MISSOULA--

An extension course entitled "Alcohol and Drug Use and Abuse" will be offered during winter quarter in Browning beginning Tuesday, Jan. 20, through the Center for Continuing Education and Summer Programs (CCESP) of the University of Montana, Missoula.

The course, offered as Education 494, will be taught by J. Oliver Gordon, a teacher at Browning Junior High School. Three undergraduate credits are available for the course, which meets the state drug requirement for teaching certification.

Classes will meet from 4:30-6 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at Browning Junior High School beginning Jan. 20 and continuing to March 25.

The course will deal with the problems of alcohol and drug use and abuse in the U.S. and the effects of alcohol and drug abuse on the physical and emotional character of the individual. A historical overview of cultural traditions regarding drugs and alcohol on national and international levels will be presented.

Students taking the course for credit may enroll for $21 per credit hour for a total of $63. Nonparticipating class auditors may enroll for the half-price fee of $31.50.

Browning area residents interested in taking the course may register at the first class session Jan. 20.

Additional information may be obtained from Gordon or by contacting the CCESP office, room 107, Main Hall, University of Montana, Missoula, Mont. 59801.
