6-10 Canadian signs with Tips

University of Montana–Missoula. Office of University Relations

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
https://scholarworks.umt.edu/newsreleases/26660

This News Article is brought to you for free and open access by the University Relations at ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Montana News Releases, 1928, 1956-present by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.
Gordon Darby, an all-league center for North Vancouver High in Vancouver, British Columbia, has inked a national letter of intent to attend the University of Montana next fall.

Darby, who stands 6-10, averaged 17 points and 12 rebounds last season. In announcing the signing, UM basketball coach Jud Heathcote said that, "We feel Gordon is an outstanding prospect for the future at either center or forward. He runs and moves well for a youngster of his size."

Heathcote added that, "He is the big man that we were hoping to get to round out our recruiting."

He is the brother of Jim Darby, a 6-11 center, who redshirted for the Grizzlies during the 1972-73 collegiate season.

The younger Darby is the fifth high school senior to sign with the University. Previously, Heathcote signed three guards, Ben DeMers of Missoula, Tom Rondeau of Corvallis, Oregon, and Bruce Groesbeck of Spokane, Washington. Mike Richardson, a forward from Denver, Colorado, has also signed with the Grizzlies.