FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall has a full schedule of meetings and speeches ahead of him on his visit to Missoula Thursday.

He will discuss "The Not So Quiet Crisis" in a public lecture at 4 p.m. in the University Theater as part of the University of Montana's visiting lecturer program.

Arriving in the morning Udall will attend a press conference, speak to a noon service club meeting and consult with various groups including the University forestry faculty in the afternoon.

Udall will participate in an invitational round table discussion of recent programs and problems concerning natural resources with some 200 conservationists at the University Lodge Thursday night.

He will be in Missoula in answer to an open invitation extended to him some time ago, according to Dean Arnold Bolle of the University School of Forestry.

Sen. Lee Metcalf will be in Missoula to introduce Udall.
