches by members of the faculty.

Dr. G. F. Simmons, an interesting talker and a man who has been able to bring to us his many experiences, opened the program last week. Tomorrow evening Dr. Harry Turney-High will continue that schedule with a talk that promises both educational advantages and entertaining qualities.

We all realize that while we are in college we do not have the chance to see or hear the world's many sides firsthand. However, we are in constant touch with those people who have seen all these things, and we may profit a thousandfold by hearing them. A great many of us never leave our home town or our particular section, and we live our entire lives within a limited circle. We, as students of the state university, have our chance to see and hear adventures and facts from those who are acquainted with them, so we may well take advantage of our opportunity.

Ellensburg Normal Hoopsters Triumph Over University in Rough Game Here

Flashes of Accurate Shooting and Excellent Floor Work Keep Crowd Interested in Dull Fray

A listless state university quintet succumbed to a second half barrage of baskets by lanky Ellensburg Normal basketekers, 37-34, after spilling in counters from every corner of the floor to tie the score early in the period. Neither team displayed any consistent strength although at intervals flashes of shooting accuracy and excellent floor work were shown by individual players. Three of the visiting team's starting lineup left the game via the foul route with Blastic also departing for the showers.

Three free throws and Blastic's contribution from the side gave Montana a 5-0 lead with the Normalites failing to count on 19 successive tries. Sesby broke the jinx with a cinch, Heller and Blastic scored setups and then came the Ellensburg tornado. At half time the score stood at 19 to 11 in favor of the visitors. Grizzlies emerged from the lockers following the intermission with a vengeance to quickly knot the count but seemingly spent themselves in the effort and dropped behind gradually to the Ellensburg scoring machine. Denslow led all scorers with 14 points trailed by Heller who hooped 10. Ellensburg had 63 tries for the basket and converted on 14 while Montana players shot 45 times and were successful on 12. Captains Heller and Sill shone for their respective teams with Denslow and Blastic also performing effectively in the pinches.

First Half
Grizzlies coasted on a 5 to 0 lead until Sesby counted on a setup, after Ellensburg players tossed the leather wide 19 times in a row. Blastic whipped in a closeup, closely followed by Heller. Denslow's free throw and Hadley battling in a rebound kept the visitors in the running. Rhinehart split the cords with one from the side but was quickly counteracted by Sill, Sesby and Sill again who pitched closeups. Hadley broke the stalemate with two of his mid-floor windups, two free tosses and Sill's conversion from far back of the hole closed the scoring for the half.

Buck Heller opened the second half with his old reliable hop and twist shot and was followed by four gift tosses by Brown and Blastic at the expense of Ellensburg first stringers, who had exceeded the four-foul limit. Denslow dampened the Grizzly hopes of shooting into a lead with a hole shot. Heller leaped high to slap in a rebound and Rhinehart came through with a beauty from the hole to send Montana fans into a frenzy for the last time during the evening. With the score tied, both quintets battled furiously back and forth without counting, except for three gift flips. Hicks eluded Montana guards to dribble under the basket and place an additional two points on the scoreboard. Holloway undaunted by distance let fly a long one. Stevens substituted for Heller and Buck moved to the forward berth vacated by Blastic who was waved out by the officials. Holloway recorded another marathon heave and Brown slipped through for a closeup. Two free throws concluded the Ellensburg scoring and with the game tucked away in the bag the efforts of Stevens and Hileman for the hole were in vain.

Cub Basketball Quintet Scores Two Victories

Team Beats Butte Alumni Friday, Hot Springs On Saturday

Cub basketball players continued their winning streak Friday and Saturday night by decisively beating the Butte Alumni, 35-27, and the Hot Springs All-Stars, 47-16.

On Friday the Cubs had a hard time to beat the Butte Alumni, the score being balanced often throughout the first half. In the second half the Cubs used a more polished scoring combination and took an early margin which the visitors could not overcome.

Although scoring only one field goal, Popovich, former Cub basketball and football star, played a marvelous game at guard. A Cub pass was not safe in his vicinity and he made several Cubs look foolish when attempting to guard him while dribbling. Doug Brown and Harry Robinson led the scoring for the Cubs with 11 and 10 points, respectively, while Bukvich with 10 led the visitors.

Lineup and summary:

Cubs (35)	Butte (27)

In Saturday's preliminary game, the Cubs easily swamped the Hot Springs All-Stars, holding them to no scores during the first quarter, scoring 17 points themselves. The Cubs could do as they wished with the visitors, scoring at will and breaking up Hot Springs' plays throughout the game.

Student Conducts Publicity Project For Garden City

Giltner Writes Pamphlet and Has
Article in Winter Issue
Of Magazine

William Giltner, a junior in the journalism school, is now conducting a Missoula publicity project through the sponsorship of the university, Missoula business firms and Frontier and Midland, literary quarterly edited here. Giltner's publicity of the Garden City, as Missoula is popularly known, has been well received here and over those parts of the country where it has reached.

This has been possible for the most part through the use of Frontier and Midland as an advertising agency. The local publication is particularly suited for publicity of this kind because its subscribers over all parts of the United States are outdoors-minded people who like northwestern writing. Being of this nature the majority of these readers hope to and probably will visit the northwest for the scenic attractions. Thus, the articles by Giltner which appeared in the winter issue of Frontier and Midland may prove to be a boon to Western Montana and Missoula especially.

Since Missoula is the point of convergence for all of Western Montana any boosting of nearby outdoor attractions will be beneficial to local business concerns and will popularize the university. This has been the object of Giltner's work. Actual results of the enterprise may not be determined until the tourist travel starts next spring.

The latest work which Giltner has produced is in the form of a pamphlet. It includes three pages which tell of the advantages and conveniences of vacationing in and around Missoula. Several picture reproductions have been included in the pamphlet.

Communications

To the editor of the Kaimin:

Let us have no pipe organ in the Student Union building. There are better ways to spend the money. In view of the fact that putting in grass is so expensive, let us also take the large appropriation now earmarked for installing seats on the stage of the theater in the Union building, and devote all to grass.

Just in front of the library, as you may have noticed, and extending west to the rock garden, there is a bit of land known as virgin prairie. It looks more like the back-yard of a problem-family. Visitors to the campus have noticed this, and have suggested that it would be nice if it were planted to grass. The grove behind the law library would be one of the nicest spots on the campus if it were grassed over.

The maintenance department may plan to do this work; it has done much with the limited funds it has to work with, but if the students would yell and scream and communicate, perhaps the redemption of our campus from virgin prairie and weeds would be accelerated.

R. S.

Kaimin Editor:

In the last Tuesday issue of the Kaimin there appeared a notice to the editor to the effect that President Clapp had been unanimously elected by the staff of your paper as the "Man of the Year" for his great work, foresight and unselfish determination in securing FERA funds which made the Student Union building possible.

Few of us, I believe, realize the initiative and labor that someone had to exert in securing these funds, the maze of governmental regulations and requirements that were encountered and surmounted before official consent was granted and construction of the building could proceed. President Clapp's untiring efforts really made a reality what had been, in the short past, only a dream. It might be added that President Clapp did this work in the face of biting criticism from people in this state.

In my estimation this was really a great achievement and one for which I think President Clapp is entitled to some sort of remembrance within the walls of the Student Union building. Perhaps I am late in this suggestion; perhaps something of this nature has been provided. But I have not yet heard of any plans that would give President Clapp the just recognition which he deserves and that would in any way link his name with the building.

Perhaps it would be appropriate for me to make several suggestions in the event that nothing has been done in regard to this matter. Here they are:

1. A bronze plaque in one of the rooms or halls, this plaque to bear President Clapp's name along with some appropriate comment.

2. An oil painting occupying a prominent place within the building.

3. A room or hall might bear President Clapp's name.

It is my earnest wish, and I feel that I am speaking for the great majority of Montana students, that something in the way of a remembrance be placed in our new building in honor of President Clapp.
