AWS-WAA May Fete Is Friday Night

Three Corps of Dancers Will Present Group Of Folk Dances

The "bigger and better May fete of 1939," to be presented at 8 o'clock Friday night on Dornblaser field, entered into its fifth and final week of rehearsals yesterday. Bent on surpassing all recent attempts at May fetes, folk dances of various European countries will be featured and the fete will culminate in a modern, American version of the May-pole dance.

May fete productions had their beginning in 1907 as a part of the annual campus carnival and were characterized by entire student body participation. Then AWS took over its sponsorship, emphasizing the election of a May Queen to preside over the activities.

History of Fete

As a general rule, all productions have been of an amateur nature built around a dominant theme. One year it was Mother Goose. Another year the presentation of Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream in collaboration with the Music department and the Little Theater group took it out of amateur rating. In recent years presentations have retained only the semblance of a folk festival through the annual crowning of a "queen for the day."

This year marks a return to the "festivities." AWS, with the assistance of WAA, is sponsoring a fete that will feature three corps of dancers in some twenty dances. All dances are authentically characteristic of the countries they are borrowed from. Genuine folk

Trip Is Over As Foresters Return Home

Fifty-one senior foresters returned from their annual trip by Sunday night. Twenty foresters left from Redding, California, for the San Francisco fair, bringing them home two days later than the others.

Highlight of the trip, from the sport viewpoint, was a softball game with a traveling party of foresters from North Carolina State. The Montana seniors lost 13-7. The two parties had met at Eureka, California.

"Everything was fine," said Jim Ballard about the trip. "We had only one flat tire on the whole trip. We had good food, and slept comfortably in good beds."

In California, the foresters visited the Redwood industry, watching the huge trees being cut and made into building material.

The San Francisco fair was interesting because of Montana's exhibits, Ballard said. A boat ride on the Columbia river proved a thrill to many of them.

Ninth Corps ROTC Officer Addresses Regiment Yesterday

Colonel Ralph Talbott, Jr., Speaks to Grizzly Unit On Primary Purpose of Military Training And Advantages to Student

Colonel Ralph Talbott, Jr., ROTC inspection officer for the Ninth Corps area, and Lieutenant-Colonel R. H. Back, Fort Missoula, inspected the Grizzly regiment at drill yesterday afternoon. Colonel Talbott addressed the regiment in the Student Union building following inspection.

According to Colonel Talbott, the primary purpose of ROTC training is national defense and not physical training. In pointing out the advantages of military training, he said that compulsory training was better than voluntary as it was more democratic, and the government gets a better return on the money expended. About $30,000 a year is spent on the university military department alone.

Company D was judged the best unit in the first battalion and in the regiment. Company G was best in the second battalion.

Colonel Talbott spoke to last week's winners of awards for excellence in drill. These men are Captain Sam Parker, Butte; Second Lieutenant Bill McLure, Missoula; John Duncan, Helena; Bill Campbell, Missoula; Tom O'Donnell, Casper, Wyoming, and Pierre Roberts, Missoula.

This is the first time that the Grizzly unit has been inspected at drill.

Ecology Class Studies Stuart

The plant ecology class of the Department of Zoology made a field trip to Mount Stuart last Saturday afternoon under the direction of Dr. Gordon B. Castle, professor of zoology, and Dr. Ludvig G. Brownman.

Students and instructors ascended the mountain by Spring gulch trail to an altitude of 8,000 feet. Five inches of fresh snow had fallen Friday evening and flies and beetles were found at the peak but no signs of vegetation, according to Dr. Brownman.

At 7,500 feet, the first vegetation zone, white pine was dominant. A thick forest of lodge pole pine showed an increase in vegetable life at 6,500 feet.

Douglas fir was found to be the dominant conifer and flowering plants and insect life prevailed at 5,500 feet. The fourth level of 4,500 feet revealed larch, yellow pine and other conifers, and shrub vegetation, grass flowers, insects and animal life.

"The trip proved successful and the information secured was valuable to the class in their study of ecology," said Dr. Brownman.

Speakers at the roundtable discussion will be John Pierce, Billings; Carter Williams, Boulder; Dr. A. P. L. Turner, Professor Michael Mansfield, and Jim Wheaton, supervisor of the Missoula Recreational Education department.

"Last Chance," Says Registrar

The registrar's office announces that 4 o'clock today is the deadline for persons wishing to withdraw from courses. According to the student handbook, any student withdrawing from a course after the ninth week shall receive a regular grade, provided the work of the course has been completed. Otherwise the student shall receive an incomplete, a condition, or a failure, according to the judgment of the instructor.

This clause allows students deficient in their studies the opportunity of withdrawing from the university with the grades of W. Students may also drop individual courses before the end of the ninth week without receiving any grade.

First Woman In Congress To Give Talk

Miss Rankin Will Speak Before Matrix Table In Gold Room

Jeannette Rankin, America's first congresswoman and an authority on peace-war issues, will speak on "Journalism in Connection With War Prevention" at Theta Sigma Phi's Matrix Honor Table dinner in the Gold room at 6:30 o'clock Thursday.

Missoula women and university women will have an opportunity to become acquainted with the famous peace advocate at a reception in the Gold room at 6 o'clock preceding the dinner.

Miss Rankin, a native of Montana and a graduate of the university, was elected to the war Congress, 1917-1919. When the resolution declaring war on Germany came before the House of Representatives the stateswoman cast her vote against the resolution along with 49 other congressmen and six senators.

After the war she journeyed to Zurich with the late Jane Adams to attend a conference of the Women's International league, the first international gathering after the war, which met concurrently with the Allies' peace negotiations.

In 1929 Miss Rankin joined the staff of the National Council for Prevention of War, and during congressional sessions she directs the council's legislative activities. When not in Washington she works with the Georgia Peace society which she helped to organize.

What Political Significance Is There in the Royal Visit?

The King and Queen of England are now in Canada on their 11,000-mile tour of the Canadian provinces and the United States. Already recognized by their subjects and by the world as democratic rulers, the King and Queen are the first English monarchs to visit a dominion aside from India.

These democratic tendencies have been thought by many observers to be the reason for their trip to the American continent. But behind this trip there may be something else—there may be a reason more far-reaching and more vital to the British Empire.

According to European correspondents, the British masses deem a general war inevitable and have become resigned to it. Preparations for this war have been hastened in England since September. Bomb and gas-proof shelters have sprung up, gas masks have been issued to the population and safety instruction given.

England fears a gigantic air attack from the continent more than anything in the next war. No one would be safe from a gigantic surprise attack from the air. The country's rulers would face death with the common people. The chaos created by such an attack would leave the country without a government, without an organized defense.

But Canada is 2,500 miles from western Europe and is in comparative safety from attack by a European country. What is more, the United States and Canada are friendly neighbors and their relations have become more close in the last several years.

For many months the Bank of England has been making huge shipments of bar gold to Canada. England wants Canada to be prepared for a war, to be able to defend herself and to be able to aid the Empire.

It might be that the visit of the King and Queen to the western hemisphere symbolizes the removal of the capital of the British empire to the American continent. It is not a direct move and it cannot be determined whether or not it is the first step.

At any rate, in the event of war the government could easily be shifted to Canada. England could direct her forces and rule her empire from Canada without fear of an air attack which would demoralize the country.

Investigation Shows Curve Is Higher Spring Quarter

Contrary to the average student opinion, the grade curve does not drop sharply during spring quarter survey courses, a recent investigation based on data gathered from grade statistics of the survey course in biological science indicates.

Grade sheets compiled and posted last week showed that 259 students completed 11 tests with a high of 511 and a low of 76 out of a possible 550 points for an average of 372.9 and a percentage of 67.8.

Last February the rating of 352 students were recorded after 12 tests had been completed, showing a high of 559 and a low of 60 out of a possible total of 600 points, with an average of 338 or 32.33 points per test, a percentage of 64.66.

On May 9 of last year 200 students taking 10 tests made an average of 414 out of a possible of 600 points for an average of 41.4 per test or 69 per cent of the possible.

These figures indicate that the grade curve rises rather than drops in the spring quarter.

Dean Stone Remembers

• Hobo Club

"Did you ever hear of the Hobo club?" asked Dean Stone. The questing Kaimin reporter was pursuing reminiscences and was quick to acknowledge his ignorance. "Well," continued the dean, "it was quite an institution on the campus about 1912 and for three or four years later. Membership was regarded as an honor and not infrequently that honor was dearly won.

"The automobile was not the universal means of travel for students in those days. However, the urge to witness Grizzly football games abroad was as strong as it is now. To be eligible to Hobo club membership a student had to beat his way to and from three games. One round trip at the expense of the railways made the aspirant a novice but to acquire full membership there must be three round trips, well certified.

"The biennial game at Bozeman was a favorite tryout. At first there wasn't much hazard connected with this jaunt. Once the traveler was through the Butte yards, coming or going, he was usually safe, though there were some tough experiences at Logan, which was not a good spot to be ditched. Later, however, the Bozeman police force got on to the racket and, especially if the Bobcats had lost the game, it wasn't easy to depart from the Gallatin metropolis. That police force—he was the one who arrested Doc Elrod once—was a busy man when his pride was dented.

"The severest trial was the trip to Moscow or to Pullman. The bucolic constabulary of those alien bailiwicks, usually reinforced for the occasion, became as active and aggressive and as thorough as an FBI crew chasing kidnapers. There was one year—I believe it was 1915 or 1916—when some Montana men enjoyed the hospitality of the Pullman hoosegow. That time one of the boys was 10 days getting home. He even got detained at St. Regis—tossed from a freight. He was the last of that year's crowd to reach home. That experience led to the ban which was ultimately placed upon the hobo practice.

"Most enjoyable—when the Pullman crew was tolerant—was the method of doubling with the team. There were trips when there were as many as four in a berth on the team's special. It demanded a lot of manipulation when the train conductor made his rounds to collect tickets. Some of these conductors were mercifully afflicted with temporary blindness or else were unable to count higher than twenty. Sometimes, though, there would be a tough one and the bumming tourists would be forced to hide in the close confines of the space beneath a berth. There were instances when some of the boys got home terribly compressed, all ways.

"The hoboes always boasted that a game was never as interesting or exciting as when transportation had cost nothing. There were not many aspirants who flunked out in these tests but sometimes the trial

Relay Team, Seyler, Eiselein Give Montana Seven Points

Grizzlies Place Seventh in Coast Conference Meet, Finishing Ahead of Three Northern Teams; USC Trojans Romp Away

Montana trackmen collected seven points in the Pacific Coast conference track meet Saturday as the Southern California Trojans ran away with the meet. The Trojans collected 67 points to lead Stanford, California and Washington State in that order.

Al Eiselein's third in the 120-yard high hurdles, Jim Seyler's fourth in the broad jump and the mile relay team's fourth were Montana's only tallying. On the relay team were Jack Emigh, Bob Price, Bill Murphy and Ole Ueland.

Six coast records were broken, including the two-mile mark of 9:30.4 set by Montana's Arnie Gillette in 1926. Gillette's 13-year-old record was broken by Washington State's Dixie Garner in the fast time of 9:22.1.

Earl Vickery, red-haired USC hurdler, set a new conference record in the 220-yard high hurdles when he was clocked in 23.3 seconds. This clipped one second off the record made last year by Robinson of Oregon.

USC Wins Mile
Louis Zamperini of USC set a new record in the mile as he tore off this race in 4:16.3. The old record of 4:17.9 was set last year by Burrows of Stanford.

The two-year-old record of Olympic Champion Reynolds in the shot put was bettered when California's Herb Michael tossed the weight 52 feet 4 1/2 inches. The former record was 52 feet 1 3/4 inches. Boyd Brown, Oregon's javelin thrower, and Bob Peoples of USC both threw the spear well over the conference record. Brown's throw was 224 feet 1 1/4 inches, while Peoples' heave was 223 feet 11 1/2 inches.

Stanford's flash, Clyde Jeffery, tied the 220-yard dash mark and beat the 100-yard record by a tenth of a second. He ran the furlong in 21 seconds flat and the century in 9.6 seconds.

In the qualifying heats, Al Eiselein won the first heat of the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds flat. Jack Emigh qualified in the second heat of the 220-yard dash by placing second to Ledford of WSC.

Montana Beats Three
The Grizzlies' seven points placed them seventh in the meet ahead of Oregon State, Washington and Idaho; the best Montana has done in this meet for several years.

Montana's next track meet will be the Intercollegiate meet to be staged here this week-end.

Newman Club Plans Campaign With State-Wide Organization

Newman club will launch an extensive campaign to build up a large Catholic organization around the nucleus of the present campus group, according to plans recently drawn up by its members.

A proposed statewide system of alumni and sponsor clubs will support an organization committee operating during the summer from Missoula to attract high school graduates to future Newman club membership at the university. Newman club representatives also will work toward that goal in larger Montana cities.

Gerald Bauer, Missoula, will be chairman of the organization committee, assisted by Joe Ballas, Carole Bauer, Rose Marie Bourdeau, Jean Holsnecht, Steve Gajan, Leonard Kuffel, Lucille Hagen, Robert Plummer, William Plummer, Avis Schmitz and Marjorie McNamer.

Jack Carver and Dan Kelly, both of Butte, will contact all graduating Catholic students in an effort to form the nucleus of an alumni group which will function in conjunction with the club.

The proposed sponsor groups will operate in the same manner as sorority mothers' clubs. Their purpose will be to support the aims and activities of Newman club.

The club will adopt the University of Washington Newman club idea of sponsoring a rush week in fraternity style for prospective members. Scheduled for freshman week, rush week will be featured by a reception or tea for all Catholic freshmen and will end with a mass meeting of all Catholic students on church night.

Musicians Fail To Soothe Bat

Music may sooth the savage breast but the saying doesn't hold for the savage beast. Last Thursday evening during A Capella choir practice in Main hall auditorium a perplexed bat flew in the door, and pandemonium followed.

The situation continued so until red-thatched Chuck Hastay, university heavyweight wrestling champion, crept out from under a seat, grabbed a long lathe and launched a feeble swing at the frightened chiroptera, nearly scaring the animal to death.

After someone pulled the director out from under the piano, where he had gone to examine the foot pedals, practice went on.

Lunchroom Now Ready For Women

"The Alpha Lambda Delta lunchroom for girls who bring lunch to school, will be open until the end of the quarter. Although it isn't completed, there are sufficient conveniences for those who wish to eat in the room. Alpha Lambda Delta hopes that the girls will use it, because the maintenance department will not go ahead with work unless there is proof that it is being used," Grace Wheeler, president, announced yesterday.

Miss Wheeler also announced that under the suggestion of Acting Dean Mary Elrod Ferguson, the honorary has adopted a big sister plan to encourage freshman women who are now close to the 2.2 grade index required for membership in Alpha Lambda Delta. Members of the organization will contact those women to aid or advise them in any way possible.

"Before the school year is over," Miss Wheeler said, "I should like to remind all freshman women, with almost a 2.2 average, that they still have time in which to raise their index. We would like to pledge as many women as possible in the fall."

Any freshman woman who is interested in knowing how she stands toward Alpha Lambda Delta membership may contact Josephine Raymond or Irene Pappas, Miss Wheeler said. Contrary to previous years, general hygiene and physical education courses will not be taken into consideration when indexes are compiled for membership in the fall.

At the meeting yesterday, members of the group discussed the possibility of postponing the sale of unclaimed lost articles until fall quarter because of the impossibility of collecting and selling the articles between now and the end of the quarter.
