BATTLE OF THE BRAINS IS SATURDAY AT UM

brunell

(local)

The opening skirmish of the battle of the minds at the University of Montana will find four young ladies from Knowles Hall matching their wits against four gentlemen from Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the third annual UM Brain Bowl championship Saturday night at 8 in the Music Recital Hall.

In the second match of the 20 minute semi-finals Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity meets Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity to determine the championship round competitor. The winner of the 30-minute championship round will receive a silver trophy.

The four teams qualified last Saturday in the preliminary matches of the contest sponsored annually by the Silent Sentinel, the University senior men's honorary.

Dr. Richard Shannon, UM professor of economics, will be moderator and Tom Behan, ASUM president, will be master of ceremonies. Dr. Robert Turner, UM professor of history, and Dr. C. Rulon Jeppesen, chairman of the physics department, will be judges for the bowl.

Members of the SPE team are Bill Terry, Gale Currans, Dave Rye, and Marty Melosie. The PSK team comprises Mike Hargrove, Doug Skjelset, Jerry Clark, and Harold Van Dye.

Bowl questions were gathered from the faculty and will encompass most subjects taught at the University. Audio-visual aids will supplement the verbal questions.

The teams will practice Saturday at 4 p.m. in the Recital Hall
