MISSOULA--

Saturday morning art sessions for youngsters from ages 3-14 are continuing at the University of Montana during spring quarter. The art programs will be from 9-11:30 a.m. beginning Saturday, April 24, in the UM Fine Arts Building.

The art programs, which will continue the first four Saturdays in May, are on the theme, "You Can Do It!"

Richard Reinholtz, associate professor of art at UM, who is director of the art enrichment program for youngsters, said drawing, painting, sculpture, creative writing, photography, body movement, music and ceramics will be included in the continuing art sessions. Cost is 75 cents per student for each Saturday session.

Additional information may be obtained by phoning the UM art office, 243-4181, or the University Center Information Desk, 243-4103.
