

Spring 2011

Sham Country

Evan Harrison

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarworks.umt.edu/cutbank>

 Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Harrison, Evan (2011) "Sham Country," CutBank: Vol. 1 : Iss. 74 , Article 43.

Available at: <https://scholarworks.umt.edu/cutbank/vol1/iss74/43>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks at University of Montana. It has been accepted for inclusion in CutBank by an authorized editor of ScholarWorks at University of Montana. For more information, please contact scholarworks@mso.umt.edu.

SHAM COUNTRY

Some feathered quiver. Most sleep.
Great spools of cable, a lowing unsourced.

At times the tension towers evoke "marvelous horror," their swath a blown-up furrow, an agriculture.
Most sleep. Most chairs overturned in nominal light.

One dream features the known faceless in a fluorescent basement with proliferating corners. Rains have beat the mud up onto the ground-level windows, fixation.

Everything processional. Moths corner the motel ice machine, the breezeway suffers factory air.

The only machines forever rest.
Bloated low-flying craft respond to one blink repeated to whole minds of houses. Enter the toad
in unfortunate water