3 INSTITUTES ON SOCIAL SERVICES
SET THIS SUMMER IN ST. IGNATIUS

MISSOULA--

The Native American Programs of St. Ignatius, and the Department of Social Work and the Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs at the University of Montana in Missoula will sponsor three special institutes on community-based social services this summer in St. Ignatius. The workshops will be held in the Community Center Conference Room.

The workshops, which are open to the public, are designed for those in social service positions. Each workshop will be offered for two college credits in social work at the undergraduate level. The course also is available without credit. Tuition will be $42 per course.

Workshop titles and other information about the respective courses follows.

--"Community Services with the Adult Offender and His Family," 8 a.m.-noon, July 28-Aug. 1. Tom Roy, assistant professor of social work at UM, is instructor for the workshop. The course will deal with problems faced by parolees, probationers and their families.

--"Seminar: Between Parent and Teenager," 8 a.m.-noon, Aug. 4-8. Richard Shields, assistant professor of social work at UM, is workshop instructor. The institute will deal with how to help parents deal with problems of their teenage children.

--"Community Services for the Aged," 8 a.m.-noon, Aug. 18-22. The instructor will be Dr. E. Cliff Brennen, professor of social work at UM. The course will focus on the development and administration of local programs for the elderly in rural communities.

Additional information about the programs may be obtained by contacting Bonnie Sorrell at the St. Ignatius Community Center, or Robert L. Deaton, an assistant professor in the Department of Social Work on the University campus in Missoula.
