WATER RECLAMATION SPEARHEADS SIXTH IN WATER RESOURCES SERIES AT UM

The sixth in a nine-part lecture-discussion series on water resources at the University of Montana forestry school will feature Federal views on irrigation and flood control.

According to Dr. Richard L. Konizeski, UM forestry professor and coordinator of the series, Harold E. Aldrich of Billings, director of the Bureau of Reclamation's region 6 for the past three years, will speak at 3 p.m. Wednesday Feb. 15 in Geology 107.

Aldrich's talk, "The Growing Need for Multiple Purpose Reclamation Projects," is open to the interested public.
