Missoula- The University of Montana Army ROTC department has awarded 25 of its outstanding senior ROTC graduates the "Distinguished Military Student Award."

The award is the highest honor a cadet can attain in the ROTC program. To qualify, the cadet must display outstanding leadership, high moral character, initiative, outstanding potential for advancement, definite aptitude, interest, be in the upper third of his ROTC class, and be an above average student in academic studies.

Besides displaying these qualifications to the Professor of Military Science, who selects the recipients, the cadet is evaluated by an officer while attending the summer camp.
