MISSOULA--

Three members of the American Society for Personnel Administration (A.S.P.A.) are serving as officers for the 1979-80 school year.

The A.S.P.A. is an educational organization whose purpose is to acquaint business management and personnel management students with different facets of the field of management, often through direct contact with members of the business community.

Cindy Lee, a business administration major from Libby, is president; Mike Oldham, a journalism/management major also from Libby, vice president; and Claudia Martin, a political science major from Kalispell, secretary.

Lee, the daughter of James R. and Susan L. Lee, is a member of the UM Advocates and a student representative to the School of Business Outreach Committee. She works for the UM Foundation.

Oldham, the son of George and Eva Oldham, is a former editorial staff member of the Montana Kaimin. He worked as an intern at the Montana Standard in Butte.

Martin is the daughter of Darrel R. and Patricia Martin, and works at the UM personnel office. She is a student representative of the Faculty Standards Committee and a member of the Political Science Honorary Society.
