EXTENSION COURSES HAVE OPENINGS

MISSOULA--

A total of 22 University of Montana extension courses still have openings at night during winter quarter for Missoula area residents.

Mary Margaret Courtney, assistant director of the UM Extension Division, said "it is absolutely necessary" for those interested to register for the courses Monday through Thursday (Jan. 8-11) in order to insure that the respective courses can be taught during the quarter.

"Courses without sufficient enrollments to finance them can't be offered," she said. Basic fee for each course is $16 per credit.

The courses begin at 7 p.m. and most of them are offered one night a week for two or three hours. Many of the courses are available for graduate and undergraduate credit.

Academic areas in which the courses are offered and the respective course numbers and titles are:

ART--123, First Year Studio (Drawing); 240, Painting; 323, Advanced Drawing.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION--202, Accounting Principles II; 324, Real Estate Law.

COMPUTER SCIENCE--102, Introduction to programming.

EDUCATION--462, Historical Foundation of American Education; 534, Curriculum Issues.

GEOGRAPHY--300, Geography of North America.

HOME ECONOMICS--105, The Art of Child Rearing; 105, Survey of Crafts; 105, Earthology Cookery.

LIBERAL ARTS--200, Introduction to Foreign Culture, Beginning Spanish; 200, Introduction to Foreign Culture, Contemporary Brazilian Culture; 200, Introduction to Foreign Culture, Conversational Modern Greek. I; 240, the Reservation Indian.

more

EXTENSION COURSES--2

MUSIC--308, Music Education in the Elementary Schools.

POLITICAL SCIENCE--201, American Government.

SOCIOLOGY--400, Problems in Social Organization: Issues in General Sociology.

SOCIAL WORK--471, Seminar on Helping Process Theory and Practice.

SPEECH COMMUNICATION--490, Problems in Professional Mediation.

Another one of the courses, Mathemtics 399, Seminar: Mathematical Applications and Model Building, will be taught from 7-10 p.m. Thursdays in room 107 at Hellgate High School. That course originally was scheduled to be held in the UM Mathematics Building.

Additional information about the courses can be obtained by phoning Miss Courtney at 243-5073.
