Hetler, Castle Promoted To Full Professorships

Adams, Turner, Morris Made Associates; Browman Becomes Assistant; Berland Is Instructor
President Simmons Announces

Dr. Donald M. Hetler and Dr. Gordon B. Castle have been promoted from associate to full professors as the heads of their respective departments in bacteriology and zoology, President George Finlay Simmons said yesterday.

Three assistant professors, Harry Adams, Dr. A. P. L. Turner and Melvin S. Morris, were made associate professors. Dr. Ludwig G. Browman, instructor in embryology, becomes an assistant professor, and Alice Berland, graduate assistant in business administration for the last three years, is now a full time instructor.

Hetler Modernizes Laboratories
Dr. Hetler came here in 1937 as associate professor and chairman of the department of bacteriology and public health, from the Washington Medical school at St. Louis, where he had also been associate professor of bacteriology.

Dr. Castle, chairman of the zoology department for three years, has done much to reorganize the curriculum and rearrange the laboratories in his department, according to Dr. Simmons.

Was "Best Halfback"

The man whom Bernie Bierman called the "best halfback he had ever coached," Harry Adams, is famous in Grizzly football history. He graduated in 1921 and soon became coach at DePauw college and returned to the university as freshman coach in 1925. Now he is varsity track coach, backfield coach, and director of intramural sports.

As senior member of the economics department, Dr. Turner becomes associate in charge of economics.

In 1936 Melvin S. Morris relinquished an associate professorship in Colorado State in order to join the forestry faculty at the university as assistant professor.

Browman Only Instructor Raised

Dr. Browman is the only instructor raised to the rank of assistant professor. Miss Berland earned her B. A. here in 1936 and has carried a full teaching load for the past three years, Simmons said.

Martini Thrills Big Audience

Nino Martini thrilled the Community Concert audience last night in the Student Union auditorium, in the last of the association's recitals for this year. More than fifteen hundred persons applauded so heartily that the singer returned for seven encores.

Most popular of the tenor's numbers were "The Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton, "The World Is Mine Tonight", from one of his motion picture successes, and "El Trust de los tenorios" by Serrano which was climaxed in the "D" above high "C". An operatic arrangement of the mother goose story "Old Mother Hubbard" added a human, humorous note to the concert.

The numbers played by Mr. Sandoval, accompanist for the Metropolitan Opera star, were all enthusiastically received.

Interscholastic Debate Final Scheduled for Friday Night

Finals in the Interscholastic debate tournament will take place Friday night at 6:30 o'clock in the Bitter Root room, after round-robin preliminaries on Thursday. Seven schools have entered teams in the contest, five of them winners in their districts and two being sent through special invitation.

Whitefish, winner of the western district, will be represented by Jack Maxwell and James Mitchell. William Works and George Young will debate for Fergus county, winner of the central district. Great Falls, northern district winner of the last three Interscholastic tournaments, will send Margaret Severance and Wilson Nicoll.

The winner of the southern district, Gallatin county, will have Jane Doering and Gladys Gaines as representatives. Froid, eastern district champion, are sending Daryl Feldmeir and Tom Darland.

Never a More Hearty Welcome!

Never does Montana State university offer a more hearty welcome than it does today as high school students begin to swing into town to provide Missoula and the school with the gayest and most colorful event of the entire year.

Without you high school students, Interscholastic would be impossible, and we're grateful for all the excitement and festivity you occasion. Everyone at the university enjoys the meet just as much as you who are visiting.

The track and scholastic events and contests are the important things right now, the reason for your coming here. Much must be accomplished by Friday night—much that will form exciting memories. So plunge into the business at hand.

And don't forget to have a look at the university while you're here. You'll find doors open and students friendly.

JANESTORMS

Met Edine Peterson on the oval yesterday and she was shaking her head as though in deep sadness. "Wanta hear something dumb?" she wailed. "I was just in the library with Dede Bourdeau. One of the fellas came in with a 42 sweater on and Dede asked me why so many of the players wore the same numeral. Ugh."

One of the more subtle means of confusing the opponent, Dede.

It's a funny thing but whenever you plot a good joke, things happen—and usually not the way you plotted. Take the Sigma Nu, Jack Rieder, Wanda Keene incident. While Jack and Wanda were dating Monday night, the brothers took Jack's pin off his vest and hid it. When he came home they gave him the rush and the congrats and all that. Bewildered, Rieder dashed to his closet and pawed through, crying, "No, no, I didn't" all to no avail. In the midst of the scramble the Alpha Phis called up in an attempt to verify the rumors and Jack denied the charge again. But as he hung up a queer glint came into his eyes and facing his brothers, he orated,

"I can't keep it up any longer. It's true. I hung it last week but we wanted to keep it a secret," and turning smartly on his heel, he left.

And when Jack actually hung the pin last night, he really had the boys foxed.

Dean Ferguson will probably beam happily on Peterkin Murphy the next time she sees him. One of the Kappa Kappa Gamma national officers reported so favorably to her on his "chivalrous" attitude. Pete came to the rescue when said officer was unsuccessfully trying to cash a check down town, saying, "Excuse me, I'm known here. I'll endorse it."

(Note: This is the third in a series of lessons titled, "The Successful Politician".)

This one is sort of dumb, too. Helen Holloway, while calling roll in AWS meeting Monday, marked Kathie Russell absent. Later in the meeting she gasped in surprise as Kathie took the floor. "Oh, I thought you said you weren't here," she said, correcting the books.

Powerful Alumni Team Tests Montana Varsity In Spring Season Final

Fessenden's Old and New Warriors Mix in Owl Game Expected to Attract 5,000 Spectators; Ex-Stars Have Secret Plays

"They never come back!" Tonight at 8 o'clock, under the glowing lights of Dornblaser field, Coach Doug Fessenden's 1939 spring football outfit will attempt to prove this athletic axiom before an expected crowd of 5,000 fans when they line up against the Golden Alumni in what promises to be one of the best home games on the Grizzly calendar.

The game will bring together some of Montana's greatest football stars of the past decade on the side of the alumni. On the other side will be most of the boys who will comprise the stars of tomorrow.

row. The game will be a finale to spring football training, and should bring out the strength and weakness of the varsity.

Carpenter Coaches Alumni
Coach Clyde Carpenter of the Alumni has had his old-timers running, kicking, passing and doing calisthenics, with some light dummy scrimmage thrown in. So far they have kept pretty well under wraps, not showing onlookers any of their plays or formations.

The game should provide a real test for Doug's sophomore-studded varsity. Some of next year's hopefuls will be out due to injuries or other work which has kept them from spring drill, but the nucleus of next year's outfit will be in the lineup.

Five Men Top 200
Big Archie McDonald showed up Monday packing about 220 pounds of beef. He quickly got in the huddle with other alumni mates whose weight figures run something like this: Szakash, 218; Noyes, 220; Forte, 206; Peterson, 208; Lazetich, 200; Popovich, 195; Lundberg, 192; Williams, 185; Dolan, 180; Spelman, 168; Gedgoud, 175; Beal, 175; Ralston, 180; Jenkin, 172. More reserves are expected. Breen and Sayotavich will be here ready to spell the tired stars.

Coach Fessenden was not decided upon his varsity lineup for the game. It is certain that all of the spring players will see action. If Jack Swarthout can breeze through the alumni line as he does in practice.

Whadja Say, John?

By JOHN CAMPBELL

'Twas THE NIGHT BEFORE TRACK MEET ...

Making their first and last real spring public appearance, Montana's sophomore-studded varsity grid aggregation squares off tonight against the Golden Grizzlies in the anxiously awaited scuffle which will write finis to football until September. Coach Doug Fessenden and his aides are pitting their 1939 Grizzlies against an imposing array of salted alums in a night classic which is attracting state-wide interest. A real test is in store for the varsity, which, although younger in years and possessing greater man-power, will have to demonstrate top-notch ability if it expects to turn back the cagey old-timers. On the other hand, the alumni crew will have to be alert at all times in order to be prepared for a faster, smoother offense. An expected gallery of close to 5,000 fans will take the sidelines eager to see (1) that high-stepping, long-punting Milt Popovich perform again, and (2) how Fessenden's newly-molded edition can take it and dish it out. The Grizzlies have been playing against each other all spring and now the spectators are waiting to see what they can do against the first opponent. Co-Captains for the Grizzlies, Bob Thornally and Emil Tabaracci, will lead the varsity against the Golden Avalanche in tonight's game, to be started off by Clarence Bell's band troupe.

Both Bob and Tabby are line-men who have put in two seasons of hard, consistent play, although Black Tab was out of some games last year with a bad knee. Around these two Grizzly stalwarts will be a few new faces in varsity positions. The probable starting lineup for Montana will present a heavy, aggressive line and a speedy green backfield. Co-captain Tabaracci and Sam Roberts will be at ends, Tom O'Donnell and blond sophomore Ken Drahos at tackles, Glen Van Bramer and co-Captain Thornally at guards and sophomore Joe Harris at center. The starting backfield will perhaps consist of Evan Roberts at fullback; Boney Gorton, a transfer, and Jack Swarthout at halfbacks, and Don Bryan at quarter. That's three sophomores and a transfer in the Grizzly backfield. Bob "Flash" Gorton came through in his blocking back assignments in splendid style during the last week of practice, so he replaces co-Captain Tabaracci.

Tonight's pre-game interest seems to center on a private duel the combination of Swarthout-Bryan will have with Szakash-Popovich. Will the punting, passing and ball-toting abilities of those two bounding sophomore Grizzly sensations, Rabbit Swarthout and Red Bryan, be able to cope with those proven assets of Montana's ex-stars, Popo and Socko? We'll see.

While the two teams were working out last Friday, one member of the Golden Grizzlies was heard to acclaim across the greensward to a varsityan, "If we had Matasovic, you guys would be a breathing the game. Some of the alumni to battle again will be Chief Illman, star of 10 years ago and one of Montana's all-time greats; George Sayotavich, sterling center of the Oakes regime, and big Russ Peterson, a tackle who thundered across Dornblaser a decade ago. They may be a little stage frightened, since none of them have played much or any night football.

Anyway you consider it, this game is bound to be great entertainment.
