Central Board to Receive Recommendations Today

Budget and Finance Committee will recommend to Central Board this afternoon a return to 45 per cent of student activity funds for athletics, 16 per cent for Sentinel and 8 per cent for Kaimin. The committee will recommend 50 and 100 dollar appropriations for coffee hour and Mountaineer.

Decisions favoring these recommendations were made in a committee meeting yesterday morning, where revision of the 1945-46 budget approved last spring was considered.

Coffee hour and Mountaineer expenses will come from the general operating fund, which, according to committee figures, amounts to $2,604.

Kaimin, Sentinel and athletics appropriations should be figured on the pre-war percentages, the committee decided. This will increase the budgets of athletics and the Kaimin, but will leave the Sentinel budget virtually the same.

The largest appropriation from the general fund will pay federal tax on activity card admissions to affairs that sell tickets. The committee estimated this at $1,695. It may, however, be less if taxes are paid only on admission receipts.

Other appropriations from general fund which will be considered later are operating expenses for the ice skating rink, band funds, oratory and debate, winter, spring quarter coffee hour and Mountaineer.

A Mountaineer representative meeting with the committee asked that the publication be put on the regular budget, to be considered as a regular appropriation rather than one from the general fund. It was decided that such action could not be taken until the next budget is drawn for 1946-47 next spring.

Mountaineer also asked the privilege of soliciting advertising and the committee agreed to recommend the move to Publications Board.

Grizzlies Play Hard in Losing to Utah State 44-13 On Muddy Field Saturday

Kaimin Writer Says Team Was Not Outclassed As Score Indicates, Statistics Support This View. Will Meet Idaho Vandals Saturday

BY DICK CONKLIN
Outscored but not outfought, the Montana Grizzlies went down in defeat, 44-to-13, by the Utah State Aggies in the Aggie stadium at Logan, last Saturday.
The Grizzlies received the opening kickoff and failed to gain, punted to the Utags' 22-yard line. In just four plays, the Aggies crossed the Montana goal line for their first score. Despite this disheartening set-back, the Grizzlies marched down the field only to see their hopes vanish when Aggie fullback Caputo intercepted a pass on the 10-yard line and ran it back to the 32. Utah worked back up the field and scored again on a 30-yard pass to Captain Putnik in the end zone. The green Grizzlies seemed completely baffled by the Utags' trick model T offense.
Utah recovered a Montana fumble on the next kickoff, and two plays later Hoopiana sprinted 35 yards for the third Aggie score. Just a couple of minutes later, the fourth counter in the first period came when the Utags intercepted another Montana pass. The first quarter score was 24-to-0.
In the second quarter the Aggie passing combination of Bell and Putnik clicked for another touchdown boosting the Utags lead to 30-0.
After being out played in the early part of the game, the Montana Grizzlies came to life in the last minutes of the first half. Halfback Galagher hit Thorsud with a pass which was good for 30 yards and the next play completed one to Wally Stephens. Stephens scored on a lateral play and Preuninger converted just before the half ended, making the count 30-to-7. In that 75-yard march down the field in the second quarter, the Grizzlies won the hearts of the crowd as a team which wasn't kicked even if they were 30 points behind.
The third quarter started out just like the first, with the Utags scoring twice more on lightning thrusts through the dazed Grizzly defense. A Grizzly drive late in the third stanza bogged down on the Farmers' 17 and the quarter ended with Montana again in possession of the ball on the Utags' 40-yard line.
The fourth quarter was slowed by excessive fouling but the Grizzlies finally pushed across another score in the last minute.
Outstanding for the Utags were (please see page four)

Convo Comments

BY JEAN BESSIRE

(A note . . . In order to live up a dead story routine, that of writing up the events of Friday's convocation in the Kaimin which the student body would grab upon exit from same convo, it was suggested that the material be handled with the slant of a critic's review. That is, handing bouquets where the poseys are due, and slinging polite slander in the direction of bad taste. Tastes will be tastes, and as individual opinions differ most violently at times, let it be said, for the sake of the author, that these are merely the jottings of an average convo sitter.)
Of main interest at Friday's convocation were the impressions given by Joseph Kinsey Howard on Washington, D. C., its Senate committees and sub-committees. Mr. Howard, author of "Montana, High, Wide and Handsome," and head of the Montana Study research development on the campus, has recently returned from Washington where he was invited to appear among proponents of the Missouri Valley Authority.
Professing his belief that the project was for the "Old River's" well-being, Mr. Howard discussed the MVA with much tolerance, granting both opposition and prejudice. A casual figure standing to one side of the speaker's pulpit, he spoke with hands planted in his back pockets, rocking forward and back on his heels for emphasis.
Of the treatment the MVA bill received at the hands of the congressional committee, Mr. Howard explained that nobody ever appeared before a congressional committee and emerged believing in the brotherhood of man.
His main objective upon reaching the busy city was to deliver a speech of an hour and 20 minutes to the Senate committee. He had also time to learn the workings of Senate committees and sub-committee hearings, of underpaid congressmen who, he thinks, should be more in touch with the temper (please see page three)

Present-Day Poem To Be Featured In Second Recital

Louis MacNiece's "Autumn Journal," a contemporary poetic work, will be presented in the second in the series of poetry recitals by Professors John Moore and Baxter Hathaway of the English department tonight at 8 o'clock in Library 103.
MacNiece, one of the outstanding present-day English poets, reflects in this poem the state of mind of the English people at the time of the Munich conference and the Spanish Revolution.
In a larger sense he attempts to formulate the principal problems that face modern man.
The recital is open to students, faculty and townspeople.

Discussion Tonight On Church's Place In World Today

Phyllis Rae Aden, traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer Movement, will be in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union tonight at 7:30 to discuss the vocational opportunities available through the church.
This discussion is for students from church groups and persons interested in possible development of an integrated religious program on this campus.
At the present time there is no religious organization on MSU's campus to sponsor such a discussion. Miss Aden will talk about the religious programs on other campuses, and give suggestions for the development of such a group here.
Discussions of this nature will be continued in the future. A group or council will be organized at the university which will help students to relate religious work on this campus with church activities of the nation and the world.

WAA Election Tomorrow

The polls will be open to elect a new treasurer for WAA on Wednesday from 8 to 5.
Enid Williams, Butte, and Alice Anderson, Billings, are candidates to replace Peg Connors who did not return this year.
To be eligible to vote a woman must have paid her WAA dues this fall and have earned at least one participation credit last year.
The voting table will be placed in the Coke Shop and will be supervised by WAA board members.
The Ski Club will meet Thursday evening in the Bitterroot Room of the Student Union.
All veterans are urged to meet in the Bitterroot Room Wednesday at 5:15 p. m.

"The proceeds from this drive will be added to the money raised by the Missoula committee, but the university will be given credit for the money raised on the campus," a spokesman for the drive stated.
Proceeds are to go to the USO and hospital benefits all over the country.
Representatives have been appointed in each sorority and fraternity house to collect for the drive. Independent students will turn in their money at the table in the Student Union store. Members of Mortar Board will be in charge of this table.
The present drive will be the last War Fund campaign.

Silk Screen Prints Being Exhibited

An exhibition of silk-screen prints will be shown in the Fine Arts Auditorium from October 16-19 by Mr. Ray B. Haight, area supervisor of the War Relocation Authority.
The prints were produced by Japanese-Americans who were working for the Navy. The work consists of such projects as: Making camouflage nets, designing posters and illustrative material for naval training programs. The prints are not those made by the Navy, but are works of art that some of the people turned out in their spare time. They are interesting, not only because of the silk screen process, which is fairly new, but as evidence that many people have a definite contribution to make to our cultural development.
Mr. Haight is also exhibiting some of these pictures in the Art Department at the high school.
NOTICE
The Kaimin staff will meet at "you know where" this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Meet the bus at Main Hall and we'll all go down together.—Blair.

"A Thing of Beauty Is a Joy Forever"

Last spring and again in Friday's paper we announced our intention of promoting the erection of a university chapel. We are ready to begin on this project. We are extending an invitation to students and the people of Montana to work with us.

The chapel we have in mind will not be a church in the usual sense. It will be small, sedate, and beautiful. It will be designed to blend into the life of the campus, to provide a place for quiet reverie. It will become the traditional setting for student marriages, the domicile of a university choir, a place where restful organ music might be heard.

It will, of course, be non-sectarian, open to all faiths.

This is the ideal, the dream. The following are the cold facts which must be worked out before the dream can become a reality:

1. A large sum of money will undoubtedly have to be raised. Just how much we are not certain, but a conservative guess would place the figure in the neighborhood of $20,000.
2. Land, on which to build the chapel, would have to be secured. This should not be a difficult problem. The university should be willing to provide land for a structure that would not cost it a cent, one that will add so much to campus life and beauty.
3. State laws governing things of this nature would have to be investigated. As far as we know there is no law barring chapels on the university campus, but the matter would have to be investigated.
4. An organization for raising funds would have to be formed. This is where you, the student body, can be most useful. Through home connections, friends, etc., the thousand-odd students of MSU should have little difficulty financing the undertaking.

We have attempted to give you a blueprint of our plan. We would like to have suggestions from you. We want you to work with us in giving to the university a building that will, with the passing years, become the most beloved and cherished on the campus.

Eye Opener

Yesterday we attended a meeting of the budget and finance committee. The committee was considering how much money to give various activities for the coming year. We were there to grind our axe, not to report the meeting, but as the thing developed we let our grinding slip and took a greater interest in the things that were happening. We learned, for instance, that the Associated Students of Montana State University are just about broke. We mean literally that they don't have any money left. This fact was brought out convincingly when the committee considered an application by the Mountaineer editor for funds to permit publication of the magazine. The committee found that after the traditional activities had been provided for, there was almost nothing left for the Mountaineer or any other new groups which might have a claim to ASMSU support. There simply wasn't enough money to go around.

The present setup provides that athletics get 45 per cent of ASMSU funds, the Sentinel 16 per cent and the Kaimin 8 per cent. The remaining 31 per cent is distributed among the band, debate, Masquers and other established, though not necessarily popular, activities.

Two solutions to this shortage of cash seem to present themselves: raise the student activity fee or reapportion the dole to existing organizations. We prefer the former, although some reapportionment seems in order.

The problem is one that will touch all of us. It is one that demands full student thought.

Beating the Brush with Brutsch

At present, I am of the opinion that participation by students in campus affairs pertaining to our student government is at a low ebb. Somebody must get the ball rolling, and although suggestions are welcome, from faculty members and from outside interests, the students especially should make the advances they feel necessary and take actual steps toward growth and improvements in our university.

Unwieldy Setup

We are dependent on Central Board, as our administrative body, to bring ideas into actions, to be the culminating force in getting things done. Our representatives should be what the word implies—the voice of the classes, the persons who are attune to new ideas and present them to the body as a whole for consideration and for actual remedial or progressive steps.

It is possible that if the members of Central Board were elected, not only as representatives of the classes, but also as chairmen of committees, a more unified and purposeful group might be obtained. With definite campus activities as a part of their duties, they would know the sentiments of that particular group. Interests of the members would be varied, yet each would have field in which he knew the functions from the ground up.

As it stands now, the set-up is unwieldy. The heads of committees, Convocation, Student Betterment, Traditions, etc., are apointive, functioning separately without coordination with associated committees or Central Board. By incorporating the job of representative and chairman of a committee into one, both would gain, making Central Board and committees operate more harmoniously.

Representative Voice

Members of the board, not thoroughly understanding all problems, do not even take a determined stand on those problems which they have some knowledge. The interest shown in situations which it is their right to vote upon is negligible. As members of the board, they should follow up the problems presented to the board, problems of the students as a whole and obtain knowledge of the functions, the desirable and undesirable changes and improvements that are suggested.

Naturally, these representatives can not follow their classmates around, taking notes continually, but in situations in which they have not a working knowledge, it is their business to track down a few facts, to formulate a few ideas of their own, to sound out others and decide for themselves by popular or majority opinion what stand to take.

Information Needed

It follows that students who have ideas and want to see constructive action should go to their representatives who, I believe, will be more than happy to bring the ideas to Central Board. Personal attendance at meetings is not discouraged although the business on hand is slowed considerably and the very purpose of representation is lost.

We have a Student Government plan here. Why don't we make use of it and stop depending on others to take the initial steps? Faculty members are invaluable with their mature opinions and foresight, but where is the spirit of youth on this campus?

of the people back home, and of Washington, where even the taxi drivers insist on telling one how the country should be run.

The convo was blown open with a gust like an autumn wind with Norman Gulbrandson, the music department's new faculty find, trotting up and down the aisles hunting for prospective bases, tenors, and monotones to pep up the alma mater songs. The group singing had more zest than these ears have heard around these halls for years.

The high light of most any program in which she appears, Janet Brazelton, melted her rich contralto voice into the tones of "Danny Boy," "Can't Help Loving That Man of Mine," and again for an encore of "I'll See You Again."

HUDDLE STEAM

BY DON WESTON

Tackling and defensive work is the Grizzly order of the day. The problem at Logan was to get the ball; when Montana did get it they were always on the march.

Poor quarterbacking slowed them up; time and again the Grizzlies would rip down the field only to lose the ball on a poorly timed pass in the very shadow of the goal posts.

Lack of experience was, of course, the biggest factor. Costly fumbles gave the Aggies several unearned touchdowns. Those who saw the Utah State game declare that the Grizzlies suffered every imaginable bad break and the game was much closer than the score indicated.

The Moscow crowd is confident that this Saturday's game is one they are sure to win. Nothing would please Montana more than to knock Idaho off its high horse—and we can do it. The Grizzlies have real offensive power in clever backs like Gallagher and Stephens and potential defensive strength, which is getting a real working over this week, in men like Kirkemo, Krause and Rist.

BEAT IDAHO is the watchword this week. Let's see if MSU has any school spirit—how about a big sendoff for the team when they leave Friday. Let the boys know you want them to win—it really helps.

Another Home Game

Another home game is on the Grizzly schedule. The Pocatello Marine Base game will be played in Missoula Saturday, November 10. Farragut Navy, which downed Idaho 18 to 7, will play here Thanksgiving day.

Civilian football seems to be coming into its own again, witnessed by Michigan holding the Army juggernaut to a virtual standstill. Upsets definitely tagged last Saturday's grid picture. Both Coast leaders went under, Washington State bowing to Washington, and the big surprise, Southern Cal trampled by the San Diego Naval Base, 33 to 7.

In Montana high school ball Butte and Anaconda tied 12-12, giving the Missoula Spartans lead of the Big Six Conference. The Spartans appear headed to a fourth straight Conference championship and a third straight state championship.

There are lots of good lads in Montana high school football circles this fall; they would look nice on a Grizzly lineup next fall.

Grizzlies Battle For Return of Little Brown Stein

Montana and Idaho will renew the "Battle of the Little Brown Stein" Saturday at Moscow.

The brown jug, emblem of victory, has been in Moscow since 1942, when the teams last met.

This year's revival of the battle promises to be a bang-up affair. The Vandals have been licked in all three of their openers this season. Last week they lost to Farragut Navy 18 to 7, and the other two were dropped to Oregon and Washington State elevens.

Utah State toppled Montana 44 to 13 last Saturday in the Grizzlies' first encounter of the season.

Farragut Navy dumped the Pocatello Marines 36 to 0. Pocatello Marine Base was routed by Utah State 45 to 0, so the Vandals have a slight edge over the Montana squad if comparative scores mean anything.

The Vandal attack features strong passing from a single wing formation. Idaho has scored 26 points to their opponents' 94 in three games.

Scores in the "Battle of the Little Brown Stein":

- 1942—Montana 0, Idaho 21.
- 1941—Montana 16, Idaho 0.
- 1940—Montana 28, Idaho 18.
- 1939—Montana 13, Idaho 0.
- 1938—Montana 19, Idaho 6.
- 1937—Montana 0, Idaho 6.
- 1936—Montana 16, Idaho 0.
- 1935—Montana 7, Idaho 14.

Phi Delts Win By Forfeit

quarterback and passer Marv Bell, left half Groll and end Putnik.

Starring for Montana was left half Ed Gallagher who carried the brunt of the ball-carrying and passing attack. Preuninger, Stevens, Krause, Kirkemo and Rist also looked plenty good too.

All in all, the Montana eleven did well considering the fact that this is the first football team in three years. Also the breaks went the other way and the records show they weren't "skunked" as badly as the score would indicate. Coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg summed it up in this statement to the players after the game, "We'll charge this one up to experience, but from now on we'll know what to expect."
