FIVE MORE JC TRANSFERS TO PLAY AS GRIZZLY GRIDDEES NEXT FALL

Five more junior college football stars, all from Columbia Basin Junior College in Washington, have agreed to attend the University of Montana next fall on scholarship, Jack Swarthout, head football coach and athletic director, announced Monday.

That brings to 18 the number of JC transfers who will wear Grizzly colors for the 1967 grid season.

Standing out among the new additions is 198-pound Bob Beers, who last year rated All-American junior college first team on every major poll.

Next is Gartha Morgan, 175-pound offensive and defensive back who was given All-American honorable mention honors last year at CBC. Morgan, best known as an offensive back, was an All-Washington junior college selection in both 1964 and 1965.

Defensive end Bruce Nordstrom will add his 228 pounds to the defensive end slot for Swarthout's Grizzlies next fall. Nordstrom was starting end for the Brigham Young University freshman squad before going to Columbia Basin.

Two other defensive standouts signed were Mick O'Neil, 185-pound halfback, and Fred Tubbs, 235-pound guard. Both were selected for All-Washington junior college team honors last season.
