Finalists Smile for Camera . . .

"Skywatch" programs are now underway in Montana's scattered ground observer corps districts. The Missoula area now has 100 skywatchers. According to Mrs. John A. Forsen, local chairman, the majority of these are housewives who watch the skies from their own homes.

The 100 watchers need 200 more to join in the nationwide program, she said. They need 200 additional local observers in order that present watchers need not work so many hours, and also to guarantee two watchers on duty at all times.

A meeting of all University students interested in helping in the program is set for 8 p.m. Monday in the Student Union Gold room. Lt. Paul L. Sjoblom, training officer at the state "filter center" in Helena, will speak. He will explain the role of the individual skywatcher, and the process in which planes are recorded and reported to the Helena filter center.

Mrs. Forsen emphasized the need for University student participation in the skywatch program. She said the post from which they will operate will be the Student Union parapet next to the Gold room. In exceptionally cold weather the post will be moved inside. She said that present radar facilities are unreliable under 5,000 feet, and the possibility of a sneak attack by a Soviet TU-4 (comparable to the U. S. B-29) should constantly be guarded against.

BANDS TO BATTLE TONIGHT

The "Battle of the Bands" will start at 9 p.m. tonight. Two bands, John Marvin's and Pat the Cat's, will play for the annual Sinfonia dance in the Gold Room. The bands will alternate every 20 minutes.

Two Days Remain For Frosh Pictures

Freshmen have only today and tomorrow to get their Sentinel pictures taken.

Girls have been asked to wear white blouses. Boys have been asked to wear suits.

The white blouses and the suits and neckties will make class sections in the Sentinel look more uniform, according to Win Hunt, photographer.

One photographer is taking all the pictures this year in order to make the sections in the Sentinel look similar. Formerly pictures from all the photographers have presented a problem to the printers. They were printed in varying head sizes and varying degrees of lightness and darkness.

Sophomore pictures are scheduled to begin Monday. They will also be taken in the Makeup room. The same rules apply to dress.

'Dear' Licenses On Sale Tuesday For Daisy Maes

"Dear" licenses go on sale next Tuesday for the annual Sadie Hawkins dance Nov. 14. The licenses, which serve as tickets, come complete with a tag for the girl to tie on her "dear." Tickets can be purchased in the halls and residences or from any Spur for $1.20 per couple.

The girl-ask-boy dance will be in the Student Union Gold room amidst a typical Dogpatch setting. Judges will award a prize to the best-dressed Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae. Master of ceremonies for the entertainment, which includes a Spike Jones imitation, will be Danny Lambros, ASMSU president.

Johnny Marvin's band will play such old standards as the "Daisy Mae Strut" and the "Hairy Joe Stomp."

Convo Today Features Music, Skit

The Sinfonia band will begin today's convo at 9:40. Sinfonia, men's music honorary, is sponsoring the convo with Gib Leibinger, Miles City, in charge. Master of ceremonies for the program will be Arnie Huppert, Livingston.

Marge Lovberg, Missoula, will sing one of Gib Leibinger's compositions. Marlene McKinley will also sing.

The Girls' sextet, directed by Jim Cole, Livingston, will sing several selections. Jim Cole also will sing.

Pat Koob, Bozeman, will give a musical routine and the "Bar-Nothing," men's quartet, will perform.

A skit reminiscent of the silent film days will also be given.

The Sinfonia band will close the program.

Tonight the band will have a dance in the Gold room of the Student Union from 9 to 12:30. John Marvin, Missoula, and Dick Remington, Kalispell, will lead the band.

MSU Educators Testify at Indian Land Claim Case

Carling I. Malouf of the anthropology department and Dr. Paul C. Phillips of the history department testified in an Indian claims hearing last week. The Kootenai, Pend d'Oreille, and Flathead Indians have entered a case with the Land Claims commission for $18 million. They claim they were paid two-and-one-half cents an acre in 1855 for land that was valued at $1.25 under an 1841 law.

Dr. Phillips and Prof. Malouf were attempting to prove:

1. The area lived in by the Indians in western Montana was lived in by them for "time immemorial."
2. The Indians had utilized the area they had claimed.
3. Indians living today are descendants of those living prior to the treaty of 1855.

There will be further hearings before the Washington Land Claims commission before a decision is made.

Students who helped gather data for the hearings were: Patricia Thompson, Havre; Alexandra Walker, Missoula; Gillett Griswold, Butte; and Richard Moomaw, Santa Ana, Calif. Preparations for the hearings took nearly a year, according to Prof. Malouf.

Research included interviewing the Indians and reading books on the subject. The researchers checked maps and genealogy. Some genealogy charts dated back seven generations to 1790.

Alums to Honor Coach, Team On San Jose Trip

The MSU alumni of northern California will have a reception for Coach Ed Chinske and the Grizzly team immediately following the San Jose State game Nov. 14, at San Jose. The reception will be at the De Anza hotel.

The California alumni will reserve a block of seats to be with the Montana cheering section, according to Helen Warden, alumni service division secretary.

Central Board Convened, Then Adjourns—That's All

BY BILL JONES

The Student Union building was almost "dead" at 4 p.m. yesterday. Usually at that time there is a hubbub in the Coke store, cafe society chatter on the steps or veranda, and a seething argument in the Central Board room upstairs.

But yesterday, the overall interest resembled an open forum in an 8 a.m. discussion class. Central Board opened and adjourned in the shortest convale of the year. Their net accomplishment totaled nothing.

Budget and Finance, the usual harbinger of arguments, failed to make a report. The only two committees reporting were Social and Publications.

Jamie Brennan, Social committee chairman, said $17.40 resulted from last Saturday's Dad's Day dance. Publications board chairman Betty Smith presented a recommendation that Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism group, publish and distribute basketball programs during the coming season. It was tabled until next meeting.

Jubileers Heard By MSU Alums In Germany

Edward E. Minty '48 and his wife discovered that the University Jubileers are not only gaining popularity on campus but are on their way to achieving fame abroad. The Mintys write from Nuremberg, Germany: "While we ate dinner we happened to tune in on an Army radio program called 'Way Back Home' which features recordings from various American cities, and lo and behold, we heard the University Jubileers singing."

The Mintys are visiting Mrs. Minty's brother, Lt. David Freeman '50, and his wife, Doris Lund Freeman '50, in Nuremberg, where Lieutenant Freeman is on duty with the 43rd Infantry division.

Mr. Minty is a public health adviser of the Social Security agency. He has spent the last year working with the Public Health service of California, in San Francisco. He will return to Washington, D. C. this fall.

Today's Meetings

The Montana Forum committee will meet Friday at 12 in the Eloise Knowles room.

An organizational meeting for all people interested in a ceramics class is scheduled Friday at 7 p.m. in the Eloise Knowles room.

BRIDGE CLUB TO MEET

Bridge club will meet Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in the Student Union lounge.

Profs Back From ROTC Meeting

Prof. J. E. Miller, chairman of the history department, and Lt. Col. C. V. McCauley, Air ROTC professor, have returned from the second of two Air Force conferences at Maxwell AFB, Ala. The purpose of the meeting was to acquaint college officials throughout the nation with Air ROTC plans and policies.

At the first meeting James T. Hill, assistant secretary of the Air Force, said that because the Air Force does not have an air academy it is particularly dependent upon civilian colleges and universities for officers. He estimated that 80 per cent of the junior air officers will come from Air ROTC units until an academy is established. After an academy begins operation the Air Force will still expect about 50 per cent of its permanent career officers to be selected from graduates of the Air ROTC.

"With these objectives in mind," said Mr. Hill, "it is of the utmost importance that we have a strong and vigorous Air ROTC program." Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air chief of staff, also gave an address at the meeting.

At the second meeting secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter told representatives of 94 colleges and universities that college AFROTC units are the principal sources from which the Air Force gets its outstanding personnel.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS BY DICK BIBLER

"I think he's done pretty well—he hasn't smoked for a week."

(Ed. note: Bibler appeared on page one today for two reasons. First, there was a post-election slump in news, resulting in a lack of front-page news and a surplus of copy for the inside pages. Second, we have a hunch that Bibler has greater readership than news anyway.)

Kaimin Answers "Libelous" Letter

Yesterday the Kaimin published a letter from two University men who cast aspersions on the School of Journalism and suggested that members of the journalism staff controlled the publication of the Kaimin.

We cannot quote the statements made in that letter—we shouldn't, in fact, have printed it in the first place—for the simple reason that the letter, perhaps not in intent, but in content, was libelous. As it is, no one is going to be sued, and we'll chalk the whole thing up to part of the experience we receive in publishing a school paper.

Some clarification seems in order regarding the implication that the School of Journalism controls the Kaimin. In that respect we have this to say:

The policies of the Kaimin are set by the editor and his associates who are appointed by Central board on the recommendation of Publications board. This staff cracks the whip over the reporters and copyreaders, and decides what goes in the Kaimin each day.

The paper belongs to the students of MSU. It is housed in the journalism building to facilitate printing and to give reporting, copyreading, and advertising students direct contact with the printed results of their work.

No staff member of the School of Journalism tells the Kaimin staff what it can or cannot print. The only connection between the School of Journalism and the Kaimin is in relation to training of reporters, copyreaders, and advertising salesmen. Everyone is free to criticize the Kaimin after its publication, and for the advice of journalism instructors the Kaimin staff members are grateful.

The Kaimin has an adviser in Prof. E. B. Dugan of the School of Journalism and his connection with the Kaimin is in consultation on advertising and technical problems of the Kaimin.

But when it comes to establishing policies, no one says "who, why, what, where, when, or how," but the editor and his associates.

Signed: Lew Keim, Allan Rose, Betty Smith, Frank Norberg, Bill Jones, Ted Hewett, Carla Wetzsteon, and members of the reporting, copyreading, and advertising staffs.

SENTINEL SHIPMENT LOST

Know Your . . . Associated Women Students

BY CARLA WETZSTEON

"AWS wishes to inform you that you are campused . . ."

Regulating the student life of women students at MSU is only one of the purposes of Associated Women Students. This organization, to which all women students belong, also works with the office of the Dean of Students in regulatory matters, conducts a "get-acquainted" program for freshman women, and works on projects aimed at benefitting the whole campus.

Principal power of AWS comes from the fact that it controls the social life of women students on campus. Hours, house regulations, and trips are covered by a set of rules published yearly. Reports of rule violations are reported weekly to the executive board, ruling body of AWS for action. Judicial board, composed of AWS officers and two traveling representatives, has already recommended an excuse or penalty for the offender.

Penalizing is determined by a majority vote. The punishment is usually a campus, the length of which depends on the severity of the violation. A campus means that the girl is restricted to her residence from 6 p.m. of the evening of her campus until 6 a.m. the following day. During this time she can have no guests.

Mollie Iler, Missoula, president; Jary Nelson, Conrad, vice president; Marilyn Kintner, Missoula, secretary; and Marilyn Foster, Missoula, treasurer, together with representatives from each women's living group, form the executive board. Other voting members of the board are representatives from WAA, Tanan-of-Spur, Panhellenic, and Mortar board.

AWS sponsors its largest project at the beginning of fall quarter with the Big Sister-Little Sister program. This year, under the guidance of Mary Joan Tascher, Missoula, entering freshman women were entertained at a party by upper-class women who acted as big sisters. During the summer the big sisters wrote to the little sisters to acquaint them with the program and to offer assistance in anything from secondhand books to blind dates.

AWS has signed the franchise for the Miss Montana program since 1948. Originally a money-maker, the program has dwindled financially. The executive board has continued the program because it felt the experience gained by students who participated and others who planned and promoted the program was worthwhile. AWS has not yet signed the franchise for this year. Members of the executive board are questioning the value of the program.

Aggies, Utes Play in 'Big' Skyline Game

The probable outcome of the Skyline conference will be settled tomorrow afternoon at Fort Collins when Utah and Colorado A & M tangle. Colorado will be the slight favorite because of the home field advantage and the better defensive record.

In four conference games, Colorado has allowed only 13 points to be scored against them. Their offensive record, as far as scores go, is the best too. They have scored 104 points. Of their four wins, which came over Montana, Utah State, Denver, and Wyoming, three have been away from home.

Utah has wins over BYU, Denver, and Wyoming. In these three conference games Utah has had 27 points scored against them while they have scored 96.

Colorado was idle last weekend and should be well rested. Utah lost a tough game to Colorado university, 20-14, last weekend, but came through with no major injuries.

In other games, Wyoming will meet Kansas State at Manhattan Saturday in one of two of their major intersectional games.

Brigham Young has a nonconference go with San Jose State at San Jose. The Grizzlies meet San Jose Nov. 14, so the outcome of the BYU-San Jose game will be of interest to Montanans.

Denver will play New Mexico at Denver. It will be the third conference game for New Mexico. Utah State will be idle this weekend.

Grizzlies Play Idaho Saturday

BY BOB GILLULY

The Little Brown Stein goes on the block for the 13th time tomorrow when the Montana Grizzlies renew their traditional rivalry with the Idaho Vandals in an afternoon football game at Moscow, Ida. Both teams have captured the coveted crock six times since its inception in 1938.

Ed Chinske's crew would like nothing better than to put an "unlucky 13" hex on the Vandals. Forecasters favor Idaho by two touchdowns, even though comparative scores would indicate a Grizzly victory. Oregon beat Idaho, 20-14, early in the season, while Montana held the Webfeet to a 14-14 tie.

The game, which shapes up as a battle of defense, could easily become a wide-open affair. Both teams have fine defensive squads, geared to stop the running attack of the opposition. Passes probably will be the order of the day if neither team can generate a running attack. Both teams are none too strong on pass defense, although the Silvertips showed a definite improvement against the Bobcats last week.

Coach Babe Curfman of Idaho has a big, strong line in front of a speedy and capable backfield. Ends are Jerry Ogle and Roger Randolph. Burdette Hess and Pete Hester are the tackles, while Neil Caudill and Tom Falash fill the guard spots.

Mel Bertrand operates the center position, and Wayne Anderson is the quarterback. Flip Fleffer and Dick Pickett are halfbacks, while Dave Murphy starts at fullback. Other backfield men with experience are Bob Lee, Jay Buhler, and Larry Hart.

Coach Ed Chinske of the Grizzlies has been forced to revise his defensive squad somewhat since his regular linebacker, Milt Wikert, was drafted this week. He has been using Joe DeLuca and Dick Lindsay at the linebacking spot, while Jim Murray has shifted to defensive halfback. Center Joe Roberts has recovered from his injury sufficiently so that he will see action against the Vandals. Marlyn Jensen and Jim Wilson operated from the pivot post last week.

Entry Deadline Set For Intramurals

Entry blanks for intramural basketball teams must be in the intramural office not later than 4 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 13, intramural manager Bill Shreeve said yesterday.

Basketball officials are needed, he said, and added that anyone interested could secure application blanks at the intramural office. Basketball officials are paid $1.60 a game and $.80 for forfeits, he said.

The intramural swimming meet will be held this quarter, he said. The trials will be held on Friday, Nov. 21, and the finals on Nov. 28. The teams may practice on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons at 4. Entry blanks for swimming teams are due in the intramural office on Nov. 18, Shreeve said.

Ski Club Elects Temporary Officer

Harry Burnell, Kalispell, was elected temporary president of the Ski club, and Pat Wordal, Missoula, was elected temporary secretary.

Plans for the annual University ski party at Whitefish were begun. Tentative dates for the party are Jan. 9-11. Suggestions were made to have an auction of second-hand ski equipment near the end of the quarter.
