June Edition Of Magazine Will Be Last

Dr. Merriam Announces Frontier and Midland To Be Suspended

Publication of Frontier and Midland will be suspended, temporarily at least, after the June issue, announced Dr. H. G. Merriam, editor and chairman of the Department of English.

In regard to the reasons for suspending publication, Mr. Merriam said, "The magazine needs a good deal of reorganization and in view of a heavier teaching schedule in the English department next year, I feel unable to give it the necessary time. It is hoped that there will be some means to resume publication later on."

Letters Received

Many letters have been received by Mr. Merriam expressing regret that publication will discontinue. George Snell, associate editor of the Rocky Mountain Review, wrote, "You can imagine that this is a blow to everybody who is interested in contemporary writing and particularly to us in the west."

Former University President Edward O. Sisson wrote, "You know how deep my regret is over this. I am still hoping that the suspension may be averted, or, at the most, be of very brief duration."

Began in 1919

The magazine was begun May 19, 1919, and titled "The Montanan" by enthusiastic students in a class of creative writing under Dr. Merriam. It was next published as Frontier in November, 1920. Dr. Merriam decided to publish it as a regional magazine of the northwest.

In June, 1933, the Midland suspended publication and the Frontier asked to take over the subscribers, renaming the magazine Frontier and Midland.

Noted Authors

During its period of publication, Frontier and Midland has published material, not only by northwest writers, but by many nationally known authors as well. In 1927 Grace Stone Coates, Brassill Fitzgerald, Frank B. Linderman, John R. Barrow and Lew Saret contributed articles and stories to the magazine.

Vardis Fisher appeared in the magazine later in March. In November, 1933, he published one of his best stories, "The Mother." In the summer issue of 1935, Dr. R. H. Housman contributed the article, "Beginnings of Journalism in Frontier Montana." Since then the list of well-known figures has grown proportionally to the popularity of the magazine.

Glass Has Operation; Weaver Is Released

John Glass, Boulder, is recovering from an appendectomy performed Tuesday at St. Patrick's hospital.

Albert Weaver, Butte, was released from St. Patrick's hospital yesterday. Dean Galles, Billings, was confined to that hospital Tuesday with a sprained ankle.

Awards Will Be Given At Convocation Friday

Dean R. H. Jesse to Present Honors to Students; Professor W. P. Clark Is Chairman; Graduating Senior to Attend

Professor W. P. Clark is chairman of the annual Prizes and Awards convocation at 11 o'clock tomorrow in the Student Union theater. A musical program by the senior class will feature a brass quartet, two solo numbers and selections by Muriel Nelson at the organ.

Organ Recital Is Scheduled For 5 o'Clock

Eight organ students of Professor Florence Smith will appear in a recital at 5 o'clock tonight in the Student Union theater. The public is cordially invited to attend.

An interesting feature of the program will be a piano-organ duet by Betty Hoskins, Deer Lodge, and Helen Faulkner, Missoula. They will play "Rhapsody," by Clifford Demarest.

The program is: "Idylle," played by Lois Kingsford, Missoula; "To a Wild Rose" and "Pastorale," by Lucille Sweeney, Belt; "A Legend," Dorothy Taylor, Missoula; "Finale in A," John Nelson, Helena; "Barcarolle in E Minor," Sybil Christiansi, Red Lodge; "Introduction from Poet and Peasant Overture," Marjorie Long, Lodge Grass; "Mountain Idyl," Jean Baily, Missoula; "Jubilate Deo," Harold Longmaid, Helena.

Lois Rice, Glacier Park; Muriel Nelson, Missoula, and Helen Heidel, Broadus, will appear in a senior organ student recital Sunday afternoon in connection with commencement activities.

NOTICE

All students wishing their spring quarter grades mailed to them are requested to turn in their handbooks at the registrar's office. Handbooks must be accompanied by an addressed envelop large enough to hold the handbook and carrying six cents in postage. The grades will not be mailed out until the latter part of June.

Streit to Speak At Stag Dinner Tuesday Night

Sigma Delta Chi, men's honorary journalism fraternity, will have a banquet in honor of Clarence K. Streit, speaker at Commencement exercises, Tuesday at 6:30 o'clock at the Montmartre.

Streit was a charter member of the Montana chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, editor of the Kaimin and winner of a Rhodes scholarship.

Now correspondent for the New York Times, he is on a tour lecturing about the plan for a union of world democracies as described in his latest book "Union Now." The banquet is the only time other than at Commencement exercises when Streit will make a public appearance in Missoula.

The banquet will be strictly stag and reservations must be in early as places are limited to 150. Students, faculty, townspeople and out-of-town men are welcome.

Fourteen reservations followed closely upon the announcement of the date of the banquet Tuesday.

Book on Montana Production To Be Mailed to Businessmen

Montana's Production for this year is completed and the book is being bound, Dr. M. C. Turney, instructor in economics, announced this morning. Distribution of the book to businessmen throughout the state will begin soon, he said.

Montana's Production is the graphic presentation in mimeographed form of statistics pertaining to the productivity of Montana's industry and business for the years 1930-39. The book was edited by Duane Chaffin, Bozeman; Hugo Jarussi, Red Lodge, and Ruth Eastman, Missoula, under the supervision of Dr. Turney and Dean Robert C. Line.

Montana's Production was first published in 1937 under the direction of Dr. Harry J. Jordan, now professor of economics at the University of Southern California. The publication was continued in 1938 and the present volume is the third of the series.

This year's book has not been changed materially from the form and content of the two previous is-

Thirty-two Are Initiated By Honorary

W. P. Clark Is Speaker At Annual Kappa Tau Dinner Last Night

Thirty-two students were initiated into Kappa Tau, scholarship honorary, last night at a ceremony in the Eloise Knowles room followed by a banquet in the Bitter Root room.

LeRoy Purvis conducted the initiation and presided at the banquet in the absence of President John Crnich.

Faculty speakers were Dr. Archie Merrill, Professor E. A. Atkinson and Professor W. P. Clark. Phil Payne gave a short address for this year's members, followed by a response from James Brownning for Kappa Tau of 1940.

Professor Clark, speaker of the evening, addressed the group on the difference in the fields of the artist, the scientist and the philosopher. Clark said that the work of the true artist, appealing to the senses rather than to reason, is likely to outlast the work of the philosopher or the scientist.

Students initiated were Stan Ames, Eusebia Bartlett, Don Beck, Catherine Berg, Olive Brain, James Browning, Eileen Byrne, Jack Chisholm, William Cobban, Alice Colvin, Walter Coombs, Audrey Darrow, Mary Alice Dickson, Thomas Driscoll, Ruth Eastman.

Jay E. Price, Virginia Strickland, Edith Tongren, Kathleen Tuott and John Wiegstein. Unable to be present, though selected for membership, were Charles Sigvardt, Ed Shults and Robert Rice.

New members will meet in the Bitter Root room at 4 o'clock today for election of officers.

NOTICE

All band uniforms must be turned in to the band office by 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, according to Clarence Bell, band director.

When a Prank Isn't a Prank

There are funny jokes and there are jokes that aren't so funny, but the vandalism that occurred Sunday night or early Monday morning wasn't even a joke.

For the past month the diamond-shaped pansy bed on the SAE lawn has attracted much attention. The built-up flower bed which formed the Greek house letters was the result of no little work and was really a thing of beauty.

But during Sunday night this flower bed was completely demolished. Evidently someone thought it was funny. And they thought it even more of a joke to enter the house and smash all the trophies they could find.

Not content with this "innocent fun," they proceeded to the Phi Delt house and walked off with several cups from the fireplace. Then to prove to themselves that they were really having a big time, they let the air out of the tires on a car parked in front of the house.

We could say that this is the work of high school or grade school students. We wish we could say that and know that it was true. But somehow it is hard to believe that even children of that age would pull such a trick.

There is an old saying that it is human nature to be destructive, but we fail to see the application of that saying to a civilized world. At any rate, the damage has been done and probably no one will ever know who did it. Perhaps it is better that no one does know.

Pranks have been played and we can all laugh them off. But it is awfully hard to get a laugh out of malicious destruction. There is such a thing as going beyond the bounds of decent conduct and respect of property.

Dean Stone Remembers

● Commencements

"It is natural," commented Dean Stone this morning, "that thoughts these days should turn back to early commencements. With Professor Atkinson posting the signs ('X marks the spot') indicating just where each unit and each individual in the commencement parade must stand; with Professor Cogswell lining up the seniors for their last march; with the marshals, ushers, guides and other leaders learning the details of their responsibility—it all recalls the first Montana commencement—principally because the 1939 scene is so different.

"Appropriately modest were those early graduation programmes. The university was new, the number of graduates was small, traditions of commencement had not been established but there was not lacking appreciation of the significance of the occasion and there was much of impressiveness in the programme.

"The registrar's records show that there were two members of the class of 1898, though I have been thinking for a long time that there was a third—memory is not invariably accurate. June, 1898, was a long time ago, measured in terms of the changes which have taken place in those years, but not so long when checked off on the calendar. Mrs. Ella Robb Glenn and Miss Eloise Knowles were the candidates for degrees. The university buildings were not finished until winter of that year, so the commencement exercises were not held on the campus. There was not much except the gowns which resembled the present scene.

"Then, year after year, the classes increased in size. Essentially procedure hasn't changed except as it has become more elaborate. For a long time, graduates were invested with the hood as they received their degrees. Professor Scheuch—first as secretary of the faculty and later as vice-president—placed the hoods as the line of seniors passed the president. Now that ceremony is reserved for the honorary degrees.

"Customs have developed through the four decades which have followed that first Montana commencement. Its scene has moved from the first rented quarters to the old convocation room in University hall, thence to the auditorium of the Student Union. Once—the year when George Greenwood returned to deliver the commencement address—it was in the open on the campus. A platform was erected directly south of the entrance to the oval. The setting was beautiful, but there were conditions which made the ceremony not altogether satisfactory.

"The Singing on the Steps and the Lantern parade are two Montana features of Commencement week which are strikingly impressive—and they are so distinctively Montana's—that they should be given all the attention they deserve. They mark Montana's Commencement week outstandingly. "This is the last time you'll in-

Party Returns From Studies In Southwest

Dr. J. W. Severy and Dr. Fred A. Barkley, instructors in botany; Merton J. Reed, Missoula, and Rene Blondeau, Mill Valley, California, returned last Saturday from an 11-day trip into the southwest, where they made a study of the region to be included in next year's senior forestry trip.

"The main objective of the trip was to build up a knowledge of the vegetation and to prepare a set of field notes which will be valuable in future study of the region," said Dr. Severy. "The botany department will co-operate with the forestry school in presentation of the ecology and taxonomy of various grazing types of vegetation significant in the grazing end of the forestry service," he added.

Traveling over 2,872 miles of territory in a house trailer, the instructors and students collected between 3,000 and 3,500 herbarium specimens valued at more than $300. They also took a large number of pictures of outstanding plants contained within regions of different vegetation types. These will be used for illustrations in plant ecology, systematic botany and introductory courses in biological science.

The group collected most heavily around Las Vegas, Nevada; eastern California and western Arizona. They went as far south as Phoenix, unexpectedly catching the desert flora at its best, due to recent late rains which are unusual at this time of year. Interesting observations were made of the giant cactus, one of the 35 species of cacti, and the candlewood, a somewhat grotesque type of brush growth.

"A view of the Grand canyon from the south rim and a return trip through the famed Painted Desert in north central Arizona were recreational highlights of the trip," said Dr. Severy.

Pharmacists Plan Advanced Studies After Graduation

Five pharmacy school seniors plan to do post graduate work in some of the country's leading medical schools next year, Professor W. G. Bateman announced Monday.

These men and the schools they will attend are: Robert Spicher, Missoula, Northwestern Medical school; Benjamin Morris, Greenwood, Cornell Medical school; Tom Hazelrigg, Missoula, Duke University Medical school, and Harold Bartley, Great Falls, Chicago University Medical school.

Forest L. Flashman, '37, attending for the last two years Alabama Medical school, has now transferred to Northwestern Medical school.

interview me this year—probably to your relief and to the enjoyment of your readers—and we'd better close it as we began the first one, with a plea for the preservation and strengthening of Montana traditions—all of them. There will be a lot of old 'uns here next week. They will be disappointed if they find that customs dear to them have been forgotten, but they will be delighted if they find we are carrying on."

Whadja Say, John?

By JOHN CAMPBELL

If Coach Harry Adams can complete arrangements, he will send not two, but five, Grizzly track men to the National Collegiate meet at Los Angeles June 16 and 17. Financial barriers are to be overcome before the Montana cinder mentor can hope to enter a quintet of his best performers. Erasing the intercollegiate gallery deficit in some manner, Adams will accompany Captain Al Eiselein, Jack Emigh, Ole Ueland, Jim Seyler and Wilbert Murphy to the gigantic coast event. Of these men, Jack Emigh was the only Grizzly to win laurels at the 1938 NCAA, taking third place in the 220-yard dash. But given a chance, each one of the above Montanans may do something this year.

GALLES Looks for Revenge

References to the five Grizzlies are some of the best in Montana track annals. Jack Emigh has done 9.6 in the century and 20.5 in the furlong. Al Eiselein has skimmed the high hurdles in 14.8, Jim Seyler has leaped 23 feet 2 inches in the broad jump and 6 feet 2 inches in the high jump, and the relay team of Emigh, Eiselein, Murphy and Ueland has galloped the mile in 3:16.8. Every one of these marks are state collegiate records. Montana's bid for collegiate track consideration rests on these aces but whether they place or not, you may rest assured that the performances they give will be enough to be proud of.

Horrors of Scorers! What merciless work the Golden Grizzlies wrought upon the hapless Cats of Aggietown Tuesday night! Even though the outclassed invaders lost by 60 points they, nevertheless, are to be congratulated for doing something a Bobcat team hasn't been able to do against a Montana team in six years—score. The Bobcats gave a good account of themselves in the early moments of the riot, battling the Golden Avalanche on even terms, but from then on it was murder. There can be no comparison made between the varsity and the Cats except that the speedy Bozemanites will be tougher than usual next fall; a better game, in other words.

Vexed at their season's first defeat last Sunday, the Phi Delta Theta horsehiders will be out for revenge tonight when they clash with Bonner's Lumberjacks on the university diamond. The Phi Deltas, Interfrat league titlists, last week lost to the Millhands who suddenly found their batting eyes and together with some questionable arbitrating were able to push across 10 runs. Captain Dale Galles, a handy player for any ball club around these parts, promises the fans a lively tussle tonight. Galles, who cavorts at third base, sparked in a practice game the other night and may join up with his Bonner foes later. This is the last home baseball show before school lets out, as the Store team is idle.

Plan to go fishing this weekend? If you anglers haven't found the spot you're looking for, here's a word from Les Colby, local naturalist, who, according to his column in the Daily Missoulian, should know the streams. Les says, "A real place for fishing now is Rock creek, located near Clinton, where water is at normal height. Nine Mile isn't bad, while in about a week the Blackfoot should be fine. Rock creek gave me a four-pounder Sunday."

Lou Nova, ambitious young heavyweight, and Max Baer, slap-sy clown and former heavy champ, fight tonight for a promised crack at Joe Louis. While the fans like Baer's antics and sucker punch, they respect the boxing ability of Nova. Noah Webster's lexicon says "Nova" is "a bright star which is brilliant for a short time and then fades." Our guess picks this star to win.

Sophomores Take Annual Class Meet

Jim Seyler, Al Eiselein, Bill Murphy and Ole Ueland bettered Montana records yesterday in the Interclass track meet as the sophomores won with 39 points. Freshmen were second with 32½ points, juniors took third with 27½ points and the seniors had 20 points for fourth place.

A jump of 23 feet 11 inches by Jim Seyler in the broad jump bettered his record made in the Intercollegiate meet by 9 inches. Al Eiselein, running by himself, bettered his 120-yard high hurdles record, set in the same meet, by one-tenth of a second. His time was 14.7 seconds. Bill Murphy and Ole Ueland both ran the half mile faster than the 1:58 record. Murphy ran in 1:57.1, Ueland in 1:57.4.

McDowell was high-point for the meet, winning the discus and shot put and placing second in the javelin. Seyler took second scoring honors with 12 points.

Old Students Cop Tourney Among Girls

In two consecutive victories the junior-senior team won the women's Interclass softball tournament. The freshmen, with one loss and one victory, took second place to force the sophomores into the cellar position.

In its first game the junior-senior squad defeated the sophomores, 23-18. In the second game they whipped the freshmen, 19-14, to take the league title. In the last game of the series the freshmen eked out a 10-9 victory over the sophomores.

Final Game

In the junior-senior-freshman game the upperclass women took an early lead which was threatened only once. A slugging junior-senior lineup worked behind airtight fielding and good pitching. It took advantage of loopholes in

Variance in Opinion Drawn From Alumni-Bobcat Game

"It looked to me like a group of kindergarten kids playing against a bunch of old men," said Dolores Walker about the Golden Grizzlies-Bobcat fracas Tuesday night. And that just about sums up the general opinion of the crowd that witnessed the game.

George Dahlberg, head basketball coach, dissented with the majority of spectators' conception of the alumni when he said, "They would make a fine bunch of prospects for next year's freshman team."

Harry Adams, track coach: "I think the game was played either four months too soon or six months too late. This is track season and no time to be playing football; however, I did enjoy watching the game."

Hank Blastic, alumni end: "The Bobcats were only little kittens but not very playful. If you don't get what I mean, ask Art Peterson."

"Sloppy at First"

Lawrence Toner, university custodian: "It sure did hurt me to see the Bobcats cross our goal line but then I forgot it when the alumni started to pour on the oil. They looked sloppy at first, probably due to lack of timing. Or was it that they needed the first quarter to get the edge knocked off?"

Mac McCollum, Student store manager: "I can't understand how the alumni can click like a watch after so long a layoff. They were entirely too strong for the Bobcats."

"Too Much Power"

President Simmons said, "It's the same old story: Too much manpower and experience. I thought the two teams were poorly freshman fielding to stave off a rally in the fifth inning.

Features of the game were the defensive work of Caryl Jones at first and Louise Hodson at second, the pitching of Lillian Cervenka of the juniors-seniors and Barbara Streit of the freshmen and the heavy batting of Cervenka, Streit, Ruth Shaffer, who tallied the only homerun of the tournament; Elinor Edwards, Mary Louise Day, who collected three two-base hits; Dorothy Ann Murphey with a triple, a double and a single; Lavina Hopkins and Phyllis Berg.

In the last game of the tournament the freshmen squeezed out a narrow decision over the sophomores. The second-year team captured the lead in the first inning. In the third a heavy freshman barrage, capitalizing on sophomore errors, thrust the first-year women ahead.

Outstanding Freshmen

Outstanding freshmen were Streit, who combined good pitching with strong hitting; Day, Wrigley, Berg and Murphey, whose fine defensive performance at first was equalled by that of Shirley Timm, sophomore. Other sophomore stars were Laila Belle Woods, Grace Wheeler and Kathryn Russell.

matched but enjoyed watching the former Grizzlies play again."

Bill Larson, Anaconda: "I thought the alumni looked very poor during the first quarter, but they made up for it with the fine brand of ball they played the rest of the game. I think our Grizzlies will trim the Bobcats next season but they WON'T LET THEM SCORE!"

Jimmy Spelman, alumni guard: "I think Coach Dyche was crazy to let those kids play against us."

"Bunch of Brutes"

Agnes Robinson, Stevensville: "I think the Golden Grizzlies are a bunch of big brutes, especially 'Lazzo' when he ran over that little kid and didn't even stop to pick him up."

Vernice Fifield, Billings: I was really scared the first quarter and didn't know who would win, but after the score was 47 to 7 I thought we had a good chance. Didn't you think that little Phelan was cute?"

Sis McCarthy, Butte: "Well, I don't know what to say about it. I thought it was a good game but gosh, didn't you think the moon was pretty?"

Sigma Kappa Housemother Will Attend Training School

Mrs. Rossi Schweitzer, Sigma Kappa housemother, will leave June 19 to attend a four-week summer training school for housemothers at Purdue University. This is Mrs. Schweitzer's first year on the Montana campus. She was formerly a residence hall director at Hillsdale college, Hillsdale, Michigan, in the freshman women's dormitory.

About ninety housemothers, counselors and residence hall directors will be in attendance. The school will consider the approach which the housemother may make toward problems relating to house management, including food supervision and direction of labor, student personality adjustments, development of attitudes, social advisement, individual counseling and methods of intellectual stimulation.

The course is divided into three units: House management, intra-group relationship and individual counseling. This is the first training school of this type to be organized.

Mrs. Schweitzer and her two sons, Bill, freshman at the university, and Kenneth, senior at Missoula County high school, will leave for their home in Flint, Michigan, June 10.

Former Student Wins Recognition

Jane Bateman, ex-'32, daughter of Dr. W. G. Bateman and now Mrs. Robert Henke, New York, New York, lately received distinction when one of her illustrations for the book, "Children of America," was reproduced in the May issue of New York Times Book review.

Mrs. Henke, whose works appear under her maiden name, has become well known in the last few years as an author and illustrator of children's stories. During this last school year she finished and sent to Missoula high school, from which she graduated, a large oil painting of Indians on the Flathead reservation. This work had previously been ordered by the school and now hangs in the study hall.

At the present time she has an Indian pictograph story, "The Lost Baby," running as a serial in Child Life magazine.

Holm's Watch Is Too Timely

When Professor J. N. Holm, instructor of speech, addressed the Laurel graduating class at commencement, he assured them that with the aid of a very special watch he wouldn't speak for more than several hours at the most.

At the end of the first quarter-hour, he said, a bell would ring; at the end of the first half-hour it would shoot off a gun, and at the end of the first hour it would sound a fire alarm.

Then at the end of the first half-hour of Mr. Holm's speech, while he was plastering sentiment all over the place, somewhere from without came the shrill penetrating whistle of Laurel's fire department.

The flow of sentiment stopped, and Mr. Holm, 'midst increasing roars of raucous laughter, almost unobtrusively tucked his watch back into his pocket and with an ultra-carmine countenance, continued.

W. W. Kemp Plans to Join Conference

Former Faculty Member Is Dean of Education At California

Dr. W. W. Kemp, dean of the University of California's School of Education, who was professor of education and director of the summer session at the university from 1910 to 1915, will participate in the general Montana conference on educational problems June 28, 29 and 30. This conference, the second in the field of education planned for the summer session, will follow the "Co-operative Study of Education" conference on June 26 and 27.

Other speakers to participate in the conference are Dr. Lyle W. Ashby, assistant director of publication of the National Education association, Washington, D. C.; Dr. A. R. Foss, Missoula; Ralph L. Arnold, judge of the District court of Western Montana, and Ralph Kenck, director of vocational education in Montana. Members of the University School of Education, all of whom are on the summer session staff, will take an active part in the conference.

Dr. Kemp Has Degrees

Dr. Kemp, a native son of California, holds advanced degrees from Columbia university and several other institutions. After leaving Montana in 1915, he became professor of school administration and chairman of the Department of Education of the University of California.

From 1920 to 1923 Kemp was president of San Jose State Teachers' college. Since 1923 he has been professor of school administration and dean of the School of Education at the University of California at Berkeley.

"Dean Kemp's wide experience and versatility have made him one of the leading educators of the country," said Dr. Freeman Daughters, dean of the School of Education, who organized and who will direct the conference. "He needs no introduction to numerous Missoula and Montana citizens who knew him as professor of education at the university 25 years ago."

Conference Is Ninth

This will be the ninth general conference in connection with the

HEINRICH'S

Montana Trout Bite for Singer

Fritz Krueger came out on top in his first engagement with the famed Montana fighting trout Sunday when he returned home from a trip with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bell with six trout in his basket.

"When I can bring home six nice fish, that's fine," said Krueger. But he had two complaints, "Sun's too hot and water's too cold." He's going back, he added, as soon as he learns a little more about trout fishing—"and this time I'll get my limit, I hope."

Stone Will Lead Singing at SOS

Dr. Emerson Stone, former university student, will lead songs at the Commencement SOS Saturday, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. Yells led by Walt Millar, yell king, and numbers by the German band will conclude the program.

AWS Lantern parade will begin immediately following the singing of "College Chums."

NOTICE

Undergraduate women students who plan to attend the summer session and who are under 21 years of age are required by university regulations to live in a university residence hall unless excused by the dean of women.

summer session. The conferences were initiated by Dean Daughters in 1931 with President Coffman of the University of Minnesota participating.

Among distinguished educators attending have been Dean Cleveland, Washington State college; Dr. Woody, University of Michigan; Dr. M. D. Showalter, state superintendent of public instruction in Washington; Dr. Breitwieser, dean of North Dakota's School of Education; Dr. Maxwell, dean of the School of Education at the University of Wyoming, and Dr. J. R. Jewell, dean of the University of Oregon's School of Education.

Kathryn M. Cope Gets Fellowship

Kathryn M. Cope, Missoula, has been selected as one of the 80 people from the graduating classes of universities in the United States to be awarded a fellowship in the School of Retailing of New York university, it was announced yesterday morning. Miss Cope will be graduated in home economics this June.

Miss Cope will study retailing methods and will work towards a Master of Arts degree in that field. The course, she said, is a balance between classroom and laboratory. The students attend regular classes in the morning and in the afternoons and on Saturdays they work in assigned stores.

Miss Cope has already accepted a teaching position in the home economics department at Shelby for next year. Acceptance of the fellowship will be followed by her resignation of the teaching position.

English seniors will meet at 4 o'clock today at the east door of the Library to go to the picnic across the river from the Bonner dam, according to R. A. Coleman.
