JAMES LOWE IS NEW UM
FORESTRY ASSOCIATE DEAN

MISSOULA--

Dr. James H. Lowe has been appointed associate dean of the University of Montana School of Forestry. He replaces Dr. Sidney Frissell, who returns to full-time teaching and research.

As associate dean, Lowe's responsibilities are in the area of curriculum and research administration.

Lowe came to the UM forestry school in 1965 to teach classes in entomology. He received a bachelor of arts degree in botany in 1955 from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and a master of science degree in entomology from Ohio State University, Columbus, in 1957. In 1966 he was awarded a doctoral degree in forest entomology by Yale University. He has researched and written primarily about insect ecology and insect damage to trees.
