Virginia City Players Show Ready for Two-night Stand

"The Farmer's Daughter" will be the featured presentation of the Virginia City Players tonight at 8:15 in the Student Union auditorium. The show will be supplemented by selected variety acts Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the Student Union Gold room.

The acts will be taken from the Players' Gay '90's Bale of Hay Varieties, including such specialties as the "Company Song," "Sweet Betsy from Pike," the "Albert Ballads," and the "Naughty, But Nice, Can-Can."

"The Farmer's Daughter" is the story of three lovers. It is not only concerned with the intrigues and misunderstandings resulting from the lovers' tiffs but with the maneuverings of Farmer Crow to avoid bankruptcy and the uncontrollable ambr and sharp tongue of his daughter Meg. When two brothers compete for one woman against an overeducated lord, all sorts of complications arise before the situation is solved by another sister and a strong-minded widow.

This will be the fourth annual tour of the Virginia City Players through the Northwest.

Tickets for the production and the variety show are on sale at the Student Union Coke store and the Musical Note record shop. Members of Spur, Bear Paw, and the Outside Entertainment committee will also be selling them. Booths will be available for ladies at the variety show.

Student price is 60 cents.

Many Bands Will Appear At Halftime

Seven high school bands will appear with the MSU Marching band in a halftime show, "Vacation Sports," at Saturday's MSU vs. New Mexico game.

The MSU band, directed by Justin Gray and led by drum major Don Hardisty, Butte, and drum majorette Georgianna Coppedge, Polson, will form and march down the field to the "Orange Bowl March." The first formation symbolizing summer sports, will be a sailboat, to the tune of "Sailing, Sailing."

For winter sports a large ice skate will be formed, and as the band "skates" back up the field, it will play "Jingle Bells" and "Skaters Waltz." Symbolizing spring's racing season, the band will become a race track, while six sousaphone players, representing horses and jockeys, will race around the track to "The William Tell Overture."

A Satiric Example of . . .

MSU's Brotherly Love

A calm campus this fall led many to believe that a lady shyster had married a forester during the summer, and that their example had been followed in a "brotherhood" way by their respective clans.

But the feud between lawyers and foresters that originated in 1905 erupted or rather splashed again Wednesday night.

Each fall when freshman foresters are initiated into the Forestry club, they are required to sing "Montana Foresters" in the law school halls. The lawyers were wise this year, and when the foresters entered they were met by a blast from a fire hose. The water fight that ensued could nearly be compared with a Japanese typhoon.

From Okinawa to the Oval . . .

This fall wasn't the first time in recent years that the feud was re-ignited. In 1945 three lawyers threatened to sue to the tune of $300 because of "injury to dignity, false imprisonment, and assault and battery."

That outburst was caused by forestry initiates "borrowing" pictures from the lawyers. Later in the evening the lawyers were caught in the forestry school. After a special meeting the lawyers emerged with "shiny-top" haircuts. A local lawyer, interested in keeping the feud out of court, paid for trim jobs by a downtown barber.

Last year the friendly relationship blossomed again when the lawyers found an outhouse chained to the sign in front of their school. Less than two weeks later the pride of the forestry school, "Bertha," a giant stuffed moose-head, disappeared and a piece of lavatory equipment was found in her place. Two months later "Bertha" was found under some tar paper in a lawyer's garage.

The issue was temporarily settled for the remainder of the year when the foresters accepted a lawyer challenge and then beat the lawyers on the basketball court.

We Only Go to College Once . . .

We realize that at times "reason" is a nonexistent quality when the lawyer-forester feud is in high gear, yet the spirit, interest, and school pride fostered by the respective factions more than compensates for the occasional examples of poor taste. We don't advocate a wholesale "Hatfield and McCoy" rash of incidents on campus, but we do respect schools with signs of "life."—C.H.

NM Lobos Arrive Today; Freshmen Travel to Butte

One hour after the Montana-New Mexico kickoff on Dornblaser field Saturday at 1:30, the Grizzly Cubs will battle the Butte School of Mines football team in Naranche stadium in Butte.

The New Mexico Lobos are scheduled to arrive in Missoula by plane this afternoon at 2:30. The Lobos are supporting a record of one win, two losses, and one tie this season. They will be after their first conference victory Saturday afternoon. The Grizzlies, with two wins and three losses, will seek their third Skyline upset victory when they tangle with New Mexico.

A New Mexico press release says, "Montana fans can expect to see one of the finest linebacking combinations in the area in action when Lobo team captain Jim Bruening and All-Skyline Larry White take the field against the Grizzlies."

Tailback Bobby Lee leads the Lobos offensively with 203 net yards gained by rushing and 104 yards through the air.

Dick Heath and Dick Imer of Montana are second and third in total offense in the Skyline conference. Heath leads the conference in passing and Imer leads in rushing.

After last week-end's Skyline games Bobby Lee of New Mexico tied Max Pierce of Utah for outstanding back of the week, each receiving five votes. Murdo Campbell of Montana had four votes and Dick Imer three. Grizzly guard Joe DeLuca polled all seven votes for top lineman of the week. Larry White of New Mexico received five votes for his play at center.

CUBS INVADE NARANCHE

"We're not going to Butte to lose the ball game," Coach Bob Byrne said, when asked for a comment on the game with the Montana School of Mines in Butte's Naranche stadium Saturday.

Three weeks ago the Cubs downed Western Montana 25 to 0. Last week the Mines scored 41-13 over Western. Byrne said he thought it should be a very even ball game but we should come out on the top side.

In their game against Western the Cubs displayed a good ground game, gaining 281 yards, with Bob Powell, Pat Monno, Bud Maxson and Dick Gregory contributing the most yardage.

Byrne remarked that Fred Brautigan and Bob McGihon are looking very good in the line and that they should be good Grizzly material next fall.

Competitive Ed . .

ED ANDERSON

Ed Anderson, a senior from Missoula, will probably be the fifteenth athlete in the history of the University to receive nine varsity letters in college competition. This year, for the third straight time, Ed is a starting end for the Grizzly football team, as well as handler of most of the punting chores. Besides his outstanding gridiron exploits, Ed will co-captain the Silvertip basketball and baseball squads. As a basketball player, he has been a starting guard for two years; the coming season will be his third. In baseball he has been the starting catcher for two seasons; this spring will be his third.

Ed is married and is the father of a four-week-old girl.

TouchballTourney Starts Monday

Tournament play in intramural touchball will begin Monday afternoon between the top two teams in each league.

Sigma Nu and Jumbolaya, league A and B winners, completed the season undefeated. Phi Delta Theta finished second in league B competition with one loss to Jumbolaya. The Foresters and Sigma Chi will play off the league A second place tie this afternoon to decide which team will advance to the tourney.

ATO's, Phi Sigs Forfeit B Games

Two intramural football games ended the league B season today in the form of forfeits. The ATO's and the Phi Sigs forfeited to the Phi Deltas and the SAE's, respectively.

This gives the Phi Deltas a three-win, one-loss record, the SAE's two-two, the ATO's one-three, and the Phi Sigs four lost.
