YOUTH MOVEMENT TO BE DESCRIBED
BY CONNECTICUT PROFESSOR

Dr. Joseph Roucek, chairman of the departments of sociology and political science at the University of Bridgeport in Connecticut, challenges one of society's most pressing problems in a public lecture Wednesday (April 19) at the University of Montana.

Dr. Roucek, in his address at 8 p.m. in the Journalism Auditorium, will describe "Alienated Youth vs. an Alienated Society."

He is the author, co-author, editor and co-editor of some 90 books and has written articles and book reviews for leading American and foreign periodicals in the fields of political science, history, sociology, education and educational sociology.

In collaboration with Dr. Kenneth Lottich, a professor of education at the University of Montana, Dr. Roucek wrote "Behind the Iron Curtain." describing systems of educational and political indoctrination in communist countries.

Dr. Roucek has taught and lectured in many European, Canadian and American Universities including Pennsylvania State, Wyoming and New York University.

He was honored by the pre-communist governments of Romania and Yugoslavia and, in 1958, he was an official guest of the West German Government, visiting and lecturing in social science seminars of German universities.
