Dick O'Loughlin, Missoula, program chairman, has plans drawn for a full day of fun for every freshman taking part. O'Loughlin promises that "following the fun, which includes open-air dancing, everyone present will be encouraged to eat his fill from the ample stock of grub that will be on hand."

Jack Buzzetti, Hardin, ticket chairman, stated that tickets would be sold until Friday noon. All salesmen are asked by Buzzetti to meet in the lounge at 4 o'clock today. All possible sales money should be turned in at this time.

Cats Are The Guinea Pigs In Doc Browman's Lab

"Yes," said Dr. Ludvig G. Browman, assistant professor of zoology and physiology, "We in comparative anatomy skin our own cats."

Students in the course are dissecting embalmed cats in their study of the development of the mammal body from the simpler forms of life. Browman said that cat muscles are similar to the muscles of a human being and that the work is of great value to students planning to become surgeons.

There is one cat to each two students and this specimen must last all quarter. After the day's work is done, the cat is put away and saved until the next lab period when it is retrieved and identified by tag. Later, said Browman, the students will be so familiar with their specimen that the tag will be unnecessary; by that time the dissector will know every inch of the cat's body and will be familiar with every incision.

The cats, probably picked up in the alleys of Chicago, were purchased embalmed, but not skinned, from a Chicago firm.

They are injected with colored latex which tints the arteries red and the veins blue. The elastic qualities of the latex keeps the cat

Inquest Into Death Of Hirning Begins Tonight

The inquest into the slaying of Clarence Hirning, university student who was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant in front of the SAE house early yesterday morning, will start at 7:30 o'clock tonight, Coroner Ella M. Stucky said yesterday. The inquest will be in the courthouse.

Police reported yesterday that they believed the .32-calibre slug which killed Hirning had come from a revolver, because they did not find an ejected cartridge case nor the weapon used in the killing. A shell would have been ejected if an automatic had been used.

The officers continued their search for prowlers who had been seen in the vicinity of the crime about the time of the slaying. Two men were arrested early yesterday morning for any possible connection with the crime.

MUSIC BELONGS TO THE WORLD NOT TO ANY ONE COUNTRY

On Easter Sunday, the Philharmonic Symphonic orchestra devoted an hour to playing music by Wagner, famous German composer. Deems Taylor, intermission broadcaster, said that he soon received twelve letters contending that Wagner's music should not be played in America because Wagner had been a German and because Hitler constantly listens to and claims to become inspired by Wagner's compositions.

However, 325 letters commended the orchestra and hoped that it would play good music irrespective of the nationality of the composer.

In figuring radio fan mail, Taylor said it is usual to say that one protesting letter represents 100 people who feel the same way and that one letter saying the program was liked represents 1,000 persons who liked the program but who didn't write.

Taylor said it was gratifying to see that the overwhelming proportion of the people recognized the fact that music knows neither country nor nationality but belongs to the world.

We commend Taylor for denouncing the false patriotism, narrow-mindedness, prejudice and hate which he called our real fifth columnists. We must remember that the ones who think as the twelve did are greatly outnumbered but we should also keep in mind the fact that they are the noisiest one and that their noise may give them more power than their numbers justify.

So if intolerance sweeps this country again as it did in the last war to a too large extent and this vociferous minority clamors that we ban German music, change the name of sauerkraut to liberty cabbage and cease teaching German in our schools, let's remember that the majority of the people are sensible and fair minded, that it is not inconsistent to hate Hitler and totalitarianism and yet respect the German people and love German music.

What Audiences Never See

Thousands of Little Shows, Acted Backstage,
Precede First-Night Performance; Rehearsal
Hustle Provides Unseen Drama

By BETTY BLOOMSBURG

Bursts of song, feet scuffling on the boards of the stage, dancers whirling under the bright border lights, orders barked loudly to a whispering chorus, the scream of a saw biting through a tough two-by-four, coffee and cigarettes, sawdust and shavings, canvas patches and paint—these sights and sounds form a background for a thousand little shows that go on during the rehearsals for a big show.

A heavy arch "flown" by ropes from the grid high above the stage, resting half on the floor, half in the air, threatens to topple over and smash a dozen chorus members. A brief, breathless silence while the pin-rail crew above the stage hauls desperately at the ropes that hold the arch. A slow relieved sigh as the arch rights itself, sways a moment, stands firmly on its two legs.

The orchestra is tuning up, the drummer winking at the chorus girls. A singer is being "bawled out" for exchanging gossip with his duet partner. A dancer trips over his feet while gazing into the eyes of his girl friend. Two directors, one mouthing a cigar, the other holding a cigarette, shout at each other above the crescendos of the chorus, while a third director waves calmly at the orchestra with a baton in one hand, a cigar in the other.

Backstage, a girl in paint-spotted slacks hits her thumb with a hammer and is comforted by a tall "grip" in bib overalls and a beret. The wet paint runs streakedly down the face of a canvas-and-wood flat standing upright against the wall, the stage manager curses and buries his head in his hands. Two other stagehands fight an impromptu duel with thin pieces of wood. Under stage in the carpenter shop, someone is asleep on a pile of heavy black drapes.

These are some of the scenes within a show—the scenes that no one ever writes about, the scenes that are never thought of when the first-night curtain goes up—the show the audience never sees.

Remount Station

Press club members will visit the Forest Service Remount Ranger station on their annual field trip Sunday. The Remount station is the only one of its kind in the United States.

Press Group To Take Field Trip

Journalists Will Leave
Sunday Morning; Kelly
To Give Address

Cars will leave the Journalism building at 10 o'clock Sunday to go to the United States Forest Service Remount station, approximately 30 miles from Missoula, for the annual Press club field trip, Irene Pappas, Butte, president, said yesterday.

Highlights of the occasion will be the address of Major Evan Kelly, regional forester, to the scribes and demonstration of equipment and procedure in fire fighting and control. Students will also see the packing of mules and trucks and the use of parachutes, although no jumps will be made.

The Remount station, built in 1931, is the only one of its kind in the United States, because it operates like a city fire department. When a fire call comes in, equipment and animals are loaded and rushed to the scene of the blaze. Rangers at the station care for livestock in connection with winter range. They determine the best breeds for certain forest localities.

A CCC camp of approximately 200 men and the ranger crew care for the 6,000-acre station.

All scribes desiring to go must sign with Charline Johnson, journalism school secretary, by this afternoon. Press club members pay 50 cents for the trip; non-members, $1.

Walter Niemi, Butte, will report on the arrangements for the State High School debate tournament here during Interscholastic week. Members of Tau Kappa Alpha will judge the preliminary rounds again this year, said Scott.

George Mushback, director of the bison range at Moiese and superintendent of refuges in western Montana, will show his films of wild life and scenery at a meeting of Phi Sigma, national biological honorary, at 7 o'clock tonight in Natural Science 307, Allen Chesbro, Raynesford, president, said yesterday.

Actives of the science honorary are asked to be present at the meeting for the election of officers, said Gene Elliott, Billings, vice-president. Pledges should also be there.

The movie films were taken by Mushback on wild-life refuges under his supervision, and on others he has visited. The films include pictures of the only herd of Texas longhorn cattle existing, which were taken somewhere in Kansas, said Elliott.

Communications

Dear Kaimin,

It is with a feeling of beaten submission, certainly not in keeping with democratic principles, that we, as individual young men, watch the ever-growing trend in our country toward active participation in the present European conflict.

We are agreed that such participation would end our democratic way of life, at least for the duration. We know that it would also bring economic chaos much worse than that brought by World War I. We have already felt the decay of social foundations caused by conscription, which is only a shadow of the breakdown that would follow participation.

Wishing to do everything in our power to prevent the collapse of our social, economic, and political standards, we have written a letter, a copy of which is enclosed, to President Roosevelt. We hope that other persons and organizations sharing our belief, will follow our example and exercise their democratic rights.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

We, the undersigned members of the Men's Co-operative House at the State University of Montana, believing that our entrance into the present armed conflict will endanger not only our national security but our democratic ideals as well, rather than preserving either; ask you as President of the United States to do everything in your power to prevent such entrance.

Very sincerely yours,

The GRIZZLY PARADE

By J. ROY ELMS

Followers of Idaho football are really getting worked up over the prospects of the Vandals for next fall. After several weeks of hard work on the gridiron, Francis Schmidt, Idaho's new coach, put the Vandals through an intra-squad game Saturday. Two thousand fans turned out for the game, more than twice as many as turned out for a regular game on the Idaho schedule last fall.

Sig Keglers Knock Over PDT Five

Two Bowling Quintets Will Meet for Interfrat Championship

Sigma Chi keglers bowled their way into the Interfraternity finals last night by taking three straight from Phi Delta Theta. The two teams had tied for the second-half title after the Phi Delts had won the first half. They will tangle soon for the championship.

The Sigs jumped into the lead early and increased it until the last pin fell. They took the opening game 843 to 795, the second, 893 to 815 and the last one, 939 to 829. The final score for the three games, which really determines the winner, favored the Sigma Chi quintet 2,765 to 2,425.

Sig's John Duncan led the bowlers for the night by turning in a collective score of 579. Duncan bowled 226 in the second game for the highest single-game score. Henry Loble, 551, Danny Dykstra, 549, Pete Forbis, 523, and Art Merrick, 473, composed the Sigma Chi quint.

The Phi Delts were led by Don Bryan, who bowled 527. Charles Turner, 502, Dale Galles, 484, Ben Stephens, 481, and Sutton Hammond, 431, were other members of the Phi Delta Theta team.

BUSINESS AD GRADS ARE MARRIED

Lois R. Knauf, '37, and L. Stuart Volkel, '38, both business administration majors, were married recently in Missoula. Mrs. Volkel was employed by the United States Forest Service. Volkel works at the Smith Drug stores.

Kenneth E. Lord, '33, is manager of a motor supply house in Great Falls.

A team, handled by Schmidt, composed mostly of veterans of last fall's team, easily whipped the other squad 20-0. Straight football accounted for the initial two touchdowns while the final was the result of an 80-yard dash.

The teams were reported to have used typical Schmidt razzle-dazzle football, using many reverses and a wide open type of play.

The Vandals finished strong last year, after going scoreless for more than half the season. They found themselves against Montana when they scored three touchdowns before a Dornblaser Homecoming crowd. They climaxed the season with a victory over Nevada and nearly upset Utah, champions of the Big Seven, in their final game. In fact they led the Utes through the first half, before succumbing to a last half rally 13-7.

So, it is possible that Schmidt may have more material at the Vandal institution than most people suspect. Bob Wethern, sports editor of the "Idaho Argonaut," is not one of the people who think so, however. Wethern got pretty huffy in his sports column with Clark Lobb of the "Utah Chronicle" when Lobb suggested that in spite of Schmidt, the Vandals were in for another bad year. He suggested that Lobb attend the opening game in Moscow between the Vandals and Utah so he could "razzle" Lobb while the Vandals "dazzle" the Utes.

While I'm on the subject of Idaho, the track meet the Grizzlies have been pointing to all season is coming up Saturday with the Vandals in Moscow. The Vandals barely nosed Eastern Washington college Saturday 67-64. The Grizzlies easily beat the Savages by 20 points in the opening meet on Dornblaser. However, Leibowitz, Idaho's star distance man, was not entered in the meet. At that the Vandals swept the distances to cinch the meet. Looks like co-Captain Ueland will be hard pressed to pick up the seconds for the Grizzlies.

Phi Delts Shellac Theta Chis In Title Game

Phi Delta Theta maintained a steady pace toward the Interfraternity softball championship yesterday by crushing Theta Chi 33-2 in a game called at the end of the fourth inning.

Both of Theta Chi's scores came in the first, while Phi Delts hit Anderson, TX chucker, at will and scored seven runs in the first, seven in the second, nine in the third and 10 in the fourth.

Barney Ryan, PDT hurler, was his usual effective self, baffling nearly all opposing batters.

Sutton Hammond, Phi Delt centerfielder, hit for the circuit.

New CAA Program Established

Setup Offers Training On Scholarship Basis In Five Courses

Dr. A. S. Merrill, co-ordinator of the CAA flight training course, announced recently that a more advanced program of courses, known as the Civilian Flight Training program, has been established under the Department of Commerce.

The new plan provides scholarships for ground and flight training in five courses: Private, secondary, cross-country, student instructor and final review. The private and the secondary courses are part of the CAA setup now in progress.

Acceptance of all but the primary course is dependent on graduation from the preceding course, Dr. Merrill said. Successful completion of the entire series of courses will prepare the trainee to take an examination for a Civil Aeronautics commercial certificate of competence and an instructor's rating.

The courses are exclusively for men and will comprise cross-country trips of 300 miles or more. The aircraft used will be heavier, with engines of 240 or more horsepower.

Dr. Merrill has received no definite information concerning the program's relation to the course here.

"With primary and secondary courses now in session, it is expected that the more advanced courses in the series will be given during summer and autumn," Dr. Merrill said. "Definite plans for the summer have not arrived, but announcements should be forthcoming within the next few weeks."

Streit's Life Is Published In Magazine

One of the most recent articles written about the life of Clarence K. Streit, '19, appeared in the April-May issue of Quill and Scroll magazine, official publication of the international honorary society for high school journalists.

The article about the Missoula high and university graduate was written by Alyce Schmutz and Edith Roth, staff members of "The Konah," Missoula High school newspaper, and in it was mentioned Streit's 96-page book, "Hafiz—The Tongue of the Hidden," a translation in quatrains from the poetry of one of the greatest of the Persian poets.

Published in 1928, "Hafiz—The Tongue of the Hidden" is an English translation of some of the poems of the famous Persian poet Hafiz and includes a sketch of the poet's life. It was written by Streit during a one-year's residence in Westchester which followed several years of foreign correspondent work in Europe.

John C. Hauck, '34, is practicing law and is associated with an electric company in Butte.

Otto McLean, '27, is manager of a gasoline company in Pasadena.
