Peace Demonstration Planned by Students On War Anniversary

Professor E. L. Freeman Will Preside Over Convocation Which Will Hear Talks Dealing With Munitions, Preparedness, R. O. T. C. and Peace

Students at the state university will observe the eighteenth anniversary of the celebration of the declaration of war by the United States against the central powers by holding a special anti-war demonstration on April 12. President C. H. Clapp has given the leaders of the movement special permission to hold a convocation in order to have a thorough discussion by faculty members, student leaders and other interested persons concerning the R. O. T. C., militarism, preparedness, munitions and war. Professor E. L. Freeman is to lead the discussions.

Defense Speaker
Attempts to get an officer from the military science department to speak in defense of the R. O. T. C. have failed but student leaders are working to obtain someone to speak for military training in colleges. The conference is to take the form of a discussion and leaders are attempting to get as many speakers with varied experiences and ideas as possible in order that a well-rounded discussion may be presented.

Freeman is prepared to discuss problems such as "Who Makes War and Why," "Fascism," "Threat of World Wide Conflict," and others.

"Such topics are in keeping with world discussions of today. They are pertinent and timely for this generation of college students. In accordance with the international movement of college students, the National Student League, Student League for Industrial Democracy, American Youth Congress, National Council of Methodist Youth and the Inter-Seminary Movement, we have been prompted to arrange such a meeting on this campus," Ellsworth Price, Whitefish, leader of the local movement, said yesterday.

Coincides With Observance
The convocation will coincide with local observance of the anniversary of the United States' entering the World War. Missoula county high school, the grade schools of the city and independent groups are also planning programs and convocations of a similar variety.

Throughout the nation, college students are leading a movement against war, Price said. The national council advises a strike against war, against the R. O. T. C. and militarism in general. The local council has decided to hold a less radical meeting and has paved the way for an orderly, well-planned discussion of the topics and subjects against which the other organizations would protest. The bulletin issued by the international movement of college students requests that a strike be held. It advises the students to walk out of school on April 12 in order to make their protests much more vivid and in order that the officials may see the exact state of their intentions.

Agitation in Colleges
Movements against war have been reported in many colleges of the nation. Senator Nye of North Dakota among others openly took the stand that a student strike was entirely fitting and proper and advised the students of the nation to stage a complete walk-out on the anniversary of United States' entry into the world's most dreadful conflict.

"I am willing, even desirous of speaking at such a convocation," stated Professor Freeman last night. "I have spoken on several occasions against militarism and preparedness and welcome this opportunity to discuss these topics more fully," he concluded.

The first Aber contest was held in 1920 and has been an annual event since that time. Interest on a $1,000 trust fund left by Professor William M. (Daddy) Aber, supplies the prize money.

Wyman Zachary, Bridger, won last year's contest, and Grant Kelleher, Butte, was awarded second place.

Bischoff to Talk At Barb Meeting

Mass Gathering to Be Held Tonight
In Forestry Library

Professor Paul Bischoff will speak to the Barbs at their first mass meeting of the spring quarter in the forestry library at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Bischoff has not named his topic but those who have had him in classes and have listened to him on different occasions know that he holds the interest of all listeners while talking. He has traveled extensively in Central America and has innumerable tales about the customs, manners and peoples of the tropics and will probably relate several of his most interesting experiences while living in the jungles.

Bernice Granmo, Missoula, will entertain with a few acalid numbers and Della V. Carr, Kalispell, will sing a couple of numbers.

All students who have paid their fees to receive the Barb activity ticket are urged to present their receipts at the meeting and get their tickets then.

on for initiation by the Druid organization and will be taken into the organization April 10. Those to be initiated at the next meeting are Terril Stevens, Missoula; William Wagner, Missoula, and Howard Welton, Townsend.

Concert Trio Is to Appear Here April 3

Barrere, Salzedo and Britt
Will Entertain Missoula
Audience Tomorrow

Tickets are being given out today and tomorrow at Main hall for the Barrere-Salzedo-Britt ensemble concert to be held tomorrow night at the Missoula county high school auditorium. The performance is the fourth program on the Missoula Community Concert association-state university winter entertainment season. The season will close April 13 when Upton Close, noted newspaper man and lecturer, appears here under the state university's auspices.

The program tomorrow starts at 8:15 o'clock. The ensemble is composed of a harpist, flutist and cellist. It is considered the outstanding ensemble now appearing on the concert stage.

World's Greatest
Georges Barrere, flutist, has been called the "greatest flutist in the world." Formerly he played first flute in the New York Symphony orchestra. Later he organized the Barrere-Little Symphony orchestra, which was instantly famous.

Carlos Salzedo, harpist, who is considered one of the outstanding performers in his field, has appeared on recital stages in almost every country of the world. He toured extensively both as a harp soloist and as a member of the ensemble. He was organizer of and soloist for the Salzedo Harp ensemble of 12 harps.

Horace Britt was solo cellist for the San Francisco orchestra and was later soloist with the New York Symphony orchestra.

Expect Big Crowd
Tomorrow night's performance is expected to pack the auditorium with students and townspeople. More than five hundred and fifty Missoulians are members of the association; all state university students are.

Previous programs on the outside entertainment series consistently have drawn large crowds.

Tickets for tomorrow night's performance are given out on display of the student's activity card for spring quarter.

Dana Will Speak To Student Body Early Thursday

Northwest Regional Planning Chief
To Stop in Missoula on His Return From Washington

Marshall Dana, associate editor of the Portland Journal and Northwest regional planning adviser, will stop in Missoula and address a university convocation in Main hall Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Dana is returning to the coast from a conference with President Roosevelt in Washington. He is expected to arrive on Wednesday afternoon and will leave the following day. After addressing the convocation here he will be honored at a luncheon at the Florence hotel at 12:15 o'clock where he will meet with county planning boards of this area to discuss the projects which have the best chances of being carried out when the four-billion-dollar work bill is approved by Congress. He will talk on governmental planning at the university convocation.

"Planning is a definite part of the New Deal and will play even a larger role in the expenditure of the four billion dollars," Dean R. C. Line, chairman of the Public Exercises committee and the one who has succeeded in bringing Mr. Dana here, said last night.

He is an excellent speaker and an influential man, Dean Line reported. He was in Montana a little more than a year ago when he attended the first Montana planning conference in Helena where he was chief speaker. Eighteen faculty members represented the university at that meeting.

L. A. Campbell, Helena, Mr. Dana's Montana representative, will be here on Wednesday and Thursday. Several of the members of the newly-created Montana Water Conservation board are also expected to be here to greet Mr. Dana.

It was originally planned to have him appear on the Public Exercises committee's lecture program during the past winter quarter. The committee, however, did not feel justified in making the necessary expenditure at that time and Mr. Dana was invited to stop here on one of his trips.

Classes will be excused at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in order that students may attend the convocation.

A hazardous scouting trip in the lower south fork of Mission canyon and a hike up Little Black Trail ridge led by Will Cave, made Sunday a busy day for the Mountaineers. This week's scouting trip was the first one that has failed to reach its destination. The members of the party made their way over dangerous slopes and through heavily timbered country only to be stopped 1,000 feet below their goal by a sheet of glazed snow and ice on a 45-degree slope.

Dr. Edward Little, a member of the scouting party, said that it would have been impossible to ascend the ice without crampons, Swiss climbing irons, and ice axes. If the climb had been attempted a mishap would have resulted in a 2,000-foot fall.

The intended destination was a glacial cirque and lake that had been seen from surrounding mountains and airplanes. It was thought that the basin above the cirque would be suitable for a skiing trip, but when confronted by such a hazardous climb the members of the party decided that it was suitable for summer trips only.

Dr. H. K. Snell, Dr. Little, Arnold Bolle, Stephen Wilkie, Bob Walker and Wesley Harden made the trip and were enthusiastic regarding the scenery. One of the most outstanding sights was an ice falls from 50 to 75 feet high.

The hike up Little Black Trail ridge in Pattee canyon was led by Will Cave, 72-year-old pioneer of the Missoula region. Thirteen members and friends of the Mountaineers' club made the trip and were entertained by historic stories of the district. The party found four feet of snow and many summer birds on the ridge.

There will be a meeting of the Mountaineers' executive committee tonight to plan the trips for the remainder of the quarter. The Supper Strollers will meet on Dornblaser field at 6 o'clock Wednesday and proceed to the "M" by the long trail.

Women Athletic Group
To Give Dinner April 9

The annual formal banquet for the installation of new officers of W. A. A. will be held in the banquet room of the Florence hotel at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening, April 9.

Instrumental and vocal entertainment are planned. There will be no toasts. The price is 75 cents per plate and all reservations must be made at Miss Nickey's office by Monday, April 8, at 4 o'clock.

Destiny of Aber Day Depends on Turnout For Traditional SOS

Charles H. Clapp
Goes to Spokane

President to Undergo Examination
At Sacred Heart Hospital

President C. H. Clapp, for five months ill with bacillary dysentery and complications resulting from it, left yesterday afternoon for Spokane, where he will undergo examinations at Sacred Heart hospital. Dr. Richard R. Chapple, physician at Northern Pacific hospital here, is accompanying Dr. Clapp.

While Dr. Clapp has been able to walk around, his condition has not improved as much as Northern Pacific hospital physicians believe that it should. He has been under their constant supervision since October 29, when he first entered the hospital.

"While President Clapp has been able to walk a bit and has been feeling somewhat better, we do not feel the improvement has been as rapid as it should be," Dr. A. R. Foss, attending physician, said yesterday. "Therefore, we have decided on the consultation in Spokane."

Glazed Ice Sheet Halts Scout Party On Sunday Jaunt

Seventy-two-Year-Old Pioneer Takes

A hazardous scouting trip in the lower south fork of Mission canyon and a hike up Little Black Trail ridge led by Will Cave, made Sunday a busy day for the Mountaineers.

Housman, Rowe and Blastic Are Speakers for Occasion;
Spurs and Bear Paws to Make Canvass
Of Houses to Insure Crowd

For the third time in as many years the fate of Aber Day rests with the student body. The numbers and enthusiasm of the students Thursday evening at the now almost traditional SOS will determine whether or not Aber Day will be held this year. Spurs and Bear Paws will visit all fraternities and sorority houses at 7 o'clock in an attempt to insure a satisfactory turnout at the SOS half an hour later. The tentative program calls for talks by Dr. R. L. Housman and Dr. J. P. Rowe on traditions and Interscholastic Track Meet. Henry Blastic is to speak on Aber Day, past and present.

Joyce Memorial Prize Recipient Will Be Decided

Writer of Best Short Story Among Undergraduates to Receive
Award in Spring

The rules are as follows:
1. The proceeds of the Joyce endowment of $200 are to be bestowed in the form of a medal or otherwise, at the option of the winner. The second prize will be a copy of John Barrow's "Ubet." The third prize will be a year's subscription to "Frontier and Midland."

2. The prize will be awarded to the best short story written by an undergraduate.

3. Three typewritten copies of manuscripts are to be left with H. G. Merriam, chairman of the English department on or before Monday, April 15. They must bear an assumed name, the writer's real name being enclosed in an envelope bearing the assumed name.

Last year the contest was won with the story "Color," by Martha Kimball, Missoula, who is now teaching in Red Lodge.

Two women have been nominated for each of the four offices in the Associated Women Students. Their names will be voted on in the election next Friday afternoon, and the results will be final. No person may vote unless her A. W. S. dues are paid.

Voting will take place in Main hall and will be supervised by members of Tanan-of-Spur. The hours will be from 8 o'clock until noon and from 1 until 5 o'clock.

Those running for office are: president, Mildred Huxley, Lewistown, and Gladys Swanson, Glendive; vice-president, Dorothy Eastman, Missoula, and Jean Kountz, Whitehall; secretary, Nan Divil, Butte, and Jane Guthrie, Choteau; treasurer, Barbara Keith, Great Falls, and Alberta Wickware, Valler.

Dues must be paid at the business office before April 4. All women who are paying their dues this week are requested to bring their receipts from the business office when they vote, because their names will not be on the eligible list. The names of university women in good standing are posted on the bulletin board in Main hall.

FACULTY WOMEN MEET

Members of the Faculty Women's club met at the home of Mrs. F. C. Scheuch, 319 South Fifth street, East, yesterday afternoon. After the business meeting the members of the club inspected an exhibit of antiques which had been prepared for their benefit.

Turnout Necessary

"If we do not have a satisfactory turnout on Thursday there will be no Aber Day and furthermore no SOS will be held," Ken Duff, ASUM president, threatened yesterday. "Approximately three hundred dollars was spent on Aber Day last year and sufficient enthusiasm was not shown to justify throwing away another three hundred dollars this year."

Pointing out the fact that nearly $700 was lost on the "Desert Song" and that a shortage of money existed in all ASUM funds, Duff stated that Central board must be assured of the attitude of the students before they sanction the continuance of the tradition.

Two years ago it was thought Aber Day might be discontinued and an SOS was held to determine the student attitude. Students turned out in a large number and the tradition was carried on. Last year, with the FERA doing all campus work, a similar SOS was held with the same results. Since 1915 the tradition has been celebrated in honor of William M. "Daddy" Aber who was a motivating force in the beautification of the campus. In former years the work on the campus was handled at this time by students organized into crews and a great deal of beneficial labor was accomplished.

Last year there was no work to be done and a new plan was submitted. Rakes were laid aside and the day was given over to play. This plan worked satisfactorily for those who attended although it lacked universal student support. A program of games was scheduled and high court was held. Lunch was served.

First Held in 1915

In 1915 the first Aber Day was held and the Kalmin in reporting the event said: "Aber Day was and will be. From every angle it was a complete success and its perpetuation as an annual event is assured. With the weather man contributing a perfect spring day the students accomplished more than $1,000 worth of work and augmented within the student body that spirit of unity and loyalty which is so essential to a prosperous university."

A Universal Plea

On April 12, 1917 the United States entered the World War "to make the world safe for democracy." Eighteen years later to the day, thousands of college students throughout the country will rise in massed but orderly demonstrations against the possibility of another war.

Slightly less than a score of years after the last great European outburst the glowing embers of the old fears and suspicions of western Europe have been fanned into flames in the hearts of men by the propaganda of the fanatics who sit at the helm of European destiny. Those flames, constantly fed with new hatreds and fears, again threaten to break out into a new conflagration.

It is no longer a case of making "the world safe for democracy" by means of a war; it is a case of preventing war if civilization is to survive. That is the reason for the country-wide strike next week.

The most important feature is that for the first time, students will take a widespread and active stand against war. In the past such an action might have been followed by imprisonment. Today it may be followed by a more universal moral resolve against war. It may lead the way to a true understanding of the methods of keeping the peace and it may mean that in the future something more than the luring blare of bugles and glamorous battle stories will be needed to push the people over the brink into the morass of war.

Some will undoubtedly accuse the students of following the youth of other nations in attempting to take over the reins. But in this case, unlike the European youth movements, the aim is a great and universal peace, not the superiority of a nation in sheer fighting power.

In a strange and confusing world where established precedents are daily being discarded because they are found wanting and governments are experimenting to discover methods of meeting the new problems, youth is naturally fearful and impatient. They are impatient for action and they are fearful because they do not understand what is happening around them. The youths of Europe are steadily taking more of the government into their hands and they are bungling the job. We may be thankful that the college students of this country are moving in a slow, intelligent manner and we may hope that their voices, united in a resounding plea, will bring more people to the realization that the masses of the world do not want war.

A Dual Role for the Show Cast

It is with an expression of good luck that we say God speed to the cast of "The Birth of a Nation" when it starts its state tour tomorrow. In all six cities besides Missoula will be visited on the tour. We feel that the authors and directors, the orchestra and the other members of the cast have worked long and hard to make this a good show. We are confident they will bring to Montana audiences a vaudeville at least a little above the average. Their task, however, does not end there. Out in the far-off realms of the state where it is reported there exists a feeling of opposition to the state university it is imperative that the cast do something more than merely bring a good show to the audiences.

All members of the cast are university students and they carry the name of the state university with them. Thus, their actions will reflect upon the state university either favorably or unfavorably. A dual role is thrust upon them for they must play to two audiences, one made up of those who pay their money at the box office and the other made up of the ever-critical townspeople. In addition to giving high-class performances in the theaters they must give others in which the qualities of refinement are the main features. We feel that the latter role should be the easier of the two.

Be at the SOS

Thursday evening the student body will determine whether Aber Day will be held on the campus this year or whether it will be sent into the limbo along with other traditions that have been discarded because of lack of support. A large turnout with plenty of enthusiasm will turn the tide favorably and one of Montana's oldest and best traditions will be retained in these days when school traditions mean so little that they are discarded with the faintest of protests.

On the other hand, a bad turnout, a lack of enthusiasm, will mean that the tradition designed to bring the students into a closer unity and to create a spirit of loyalty to their university will be thrown out. The memorable tribute to William M. Aber, a member of the original faculty who did so much for the university, will cease to exist.

Last year FERA work did away with one of the original phases of the day, that of students working on their campus. However, the part that was not eliminated last year, we feel, is the most essential feature, that of bringing the students together and making them realize that this is something more than simply a place to attend classes.

Any occasion, whether it be Aber Day or not, that brings the students together and gives them something of a feeling of friendship toward their university tends toward the bettering of those students and the prosperity of their school. We feel that Aber Day last year did accomplish that despite the statement of the ASUM president, Ken Duff, who has pointed to the cost of the day and the lack of enthusiasm last year as possible reasons for discontinuing the tradition this spring.

Aber Day last year cost $300 and we agree that the ASUM, with its present depleted funds, cannot stand the expense again this year. At least a small portion of that money, however, goes as election expenses which will be incurred anyway. There is a possibility that the food expenses might be eliminated or reduced without destroying the benefits of a carefully planned day.

Again it is being left with the students to decide. We feel that the students want Aber Day. Two years ago it was discontinued and a protest SOS was held to determine whether or not it would be revived. It was. Last year another SOS was held for the same purpose and with the same result. Twice in a row is proof enough for us but apparently the governing powers want another exhibition of the sincerity of the students.

Registrar Reaps

Students Discover Thinking Pays; Dropping and Adding Is Woeeful Procedure

They tried. They failed. So now the registrar's office is somewhat richer. They didn't know what courses to take, but they wrote down something. They decided to drop and add, and the registrar's office lined its coffers.

To make this all clear, many a student found himself charged a dollar yesterday as he tried to drop and add courses. The price is going up to $2 next Monday, the registrar's office said.

Moral: Register after deep thought. Don't drop. Don't add. But if there must be a drop or add, have the simoleons ready.

Distance Quartet Works Hard For Chance at Drake Relays

Stearns, Rose, Taylor and Williams Are Leading Field
Of Candidates to Represent University at Big
Des Moines Meet, April 26, 27

Distance runners will prepare for time trials this week if the weather warms up enough to permit the removal of heavy sweat clothes, according to Coach Harry Adams. The distance men have been running in spite of the disagreeable weather during the past week and have tests. The early part of the week will be spent in more over-distance work and short sprints in order to condition the runners for the speed necessary for the mile which will be the first test.

Time trials for the mile will be held early this year as there are possibilities that a four-mile relay team, good enough to be taken to the Drake relays, can be trained. Harry Adams has set the time limit at an average of 4 minutes 32 seconds for each mile and it is believed that four men on the campus can cut their time to that average speed.

Although the track is not in condition for sprinting and much of the track has not yet been covered with cinders, dragged or rolled, a four-foot lane around the curb has been prepared for the distance runners. Except at the start of a distance race, no runner is more than four feet from the curb at any time so that the narrow lane should suffice.

Rose, Stearns, Williams and Taylor set a fast pace for early time trials last spring. On March 24, Taylor ran a half-mile in 2 minutes 7 seconds. In the first meet of the year, on April 7, Rose bested Taylor in the two-mile to win that event in 10 minutes 22 seconds. Stearns stepped into the lead in the half on the same day to run in 2 minutes 10 seconds, while Williams set the pace in the mile to run in 4 minutes 54.2 seconds. The times, although not fast, will give the distance team a good set of early-season records to shoot at this week.

The week following, Taylor paced Rose for three and a half laps in the mile to break away in a strong finish sprint to run in 4 minutes 32 seconds. Rose finished several yards behind in 4 minutes 36.9 seconds. Both runners are expected to run much faster before the year is over but will need much speed to run as fast by mid-April as they did last year at that time.

Bode Departs For Meeting In California

Athletic Federation College
Women Will Meet
In Oakland

The federation, of which Montana is a member, is a national organization having chapters in the form of W. A. A. all over the country. At this sectional convention of all Pacific Coast schools, to be held April 4, 5 and 6, the athletic problems of women in colleges throughout the United States, will be discussed.

Miss Bode is expected to return by next Tuesday, April 9.

Five University Women To Receive Medallions

Five university women have been awarded medallions by the W. A. A. for high scoring in the competitive rifle matches held during winter quarter.

Alice Berland, Brady, was awarded a gold medal for being high scorer of the group. A silver medal was awarded to Virginia Bode, Butte. Madeline Bonner, Whitefish; June Day, Cleveland, Ohio, and Dorothy Markus, Whitefish, were awarded bronze medals.

Captain A. E. Rothermich is to present the awards.

Sporty Vents

A. J. Lewandowski has started a large squad of grid men to work, rounding them into shape before the arrival of the coach, who has not yet been announced. "Lew" will confine his coaching to the fundamentals of football and plays in such universal use as to be practically the same as fundamentals. He promises no scrimmage for the early season workouts and those who turn out for the grind of daily drill without hope of scrimmage or games are to be complimented.

o-o
Little of football is interesting except the final stages of practice and the actual playing of a game. It takes a strong will to stay with the grid work until scrimmages start.

o-o
Football and track often conflict. Those who participate in both sports cannot take part in two sports at the same time. "Lew," in making allowances for the conflict, said: "Track is now the major sport, and the most important until next fall."

o-o
Athletics are held up at the state university by the weather. A full schedule of tennis, golf, baseball, football, horseshoes and track awaits the warmth of a settled atmosphere and spring days. With cold winds blowing, football players must be careful in practice or suffer unnecessary injuries. They cannot get into the full swing of spring practice until stiff muscles are limbered by the rays of Old Sol.

o-o
Track men must stay indoors or lumber around the football field under a full load of sweat clothes, while baseball players confine their practice to tossing the horsehide around in the gymnasium.

o-o
Idaho is suffering from an overdose of belated winter. Ted Bank was so thoroughly disgusted last Saturday that he borrowed tennis shoes from the basketball coach and is to start spring football in the gymnasium today. Idaho's football field is covered with about eight inches of snow, and it seems the field will be slippery for a few days after the snow leaves.

o-o
Last year Idaho gave the W. S. C. track team a sound wallop in the early contest but placed last in the conference meet, while Washington State walked away with the honors in the northern division.

Bulletins for 1935 Summer Session Are Mailed to Hundreds of Prospects

Montana Conference on Educational Problems to Be Held
On State University Campus July 8-10

Summer session bulletins are off the press and are being mailed to hundreds of prospective students. The bulletins are 24-page booklets. They contain pertinent information concerning all phases of summer session study and activities. Prepared at the president's office under the direction of Lucile Jameson.

Educational Conference

Listed among the important events occurring during the 1935 session are the Montana Conference on Educational Problems, which will be held July 8-10, the week-end excursions to nearby points of scenic and historic interest and the long trip to Glacier park. These excursions are open to all students in attendance.

"Near the Continental Divide of North America, situated between the main ranges of the Rockies, is the state university of Montana," the booklet says. "Truly the Land of the Shining Mountains, this region can only be appreciated by those who spend a summer here."

"The campus comprises approximately 100 acres besides 520 acres on the slopes of Mount Sentinel."

Round-Table Discussions

Describing the education conference, the booklet points out that the program will include round-table discussions of present-day problems.

Noted educational leaders have been secured for the three-day session. No admission fee is charged for those who attend.

Among the week-end excursions are trips to Mount Sentinel, Rattlesnake falls, Seeley lake, the state institutions at Deer Lodge and Warm Springs, and to historic and scenic points. The trip to Glacier park will take four days.

Regularly enrolled students who are residents of Montana and who satisfactorily complete the six quarter credits of regular work during the summer session are entitled to receive a refund of the amount actually paid in excess of $15 for the round trip between their homes and the state university.

Three Divisions

The summer session is split into three divisions, the first six-week term from June 10 to July 19, the second six-week term from July 1 to August 9, and the nine-week term from June 10 to August 9. The fee for six or nine weeks is $23.50, including the Student Union fee of $1. Students who register for less than five undergraduate credits or the equivalent and students registered as listeners pay $11.75, including a Student Union fee of 50 cents.

"Ubet" Is Reviewed By Andrew Corry

Professor of Humanities Department
Addresses Colloquium

Professor Andrew Corry of the humanities department reviewed John R. Barrow's book "Ubet" at a meeting of Colloquium held yesterday.

In his review of the book, Professor Corry stated that the book compares favorably with other books written on the pioneer life in the state. Two of these books are "Trails Plowed Under," by Charles M. Russell, and "Smoky" by Will James.

"This book reminds Corry of 'The Virginian,' by Owen Wister, although it is not fiction like the above but 'is a chapter out of the life of John Barrows and a picture of Judith Basin's early history.' Both books present a humorous outlook on life and depict the wholesome values of western life.

"The author has a disciplined legal mind and has the power to retain impressions and to present them capably. The book has a vividness and freshness that is unusual," stated Corry.

In the discussion after the review one of the people present said that the style in which the book was written closely resembles the author's way of speaking. This fact was attributed to the fact that the story was dictated because the author is blind.

Refreshments were served before the review started.

Forceful Men With Training Are in Demand

Line Says Best Positions Go
To Students Who Find
Their Own Places

Men trained in the business field, who have personality and a desire to better themselves, are in demand at the present time, R. C. Line, dean of the school of business administration, said yesterday on his return from a trip to Billings. Dean Line reports that several requests for men of this caliber have been received in his office during the last few weeks.

"A good number of graduates who have called at the office recently have secured positions," he said. "After talking with them one must conclude that the best positions go to the student who finds his own place. There are plenty of such places open now. What we are trying to do is to show our graduates how to find them."

Business men are not adding to their physical plants but they are seeking young men of trained ability who want to learn. They demand men of superior qualities. Not only must a graduate be well trained but he must have developed his personality. The student with poor scholastic records is the one who will find it difficult to obtain a position.

Dean Line said there has always been a demand for college men and women who have been trained in stenography. There is no difficulty in finding a place for such graduates.

Naseby Rhinehart Is Striving To Earn Ninth Varsity Letter

If Naseby Rhinehart, 1935 track aspirant, makes good his threat to toss the discus 140 feet and continues his good performances in broadjumping, he will undoubtedly earn his letter and have the distinction of being the only nine-letter man in school.

Coming to Montana from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, four years ago, Rhinehart stepped into a position of responsibility by qualifying in his freshman year for numerals in football, basketball and track. The following year he played regular end on the football team, guard on the basketball team, and supported the track team by broadjumping and throwing the discus.

After a successful year as a sophomore, Rhinehart returned to play end on the football team with Al Heller as a running mate. On the basketball court, Rhinehart gained a reputation for his work at guard with Monte Reynolds and Bill Hileman. Although handicapped by lack of practice before the meets, he garnered 18 points during the 1934 track season.

As a senior, Rhinehart earned a reputation as the hardest tackler on the coast. He was outstanding in knocking down passes and blocking punts. He has been heralded as one of the cleanest basketball players the state university has ever produced. But once during the past season was he removed from a game for fouls.

The track team anticipates great things from Rhinehart this year. He is the only letter man in the discus toss. He is a broadjumper of ability and has taken first place consistently in that event. He also puts the shot.

managership are requested to report to Nate Province at the men's gym.

There will be an informal meeting of Scabbard and Blade tonight at 9 o'clock at the R. O. T. C. building.

There will be no rehearsal of the University Symphony orchestra this week.
