Lane Reigns At Tonight's May Festival

Queen, Eight Attendants, 65 Dances Appear On Dornblaser

May Queen Helen Lane, Butte, with her eight attendants will reign tonight at the "bigger and better May fete of 1939," beginning at 7:30 o'clock on Dornblaser field. To the tunes of old folk songs, American country dance music and modern swing, 65 WAA dancers will vie for honors before Her Majesty.

Tonight's May fete marks the thirty-second anniversary of this tradition. Sponsored by AWS and WAA, it has been under the general managership of Ruth Harrison, Deer Lodge, and her six committees.

For five weeks the dancers have rehearsed under the direction of Lesley Vinal, physical education instructor, and her two assistants, Audree Crail and June Paulson.

Of the 18 dances to be presented, only the Maypole dance is not an authentic folk dance. Instead it is a medley of five dances featuring two waltzes, a polka, an American country style dance and a modern American dance.

The crowning of May Queen Lane is scheduled to take place immediately preceding the Maypole dance. Attendants to the queen are Eunice Fleming, Eureka; Vernetta Shephard, Washoe; Muriel Nelson, Missoula; Connie Sullivan, Livingston; Jean Olsen, Billings; Lura May Fewkes, Troy; Marian Nankervis, Butte, and Louise Selkirk, Fishtail.

Ames Elected Society Head

Stan Ames, Missoula, was elected chairman of the American Chemical society last night. Other officers are Norman Sheeran, Columbia Falls, vice-chairman; Dwight Milligan, Whitefish, secretary-treasurer, and John Lotka, Butte, sophomore delegate to the executive committee.

Guest speaker Tex Brown, Hamilton, spoke on "The Chemist at the World's Fair" and also told of the mercury mines in California and of the purification and uses of mercury.

Hubert Murphy, Stevensville, told of his researches during the past year on "Devils Club" extract as a possible substitute for insulin in the treatment of diabetes.

Finally, plans were made for the Chemical society picnic, which leaves from the Student Union building at 2:30 o'clock this Sunday afternoon.

Seabeck is one of six Student Conference coeducational camps created by the Y. M. C. A. of America, located in the scenic mountain country near Seattle, Washington. The camp session, beginning June 10 and ending June 17, is presented this year to Montana students at minimum cost, $15 covering all expenses, including transportation.

The conference theme of the camp this year will be Christianity and Democracy in Crisis. Such leaders as A. J. Muste, pastor and director of the Presbyterian Labor Temple, New York City; John Castle, head of the department of speech at the University of Oregon; Mary A. Farquharson, state senator, Seattle, Washington, and Douglas V. Steere, professor of philosophy at Haverford college, Haverford, Pennsylvania, are a few of those who will lecture and lead group discussion during the conference period.

Recreational facilities of this camp, which has been so successful in past years, are unlimited and recreational activities comprise each afternoon of the daily camp program.

Rev. Harvey F. Baty, director of the Montana School of Religion, who attended this conference one summer, said, "Never have I spent a more enjoyable and enlightening eight days."

Rev. Baty expressed a willingness to afford transportation for and accompany a number of university students to Seabeck this year. Any students interested can obtain further information from him.

During her talk, the vivacious and petite ex-congresswoman stood on a small suitcase, which she laughingly called her "soap box." The speaker said she could not believe the public is unaware that propagandists are repeating just what they said before America entered the last war.

Propagandists have over-emphasized and misused the term "democracy" in attempting to prepare this country and other nations for war. They have urged people to fight to "save the world for democracy." "Democracy," Miss Rankin emphasized, "is government based on the dignity of the individual, and was can never be a democratic institution."

Violence Is Stupid

The fact that different nations can live side by side, peacefully, regardless of boundary lines is proved by the examples of Canada and the United States, Holland and Belgium, and the Scandinavian countries, she said. To think that violence is a method of adjusting human relationships is stupid and futile, Miss Rankin added.

Propagandists are constantly trying to instill into the minds of the American people a fear of being attacked by a foreign country. Most of the "enemy" bombers are only capable of flying 1,500 miles without refueling, and it happens to be 3,000 miles across the ocean, said the speaker, smiling. As for bringing troops by sea, it is one matter to get them within a reasonable distance of our shores, but a more difficult matter to try and land them. All Europe realizes the futility of trying to attack American shores, but the American people are still being led to believe it and fear it, she said.

Millions for Horses

"Adequate shore protection would be enough, but attacking forces are being developed upon the theory of fighting in other places." Millions are also being spent to maintain army traditions, such as the horse. During the same year that certain congressmen tried and failed to pass a measure that would provide approximately one million dollars for hungry mothers and children, an appropriation nearly three times as large was passed to provide food and shelter for army horses, Miss Rankin stated.

By letting their congressmen, senators and the president know they will refuse to co-operate in any future war away from these shores, the women of America can do their share in preventing another conflict. No war can be waged if it hasn't the support of the women, Miss Rankin concluded.

An Old Tradition Comes Back Strong

May Fete tonight should turn out to be a very colorful pageant. More work has been done this year in preparing for the annual event than in many years past. AWS and WAA should be complimented on their splendid efforts to bring back an almost extinct tradition.

When the fete was first originated it was a campus activity and was participated in by the entire student body. Then like a good many university traditions, interest waned and it began to fade in popularity. Perhaps there were too many other activities at that time of the year; maybe the quality of the May Fete lessened.

Then as student participation dropped less work was expended to keep up this fine tradition. Each year saw a program not much different from the preceding year's. Attempts to revive the fine fetes of former years were made but met with little success as the majority of students just couldn't be interested.

But this year the stage is all set for a beautiful, distinctive presentation. Committees have been busy for weeks preparing costumes for the dancers. Rehearsals by the hour have taken up a good deal of the cast's time. Those in charge have selected authentic folk dances and music, novel arrangements of American folk songs and modern swing music. And the Maypole dance promises to be quite different than any staged before.

Tonight's performance will be interesting and will appeal to every student and every person who witnesses it. It is designed to entertain and to please a student audience. Furthermore, it is a campus activity, a tradition of long standing. We need to keep our traditions, and to take part in them, as they are a major part of college life.

So once more compliments to AWS and WAA and if you go to May Fete you'll be complimenting them too.

JANESTORMS

Nosing around for dope today has set us reflecting. Most everyone we met smiled softly and said, "Hhmmmm, we had a beautiful picnic—but—ah—no, I don't know anything you could use . . ."

Just what is there about a picnic that's beautiful? Why does the mention of the word make even the strictest testototaler glow in ecstasy? Well, this is what we think.

The whole world, right down to Dictionary Webster, is bluffing and hiding true feelings about the meaning of the word. When the unabridged says "picnic: a short excursion into the country by a pleasure party carrying their own provisions; (Slang), a pleasant time, an easy job, a cinch," it is stating four bold falsehoods.

In the first place the term "pleasure party" is ambiguous. It's quite probable that at least two members of one sex in the crowd are flirting at members of the other sex. By a process of association and awareness this means that virtually every one present is ready to knife everyone else at slight provocation.

"Carrying their own provisions" as plurally expressed isn't quite so, either, since one sucker usually gets stuck with refreshments and responsibility while the rest study nature in one form or another. As far as a picnic being a pleasant time, that's hokey. There's too much struggle connected with it—bugs, and termites, and rain, and boy scouts and stuff. Furthermore, anyone who thinks collecting firewood is an easy job—a "cinch"—does not belong in our collegiate category.

Now that we have thus torn down prevailing notions of the day we will build up a theory of our own. The pleasure connected with "picnic" is purely mental and occurs either before or after the actual event, but never simultaneous with it. In other words, it's purely mythical. The idea has been forced upon you from early childhood. For instance, you were quite annoying at the age of three and your mother, finding you cramping her style, packed you a slight lunch, gave you a big pep talk—the one handed by word of mouth from generation to generation since Eve—and sent you on your first picnic.

Now you are 23, and still quite annoying, and on top of that somewhat anti-social, so you cling tightly to this traditional means of escape—the picnic. You escape, if possible, paying your share of the expenses; you escape doing a reasonable portion of the work; and you hope to escape a morning-after head, all the while fighting off bugs and pneumonia and affectionate natures.

That is a picnic, and in spite of the pessimism running through these so-called lines, can be beautiful provided you are a successful escaper and a wise pursuer.

Last fall Montana and Montana State football teams fought each other under the lights in the annual Butte classic for the first time in history. Now the Grizzly track team is mixing with the Bobcat tracksters tomorrow night under Dornblaser's arcs and this is also an unprecedented event. An interesting factor about both Grizzly types of athletes is that they have the same kind of a record; that is, the cinder artists from the university enjoy the string of victories in the past just as the pigskinners do. Just because something new in night trackmeets is being tried out tomorrow night, doesn't mean that any other changes will take place. Footlights can't bother good actors so Coach Harry Adams will again prove that the Bobcats ought to stick to basketball.

To start off discussion on the 1939 Montana Intercollegiate it must be mentioned that there will be nothing close about this meet between the top rivals, Montana and the staters, except perhaps a couple of races. Although the Aggies boast one of the strongest cinder aggregations in years, one which recently won the Little Rocky mountain track crown, it will be handed a crushing defeat. This is the only home show of the year for the Adams clan and when they want to make a good impression their ability will be better than that of the other Montana schools.

Being conservative in every event, Montana should beat the runnerup by at least 40 points, or two-to-one. Last year the Grizzlies humbled the Cats 103 1/4 to 38 but they can't do it this year. The most interesting part of the owl meet will be watching the Montana relay team. The mile quartet, composed of Murphy, Ueland, Eiselein and Emigh, was clocked in 3:16.8, and that, mind you, is one of the most magnificent sports achievements in Montana State university annals. When the Grizzlies did this stunt last weekend on the coast each man ran better than a 50-second-flat 440, not to mention that Sophomore Ole Ueland ran the quarter from a

College Meet Is Saturday At 8 o'Clock

Grizzlies Are Favorites To Win Track, Field Duel Tomorrow

Competing under the lights on Dornblaser field, athletes from Montana State college, Montana State Normal college and possibly other small colleges will meet in the annual Intercollegiate track and field meet at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Entries from the Rocky Mountain conference champion Bobcats and Dillon Normal were received by Track Coach Harry Adams yesterday. Other schools' entries may be received today.

Strong, Stark, Darlington and Stucky are Bobcat entries in the 100- and 220-yard dashes. Strong won the century in the Rocky Mountain conference meet and took second in the furlong. This stamps him as the man Grizzly runners Stenson and Price will have to beat.

Emigh is 440 Favorite

Jack Emigh should have little trouble beating the Bobcat quartet of Stucky, Morin, Monforton and Stark. Emigh's time this year in the quarter is much faster than that of any of the opposition. The lone Normal entry is Homme. Other Grizzly runners are Croonenberghs and Price.

Ueland and Murphy, Grizzly half-milers, have the edge over Bobcats Hensleigh and Monforton and they should also beat Homme of Dillon Normal. Ueland's time of 1:56 and Murphy's time of 1:57 are the best times ever done in Montana.

Bobcats in Distance Runs

Captain Bob Thompson, Bobcat distance runner, should be able to take the mile and half-mile runs. He won both of these races in the Rocky Mountain meet and his times are better than either Pachico or Lindberg have done. Other Bobcat entries in these long runs are Sheppard and Spiegel.

Captain Al Eiselein, Hileman and Watson are Grizzly 120-yard high hurdlers. Captain Eiselein is the best of a long line of good Grizzly hurdlers. His third in the Pacific Coast conference meet makes him a favorite to win this event. This is the last Montana trackmeet for "Antelope Al," culminating a brilliant career. He is the record holder of both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low hurdles. He has a chance to break his high hurdles mark tomorrow but he will not run the lows because he is the leadoff man on the relay team. Bobcat entries in the high hurdles are Yovetich and Stark. The Normal's lone contestant will be Schultz. Yovetich and Stark also are low hurdlers for Montana State. Low hurdlers for Montana are Cullen, Hileman and Watson.

Grizzlies Short in Weights

Davison of Dillon Normal and Stone of Montana State oppose Montana's Ryffel and McDowell in the shot put.

Discus entries are: Bobcats, Anderson and Cluzen; Normal, Davison. The Grizzlies' lone entry is McDowell.

Dillon Normal's Davison looks to be the best javelin tosser. His 180 foot flings are the best in the state this year. Homme is another entry in the javelin from Dillon. Bobcats flingers are Cluzen, Morin, Stark and Stone. University tossers

Juniors-Seniors Take Sophomores In League Game

Despite a third-inning rally which saw the sophomore team forge ahead, the junior-senior women's softball team won by a 23-18 score in the Interclass league yesterday. The juniors-seniors led by a 15-run margin at the close of the second inning.

The late sophomore rally gave the second-year team a one-run lead. However, in the first of the fourth, juniors-seniors took advantage of sophomore fielding errors to score seven runs. In the last of the fourth, canny pitching by Elinor Edwards, who yielded only two runs, bottled up the sophomores to cinch the game.

Outstanding in the junior-senior lineup were Elinor Edwards, Ruth Shaffer, Caryl Jones and Louise Hodson.

Laila Belle Woods and Barbara Raymond played well for the sophomores.

Batteries: Juniors-seniors, Edwards and Shaffer; sophomores, Woods and Pappas. Umpire, Jenkins.

are Burgess and possibly Seyler.

Bobcat pole vaulters are Frisbee and Bilden. The State Normal's entry is Schultz. Jacoby, Quinn, Stewart and Lazetich are Grizzly vaulters. Schultz has turned in the best of the year.

In the jumps, Seyler of Montana has the edge. He has high jumped better than 6 feet 2 inches and broad jumped almost 23 feet. Other Grizzlies are Lazetich and Croonenberghs in the high jump and Stewart in the broad jump. Bobcats are Bilden and Morin, high jumpers; Frisbee and Darlington, broad jumpers. Hamilton, Homme and Schultz are Dillon Normal jumpers.

Millar, Phi Delt, doubled in the fourth and scored on Ryan's triple. Nugent's single scored Ryan to end the Phi Delt scoring.

Grizzly Track, Field Men To Compete on Dornblaser

Coach Harry Adams' squad of Montana tracksters will take their initial bow of the season before Grizzly fans in the state Intercollegiate track and field meet on Dornblaser field at 8 o'clock Saturday night.

The Bobcats, Miners, Dillon and Carroll will afford competition. What will hold the attention of the fans will be the assault on records that promises to take place when Captain Al Eiselein, Jack Emigh, Ole Ueland, Wilburt Murphy and Jim Seyler strip for action.

Three sets of records as compiled yearly by Harry Adams consist of some of the fastest times in the country. The meet marks are records which have been set in state intercollegiate strife. The Montana records represent those marks made by any Montana runner attending a Montana college on either state or foreign tracks. The Dornblaser field marks are those made by any runner competing on Dornblaser field. Due to the holding of the Pacific Coast conference meet here in 1928, those marks are held mostly by outside schools, although the Grizzlies have their share.

Listed below are the three sets of records and person and school holding them.

Critics Praise Dr. Merriam

Reviews in the New York Times and the Saturday Review of Literature recently complimented Dr. H. G. Merriam for the "valuable" and "sympathetic study" in his book published in March by the Columbia University press.

Merriam's doctorate thesis concerns the deep impression made by Edward Moxon, a publisher and poet of distinguished taste and judgment, on poetry of the Victorian period.

The New York Times wrote, "Mr. Merriam has done an excellent job with the material at his disposal, producing a book that is both enjoyable and instructive. His achievement is more valuable for the fact that his work is one of original research as well as synthesis."

Said the Saturday Review of Literature, "It is delightful to find this sympathetic study of a great publishing episode coming from so far away as the University of Montana."

PAGING THE SAND-LOT KIDS

New York—The "sand-lot kids" of America are to have their innings in the academy of sport at the New York World's fair. In a "school term" covering the period of fair operation, there will be free instruction in baseball by such "professors" as Joe McCarthy, Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth and Bill Terry.

Alumni Team Claims Total Of 56 Letters

The Golden Grizzlies, who will trot out on the field next Tuesday evening, have earned 56 letters in their collegiate competition.

Bill Lazetich leads the list with eight letters, three each in football and basketball and two in track, with a third possible in track this spring. Hank Blastic and Milton Popovich have earned their share by winning six and five letters respectively. As a group they average three and a half letters each.

With this record behind them, little needs to be said about their competitive spirit. Their experience should be as big an advantage over the Bobcats as it was in the varsity game a few weeks ago.

The Alumni have been practicing a wide-open offense and will use several formations calculated to give the crowd a thrill. "Every man is a potential ball carrier," said Paul Szakash as he watched Aldo Forte, huge tackle, lugging the pigskin.

"We expect to use a much more flashing attack than we did against the varsity and expect to give the crowd more football for their money than they've seen in years," he concluded.

Lawyers Plan Helena Banquet

Senior lawyers, immediately following graduation exercises will start for Helena in order to attend the annual banquet which is to be held this year at the Montana club at 7 o'clock that evening.

The dinner is sponsored by law school alumni as a means of honoring the new graduates and furnishing a chance for one more get-together before they go their separate ways.

Members of the faculty are urged to attend and already a number have signed up to go.

The banquet will close with informal speeches by new and old graduates and faculty members.

The following morning at 10 o'clock those whose petitions are satisfactory, will go before the court to be formally admitted to the bar. No bar examinations are required for university graduates in this state. University finals are considered adequate for admission.

NOTICE

Seniors may get their Sentinels Saturday, May 27, between 9 and 12 or between 1 and 4 o'clock. The Sentinel banquet will be Friday at 6 o'clock at the Montmartre cafe. Members are requested to bring a dollar.
