UNIVERSITY WILL CONDUCT NDEA INSTITUTE FOR ELEMENTARY LIBRARIANS

The University of Montana School of Education will conduct an NDEA Institute for the preparation and training of elementary school librarians next summer.

Lawrence Hodges, UM assistant professor of education, will be director of the Institute which will be composed of 35 elementary librarians from the Northern Rocky Mountain Region.

The Institute is scheduled to run from June 19 to July 28 on the Missoula campus.

Hodges will be assisted by Irene Groom, a specialist in elementary education and children's library work in the UM School of Education; Edmund Colby, director of the University Centralized Audio-visual Services and specialist in preparing teachers and librarians to effectively use audio-visual media; Mrs. Elsie Pitts, elementary school librarian in Richland, Washington; and Mrs. Peggy Gadbow, library co-ordinator for the Missoula elementary school; as instructors for the institute.

Requests for information on the Institute may be addressed to Mr. Lawrence Hodges of the University of Montana School of Education, Missoula.
