Choir Acclaimed In Seattle; Teel Heads Committee

BY BEVERLY BRINK

The 53 members of MSU's a cappella choir returned Sunday from Seattle where they made several successful appearances, two of them before the Northwest Music Educators' Conference.

Associate Professor of Music Stanley Teel, 1946-47 president of the Northwest Educators' conference, which includes five Western states and British Columbia, presided over the four-day session. Mr. Teel was elected first vice-president of the Northwest conference for next year, and will head the national committee on school and community music relations.

McCain Speaks

The a cappella choir made four appearances while in Seattle, and the Jubileers sang once. Besides the two appearances before the Washington State Press club and at the Seattle MSU Alumni banquet, where President McCain was the principle speaker. George Greenwood, composer of our alma mater song, "Our Chosen State," was master of ceremonies at the alumni banquet.

That MSU has received an invaluable amount of publicity through the efforts of the a cappella choir was the general opinion of Montana delegates. Comments were to the effect that the choir had proved itself to be one of the outstanding singing organizations in the Northwest.

Montana Club May Honor Dean Stone

The name of Mount Dean Stone may be applied officially to a 6,100 foot peak five miles south of Missoula in honor of the late Dean Arthur L. Stone, founder of the School of Journalism, Montana State University.

In an Associated Press story by Vern Haugland '31, from Washington, March 20, it was learned that the name had been requested by the Montana Mountaineers club, western forest service officials, and Montana newspapermen. The Mountaineer club initiated the idea shortly after the death of Dean Stone two years ago.

"Dean Stone, grand old man of western journalism, soon may have a mountain as a monument," Haugland stated.

Ex-graduate to Teach Summer Session Drama

Evelyn Clinton '28 will teach drama here during the 1947 summer session, Dr. H. G. Merriam of the English department said Tuesday.

Miss Clinton, an English major, taught drama in Great Falls high school for several years after graduation. She attended Smith college where she received her master's degree.

At the present time, she is instructor in drama at Wells college at Aurora, N. Y. She taught here on a part time basis in 1944.

Spring Enrollment Reaches 2,915

Registration of 48 new students brought spring quarter enrollment to 2,915 according to tentative figures released yesterday by Leo Smith, registrar.

The total enrollment includes 2,090 men and 825 women. Advanced registration accounted for 2,747 of the total and 168 registered Monday and Tuesday.

The exact number of students to enter school spring quarter is not known yet. For instance, veterans even though registered, are not counted as being in school until they have picked up their activity cards and paid their fees, Smith said.

Another factor that makes the total number of students unknown as yet is that some previously registered students may drop school at the last minute.

Spring quarter figures show a drop of 254 students as compared to 130 who dropped winter quarter.

The drop is not unusual for more students take jobs in the spring than any other time. For many of the students, the high cost of living has made it impossible to continue school for more than six months at a time, Smith said.

Mitropoulos Will Lead Symphony

Dmitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the Minneapolis symphony orchestra which appears here Saturday and Sunday nights, started his conducting career in Berlin and has at one time or another conducted symphony orchestras in all parts of the world.

The Minneapolis symphony will play before students and townspeople in the Student Union theater in the last of the 1946-47 community concerts.

Mitropoulos, a native of Athens, began his musical studies there and was made assistant conductor at the State opera in Berlin after completing his studies in that city.

Returning to Athens in 1924, he wielded the baton for the Athens Conservatory symphony, and subsequently conducted in France, Italy, Russia, and Great Britain.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Robert Cook '27, of Dillon, vice president; Betty Nadler '43, of Billings, secretary; and Judith Latta '37, of Missoula, treasurer.

Plans were made for a dinner honoring President McCain, who will be in Washington for a conference on May 1.

A World Of Politics

By DAVE C. MARTIN

Last Monday the House Committee on un-American activities heard testimony pushing un-American methods for liquidating un-American organizations.

First the chairman of the American Legion commission on Americanism said that there were 100,000 Communists (people who would welcome a Russian substitution for what we have in Washington) in the United States. The Legion endorsed measures already before the committee, one to make membership in the Communist party illegal, another to prevent Communists from running in state or federal elections, and to forbid use of the mails for Communist literature, and teaching of Communism.

There was a time when America was known as a place where a man had a right to any opinion he chose to hold.

William C. Bullitt, ex-ambassador to Russia and a man who should know better, said that if Russia had an atomic bomb it would be dropped on the United States. He doesn't even read the Saturday Evening Post.

President Truman added, "by executive order, to the general red-baiting one purge of government employees where there is "reasonable grounds" to doubt their loyalty. No, FBI does not mean the same thing as Gestapo.

The trouble with most red-baiters, in and out of office, is that they are ignorant. They either don't know what "Communism" means or think that the people will go on believing that every Communist is a bomb thrower who will not be satisfied until every government official from the alderman to the President of the United States is lying in his own blood and the dictatorship of the proletariat established.

Communism is not synonymous with dictatorship. Communism is nothing more than the politico-economic belief that the wealth of this world belongs to the people of this world. Karl Marx suggested that it would be better for all concerned when the people of this world were members of a classless, stateless society. The fundamental principle of democratic government is that sovereignty resides in the people. The two ideas, Communism and democracy, are not antithetical. Russia, however, has slipped more or less away

See Here, Mr. Editor . . .

Dear Editor:

In regard to Mr. Jacobson's recent letter concerning an increase in veterans' subsistence pay, I should like to say, first, that as a non-veteran student I feel we can never repay our veterans for what they have done. This would involve more than money. It would mean the realization of security for the veterans and for posterity.

True, we must be practical. The veteran cannot live on ideals. He deserves the chance to receive an education, with enough government pay so that he will not have to spend valuable time working to support himself and perhaps his family.

But Mr. Jacobson's letter does more than present an argument for increased pay. It expresses the attitude of too many students on this and other campuses. As Miss Ribet emphasized in her interviews, we American students seem unconcerned about current issues in this country and throughout the world. We are too busy having a good time and trying to get all we can for ourselves. The fact that the lobbyists will get the money if the veterans don't seems to me a poor excuse to carry the demand to the point of selfishness. What good is a college education if one of its aims, that of living together as intelligent adults, is sacrificed in the process of gaining it?

Of course "it is foolish to sit inert, magnanimous, and complacent on huge impossible ideals." Instead, why don't we students begin to look beyond our own petty desires and work for the realization of some of these ideals? Why don't we study our government for possible solution of such problems as lobbyist control? Why don't we give up a little time and energy to participate in constructive campus organizations such as the International Relations club and the Student Christian association? Finally, why don't we share the opportunities we do have with less fortunate students from the two ideas by choice or necessity since the first ill-fated experiments of the revolution.

This, of course, makes me ineligible for a position in Civil Service and I'm so loyal that I never drive over 20 miles an hour.

Alta Nye.

Editor, The Kaimin

Dear Sir:

During the past week I have received a great many letters from veterans attending the University who ask my support of HR 870, a bill to increase subsistence allowances for veterans attending school.

I am told that a group on the campus has organized a letter-writing campaign, and I expect to receive many more of these letters. It is very difficult to reply to each of these letters individually and still take care of our other correspondence. Since this is a matter of general interest, I would like to address the students through your newspaper.

I realize that it is very difficult for the veterans attending college to make ends meet on the present allowance. This is particularly true of veterans with families. I do not think it should be necessary for veterans to dig too deeply into their savings, and I am aware that it is difficult for all who want them to find jobs in a small city.

For these reasons I agree that an increase in the subsistence allowance is needed, and I will be glad to work for such an increase when the legislation is presented to the House.

Wesley A. D'Ewart
 Very truly yours,
 Congressman, 2nd District.

Howdy

The old hands have stepped down. Beginning this issue, the Kaimin is under new management.

We will strive to maintain an impartial news policy. Under Arnie Rivin's capable administration, the Kaimin was accused of being anti-Independent and anti-Greek in the same day. We hope we can achieve a similar balance.

We hope to encourage in our readers an interest in current happenings, starting right here at home with student government. We hope to impress upon the people of Montana the value of Montana State University and its dependence on them. We think Montana is a place of opportunity where there is lots to be done, and a good place to become acquainted with our state is right here in school.

We welcome intelligent discussion of the Kaimin, its content, and policy. If you have a suggestion or criticism, write us a letter, or better yet, drop in for a chat or see us in the Student Union over a cup of coffee. We honestly want to keep abreast of student opinion, wants, and complaints, and reflect them on the editorial page.

Karlin Briefs His Boys

Three tennis hopefuls get a few pointers from Dr. Jules A. Karlin, tennis coach. They are, left to right, Gene Annas, Helena; Bill Jardine, Missoula; and Wayne Cumming, Helena. The team plans to use the outdoor courts, deplorable or not, if the sun keeps shining.

Tennis Squad Opens Season Against Utah State in April

Montana's tennis squad will open its 1947 season here on April 4 and 5 against Utah State, Tennis Coach Jules A. Karlin has announced.

Four lettermen have returned to this year's team. They are Jerry Casey, Helena; Bev Garrett, Missoula; Stewart Smith, Missoula; and Otto Ost, Whitefish.

Other promising prospects include Larry Casey, Helena, who was a reserve on last year's team; Wayne Cumming, Helena; Bill Kelsch and William Robinson, Glendive; Sam and Gene Annas, Helena; Bill Jardine, Ed Minty, George Boyd, Paul Clapp, Missoula; Walt Schmitz, Helena; Bob Wylder, Havre; Al Simon, New York City; and Warren Lewis, Fort Madison, Iowa.

Meets Scheduled

Meets with Washington State, Idaho, Cheney, Whitman, and Whitworth are also included on the Grizzly schedule which terminates with the Pacific Coast conference, northern division, tournament at Eugene, Ore., on May 23 and 24.

Graduate Athletics Manager Jack Hoon is trying to arrange a junior varsity schedule with Montana School of Mines, Carroll college, Dillon, Havre, and Billings Normal schools, and Billings Polytechnic.

Season Outlook Grim

Coach Karlin is pessimistic about Montana's chances for a successful season.

"The outlook is very grim," he declared. "This is the toughest schedule in Montana's history. The opposition is loaded with promising freshmen, returning lettermen, and returning pre-war lettermen."

The Utah State and Whitman meets will highlight the home season, the coach announced. Both have unusually strong teams. Utah State, which won from the Grizzlies twice last year, has the same team this year and is reinforced by excellent prospects.

Baseball Team Prepares For Oregon

With 35 baseball players turning out regularly and hopes of turning up more talent next week, Coach Eddie Chinske is grooming Montana's first baseball team since 1928. They will take the field against Oregon and Oregon State in a series of double headers, April 10 and 12, respectively, on the Oregon diamonds.

Coach Chinske said practice games would start Friday at Legion park where the boys are now working out. Campbell field will be used as the Grizzly playing field when showers are installed.

Hitting has improved in the last week with Mike Ryan, Ted Tabarraci, Ted St. Hill, and Rowland Throssell all meeting the ball well and driving it hard. The pitching staff, which Chinske is very pleased with, has begun to round into shape. Among pitchers the coach can call on for mound duty are Jim Lucas, former Miles City Legion star; Ted Tabarraci, who chucked for the Great Falls Legion; Bob Cope and Roy Malcolm, Missoula twirlers, and Rowland Throssell, former Kearny high school star from New Jersey.

Others listed as pitchers are Don Jerman, Midwest, Wyo.; Bob Voorhees, Eureka; and Frank Semansky, Butte.

Light infield and outfield practice started this week.
