"M" Receives Fall Cleaning

Registration Exceeds by 135 Predicted 3,100 Mark

Registration has exceeded the predicted 3,100 mark with 3,235 students, Leo Smith, registrar, said yesterday. Final and complete figures will be released later according to the president's office.

Former students number 2,201 and new students, 1,034. Broken down these figures show 858 women to 2,377 men. There are 720 new men students, 314 new women students and 1,657 former men students and 544 former women students.

A few students are registering this week, which will bring the registration closer to and may exceed last year's record enrollment.

Registration was comparatively fast this year, Smith said. The congestion was relieved by separating advisers from checking and billing lines. The giving of four appointments an hour to advisers eliminated lines in the advising room.

Pres. James A. McCain expressed gratification to the university faculty and administration that enrollment is so large in spite of restrictions placed on enrollment of out-of-state students in schools of forestry, journalism and law. These schools turned down several hundred applicants.

OFFICERS ELECTED

New officers of the Great Falls alumnae chapter, elected Sept. 18, were announced recently by A. C. Cogswell, public service director. They are Orville Gray '45, president; Walter Elliot '41, vice president; and Robert LeRoy Zins '42, secretary.

Butte Alums, C of C Will Sponsor Mixer After Bobcat Game

Montana State University students, as well as those of the college in Bozeman, are invited by Butte alumni of the two schools to attend the second annual Bobcat-Grizzly mixer after the football game there Oct. 18. The joint alumni committee and the Butte Chamber of Commerce underwrite the dance.

Admission will be by student activity ticket. Dancing will be from 5:30 to 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, after the grid tilt. Plans are complete for serving of hot dogs, coffee and soft drinks. The mixer will be held at the Masonic temple ballroom on West Park street.

James F. Spelman, one-time football great, is president of the university alumni in Butte. Heading the college group is Reno H. Sales.

Chemistry 11a Open To 100 More Students

Because of the limited registration in forestry and pharmacy, approximately 100 more students may be enrolled in freshman chemistry (11a), Dean Richard H. Jesse announced yesterday.

Sophomore organic chemistry classes are over-enrolled. All 128 desks are filled for this course and there are 12 people on the waiting list.

If sufficient demand arises, sophomore organic chemistry will be offered spring and summer quarters, Dean Jesse said.

Hopes High for Completion Of 92 Housing Units

The housing situation looks more promising this year than it did last, according to Pres. James A. McCain. An engineer from the federal public housing administration has been in Missoula for the past two days conferring with university officials and contractors interested in bidding on the completion of 92 "cut back" units at the university golf course.

Final work on appropriations will begin this week after contract bids have been reviewed.

Now occupied by vets and their families are 263 family units, and with the completion of 92 more, a total of 355 student families will be accommodated. By winter quarter all couples on the waiting lists will be taken care of, Mrs. Leigh said.

Single students still looking for rooms should see Mrs. Leigh in her Craig hall office. Space for several single students is still open.

A stop-work order by the FPHA last autumn left 108 "cut back" units uncompleted. Materials for 16 of these have deteriorated beyond recovery. A new appropriation is expected to save and complete the other 92 units in the near future.

Out of Focus

By Oppy

Freshman day, 1947, will go down in University annals as one of the most successful wash days in history. In addition to giving the "M" a face lifting, (and your correspondent tired, aching legs) the day proved that the new crop of Betty and Joes have the old spirit we read about in dime sport novels.

Mike Freiman, a pre-med student from Newark, N. J., got a head start on his classmates and took honors as the first man to reach the "M." The weather was ideal and Mike arrived, sweating and shirtless, early enough to grab a half hour's rest before the others appeared.

By two o'clock the students began arriving en masse led by Bill Simmons, Hardin; Eugene Chieslar, Sheridan, Wyo.; Joe Kratofil, Hamilton; George Kraus, Butte, and Oren Lindstrom, Wibaux.

Everyone was serenely at peace with the world for a few minutes, but were snapped back to harsh reality at the sight of Karl Snyder, Louisville, Ky., first of a broom-carrying contingent. There was work to be done.

At this point, Bear Paw "Simon Legree" Hoffman came puffing up the hill looking as tired as I felt and began organizing a ten-minute break.

Shirts came off, weed picking started and Jack "Muscles" Johnston, Myers, arrived with the first sack of lime, carrying it on his shoulders with grace and ease, though some say he was tired. (He might like to walk on his knees.)

Anyway the chemists went to work mixing the necessary ingredients as soon as Bruce Helming, Wisdom, and Jerry Linton, Spokane, Wash., brought the first bucket of H₂O.

No sooner did Chuck Goodenough begin applying the first coat of whitewash, than a tremendous roar tore the ozone, brooms were dropped, and the shout, "Here she comes," ripped through the lime-powdered air.

The day's heroine, Edna Laas,

Chester, reached the "M" well ahead of the rest of the females and most of the males in the midst of cheering and admiring mountaineers. Chivalry not being dead, Edna was given a 12-second rest before having a broom thrust into her mits.

U Accounting Offered In Great Falls

Registration opens today at the Largent school in Great Falls for the university extension course in accounting, A. C. Cogswell, director of the public service division, announced yesterday.

Open to anyone over 21 not already enrolled in an accounting course elsewhere, the Great Falls class will be conducted by Wardette J. Junkermier, certified public accountant. Examination papers will be corrected by the business administration school at MSU.

Mrs. Norman Haas (Francis Leaphart '46) is in charge of registration.

I-K Tapping Will Highlight SOS

New members of I-K (Bear Paw) sophomore-junior men's honorary will be tapped by Dean of Men J. Earl Miller at the first SOS of fall quarter Thursday night from 7:30 to 8 p.m., Bob Switzer, chairman of Traditions board, announced Monday.

Following the traditional tapping, John Lester will lead the group in singing for the remainder of the half hour. It is hoped to regain school spirit and encourage large turnouts for each SOS so that old traditions and familiar school songs and yells may be learned by all students this quarter, Switzer said.

Colonel Will Address Reservists Tonight

Lt. Col. Norman King of the War department will talk to reserve officers about reserve affairs at an informal stag buffet supper tonight at 6:45 o'clock at the Fort Missoula Officer's club, announced Cy Honzel, chairman of the ROA publicity committee.

Transportation for men desiring rides will be in front of the ROTC building at 6:30. Reserve officers who are not members of the ROA are welcome, Honzel said.

A Job for Interfraternity Council

Another fraternity rush week is over. Some men are happy, others are disappointed. Some will regret their hasty decision.

The majority of freshmen know practically nothing about college life, especially the Greek organizations, when they arrive on the campus. Yet, under the system now in use at MSU, less than a week after arriving some men pledge themselves to fraternities, many of whose members they are hardly acquainted with. And the members are not well-acquainted with most of the rushees. Yet these men will be living with each other for several years. The answer, we believe, is one-quarter delayed rushing.

Under such a system freshmen would have a quarter to orient themselves and look over the various houses in their normal way of life, instead of covered with the veneer of rush week. Some students do this under the present system, but high pressure salesmanship and keeping-up-with-the-Joneses causes the majority to make quick decisions. A pledge's dissatisfaction with his choice, or that fraternity's dissatisfaction him, and the resulting parting of the ways, is one of the most unfortunate accompaniments of the fraternity system. Delayed rushing would reduce the number of such instances.

Under the present system, the big wheels from the larger towns, where alumni chapters are usually active, are the center of attraction—Joe Doakes from Open Switch and the smaller fry (in the public's eye) from the larger towns are largely unnoticed. A quarter in which to do some unhampered thinking would allow everyone concerned to obtain a truer picture of the situation.

We foresee three criticisms of this suggestion: (1) because it deals only with fraternities, (2), because it does deal with fraternities, and (3) the contention that the system will mean one quarter, rather than one week, of rushing.

Regarding the first argument, we admit insufficient information about the sorority rushing program at MSU to pass judgment; to the second argument—any issue which affects as many students as does the one in question certainly should be publicly discussed. And to those who say delayed rushing will make the entire fall quarter a rush "week" we say the hurried activity of rush week will be replaced by a cooler, saner approach by which both parties may form well-thought-out opinions. Interfraternity council can pass and enforce rules to regulate fall quarter activities.

A number of other universities have adopted delayed rushing. Men from various houses at MSU are considering the change. Working out the system will require patience and thought of the members of Interfraternity council. We believe the result would be worth the effort.

Kaimin Distribution

Kaimins will be distributed this year at the Student Union, Main hall, library, journalism school, and North, Corbin, and South halls. In addition, it will be distributed to a number of downtown business establishments. Normally the Kaimin will come out Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, shortly before noon.

Ups and Downs

Now, more than two years after the cessation of hostilities, we find that production, mainly in the United States, has not yet reached the point where it can satisfy a tremendous world-wide demand. Never have so many asked for so much. This all leads up to the fact that with prices going up and women's skirts coming down, who can we rely upon to reverse the trend?

Close-Ups

By BILL BARBOUR

It's probably too early in the season to go out on a limb of rosy predictions for this year's Grizzly squad, but even the most cautious observer is forced to admit that Fessenden's 1947 team is a big improvement over the 1946 club.

Harder running, better blocking, more accurate passing, a stiffer defense, more consistent good kicking, and superior field generalship combine to make this Montana team a much safer bet than last year's.

With two victories against no defeats, and 42 points for, compared to zero against it, it is difficult to be pessimistic. However, at this stage of the game last year we also had two easy victories—then came Oregon and a 35-0 drubbing.

Last season's most glaring weakness, pass defense, is still there, but to a much lesser degree (Portland completed 11 of 25 for 119 yards).

One of the most gratifying improvements in the 1947 Grizzlies is in the quarterbacking. Pierre Roberts and John Holding handled the team well in both contests. Both men demonstrated that they know where and when to throw, and not to throw a pass, and what is almost as important—they have both shown that they know how to throw a pass. Against Portland Montana completed 7 of 16, good for 176 yards and two touchdowns.

In the Portland game Montana's punting was superb. Against a fast charging line the Grizzlies averaged 43 yards on six punts, good enough in any league. If Malcolm and Jack O'Laughlin continue to kick in this fashion they are cer-

MSU Team Racks Up 21-0 Victory Over Pilots in First Home Game of Season

Taking advantage of every break, and making a few of their own, Coach Doug Fessenden's much improved Montana Grizzlies pounded out an impressive 21-0 win over Hal Moe's Portland Pilots Saturday night. Although all three scores came in the second stanza, action and interest were by no means confined to that period.

For the first 15 minutes the two clubs battled on fairly even terms.

—an exchange of punts, several good running plays, and a few attempted passes—with no serious bids for supremacy by either team.

Early in the second quarter Montana recovered a Portland fumble on the 49-yard line. On the next play Quarterback Pierre Roberts pitched a 31-yard strike to End Bert Replogle, who galloped the remaining 18 yards to pay dirt. Buck Preuninger converted.

Seven minutes later Halfback Roy Malcolm intercepted a Pifot pass and raced it back to midfield.

A series of runing plays netted two first downs and put the ball on the 26-yard line. At this point Bunny Radakovich took things into his own hands and raced the entire 26 yards for six more points. Preuninger converted for a second time, and it appeared as though the score might stand at 14-0 at halftime.

Starting Quarterback John Holding and End Ray Bauer weren't satisfied, however. Holding passed 35 yards to Bauer, and Bauer scampered the last 10 to score standing up. Buck Preuninger made it three in a row and here the scoring ended for the evening.

deficit the scrappy Portland eleven could not be counted out of the fight until the final gun sounded. The Pilots made three distinct threats in the last half; but fumbles, a crucial penalty, and intercepted passes proved too much for the Oregon team to overcome.

Montana presented a well-balanced attack, one that makes it difficult to single out any one or two stand-out players. Pierre Roberts and Johnny Holding worked well at quarterback. Tyvand, Malcolm, Radakovich, Streit, and Kalisch ran hard and fast. Davie Streit was particularly effective on defense, and Malcolm's punting was excellent.

In the line Frank Briney played a whale of a game. Bauer and Sam Leeper showed especially well on defense. Besides contributing three points after touchdown, Buck Preuninger gave a good account of himself in the tackle slot. Henry Ford, Boney Gorton, Mike Kumpuris, and Lee Cork kept the forward wall on a par with a big and fast charging Portland line.

formed and soon a solid line of frosh could be seen stretching from the top of the "M" down to the bottom of the mountain where Lou Rocheleau and Swede Larson, a couple of hard-working Bear Paws, were instructing Mary Driscoll, Missoula, on the finer points of directing water from the hose into a bucket.

Perhaps the hottest, most tired, hardest working, and bravest man among the several hundred who were on hand was Jim Schulz, Froid, the biggest man in the line. Jim hefted his 230 pounds all the way to the "M," being among the first few to arrive, and in spite of his bulk, served in the line like a trooper.

As the day wore on the "M" got whiter, and so did the freshmen. In fact, if the clothes that were worn up the mountain could have been thrown over the huge letter at the end of the day, it would have been just about the same color as it is now. Lily-white hands became just as white as Marjorie Anderson, Kalispell, will testify. As per usual, a bucket slipped out of careless hands and rolled down the hill until Marjorie saved the day with a spectacular catch. It was this feat that set Marj up as an authority on how to get that "look-like-you've-been-working" appearance.

Soon the job was done, and Pat Miller, Missoula, had her charges ready with the grub by the time Louetta Riggs, Missoula, reached the front of the Natural Science building, a tired but cheerful little gal, the first to return. However, the first person who arrived from the top of the mountain was Bev Nelson, Valier.

Lewis Terwilliger, Livingston, put the rest of the crew to shame when he arrived from the top of Sentinel carrying Shirley Kimmel, Billings, piggy-back.

Amazing powers of recuperation were pronounced later in the evening when most of the gang poured into Dornblaser to cheer Tom Monahan and his boys to victory.

It was a great day, and its memory rings a convincing tune—that there are better days ahead. This crop of frosh looks like the irresistible force.
