MSU Pharmacy School Students Return From Inspection Tour

Thirteen students, and Dean Jack E. Orr of the Montana State University School of Pharmacy returned Sunday, March 28, from a professional inspection tour of three midwestern pharmaceutical manufacturing plants.

Those making the trip were Don Elliston, Great Falls; Don Enebo, Stevensville; Wayne Hanson, Wolf Point; Dean Hart, Missoula; Max Makich, Square Butte; Delbert Mathison, Kinsey Star Route, Miles City; Frank Pettinato, Ravalli; Don C. Ryan, Butte; Herbert Stelling, Missoula; Rudy Stoll, St. Ignatius; Desmond D. Twohy, Spokane; Jack Walker, Missoula; and Sami Ahsan, Pakistan.

The tour is an annual event for qualified pharmacy students. Each pharmaceutical organization paid expenses while the group was in its respective city, furnishing meals and hotel accommodations.

The group left Missoula, Saturday, March 20. First stop was the Eli Lilly corporation at Indianapolis, Ind. Monday and Tuesday were spent inspecting the manufacturing plant and laboratories located in, and near Indianapolis. The corporation entertained the group and students from the University of Utah pharmacy school at a dinner Monday night. Dean Orr was formerly associated with the Utah school.

Speaker at the Monday night dinner was Mr. D. R. Pay, a 1939 graduate of the pharmacy school.

Matrix Group Honors Coeds At Banquet

Selection of an outstanding girl from each class and the awarding of a $50 scholarship were highlights of the annual Matrix Honor Table banquet Sunday night at the Hotel Florence.

Marilyn Foster, Missoula, was selected by Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, as the outstanding senior. The junior chosen was Phyllis Kind, Portland, Ore., and sophomore was Bobbie Atkinson, Missoula. Carole Lee, Hamilton, was the honored freshman.

$50 Scholarship Awarded

Barbara Mellott, Hamilton, was awarded a $50 scholarship for continuing studies in journalism. The award is presented annually to a sophomore girl majoring in journalism. Theta Sigs also tapped Mrs. Beatrice Pierson, Journalism school librarian, as associate member of the honorary.

Guest speaker Peggy Simpson Curry, former panel member of the summer writers' conference and author of "Fire in the Water," said that a person owes it to himself to give the thing that is particular to himself.

"Everybody Has Talent"

"Everybody has a talent for something, no matter what it is," Mrs. Curry added.

In relating her switch from fact to fiction writing, Mrs. Curry said that fact ends and fiction begins in the mind of the writer. In considering the difference in news writing from fictional writing, Mrs. Curry said that fiction demands discrimination and distortion so that the facts of fiction are not the facts of life.

Another MSU alumnus, Dr. Herbert Murphy, M.S. 1939, is on the Eli Lilly research staff.

Parke-Davis & Co. were hosts to the students in Detroit, Mich., on Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday night the group attended a joint dinner meeting with University of Minnesota pharmacy students.

Representatives of Abbott Laboratories met the group on their arrival in Chicago Friday morning. They were taken to Abbott's North Chicago manufacturing plant, and were conducted on a tour of the plant. Friday evening the students were Abbott's guests at a "Cinerama" movie.

Pfohl, Rivenes Win Elk Scholarships

Russell Pfohl, Deer Lodge, received a $300 Elk's scholarship by placing first in the men's division, it was announced Saturday by the Montana Elks state scholarship and leadership committee at Helena. Jere Lee Rivenes, Scobey, placed fifth in the girl's division for a $150 scholarship.

Both were sponsored by the Missoula Hellgate lodge where they placed first in the local contest. They were chosen from 31 boys and 27 girls competing for the Montana state scholarship.

Pfohl's name will be entered in the national Elk's convention at Los Angeles for a national scholarship sometime this year. He will be awarded the state scholarship by Past Grand Exalted Ruler John F. Malley, Boston, national scholarship and leadership foundation chairman, the last week in July in Missoula.

Flying Club's Airplane Partly Burned in Fire

MSU's Flying club's airplane escaped with a small burn in a wing at Missoula County airport's $100,000 fire which leveled a hangar and destroyed nine airplanes Sunday morning.

The club's plane was not stored in the burned hangar, but in one behind. Damage to the wing was caused by hot tar. Blaze, which could be seen from the city, is reported to have been started by a 170-gallon gasoline tank on a small tug "gas porter," which is used to fuel planes.

Besides the loss of the hangar and nine airplanes, a truck and offices and restaurant were destroyed.

'Stormpoint' To Replace 'Hey Mac'

"Stormpoint" has been selected to replace "Hey Mac" as the proposed presentation by the Student Union Theater Activities committee, according to Alan Goddard, Butte, author of both plays.

"Hey Mac" was dropped last week to avoid a legal complication. Goddard was informed last week that San Jose State college had produced a play with the same background also entitled "Hey Mac."

Goddard said that though "Hey Mac" has been cancelled it was not copied in any way.

"I deny that it was," he said, "and have witnesses to prove that it was an idea that originated with Jimmie Dick, Roger Debourg, and myself." Dick is a MSU student from Missoula. Debourg is from Red Lodge.

Though both plays use as their source Shakespeare's "Macbeth," Goddard said that he did not know anybody at San Jose from whom he could have received the idea of "Hey Mac."

"One of the charges leveled against me was that I may have had access to the San Jose State college paper from which I could have developed the idea. I did not see one of their papers prior to writing my play."

Casting for the new play will be completed in two weeks. No date has been set for its presentation.

'bout the Size of It

Phi Alpha Theta, national history and political science honorary, will meet in special session in LA 306 at 4 p.m. this afternoon. There will be no program.

"The Empiricist Conception of Science," will be the topic of a lecture by F. L. Brissey to the Physics club at 4 p.m. this afternoon in Math-Physics building Room 103.

Mr. Brissey is an instructor in psychology at MSU. He received his M.A. degree at Iowa State university in 1952.

Student Christian Association is sponsoring a forum-discussion on "What should happen to your religion in college?" at 8 p.m. in the Bitterroot Room. Members of the forum are Dr. Leslie Fiedler, Rev. Clara Wood, and Rev. Graydon Wilson. The meeting is open to the public.

Nohl Petersen, Toole, Utah, is the first member of MSU's Flying club to receive his pilot's license from flying time in the club.

Newly-elected officers of the aerial fans are president, Don Powell, Livingston; secretary, Bruce Ferguson, Missoula, and treasurer, Bob Guon, Great Falls.

Petersen has put in the necessary 40 hours of flying time since last spring.

On the Outside . . . Strauss Reveals 2nd H-Bomb Test

Another Hydrogen Bomb . . . was secretly tested last Friday by the United States at Pacific proving grounds. The delayed announcement was made by Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, who declined to say how the latest test compared with the first one on March 1.

Damage at County Airport . . . resulting from Sunday's major fire is now estimated to be in excess of $100,000. The loss was mostly uninsured. It was the second airport hangar fire in the Missoula area in a little more than two months.

A giant B-36 . . . bomber crashed at Fairchild Air Force base in Spokane, Wash., last night. It's believed the plane carried a crew of 16, but the Air Force says there has been no immediate determination of casualties. The six-engine aircraft plowed into the earth between the end of the runway and the flight line gate.

SU Committee Stays Firm On Book Store Rental, Agrees to Install Television

Student Union Executive committee acted swiftly yesterday in taking a definite stand on the Book store rental controversy, and agreeing to install television in the Student Union, but limited the remainder of the two-hour meeting to a discussion of a proposed change in Student Union organization.

Dean Wunderlich, chairman of the Union committee, said "we have come to an impasse with Store board" in regards to the rental of the space the Book store occupies in the Student Union building.

The committee quickly consented to stand firm on their original rental demand, which calls for a base rental of $3,600 per year, or a sliding scale rental, which amounts to one and one-half per cent of the Book store's first $100,000 in gross sales, and two per cent of the next $75,000. Whichever system nets the larger income would be used. In addition, the Student Union committee wants Store board to pay $835 in back rental for the 1952-53 period.

Wunderlich commented that if Store board were unable to meet the rental set up by the committee, the problem would have to be turned over to the University administration.

Erickson Honor Guest at Banquet

Mrs. Jessie Erickson, national inspector of Phi Chi Theta, national women's business fraternity, will be guest of honor at a banquet tonight at 6 p.m. in the Pine room of the Hotel Florence.

Mrs. Erickson will inspect the Phi Chi Theta business meeting, initiation, and pledging ceremonies, according to Martha Mannen, president.

Other guests at the dinner will be Mrs. Brenda Wilson, Miss Alvahild Martinson, Dean and Mrs. T. H. Smith, Miss Dorothy Johnson, and Miss Kathleen Campbell.

All members are required to attend.

Radio Guild Continues Play Casting Work

Radio Guild will hold its first spring quarter meeting tonight at 7:30 in Main hall, Room 302, with the continuation of casting for the regular Saturday afternoon radio broadcasts. Dr. Evelyn Seedorf, guild advisor, said today.

Any student who is interested in radio acting and production is urged to attend the meeting. Work will begin immediately on producing and taping new shows for the weekly broadcasts over KGVO. This is the second continuous quarter of these broadcasts.

Aquamaid Show Sets New Attendance Mark

Phyllis Kind, Portland, Ore., president of the Aquamaids, has announced that the 1954 Aquamaid pageant set a record in attendance with a total of more than 1,300 people seeing the show in its four performances.

The pageant netted over $400, Miss Kind said. This money will be used for new equipment for future shows and for next year's Aquamaid pageant.

Montana Forum Discusses Plan For Proposed Honor System

Pat Eyer, Billings, chairman of the Social Standards amendment committee, was guest speaker Friday of the Montana Forum. The group discussed the proposed honor system for MSU. "I feel we have a very good chance of getting it into this University if the students are educated for it," Eyer stated.

A few of the faculty members felt the honor system would be a step in the right direction of shifting responsibility to the students to build character. The majority, however, felt there was no immediate need for an honor system on this campus.

The main aspect of the honor system discussed was with regard to cheating in exams. The majority of faculty thought the only cheating done was in the larger survey courses.

Under the proposed honor system the professor would only hand out tests and then leave the room. Cards would be provided to be signed by students saying that they did not cheat on the exam nor did they observe anyone else cheating. It was brought out that some students might look upon this as a spy system, and that it would be violating their own honor code.

Two students told of how it worked in schools they formerly attended. There, the students were expected to only watch their own work. If the cheating was especially noticeable, the students would merely refuse to take the test until the cheating stopped. The method was quite satisfactory.

Anyone not signing the pledge would be called before an honor council composed of three faculty members (non-administrative) and four students for a hearing. The council's verdict would determine the student's future position.

A few of the faculty members thought the exams given must invite temptation if the student found cheating profitable.

Election Time Is Nearing

It's time for students to begin thinking about the people they want as representatives in ASMSU government.

Within the next month (between April 15 and 30) the ASMSU primary elections will be held for class officers and delegates and officials to Central board. The final election for these positions will be held between May 1 and May 5, provided that it is five days after the primaries.

This leaves a short time for voters to form their opinion and prepare themselves to vote. The first step for the voter is to see that the person he wants in office is nominated by a petition with the proper number of names on it.

After this is done, the voter should find out who else is running for office. A careful study should be made of all the candidates. Weigh the good and the bad points of each. Decide for yourself who is the best man for the job and vote accordingly.

The privilege to vote in a student election is one means by which the students have a voice in the objectives and campus actions of their government. The elected officials represent the entire student body in making decisions on affairs and activities of ASMSU, and for executing these decisions.

Performing the job of an ASMSU official requires not only time and energy, but also ability and flexibility of mind and personality.

Make your own decision as to who you think could best fulfill these requirements. A good decision cannot be made without careful study.

Critic Says Venture Lacks Humor, Not Typical of Best MSU Writing

BY ALICE ANNE LAROM

On the editorial page of the latest issue of VENTURE appears the statement: "Pages filled solidly with type can become mighty dull." If the editors are referring to the magazine, we are in instant agreement with them, only wishing to add that pages interspersed with mediocre art work can be pretty dull too.

However, despite the flux of overworked, strained humor in the magazine, there are some pieces of real merit. Among these, Robert Taylor's poem, "Troilus on the Wall by Night," in addition to being smoothly executed, had a quality of provocative tenderness which brings the reader a new glimpse of the young Trojan at the moment of his classic decision. Mr. Sommers' "The Womb Tomb" is a refreshingly original, if factitious effort. The remainder of the poetry is both innocent and puerile.

An anthropology article by Dave Larom and Gillett Griswold proved to be entertaining as well as informative, based as it is on a series of field experiments in Hellgate Canyon. The article on smoke-jumping by Robert Cutler, consisting dully of a collection of facts, hasn't much to recommend it.

"The Errand," a partially stereotyped story by Joann Haftle, betrays an unformed, rather stilted style, but is serious in intent and shows careful effort. Mr. Taylor's "Grettis Saga Caper," though its subject matter is not new to satire, exhibits an easy, polished manner, a pseudo-innocence in the dialogue which is delightful, and a new gimmick here and there, all of which make it quite readable.

Miss Andreason's poem and prose piece (which paraphrase each other) prove that it's very possible to be nostalgic without being original, while the "descriptive piece" of Mr. Edgerton's tries hard to be poetic, without much success.

Many of the other prose efforts in the issue just plod along, displaying tired humor on overused subjects: the diet, back row sitters, the inevitable Man's Best Friend piece. Although Maxine Huso's "Life in the Strips" contains germs of wit, it is too labored an effort to be funny. The same strain and labor are evident in the other endeavors mentioned, which also exhibit a less than sophomoric self-consciousness and lack of subtlety.

If the purpose of Venture is to be a campus humor magazine, then the general quality of its humor needs improving. However, we believe that the magazine must and should have a more serious intent. It is possible for an endeavor of this sort to be all-campus, that is, diverse in subject matter, while maintaining itself on a University level. Nor can we concede the writing in the last issue to be representative of the best done on campus. If it is, then MSU has hit a new low in this field.

Scribe Picks SX To Meet, Defeat SN in I-M Finals

BY CHUCK THOMPSON

Tonight the annual Intramural playoffs get underway, and once-beaten Sigma Chi (8-1) is favored to take the championship. The playoffs are double-elimination and teams must lose two games before going out of competition.

This year's regular-season play saw SX win the League A title and the Sigs will be all out to add another championship to the tough football crown won last fall. SX lost only to second-place Sigma Nu (7-2) in the regular season. Last year, SX lost a hard-fought 43-41 championship game to the independent Sooners.

Look for SN and SX to play in the final games. Both SX and SN have good chances to take the championship but we feel that SX is the logical choice, the SN victory over SX notwithstanding. During the regular season SX was fairly consistent in its play, while SN showed "hot and cold."

In tonight's games, we expect League B's undefeated Phi Epsilon Kappa (9-0) to take Sigma Alpha Epsilon's third place (6-3) entry from League A in a close contest beginning at 6:30 p.m. PEK has championship possibilities but a lack of height and a shortage of reserves will hamper them in the long six, or possibly seven-day tournament.

In the 7:30 p.m. fracas, we think the Kubabes (8-1), co-champs in the C-league, will down the No Names (8-1), second place in League B, in a high-scoring, but close, affair.

At 8:30 p.m. SN should take the Butte Rats (8-1), co-champs in League C, without too much trouble, but the ball-controlling Butte boys might be able to pull a surprise.

The cracked lightbulb we are using for a crystal ball says that SX will go on the rampage against the third-place League C Sodabusters (7-2) as a warm-up for the games to follow in the final game at 9:30 p.m.

Friday night, the final game of the playoff between the third-place teams saw SAE whip the Oddballs 53-38. Dick Harger was the big gun for SAE with 29 points while Newlin had 12 for the Oddballs.

Officials for the games tonight are Olson and Heintz—Kann and Eliason.

Tennis Team Has Five-Match Slate

Only one letterman returns to the tennis team this spring to lead the squad through a five-match schedule. Letterman Captain Dick Fletcher will be supported by Dick Solberg, Dick Crist, and Jim Ryan, on Dr. Robert Turner's team.

Turner lists as outstanding candidates Bill Jones, Ed Robbins and Ed Stiles, Interscholastic Doubles co-champion last spring.

Team Captain Fletcher said the team is inexperienced but added, "With a lot of work, it is very possible that we might have a good year."

The schedule calls for three matches in Utah: Utah State on April 7, Brigham Young on April 8, and Utah university on April 9. Brigham Young and will journey to Missoula for a return match on April 30, and Utah State is scheduled to be here on May 7.

The netmen will end the season at the Skyline conference championship matches in Denver on May 28 and 29.

Lemm Appointed Head Hoop Coach at MSC

Walter H. Lemm, head football and basketball coach at Lake Forest college in Illinois, was named head basketball coach at Montana State college, Thursday.

In his announcement, Dr. Renne, president of MSC, said that Lemm will arrive in the state in May and take over his duties at the college on July 1. He will replace John (Brick) Breeden who retired to become athletic director and head of the health and physical education department.

Lemm will also teach physical education courses. His previous coaching experience was at Waukesha, Wis., high school and assistant coach at Carroll college,

Golf Coach Names Tentative Team

A tentative foursome for the golf team has been selected, according to Dr. Don Barnett, coach. Barnett named Don Welch, Bud Bellis, Jack Peterson, and Jim Larcombe as probable starters for the first match.

The team will leave April 6 for a tour through Utah including matches at Utah State, April 7, Brigham Young April 8, and Utah university on April 9.

"Welch is the only golfer experienced in collegiate competition," Barnett said.

Wis., and the University of Notre Dame.

Whites Top Reds 6-0 in Intersquad Baseball Opener

In the first intersquad game held this season by the Grizzly baseball team, the Whites defeated the Reds 6-0 at Campbell park Thursday. Lefty Marshall and Paul Caine hurled 2-hit shutout ball for the winners. Nicol's single and Pottinger's double brought first blood in the first inning in-ning. Two runs came in the second on Winterholler's triple and singles by Humble and Marshall. Biehl hurled shutout ball for the next two innings.

With Pomroy pitching the Whites scored in the fifth on singles by Pottinger and Anderson. In the sixth the Whites put together two talks with Pottinger's hit for two more runs.

Marshall fanned three, Biehl, two, and Pomroy two.

Masquers' Work On Amphitryon Nears Final Stage

Montana Masquers are entering the final weeks of rehearsal and preparation for their production of Giradoux's "Amphitryon 38" to start the night of April 13.

Abe Wollock, director of the play, says that "Amphitryon 38" is an old and popular story, and that when Giradoux did research for the play he found at least 37 others had been written, and thus called his version "38."

When the play was first produced in France, Louis Jouvet, the French actor who has starred in the film versions of "Volpone," "Carnival in Flanders," and "Crime and Punishment," played the leading role. In the New York Theater Guild production of "Amphitryon 38," Alfred Lunt, Sidney Greenstreet, and Lynn Fontanne starred in the play.

The basic story concerns the god Jupiter who falls in love with a mortal woman, Alkmena, and his trials encountered in trying to gain this mortal's love. His little plots to win her favor are abetted by the god Mercury. They even go so far as to cause a declaration of war so that Alkmena's warrior husband, Amphitryon, will have to leave town.

In the MSU production, Alkmena will be played by Genevieve Correard, Grenoble, France; Mercury by Bruce Cusker, Missoula; Jupiter by Ron Lundquist, Billings, and Amphitryon by John Schwarz, Tenaflly, N. J.

Journalism School Becomes Member Of Magazine Club

Montana State University School of Journalism has accepted the invitation to become an "Education Associate" member of the Magazine Publishers Association, one of the largest associations of its type in the country.

Only five other journalism schools in the country, at Minnesota, Missouri, Northwestern, Syracuse, and Wisconsin universities, have been admitted to such membership, according to James L. C. Ford, dean of the journalism school. These six are the only ones accredited for magazine training, he said.

The recognition is the second this school year for the school. In December it was named an associate member of Associated Business Publications.

Dean Ford said that the chief value of both affiliations will be in materials made available for instructional purposes and in contacts with working members of the business and general magazine fields.

Courses offered in the magazine sequence at MSU include trade and technical journalism, magazine makeup and editing, and magazine article writing. These are supplemented by training in advertising, photography, typography, and other related fields.

PE Majors Planning Trip to Conference

Women physical education majors are making plans to attend the Northwest district Health, Physical Education, and Recreation annual conference at Eugene, Ore., April 7-10.

All of the seniors, several of the underclassmen, and Miss Agnes Stoodley, past president of the conference will leave Sunday, April 4. On their trip down to the University of Oregon, they will stop at colleges in Cheney, Ellensburg, and Seattle, Wash., and at Salem, Corvallis, and Portland, Ore., to visit other PE departments.

The girls have earned their transportation money by selling candy at the Women's center.
