Montana Journal

Course Outline:
The television program Montana Journal features a collection of news stories relevant to viewers across Montana. Students will work in teams of either two or three members and produce two segments for the program. We will produce one program during the semester. The program will have an assigned topic and the students will determine story angles for the show. Only a program worthy of broadcast will make it to air. We will have additional opportunities to distribute the stories on our website.

Learning Outcomes:
--The successful JRNL 482 student will learn the process, from start to finish for producing a half-hour television news magazine program ready for statewide broadcast. This includes everything from editorial content to post production to operating within a set budget.
--The successful student will also gain hands-on experience in the chosen area of emphasis whether on the production or broadcast journalism side.

Job assignments:
There are a variety of jobs related to finishing a half-hour television program. In addition to the traditional reporter/photographer/editor spots, we’ll also need a producer and director for the program (see descriptions in separate handout). There is an opportunity for on-air host for each of the programs. We will also need a graphic look for each show. Keep in mind we’re producing two programs, so there will be an opportunity to rotate responsibilities. Do not feel limited by production/broadcast roles.

Graduate Component:
Graduate students will be required to take on the additional responsibilities of one of the jobs described above. Most often this will be the role of producer which will require additional writing and organizing of the program. This will also include a leadership role in the overall production of the broadcast. The exact assignment will be made based on previous experience.
Equipment:
JRNL 482 students will shoot video the Sony EX-1 camera (plus needed accessories) supplied by the J-School checkout department. (see additional handout) Everyone will use these cameras to provide production continuity and consistency. Students will then edit on the Avid Media Composer program. This program is available in several DAH rooms, but the final edits will be completed in the third floor edit suites to ensure audio quality.

By the Numbers:
Journalists often need to present basic numeric information to put a story in context. In an effort to facilitate the reporting of economic business information, you will be required to seek out numeric content relating to your stories. You can present this through the script, an interview or graphically. This will be required in each story you produce for each program.

Diversity in programs:
The well-rounded journalist knows how to tell stories from varied perspectives. The School of Journalism has undertaken an initiative to create opportunities for students to tell stories of more varied and diverse groups of people. Diversity means not only racial diversity, but ethnic, socio-economic, gender and age diversity. As a team, we will work to ensure appropriate representation in both of our television programs.

Attendance Policy:
Attendance is mandatory. Any unexcused absence will result in the loss of a letter grade from your final semester grade. This includes full class meetings as well as specific team meetings.

Same Work for Multiple Classes in J-School
You may not submit for this course any assignment that has previously or will be concurrently submitted for another class unless you receive prior approval from the professor for this course. To do so without permission will result in an “F” for the assignment and could result in an “F” for the course.

After Hours Access:
For after hours access to Don Anderson Hall, complete and submit this form online: http://www.jour.umt.edu/don-anderson-hall-after-hours-access-request by Friday, September 6th. Students who miss this deadline will be subject to a late fee and a delay in processing. Complete only one request form per semester, be sure to list all courses you are taking. Codes will remain active until the last day of the semester.

Academic Honesty
All students must practice academic honesty. Academic misconduct is subject to an academic penalty by the course instructor and/or a disciplinary sanction by the University. All students need to be familiar with the Student Conduct Code. The Code is available for review online at http://www.umt.edu/SA/VPSA/index.cfm/page/1321
Accommodations for Students with Disabilities
This course is accessible to and usable by otherwise qualified students with disabilities. To request reasonable program modifications, please consult with the instructor. Disability Services for Students will assist the instructor and student in the accommodation process. For more information, visit the Disability Services website at www.umt.edu/dss/.

Grading Policy:
We will use the (+/-) grading system for this semester.
