COURSE DESCRIPTION

When we think of literature, we think of a broad range of writing from poetry to drama, novels to biography. Literature is art, escapism, truth, rhetoric, fiction, non-fiction, political, personal and much more. It is a phenomenon that shapes culture and our understanding of the world. In this course, we will explore literature and develop ways in which we can critically discuss it by not just reading literature but actively engaging with it. We will discuss literary themes, terms and concepts, challenging both our own and conventional understandings of literature.

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND GOALS

As a literature course and in keeping with the general education requirements, this course is designed to help you develop your analytical skills as well as an understanding of and appreciation for literature. We will read a wide range of literature through a variety of relevant critical lenses, including historical, cultural, political, social and aesthetic perspectives. You will be asked to develop coherent critiques of literature both in class and in your written work. As this course also fulfills the Writing Course requirement a significant amount of time will be focused on the writing process and the use of writing in developing critical evaluations of literature.

We will focus on developing the following areas:

- Use writing to learn and synthesize new concepts
- Formulate and express opinions and ideas in writing
- Compose written documents that are appropriate for a given audience or purpose
- Revise written work based on constructive feedback
- Find, evaluate, and use information effectively
- Begin to use discipline-specific writing conventions
- Demonstrate appropriate English language usage

INFORMATION LITERACY

As we explore literature we will engage in a semester-long discussion of information production. We will consider how to find and utilize information effectively and ethically and we will analyze how information is made – what rhetorical, political, and social forces influence the construction of information. We will also consider the construction of information specific to the discussion of literary works.

You will be required to conduct library research for your final paper. While doing such research, we will consider how information is constructed and how rhetorical, political and social forces influence the construction of information.

REQUIRED TEXTS

The Norton Introduction to Literature Shorter 11th Edition Ed. Kelly Mays

ISBN 9780393913392

All other readings will be available on Moodle or as a handout. As this is a writing course, be prepared to print out drafts of your papers to workshop. I recommend that you use UM box (or other online storage) and/or USB drive storage to back up your papers.

GRADING AND COURSEWORK

CLASS PARTICIPATION: Central to any literature course is classroom discussion. Our own readings are informed and enhanced through critical and thoughtful discussion with others. As such, participation and attendance cannot be stressed enough. You are allowed 2 absences. Further absences will result in a 5% deduction from your grade per absence. If you have any extenuating circumstances such as significant illness or emergency that will affect your attendance please inform me and arrangements can be made. Frequent late arrivals and early departures will count against the participation grade as will the use of any messaging device during class. Participation also includes bringing the relevant text(s) to class and being prepared for discussions, workshops, etc.

The participation grade includes occasional reading response papers, writing conferences, workshops, as well as general participation during class and small group discussions. 5% of grade

SHORT INFORMAL PAPER: In addition to in class reader response papers you will write 4 short informal response papers (1-2 pages) on an assigned topic. While these papers will be graded either pass or fail, they are expected to be typed and follow the standard paper format. 20% of grade

SHORT PAPER: There are 2 short paper assignments due during the semester. These papers will be analytic arguments and will address questions and issues highlighted in the course. Each paper will be 3-4 pages in length. You are required to revise the first paper and are encouraged to revise the other paper by the end of the semester. 20% of grade

FINAL PAPER: The final paper is an analytic argument focused on a text (or texts) and the wider context: 5-9 pages in length. This paper requires a minimum of 2 outside sources. 20% of grade

POETRY ALBUM PRESENTATION: As part of the Poetry unit you will present on one of the Poetry Albums in the Norton Anthology. The presentation will be a semi-group project and should be around 10 minutes long. 5% of grade

MID-TERM EXAM: This exam will cover all reading up to the exam date. It will consist of short answer, identification and essay questions. 15% of grade

FINAL EXAM: The final exam will cover all reading in the course. It will consist of short answer, identification and essay questions. 15% of grade

UNIVERSITY-WIDE PROGRAM-LEVEL WRITING ASSESSMENT

This course requires an electronic submission (via Moodle) of an assignment stripped of your personal information to be used for educational research and assessment of the university's writing program. Your paper will be stored in a database. A random selection of papers will be assessed by a group of faculty and staff using a rubric developed from the following writing learning outcomes:

- Compose written documents that are appropriate for a given audience or purpose
- Formulate and express opinions and ideas in writing
- Use writing to learn and synthesize new concepts
- Revise written work based on constructive feedback
- Find, evaluate, and use information effectively
- Begin to use discipline-specific writing conventions (largely style conventions like APA or MLA)
- Demonstrate appropriate English language usage

This assessment in no way affects either your course grade or your progression at the university. The rubric that will be used to assess your assignment can be found on Moodle.

PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC HONESTY

Plagiarism is unacceptable in this class and at the university. According to University policy:

Plagiarism is the representing of another's work as one's own. It is a particularly intolerable offense in the academic community and is strictly forbidden. Students who plagiarize may fail the course and may be remanded to Academic Court for possible suspension or expulsion. [...]

Students must always be very careful to acknowledge any kind of borrowing that is included in their work. This means not only borrowed wording but also ideas.

Acknowledgment of whatever is not one's own original work is the proper and honest use of sources. Failure to acknowledge whatever is not one's own original work is plagiarism.
