Suddenly a Wayward to Thinking Words

Jake Syersak
To understand a scene, one maneuvers a chess board in their favor. Like applying a moustache on the Mona Lisa, sentences ply a referent like the pleasure of stretching a rubber band between the fingers, moments before the penultimate rupture. That’s why I prefer the word dove & bomb side-by-side: to think, divebomb is to think, a more present dove. Suddenly a wayward to thinking words it’s a wonder some nouns run away with some verbs & for doing so, violently are, while we harangue white noise as if it were the genealogy of wind. It’s a wonder we war like hell with the irrational to conjoin, while what woos us wants us; or, wants us dead; or, wants us to enter dead air. By the way, how many warplanes are named after birds?
