ARTISTS TO DISPLAY WORKS AT MANSFIELD RECEPTION

Works by Montana artists will be displayed at the reception preceding the Montana Mansfield dinner Oct. 14 in Helena.

The objects--ceramic pieces, oil paintings, prints, acrylics, collegraphs, lithographs and sculptures--were contributed to the Mansfield Endowment of the University of Montana Foundation by the artists. All works will be for sale at Helena Civic Center, site of the dinner and reception, Oct. 14.

Portions of the Montana exhibit were displayed at the Washington, D.C., dinner Aug. 24 and shown at Julius Garfinckel & Co. in the nation's capital the week following the dinner.

Charles W. Bolen, dean of the UM School of Fine Arts, said the pieces are en route to Helena from Washington. He said, "So many artists from all parts of Montana are interested in Mike Mansfield as a Senator and in the Mansfield project and what it will bring to the University. The artists we contacted enthusiastically submitted their work."

Money raised from the art sale and dinner will aid in financing a series of lectures in international relations at the UM campus in Sen. Mansfield's honor.

Works to be displayed include: Aden Arnold, Missoula, oil; Maxine Blackmer, Missoula, ceramic; Roma Bogard, Great Falls, oil; Donald Bunse, Missoula, collegraph; Mary Cordingly, Great Falls, oil; James Dew, Missoula, oil; Walter Hook, Missoula, ceramic; James Logan, Great Falls, acrylic; Terry Melton, Billings, lithograph; Robert Morrison, Billings, portfolio of prints; Leo Olson, Billings, sculpture; Brian Persha, Missoula, rudimentary soldier's pot; Les Peters, Great Falls, oil; Ace Powell, Kalispell, oil, and two bronze sculptures donated by Dr. Van Kirke Nelson, Kalispell; Richard Reinholtz, Missoula, pen and ink drawing; Gary Schultz, Hungry Horse, sculpture, donated by Dr. Van Kirke Nelson, Kay Smith, Missoula, ceramic; Ben Steele, Jr., Billings, watercolor, and Helen Strange, Hamilton, oil.
