AMERICAN HISTORIAN CAROLINE ROBBINS
TO SPEAK THURSDAY AT UNIVERSITY

MISSOULA--

Caroline Robbins, an American historian, will present a lecture entitled "What Makes a Revolutionary" at 9:50 a.m. Thursday, July 29, in room 307 of the Natural Science Building at the University of Montana.

Miss Robbins, born and educated in England, is emeritus professor at Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania, where she taught for 43 years.

With her work on English republicanism in the 18th century, published as "The Eighteenth Century Commonwealthman" in 1959, Prof. Robbins is the historian most responsible for what is now the leading interpretation of the American Revolution. She isolated a stream of radical Whig thought which propelled the Americans to their transforming rebellion 200 years ago.

Thursday's lecture will be open to the public.
