54 UM STUDENT AMBASSADORS TO VISIT HOMETOWNS MARCH 22-26

MISSOULA--

Fifty-four student ambassadors from the University of Montana will visit their hometowns during spring vacation to discuss various aspects of University life with high school students in their respective communities. Visitation dates will be Monday through Friday, March 22-26.

Garry E. Pitts, 20, a UM junior from Dixon, who is vice-chairman of the UM Student Ambassador Program and who will visit Dixon High School during the spring break, said the main objectives of the program "are to give prospective University students an overall view of campus life, including both curricular and extracurricular activities, and to encourage them to attend college."

"Discussions between the high school students and the student ambassadors include both the negative and positive facets of University life," Pitts continued.

"In the four years of the Student Ambassador Program's existence, the UM students have focused attention on just about everything imaginable that is related to attending college."

Pitts said all of the UM student ambassadors participate in training sessions to prepare them for the things they will experience when they return to their hometowns to talk with high school students.

Questions asked by the high school students have encompassed UM dormitory regulations, off-campus living accommodations, fraternity and sorority systems, recreational facilities, on- and off-campus employment opportunities, and legal advice available to University students.

The UM student ambassadors arrange visitation times with high school principals and counselors in the respective communities.
