systems in the Northwest. Sponsored by the UM Outdoor Resource Center; for more information, call 243-5702. Free.

SLOVENIAN PHILHARMONIC OF YUGOSLAVIA to perform, 8 p.m., University of Montana Theatre. Classical works featured will be concerti by Haydn and Brahms and a symphony by Dvorak. General admission tickets for $9.50, $8, and $6.50 and for students and senior citizens for $5.50. For more information and ticket reservations call 243-4921.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6

MATHEMATICS COLLOQUIUM, 4 p.m., room 109, University of Montana Mathematics Building, preceded by coffee in room 206 at 3:30 p.m. The speaker is Dr. George McRae, UM mathematics professor. He said that in utility routings, communication networks or transportation networks, optimal linkages or trunk lines are found by using spanning tree algorithms. Often in addition to the major or trunk linkages, redundant "back up" links are desired. These and other such generalized spanning trees are characterized and identified by axioms and algorithms. McRae will discuss this subject. Free.

FRIDAY, NOV. 7

FOLK, JAZZ AND ORIGINAL MUSIC in coffeehouse concert, 8 p.m., University of Montana Center second-floor lounge. JoAnn Dahlkoetter will play guitar and sing. Sponsored by ASUM Programming. Free.
