Board Selects Staff Editors For Sentinel

George Luening, Gardiner; Bill Carroll, Butte, and Ross Lemire, Missoula, were chosen assistant editors of the Sentinel, student yearbook, by Publications board yesterday, Walt Martin, Miles City, chairman, announced last night.

This is the first year the Sentinel will have three assistant editors. Last spring, Central board approved revisions of the by-laws of the ASMSU constitution which provided for the elimination of the business manager's position on the Sentinel staff and made provision for three assistant editors.

The Sentinel editor for 1941-42 will be chosen from the three assistant editors selected yesterday. Walt Millar, Butte, is Sentinel editor this year.

Bourke Schedules First Convocation For Friday

Initial convocation of the year will be at 11 o'clock next Friday when Traditions board, Alpha Lambda Delta and entertainers put on the first of a yearly series of bi-weekly programs, Marcus Bourke, Miles City, convocations chairman, announced yesterday.

The program will consist of a short pep rally with music under the sponsorship of Traditions board, introduction of newly pledged members of Alpha Lambda Delta, women's national sophomore scholarship honorary, and fill-in numbers by student entertainers.

A convocation calendar will be drawn up within the next few weeks and any organization or individual wishing a place on it should see Bourke.

Club Will Pick New Officers

New officers will be elected and a membership drive organized at the first general meeting of the Mavericks, independent student club, at 7:30 o'clock Monday in the Bitter Root room, Bill Scott, Great Falls, president, said yesterday.

Officers of the Maverick club discussed and outlined the Maverick program for the coming year at a meeting last night. Students who met with Scott were Hazel Haydon, Missoula, social chairman; Glen Nelson, Missoula; Bob Milne, Bonner, and Roger Peterson, Great Falls.

Transfers Delay Advanced CAA

The advanced course in the Civilian Pilot Training program will probably be delayed another week because more students are expected to transfer from Washington State college and University of Idaho, where the limited commercial course has been omitted because many instructors were called to active army service, A. S. Merrill, co-ordinator between ground school and the local airport, announced yesterday.

"If there are more transfer students, our quota will be raised from 20 to 30 students," Merrill said.

Rowe Will Add To Mineral Cases

To accommodate a public which is becoming more and more interested in the appearance and utility of strategic war minerals, Dr. J. P. Rowe, professor of geology, intends to add another mineral case to the two which are now on the first floor of Main hall.

The case which Dr. Rowe hopes soon to have built will contain samples of tungsten, chromium, manganese, mercury and other vital war minerals.

The university geology department intends to continue its public service of mineral and rock identification. As many as 2,700 specimens of minerals have been identified by Dr. Rowe in one year, queries coming from all parts of the Northwest.

"While not one sample in a hundred is any good," Dr. Rowe said, "sometime there may be one that is."

All minerals in the new case will be labeled and their uses stated. Due to the great fluctuation in prices of these coveted elements, no prices will be quoted.

A Date, Not a Debt, Annoys Gambolier

Although Jerry "Red" McCulloch, Miles City, stands a good chance of losing $75 today, he was worrying last night about getting a date for a dance Friday night.

World Series games are usually bad medicine for bets, but most bets aren't bad until they become as involved as McCulloch's. The situation revolves around a dollar bet which McCulloch made with Ed Seieroe, East Helena. After the dollar wager, the students began razzing each other as to the "poor" bet the other had made.

Finally Seieroe could take it no longer. He said, "McCulloch, I'll bet you my 1930 coupe against $75 that Detroit wins this game and we'll call the dollar bet off."

"You're on," replied the sporting red-haired McCulloch.

Last night as Jerry was sitting in Corbin hall with a sad, I've-lost-my-last-friend look, one Corbinite said, "I don't think it is as bad as all that; Cincinnati has a has a good chance to win tomorrow."

"Oh," Jerry said, "I wasn't thinking about that. I was wondering where I could get a date for Friday night. I sat home all last week-end and it is beginning to look as if I'll be doing the same again this week-end."

Editor Plans New Policy

An editorial board instead of the editor will govern the policy of Sluice Box, student literary magazine, this year, Enid Thornton, Butte, editor, announced yesterday. The editorial board plan is more efficient and democratic than the single editor plan, said Miss Thornton.

Last year's Sluice Box staff members will meet in room 203 in the Journalism building at 3 o'clock today. Other students who are interested in Sluice Box will meet in the same room at 4 o'clock. Students interested in working on the business end of the campus magazine are invited to attend the 4 o'clock meeting, said Virginia Gisborne, Missoula, business manager.

Red Dog

Don Bryan, passer de luxe, will lead the Grizzlies against Texas Tech's Red Raiders in the Parents' day game here this Saturday.

LOCAL HOSPITALS DISMISS STUDENTS

Six students were released from local hospitals over the week-end. Willard Farman and Bob Holt were released from the Northern Pacific hospital; Corrine Bonde from the Thornton hospital, and Dorothy Kusher, Mary Salyers and John Page from St. Patrick's hospital.

"Good to the Last Drop" Is Slogan of Parachute Crew

Parachute fire fighter — that's how Earl Cooley, Hamilton, senior in the forestry school this year, spent his summer.

The idea of combating forest fires with the parachute brigade is revolutionary, said Cooley, who discusses his summer's work as nonchalantly as if it had been office work instead. The forest service was experimenting with the practicability of dropping two or three men at a time near the sites of small fires where the terrain makes it impossible for ground crews to get to the fire fast enough. It worked so well, he revealed, that the program will be enlarged next year.

Worked in Idaho

The base of operations was near a CCC camp in the Moose creek district, Idaho. Jumps were made in the Nez Perce and Clearwater forests, Idaho. Six jumpers, a rigger or 'chute folder and instructor formed a crew. There were eight training 'chutes.

When the forest service lookout post discovered a remote fire, a call was sent to an airport, which was situated about 55 minutes flying time away from the base, and a plane would immediately be dispatched. Johnson tri-motors and Travelair planes were used. After picking up the jumpers, the plane would fly over the fire at an altitude of about 2,500 feet, and the fire fighters would bail out. Then a 'chute with a standard forest service smoke-chaser pack, including supplies, was dropped, in order to provide food for the fighters until help came. A pack string was sent out from the base to reinforce the air crew and, usually, by the time it arrived there, the fire was extinguished and the men ready to return with the train.

Precautions Taken

Every precaution was taken by the jumpers to safeguard themselves, because they often hit the

WAA Will Offer Mixed Program Wednesday Night

"All men and women are invited to come over and play with us from 7:30 to 9 o'clock Wednesday night at the women's gym," said June Willis, Missoula, chairman of the co-recreational program.

Co-educational recreation is a new trend on the university campus. Patterned after similar programs on other campuses, it was organized last spring by WAA members. The "get-together" tomorrow night will be the first of a series of four this quarter.

The program for the evening will consist of volley ball, shuffleboard and ping-pong from 7:30 to 8:15 o'clock; old-time dancing, from 8:15 to 8:40 o'clock, and dancing from 8:40 to 9 o'clock.

Laila Belle Woods, Missoula, is in charge of the dancing and Jean Gerrish, Long Beach, California, will manage the games. Katherine Sire, Belt, and Barbara Adams, Billings, were appointed to supervise publicity in dorms, sorority and fraternity houses.

NOTICE

All new students and freshmen who have not done so are required to take the Mantoux test which will be given today by the health service.

Registration Figures Show Drop of 141

Eighteen hundred thirty-nine students were registered at the university at the end of the first week of classes, according to figures released Saturday by the registrar's office. The total compares with 1,980 who had registered by the same time a year ago, a decrease of 141 students.

As the national defense program progressed and as opportunities for jobs increased throughout the summer months, university officials, in common with college administrators throughout the nation, had anticipated a decrease in enrollment. The usual ratio of three men to two women has continued in this year's student body, with 1,135 men and 704 women registered.

The more obvious changes in enrollment in the professional schools' enrollment include an increase in the number of students in accounting and secretarial classes and a marked decrease in forestry school enrollment. Registration in the music school, especially in voice classes, was heavy.

In the college of arts and sciences a distinct drop in enrollment in French classes and a tremendous increase in the number of Spanish students was noted. Enrollment in dramatics and speech greatly increased, while other English department enrollment was down. Basic science courses also registered a decrease.

Census Bureau Hires Biologists

Four 1940 graduates of the biological science department were selected from a list of those students who successfully passed a Civil Service student aid examination for employment by the United States Census bureau, Washington, D. C., Dr. Gordon B. Castle, professor of zoology, said yesterday.

These students are Bill Peterson, Miles City, zoology; Roy Myklebust, Missoula, zoology; Joe Schmitz, Brockton, zoology, and Ralph Blayden, Helena, wild life technology.

New Hall Has Fire Saturday

Fire! Smoke poured from the windows of New hall. Saturday morning calm was shattered by girls and fire sirens shrieking in unison. Firemen dragged hoses in and out of the doorways of the upperclasswomen's residence hall. An excited crowd milled about over the lawns. Small boys were there for the excitement, and larger boys hoped that perhaps some fair damsel would need rescuing.

What had happened? Just a fire in the trash chute on the north wing of the building. It was extinguished a few moments after the fire department arrived.

"This is the first time there's been a fire in one of my halls during the 15 years I've been here," said Mrs. Belle Turner, social director of New hall. "It wasn't serious, but it might have been. I sincerely hope it never happens again."

A FREE PRESS—INDISPENSABLE TO DEMOCRACY

About 1,500 daily and 4,000 weekly newspapers in the United States celebrated last week as National Newspaper week. President Roosevelt and his opponent for the presidency, Wendell L. Willkie, wrote letters to the chairman of the National Newspaper Week committee in which they stressed the value of a free press to a democracy.

President Roosevelt wrote: "Freedom of conscience, of education, of speech, of assembly are among the very fundamentals of democracy, and all of them would be nullified should freedom of the press ever be successfully challenged.

"I have little fear that freedom of the press will ever be abridged from external assault in this country. The danger is from internal corruption. If our press exemplifies a passion for truth and justice and fair play for all, it will avoid that spiritual paralysis and decay which are the deadly enemies of our free institutions."

Wendell Willkie wrote: "News, accurate and unbiased, is the daily bread upon which a democracy feeds. Pervert the news and control the views of the press—those are the first aims in the would-be dictator's effort to undermine democracy. Lies and controlled propaganda is the stuff upon which dictatorships feed and grow fat. Freedom of the press is the staff of life for any vital democracy."

We agree with the ideas expressed on the subject by President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie, and we think we are fortunate that the presidential candidates of our major political parties appreciate the indispensability of a free press to a democracy.

Although we realize the American press is far from being perfect, we think it deserves recognition as the freest and best in the world today. We hope that a free and a better press will always be present in the United States.

Thomas Jefferson stated that a country without a government would be better than one without newspapers.

Football Player's Lament---Butch Beats Bass Drum

Butch Hudacek, 154-pound football star, ambled down the walk throwing stones which were fetched by the police dog trotting by his side. Looking up, Butch saw Clarence Bell, band director, ahead.

"Oh, Mr. Bell, wait," he yelled as the amble broke into a trot. "Mr. Bell, I'd like to play in your band during the football season."

Bell laughed—walked on. Butch was on the Grizzly team and couldn't be allowed to play in the band during football season. Mr. Bell chuckled; he had never known a football player with any knowledge of music. Other than being able to distinguish "Old Folks at Home" from the "Star Spangled Banner," football players were strictly "off the cob," Bell thought.

At their next meeting, icicles hung from Butch's greeting, which was usually friendly. Maybe Butch had been serious. Upon inquiry, Bell discovered that Butch had completed his football eligibility.

So Butch was called into Bell's office. "What do you want to play?" Bell asked.

"The big bass drum," Butch answered enthusiastically.

With the huge drum knocking against his short legs, Butch now marches in the band.

"Although Butch had never beat a drum before, he keeps perfect time," says Bell. "He has a tendency to set the beat a bit fast but with experience will be a very fine drummer."

I'm Right---You're Wrong

BY K. KIZER

This week will see the makin's of either a winning Grizzly or a losing Grizzly. Now that Montana has barely won an easy game and scarcely lost a hard game, there is only one thing left for them to do—beat Texas Tech, Idaho, Gonzaga, Bobcats and the others. It's a tough diet, but Grizzlies have thrived on that same diet before and they have to do it again. And it can't be next year. The coming games are going to weed the men from the little boys on the Montana roster and when that weeding is done, it will be a sad Texas Tech club that finds it has raided the wrong roost.

There may be a reason for "fifth columnist" activities at Pullman last Saturday. There may be a reason for injuries. But there is no substitute or reason for lack of punch on the 10-yard line. Even a sand-lot team gets inspired and scores from the first stripe. Montana played good ball, but so long as two or three linemen and a couple of backs are "outstanding," they won't play winning ball. A football squad is a team.

Western Montana will witness a "Little Series" here at Campbell field tomorrow afternoon when the American All-Star aggregation works around the Missoula Pirates in the last of any kind of baseball until next spring. The Missoulians worked out last Sunday and found that they weren't so rusty as they thought they were going to be. Larry Potter and Clyde Hinton were catching all Lou Olsen and Nick Mariana had to offer. The bases will be filled by Lefty Bond, first; Doug Campbell, second; Eddie Schmoll, third, and Dick Rigg at short. Bill Ahders, Fred Jenkin and Ray Olser will play out in the garden.

"Chubby" Dean, Johnny Babich and Jack Wilson are among the most talented hurlers who will appear here with the majors. Dean is a former Duke university hurler and was used as a pinch-hitter by Connie Mack in the Philadelphia club this past season. Wilson came to the Boston Red Sox in 1935 and was their leading pitcher with 11 victories against six losses. Babich has been throwing curves for the Athletics. Rollie Hemsley will catch. Flit Cramer of the Red Sox and Bob Johnson of the Athletics will also be present.

October 12 is Montana's annual Parents' day, the one week-end out of the year when the university is host to all the parents of the students. Plans are that there is to be a blocked-off section on the 50-yard line for Mamma and Papa. Immediate families of the grid men will have a lapel ticket with their son's football jersey number on it. A great show is in the offing. Any student wishing further information is asked to call Johnny Kujich or Rae Greene in the near future.

Cub Coach Jimmy Brown has had his novice squad doing double duty as dummies for varsity plays and learning fundamentals as well.

Grizzlies Fall Before WSC Attack

MSU Threatens to Score But Lacks Vital Punch As Bryan, Reagan Shine

Montana's fighting Silvertips couldn't muster enough power in the crucial moments, so Washington State won 13-0 in the game played at Pullman Saturday. The Cougars, outplayed a greater part of the contest, made the most of a pair of long touchdown drives to win in a spectacularly played game. About 7,500 people, including 150 Montana fans, were thrilled by the hocus-pocus tactics of both teams.

The day was ideal for football; the sun shone brightly and only a slight breeze was blowing. Although Rogers field was a bit soft from rains earlier in the week, it did not hinder the running and passing attacks.

Montana has won only once in the 24 times the two teams have met, and for the first 26 minutes it looked as if the Grizzlies were headed for their second victory. Don Bryan outkicked Washington State's brilliant punting star, Bill Sewell, to set the stage for a Montana threat which reached the three-yard line with a first down.

Grizzlies Miss Chance

Two running plays lost eight yards and Coach Doug Fessenden rushed John Reagan into the Montana backfield. Reagan passed to Jack Swarthout to regain the eight yards, but Montana lost the ball when Reagan couldn't handle a low pass from center and Earle Stone, Cougar pivot, fell on the fumble.

The vaunted WSC passing game, which was so effective against Southern California, couldn't make headway against the Grizzly pass defense. The first three aerial attempts of Babe Hollingbery's lads ended in a Montana man's arms. But when Washington State tried the terra firma, they stopped only after reaching pay dirt.

Washington State Scores

Sewell, Ford, Sexton and Felix Fletcher found the Montana line vulnerable. Only once did they have difficulty in making a first down in a 68-yard scoring jaunt that took 10 plays and three minutes. Near the mid-stripe the Cougars had a fourth down and two to go. Sexton took a chance and wheeled nine before Montana could drag him down. Sewell scored after traveling 14 yards on a wide cutback run around right end. Big Stan Johnson, WSC tackle, kicked the extra point with a minute left in the first half.

The other score came after four minutes of the third quarter. Hollingbery had his second backfield in when Frank Akins galloped 33 yards to the Montana 17 before being overhauled by John Duncan. Three plays lost a yard for the Cougars and then a forward pass, Akins to Bunk Holmes, plus a lateral to Don Greeley, put the ball on the Montana three-yard line. Les McLennan failed on two smashes but leaped over on the third try. Johnson's kick was partially blocked and went wide.

Montana blew a chance to score in the third period when Captain Tom O'Donnell broke through to block Akins' punt on the Grizzly 34-yard line and the ball bounded to the Washington State 31. The Grizzlies failed to utilize the break after Jack Emigh passed to Roy Gustafson for a six-yard gain. Eso Naranche was stopped cold at the line of scrimmage and two passes fell incomplete.

Final Quarter Wild

Early in the fourth period WSC tossed a series of laterals for a gain of 51 yards and it looked like another Cougar score, as Washington State reached the 12-yard line before the Grizzlies held. Five plays later Montana's Reagan pitched a pass to Swarthout, who lateraled the ball to Karl Fiske in a play which netted 25 yards. In the final minutes both teams were passing and fumbling wildly.

Although Bryan and Sewell got off some beautiful kicks, averages of both teams were low, 29 yards for Montana and 33 yards for Washington State. The game was clean and hard-fought without any serious injuries resulting.

Big "Biff" Hall played stoutly in the Montana line with O'Donnell and Duncan. Swarthout played his usual fine game, alternating at end and halfback, while Bryan and Reagan were effective for the Grizzlies. Stone was the backbone of the Cougars' strong forward wall.

Fessy III "Comes Out" For Dornblaser Debut

Fessy III will give a good account of herself at the Texas Tech-Montana State university football game this coming week-end, Trainer Fritz Krieger, Park City, testified yesterday. If indications of the battle put up by Fessy at her formal debut at the Cheney game two weeks ago run true to form, it will be another beautiful fight. Honors were about even last time, but Fessy has had much more time to put on weight.

Fessy III was obtained from the "See 'Em Alive Zoo" at Red Lodge, Montana, through the courtesy of Manager L. W. Lyons. She is to be kept until after football season, says John Kujich, Great Falls, who was instrumental in getting her.

He's a She

A few personal items about the new mascot: he is a "she," weighs in the neighborhood of 140 pounds, is a black bear, and is only seven months old. A twin resides at the zoo, no doubt wondering what happened to his lost sister.

Apples are the big treat as far as Fessy is concerned. Her menu list also includes bread and milk, lettuce and other greens, vegetables and sweets, all donated by business concerns in Missoula. Krieger feeds her twice and exercises her once during the day.

A big day for Fessy came when she broke out of her cage at the golf course and roamed at leisure for a while. Then came small boys who chased her. By the time Krieger could get to her, she had holed up in a neighbor's dog house and defied all means of luring her back until some candy proved to be the right kind of bait.

Will Not Join Others

Fessy III will not join her illustrious predecessors of 1937 and 1939 in the wilds, but will be returned to the "See 'Em Alive" zoo at the conclusion of the football season.

Krieger claims that "Doug," as he calls her, is a perfect "lady." He maintains this is brought about by his knowing what she wants to do and then letting her do it—most of the time. She has grown quite accustomed to his caresses and he can even go so far as to take a pan of food away from her.

Fessys I and II were complete failures so far as training goes, which was apparent by their hatred of everyone—even their trainers—and their final jaunt to the forests.

Kathie Reminisces; Knows Cooking, Clothes, Beaux

"I've been on the campus for almost 19 years," says Mrs. Katie Fahlander, maid at North hall, "and I've seen a lot of people come and go. The girls haven't changed much, I guess, but I sure know everything about college clothes—and beaux—"

Eighteen years ago, Mrs. Fahlander, or Katie, as she is affectionately known to the girls of North hall, was cooking at Craig hall. At that time Craig was a freshman women's dormitory, with a cafeteria in the basement.

Did Fancy Cooking

"I did real fancy cooking there," the little white-haired Irishwoman remembers. "We made lots of pastry and muffins. Boys like a bigger variety of food than girls, and they're more particular. We were cooking in the cafeteria for lots of kids that didn't go home for lunch. There weren't so many dormitories then and more people were living downtown and going to school. When North hall was built, I came over here and cooked. I've been here ever since."
