Forensic Team Places High

The forensic team placed in the upper bracket in several events of Linfield college's eighteenth annual invitational speech tournament last week end.

The men's debate team, Arthur Arras, Cut Bank, and Harris Hogan, Missoula, won five rounds and lost two. They beat the University of Idaho, University of Utah, Washington State college, Oregon State College, and Seattle college, but lost to Seattle Pacific college and Redlands university.

Women debaters Margie Emery and JoAnn Ryan, Butte, won one round and lost four.

Miss Emery won third place in oratory with the subject, "Deliberate Intent to Communize," and Miss Ryan took third in oral interpretation.

Arras was one of the six finalists from the starting field of 135 in forum discussion. Marcus Sternhagen, Missoula, won two firsts and a fourth in preliminary oratory with the topic, "Tripod of American Democracy," but did not reach the finals.

The five students, accompanied by Prof. Ralph Y. McGinnis, director of forensics, drove to McMinnville, Ore., for the tournament in which 32 colleges and universities competed.

Records Show Disease Decrease In February

Colds, tonsillitis, and other diseases decreased 16 per cent during February compared with the previous month, according to Health service records. Only 35 colds and 10 cases of tonsillitis were reported.

The number of individual treatments also decreased perceptibly in February with 839 against January's 875. Ultra-violet treatments still head the list with 140, 16 less than in January. Diathermy numbered 126 and infra-red 106 as the next highest.

Administering of infra-red treatments has been simplified by the addition of another heat lamp to the Health service equipment.

The total number of spotted fever inoculations given during the three-week "tick shot" interval was 6,381. Counting three shots (theoretically) for each individual—students, faculty, and veteran families—2,127 persons received the immunizations.

Two broken ankles, 40 laboratory analysts, sprains, sinus, and minor surgery were among the other cases brought to the university dispensary during February.

MSU Swimmers Win Fifth Place

Montana placed fifth in the northern division PCC swimming meet in Seattle Friday and Saturday. The Grizzlies placed fifth in the medley relay and fourth in the free style relay for six points.

Washington's Huskies won the meet with 108 points. Washington State finished second with 28, Oregon third with 24, Oregon State fourth with 14, Montana fifth, and Idaho sixth with two points.

Tom Kelly, Bill McMannis, and "Chuck" Simpson swam for MSU in the medley relay and Jack Davis, John Halberg, Simpson, and McMannis swam the free style relay.

Transportation to the Orchard Homes Community club for the Press club banquet will leave from the journalism building tonight between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m., Jack Bush, Fort Wayne, Ind., said.

Directed by Ronald-Bel Stiffler and with Murrell Pannett supervising technical production, "Hamlet" enters its last dress rehearsal tonight. Behind the scenes, 40 persons have put in 800 man hours painting, making scenes, procuring props, experimenting with makeup, and readying costumes for the play.

Persons in charge of the various aspects of making the play "the thing," have worked diligently since the start of this quarter. Jack Hayden and Ed Patterson designed and handled the construction of scenes. Both Hayden and Patterson have parts in the play.

The majority of the "flats" used in the set were newly built for "Hamlet." The set is of "one basic unit" construction. For a change in scenes, six men back stage merely pull out a tapestry or panel and insert an appropriate arch, platform, wall, or stair in its place.

Along with the changes in scenes, John Thurman changes the lights by blending and contrasting a few of the 192 lights under his control.

Two men on the "fly floor" lend their muscles to the task of raising and lowering large walls and tapestries suspended high above the actors' heads. The "fly floor" is a catwalk 20 feet above the stage floor, which houses a maze of ropes.

One tapestry bears the royal Danish coat of arms, authentically reproduced by Dean Johnson. Johnson also painted other tapestries which appear in the chapel scene in which Hamlet bereaves the fate of his father.

John Weston has to work under the handicap of subdued lighting in bringing out the proper makeup effects. Weston and his crew have (please see page three) an original approach.

Often what I like does not appear because the majority of the staff does not vote for it. Everyone else is in the same position. We do our best to give the students a good magazine.

Sometimes we use staff work because other students do not submit anything of equal merit or fail to submit anything whatever.

I will add that for three years I have been submitting a story to the Mountaineer which I particularly want included. It is my own ambition, not the staff's. For any variety of reasons it has not met with approval. Unless I tear it apart and start over, it will not get in at all, maybe not then.

As a member of the staff, I want to say to everybody, please turn in the best you can produce, and we'll give it fair consideration.

Sincerely,
Irene Turlil.

Part Payment

Few organizations have done as much good in the world as the American Red Cross. Whenever we've needed them, Red Cross workers have been on the spot, willing and anxious to help anyone in need.

Overseas, during the war, we saw the Red Cross in action, and we gained a healthy respect for it. We haven't forgotten the thousand and one little and big things that its untiring workers did to make life a little more pleasant.

Now that we're again in a position to help the Red Cross, instead of expecting help from it, we should take advantage of the opportunity to contribute to its support. A fund drive is starting on the campus, and we can best show our appreciation by giving generously.

Maybe We'll Get Our Chance

The University of Colorado's recent withdrawal from the Big Seven has just about blown that conference sky-high. The main question at MSU now is: what effects will this shakeup have upon Montana's chances for gaining membership?

Colorado quit the Big Seven to join a midwestern group known as the Big Six. There is a possibility that Denver University will also pull out of the remnants. This leaves the three Utah schools in rather uncertain status, and it may be that they'd jump at the chance to include the Grizzlies, whom they voted down last fall.

The question also arises as to whether we now want to belong to this group. But that question can not be answered until we learn what the remaining six schools plan to do. It is possible that this is the opening we've been waiting for.

Letters to the Editor . . .

Editor:

In nearly every late issue of the Kaimin I have noticed something about the tennis courts. It would seem that they are in very bad shape and that they need major repairs. Perhaps this is true, I couldn't say as I don't know anything about the game which would allow me to make such a judgement, but I do know one thing and it could well be applied to several items besides the tennis courts.

I live in East Missoula and pass the tennis courts every day on my way to classes. Just out of curiosity I watched the tennis courts during the last rainy period. The morning after the first heavy rain one of the nets was down. That net stayed down during the whole period, nearly two weeks. Perhaps they make those nets out of a water resistant material, but the twine they are made of looks very much like ordinary twine to me. If it is ordinary twine, those two weeks of soaking did not help the nets any. I finally became ashamed of myself and took one of the nets out a couple of times; perhaps it helped, perhaps it didn't.

Maybe by now you can see my point; there was no need for such neglect in the first place. I have noticed other items around the campus which could stand a little attention from both the student body and the faculty. Wouldn't it be possible to get a little more co-operation and common sense from both rather than so much outright criticism? Phil Wright.

To the Editor:

I see by your February 28th issue that you are, in your own small way, following the well-established American newspaper tradition of getting the facts all balled up. I am referring to the article on first woman graduate engineer in the United States (lines 16, 17, and 18 in this article). As to who was really the first graduate woman engineer in this country I have no idea. This much I do know, that my wife's mother, Mrs. Leland Olds of Washington, D. C., graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Architectural Engineering from Oklahoma A & M in 1915.

—Wallace A. Chapin.

Dear Editor:

I wish to assure Mr. McDonald the Mountaineer staff members have not fallen down. The student body (including Mr. MacDonald) has failed to contribute the right material. We, the Mountaineer staff, are writers, but we did not join the staff in order to be included in the magazine. We do not vote on the acceptability of our own work. The rest of the staff decides upon it. We do not resort to logrolling and say "You vote for me and I'll vote for you."

We are happy when a new name gets in the Mountaineer, but we don't put something in the Mountaineer because a new contributor submitted it unless we think it is good. We try to decide what has quality, student appeal, and

Social Group Will Discuss Somerville's Book

"Soviet Philosophy," by John Somerville, American writer, philosopher, and educator, will be the subject of discussion by Lucile Speer, documents and serials librarian, in tomorrow night's public lecture on social theory in Journalism 211 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Somerville, at present teaching at Hunter college in New York city, studied in the USSR from 1935 to 1937 as Cutting Traveling Fellow of Columbia university. He has talked with many of the leading thinkers in Russia.

"We (people in the United States) have been so anxious to agree or disagree with the Russians," Miss Speer said in quoting Somerville, "that no one seems to have taken the trouble to sum up their beliefs as a whole." According to Miss Speer, this is the first book in English on this subject.

"Somerville's book," Miss Speer says, "has a special value today in practical terms of international relations. Those who read Somerville's book with an open mind should find less cause to complain about the 'iron curtain'."

Group Investigates Campus Damage

D.

At Friday's meeting, Dean Ford appointed Martin chairman of a subcommittee, composed of Miss Popovich, Miss Sethne, and Lane, to call a meeting of the presidents of all campus living groups Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Journalism 211.

Navy Brass Will Form Local Chapter

Reserve officers of the navy, marine corps, and coast guard in the Missoula area will establish a Missoula chapter of the Reserve Officers of the Naval Services, according to Robert E. Jones, former navy pilot.

Jones said that all reserve officers of naval services are invited to attend an organizational meeting in the journalism auditorium Friday at 7:30 p.m.

RONs, the organization's short title, was formed in September, 1945, to provide a medium through which more than 350,000 reserve officers could effectively consider policies, programs, and legislation pertaining to the navy. RONs is also open to officers of the Womens Reserve of naval services.

Although RONs has the official approval of the secretary of the navy and the chief of naval operations, it is a completely independent organization, Jones said. Under the RONs constitution the majority opinion of its membership alone will determine its policies.

Bobcats Blast Grizzlies; Will Represent State In Intercollegiate Tourney

BY DARRELL COOVER

The Bobcats turned on the power Friday and Saturday nights to outclass the Grizzlies and to earn the right to represent the state in the Kansas City Intercollegiate tournament March 5 to 10. The State college took the first game of the crucial series 74 to 58, and came back the second night to blast out a 68-to-57 win.

The mainstay of their offense and defense was Ray Kuka, ex-Havre and Notre Dame star, who repeatedly halted MSU rallies with his flawless guarding and scoring. He scored 39 points in the two-game series and was followed closely by Bob Cope, Grizzly forward, who dropped in 37 counters to pace the losers.

Friday night the two clubs battled on even terms during the first half which ended 39-32 for MSC. Captain Timer Moses tallied three times and Ray Bauer once in three minutes to give the Grizzlies a 40-39 lead. Brown hit a long push shot for the Cats, but Davis got a free toss to knot the count at 41-41.

Grizzlies Bog Down

Kuka's pivot shot and DeTonancour's gift shot were matched by Cheek's basket and a foul shot by Davis. During the next 12 minutes the MSU cagers scored eight free throws while the Bobcats tallied 11 baskets and 5 free shots.

Cope broke the ice, making two field goals and two foul pitches as the contest ended, 74-58.

The game was marred throughout by the 63 fouls which were called, 32 on the Bobcats and 31 on the Grizzlies. Bobcat Guard Bill Peden left the floor on five personals soon after the second half started, and teammates Tom Brown and Ray Kuka followed later in the contest.

Bob Cope was high for Coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg's squad with 16 points, while Kuka scored 21 and DeTonancour got 20 for MSC.

Cats Take Early Lead

The final game, also played before a capacity crowd, found the Bobcats taking a 12-5 lead during the first five minutes as Kelly and DeTonancour tossed in two field goals apiece and Carstensen and Davis tallied for MSU.

Carstensen took over the scoring with three baskets on rebounds, but the Bobcats retained a nine-point lead with Gordon and Kuka paving the way. The Bobcats led at halftime, 38-27.

Kelly and DeTonancour scored and Moses made two gift tosses and Carstensen tipped one in plus a free throw to make the score 35-45, after five minutes of play.

Cope made a basket on a fast break, but Peden came back with a looping long shot. Kelly and McCormick both fouled out as Carstensen matched Kuka's lay-up with a pivot shot. A moment later Brown got a long one-handed, but Cope tallied from the side. DeTonancour and Moses left the game on personals, and Nash and Gordon converted the foul pitches.

With six minutes to play, Gus Nash, Grizzly guard, started a rally with two long one-handed shots, and Cope followed with a tip-in to bring MSU within five points. Gordon and Kuka came back with scores under the basket to squelch the rally.

Brown and Bauer matched free throws as Kuka scored on another rebound. Graham converted a foul toss, but Narkevich scored from the corner and made good his gift shot. Bauer ended the scoring, and the game ended 68-57 for the Bobcats.

Cope made 21 points to take high honors for both teams.

SAE Defeats South Hall

Sigma Alpha Epsilon maintained their strong position for the Intramural basketball title by defeating a highly-touted South hall team, 40 to 37, last Thursday night. Organized Independent team drubbed Corbin, 48 to 39 in the opening tilt.

The SAE's continued to push the league-leading Sigma Chis as they eked out a win from the dangerous South hall quintet. O'Hern led the SAE's in the first half, which found the winners ahead, 14 to 11.
