MISSOULA--

A total of 16 artworks by the late William Hogarth, an 18th century English engraver, will be displayed in the University Center Art Gallery from March 29 through April 9. The engravings, arranged in three series, depict the bawdy side of English life in the late 18th century.

One of the artwork series, entitled "The Rake's Progress," is shown in six engravings and is considered Hogarth's most famous work. Other series of engravings in the exhibit include "The Harlot's Progress" and "Marriage a la Mode."
