Students Needed in Traffic Interviews; $1.70 an Hour

Seventeen MSU students will be needed to work as traffic interviewers from June 2-5, the Montana Highway commission announced. Students will work at bridges in the east and west parts of town. They will be paid $1.70 an hour. Officials said the schedule would be ideal for graduating seniors who are free the last week of school. However, the job is open to all students.

The bridge survey is being made to determine whether new bridges are needed for Missoula, and if so the approximate location of such structures from a traffic standpoint. The State Highway department, the Bureau of Public Roads, and the City of Missoula are making the survey possible.

Local Educators Get Professional Fraternity Chapter

MSU's School of Education became the fifth Pacific Northwest education school to have a chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national professional fraternity, Saturday. This education organization had formal installation ceremonies at a banquet in the Florence hotel.

The objective of the organization, according to Dr. John F. Staehle of the School of Education, is "to promote free public education as an essential to the development and maintenance of a democracy, through the continuing interpretation of the ideals of research, service and leadership, and to translate these ideals into a program of action appropriate to the needs of public education."

Instructor Jack Moody, chairman of the petitioning group and campus committee of Phi Delta Kappa, handled the preparations for the establishment of the chapter. Other members of the committee were W. R. Ames, James E. Short, Henry W. Knapp, and John F. Staehle of the School of Education.

The chapter elected the following officers: Paul Picton, Corvallis high school principal, president; Neal Blush, MSU graduate student, vice-president; Richard Keefe, Paxson school, secretary; Dean Linus Carleton, of the School of Education, treasurer; Dr. Walter R. Ames, historian; and James E. Short, faculty sponsor.

Juniors to Choose Board Delegate In Voting Today

Polls will open at 9 a.m. today in front of the Student Union for the election of senior delegate to Central board, according to Bob Newlin, Lewistown.

Louis Borchers, Great Falls, and Harry Burnell, Kalispell, qualified for the final election when they won in the primary May 21. Borchers received 40 of the 76 votes cast by the juniors, Burnell 27, and Kim Nelson, Valier, 9.

Student activity cards will be required for voting, Newlin reminded juniors. The polls will remain open until 4:30 p.m.

Riders to Register At Travel Bureau

Students seeking rides home at the end of the quarter can register their needs for a dime starting Tuesday at the Travel bureau in the office of Miss Cyrille Van Duser, Student Union manager. Drivers who want passengers can also register.

Drivers wanting passengers should state the time they expect to leave, their destination, how much room they will have, and the charge, if any.

Riders should register the place they want to go and the approximate time they will be able to leave.

The Travel bureau is a new service being offered by the Student Union. Next year it will function for students who want rides home for holidays and week ends besides at the end of the quarter.

New Music School Dedicated Sunday; Several Hundred Visit Building Despite Rain

MSU's new music building, one of the outstanding structures for music education and training in the nation, according to MSU music school officials, was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon, May 24.

Several hundred people inspected the new building in spite of a heavy rain during the open house Sunday afternoon. Major construction of the building has been completed and finishing details are expected to be concluded by early summer.

The building was dedicated by Dorothy Green of Helena, executive secretary of the University of Montana, who was introduced by Pres. Carl McFarland. In her talk, Miss Green said, "It is more than a building, more than just brick and stone. It is evidence of the vision and effort of all those who have pioneered for the fine arts in Montana... this contribution is not merely for the University but also, in an even larger sense, for our communities, for our state, and for our country."

President McFarland gave a brief history of the music school. He told how the first request for construction of a new music building was made by a University president in 1915, and in 1922 the Music Practice building next to the present MSU health service was purchased. Not until the early 1940's did the State Board of Education authorize an architectural plan, and in 1948 the plan was approved in a building bond referendum for the Montana Greater University system. Ground was broken for the new building a year ago in February.

The afternoon ceremonies were followed by the major dedication concert Sunday evening in the Student Union auditorium. Three compositions written especially for the dedication received their premier performances.

The compositions were "Psalm" by Dr. Herbert Inch of New York City, a native of Missoula, and "Ballade for Orchestra" by Robert Sutton, member of the music faculty.

The major composition, "Proud Music of the Storm," by Lowndes Maury, based on a text by Walt Whitman, featured the 150-voice choral union, soloists, and the symphony orchestra. The soloists were Marajean Bridenstine, Missoula; Patricia Fraher, Mo-bridge, S. D.; Robert Hoyem, Missoula; and James Cole, Livingston. The program, which was recorded, will be broadcast over CBS Saturday afternoon.

Other programs in the dedicatory festival of music include the opera workshop's performances in Simpkins Little theater Thursday evening, a symphonic band program Sunday in the Student Union auditorium, and the symphony orchestra concert, a week from Sunday, on June 7, in the Student Union auditorium.

Less Than 50 Ducats Left For Saturday Heidt Show

Less than 50 student tickets remain for the Horace Heidt performance May 30. Student tickets are $1.50 and all seats for the show will be reserved. Thirty-eight faculty tickets remain.

The "Youth Opportunity" portion of the show will feature Jack Miller from Kalispell on the saxophone, playing "Flight of the Bumblebee," a vocal selection by Jeanne Couture, Arlee, and a duet by Lewis Knox, Helena, and Eleanor Fox, Park City. These people were chosen from 35 who auditioned for the "Youth Opportunity."

"The Youth Opportunity," a popular feature of former Horace Heidt shows is retained in modified form to give local talent a chance to appear as part of the program and perhaps go on to future success in the entertainment world.

More than 90 per cent of the entire cast of 40 players in the show are graduates of the "Youth Opportunity" program, recruited over a period of years by Heidt in his search for talented young people.

A Nook on Hood Canal Where . . .

Ideas Grow Like Weeds

"Man—am I glad to be done with that rat race!" More than a few collegians will mix that comment with a sigh of relief when they write their last final and close their last book in a couple of weeks. And for some, that feeling will be justified. College is a sometimes-pleasant, self-imposed rat race designed to afford a diploma at the end of an academic obstacle course. That obstacle course is a series of minutely-scheduled days, each including a list of "musts" that would make a high school kid turn pale.

Needed: A Chance to Think Without Inhibitions . . .

It's seldom during the action-packed college year that students have an opportunity to combine both relaxation and organized discussion. It's true that conventions, smokers, seminars, and club meetings occasionally attempt to combine those two factors conducive to mutual understanding, but those type gatherings usually suffer much from limited time available.

Because of the need for a means by which students could meet with fellow collegians of the Pacific Northwest, the "Y" organizations on the West coast inaugurated a student-faculty conference at Seabeck, Wash. This conference, open to any student or faculty member, affords the perfect setting and atmosphere for discussions that pay dividends when the results are applied. Located on Hood Canal across from the Olympia mountains, Seabeck draws as many as 250 collegians yearly. Included in this 250 are approximately 30 foreign students who give the conference an international aura.

Just a Nice Drive to the Moses Lake Desert . . .

For the senior, desiring a chance to digest and assimilate the "college package" he's just bought, Seabeck affords the made-to-order opportunity. For the junior, possibly looking for ways to spend a free week before ROTC camps, Seabeck is the answer as the conference closes the day before cadets are due at comparatively nearby Fort Lewis, Larson Air Force base, or Fairchild Air Force base.

For the sophomore or freshman, the hours spent discussing interesting and relevant subjects while canoeing on the lagoon, digging for clams at the beach, or hiking near the Cathedral of the Firs will long be remembered as exceptionally well spent.—B.J.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS BY DICK BIBLER

Three-Year-Old Story By Present Traditions Chairman Still Interesting

BY BEVERLY HENNE

May 12, 1950 (Kaimin)—I'm only a meager, green, shy, simple, little freshman, but I'll bet dollars to doughnuts I know more about the history of this campus than any woebegone senior. Want me to prove it? Well then, here are some interesting facts I've obtained from certain members of the faculty concerning landmarks that we see every day about the campus. If you're still interested, Jocko, then read on.

You probably never knew those two stone pillars on either side of University avenue at the oval entrance were used to support a huge iron gate. This gate remained closed most of the time, barring traffic.

You probably never knew that the oval was landscaped by Daddy Aber on the pattern of Harvard. Two University instructors who had taught at Harvard helped with the planning.

You undoubtedly have noticed that enormous mansion on the corner of Gerald and Connell, across from the Sigma Nu house

(not the Kappa house) which occupies the entire block from Connell to Eddy. The fence surrounding that area once surrounded our own Main hall.

You have all walked along "Hello walk" between the library and the law school at one time or another in your four years at MSU, but have you ever noticed the poplar tree along the way? It seems that Daddy Aber planted a double row of poplars all around the campus proper, which today does not include the Business Administration building, the Library, and the Student Union. That poplar is the only remaining one.

You may never have known that the residential district near the present University grounds used to be nothing but a wide expanse of mud and muck. Beyond the river were very few homes.

Did you know that the senior bench used to be made of concrete? One day two girls were sitting there waiting for a street car when all of a sudden it crumbled and collapsed beneath them. The next bench was composed of wood.

You see! We freshmen aren't so stupid after all. I'll bet you couldn't tell us as much about campus history. Now, could you?

On the Skyline

BY JERE LEE RIVENES

All skiers and slosh-happy characters are no doubt thrilled with the recent weather, but various Skyline editors feel differently about the snow, sleet, rain, and what-not that has been around for some time.

The BYU editor writes that "every now and then it becomes an editorial writer's job to criticize something . . . this week we'd like to criticize the weather." He says that "according to custom, law, tradition, convention, and common decency, it should be warm in the daytime and just cool enough at night to invite a little friendly protection."

Evidently his editorials this year have been noted for prompt action, and he hopes this one will be no exception. We do too!

The "Lobo" also comments on the state of old Mother Nature, and notes that "with all the rain New Mexico has been receiving lately, it will soon have to change its title from 'Land of Eternal Sunshine' to 'Land of Eternal Shoe-shine'."

Another ACP National Poll of Student Opinion (excerpt from the "Rocky Mountain Collegian") says that the vast majority of students are (1) against drinking in dormitories, and (2) against staying out too late with their dates. It's lovely that the students and respective deans are in complete agreement these days.

Booming headline, "Law dents Storm Homes, Kidnap Pro caught the eye in the 'New Mexico Lobo' last week, but further rearing proved that no harm had been done. The law faculty and students were awakened by students only to be taken to annual picnic."

The students at Albuquerque reached their $1,000 goal in the WSSF drive, after sponsoring "Ugly Man and Prettiest Eye" contest, faculty auction, and T-day to do it.

Two Skyline papers carried "banish Book Fatigue" NoDoz advertisements last week. Final word is just around the corner, know.

Professional Contract Signed by Grizzly Hurler Gene Carlson

Gene Carlson, co-captain and pitcher-outfielder for Montana's Grizzly baseball team, signed a professional baseball contract with the New York Yankees Saturday afternoon after completing his final collegiate game, pitching against Montana State college.

Carlson, a Great Falls high school

Carlson signed a professional baseball contract with the New York Yankees Saturday afternoon after completing his final collegiate game, pitching against Montana State college.

One of the outstanding players on the Skyline Eight this year, Carlson won 4 and lost 1 against conference foes. He led Grizzly hitters with a .390 average, getting 12 runs and batting in six. He rapped two doubles, one triple, three homers and stole one on two occasions. In 43 innings on the mound, he gave up 31 hits, 21 runs, and walked 1. He struck out 32 batters and had a conference earned-run average of 1.26 for five games. Carlson was captain of Great

MSU Golf, Tennis squads Gain Ties in Skyline Meet

The Grizzly golf team tied for second and the tennis team tied for fifth in the conference meet last Friday and Saturday at Salt Lake City.

Denver retained its Skyline golf crown. Montana tied for second with Utah, each earning 652 points. Don Welch shot 76 and 75, for 151; Bob Williams 82, 86, for 168; Dick Hubbard went around in 86, for a 173; and Lee Williams shot an 86 and 84, for 170.

Jim Phelps of Colorado A & M was medalist.

In the tennis play-offs, Utah won the championship over Denver. The Grizzlies, Colorado A & M, and New Mexico tied for fifth place with one point each.

Falls high school's state baseball champions for two years, 1948-49. He also lettered two years in football, two years in basketball, and two years in track. At the University, he won three letters as a backfield man in football and lettered three years in baseball.

A big hand-lettered sign in the Grizzly locker room at Campbell field Saturday night read "Good Luck Cheezo." Cheezo, as Carlson is called, received a traveling bag as a gift from his teammates. They also presented him with a new baseball, autographed by each member of the squad.

Carlson gave a speech, thanking his mates for the presents and said he hoped he would have the opportunity in professional ball to play with a bunch of fellows as grand as his mates on the Grizzly diamond squad.

Carlson will return to school next fall to finish his studies for degrees in pre-medicine and physical education.

Grizzlies Nip Bobcat Nine, 6-2, 11-5

The Grizzly baseball team wrapped up the final two games of the 1953 season by defeating the Montana State Bobcats 6-2 and 11-5, Saturday.

Dick Hansen, making his last appearance as a Grizzly chucker, gave up only eight scattered hits in nine innings, while striking out five. The Bobcats scored in the first and third innings, pushing across a run in each. The Grizzlies tallied in the third, fifth, and eighth innings.

Co-captain Gene Carlson also played his last game in a Grizzly uniform when he took the mound for the nightcap. He was relieved after five innings because of a finger injury received in the afternoon game. During his five-inning stint he gave up four hits, four runs, and struck out 10. Dallas Roots came on in the sixth and held the Bobcats at bay, issuing only one run on two hits while striking out six.

The Bobcats again scored first, getting two runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth. In the home half of the fifth, the Grizzlies took the lead with five

Luckman, Utsond Win Gold Medals; MSU Cops Third

The Montana Grizzlies grabbed 42 points to place third in the Skyline conference track meet at Salt Lake City last week end. Colorado A & M, paced by double-winner Alex Burl, again took the conference meet, scoring 62 points, and the Utah Redskins followed with 47½ points.

Jack Luckman and Hal Utsond were Montana's only first-place winners. Luckman won the shot put with a throw of 48 feet 4½ inches. Utsond won the javelin meet with a throw of 192 feet 1 inch. In the Western division meet Utsond failed to place in the javelin throw and won the broad jump.

Don Brant was again effective in the sprints for Montana, losing to Alex Burl of Colorado A & M by only a step. Burl was clocked in 9.5 seconds to tie his old record, but a breeze of 6.5 miles an hour prevented the record from going into the books.

Marv Reynolds, who hasn't run the 440 in any dual meets this year, ran second in the 440.

The summary:
Shot put—Luckman, MSU; Jim Erz, USAC; Don Pitcher, Colo. A & M; Bill Smith, Utah; Bob Beach, MSU. 48 feet 4½ inches.

Sigma Chi Gains First Round Win Over Sigma Nu

Sigma Chi overpowered Sigma Nu 27-18 in the first game of the double elimination softball tournament last Friday afternoon. The second game of the tournament between Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta was cancelled last night because of the muddy field. Weather permitting, these two teams will meet tonight. Milne and Howe are scheduled to officiate.

After the SAE-PDT game has been played off the second round of the tournament will get underway with Sigma Chi playing Jumbo hall and the winner of the SAE-PDT game meeting Jumbolaya. Jumbo hall and Jumbolaya drew byes in the first round.

Intramural director George Cross said if the rain continues the tourney may have to be changed to single elimination so that all games can be played.

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!
