Homecoming Features Bands Of MSU, Utah

A comparatively small but spirited MSU band will don its colors, and sparkling brass this Saturday and step into a 12 formation musical show during the half-time of Homecoming's MSU-Utah State game.

Along with the show to be given by the MSU band will be a performance by the Utah State college band, reported to be in tip top shape under the direction of John Philip Dalby.

A. H. Henderson, MSU band director, formerly assistant director of the University of North Carolina band, has been given the musicians a stiff workout during the last three weeks in preparation for the program depicting a week in the life of a Montana student.

Friday night, the band will hop on a truck and enter the pep parade starting at the high school and shouting its way to the University Field House, where the band will play during the rally.

Henderson said that he has only 32 former band members while the rest are freshmen, but added that the band is looking good despite the short time for rehearsals.

Air, Military Degrees Now Offered by 'U'

A BS degree in Air Science or Military Science is being offered by Montana State University this year for the first time in the school's history. University and group requirements are satisfied by these degrees, and they can be taken either separately or in conjunction with another degree, such as political science or philosophy.

The purpose of these degrees, which were voted upon and passed by the faculty on June 3, are to give a background in physics, humanities or biological sciences, mathematics, and a language for those students who graduate with a commission.

Russian Film Plays At S. U. Tonight

"The Magic Horse," a full-length animated cartoon made in Russia, is the student film of the week, to be presented tonight at 7:30 in the Student Union auditorium.

A color production, "The Magic Horse" concerns a little animal who inhabits the mountains of northern Russia and brings good luck to many in the course of events.

Accompanying the feature will be a short, "Disasters of War." Admission is 25 cents.

'bout the Size of It

Marshall Sullivan, Broadus, president of the Student Union Camera club, reports that the club will hold a reorganization meeting with members of the MIA photo group at 9:30 p.m. Thursday, in LA 102.

Snake Dance to Start 1954 Homecoming Pep Rally

A snake dance and a pep program in the Field House will be the highlights of the student Homecoming pep rally Friday night, according to Donna Kaye Bailey, Red Lodge, Traditions board member in charge of arrangements.

The snake dance will form at 7:30 p.m. in front of the Kappa Kappa Gamma house. It will proceed via Gerald, University, Maurice, and Eddy avenues to the Field House. A pep band will tour downtown Missoula just before the snake dance begins.

Leading the dance will be the band, followed by the cheerleaders, Grizzly Growlers, and student body. Spurs and Bear Paws will march alongside the twister as guides.

Independents Support New Organization Movement

"Independents should have more representation on Central board. An independent can't get in office because he can get no concrete support."

These words were uttered by Dean Hellinger, Devon, in a meeting called Monday night to take preliminary steps in the forming

Education Club Reorganizing Tonight

All prospective teachers from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes have been invited to attend tonight's reorganization meeting of the Education club, according to Harvey Welch, president. Purpose of the club is to study and discuss practical methods and problems of teaching. The meeting will be held at 7:30 in BE 211.

A table will be located on the second floor of the BE building today and tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. where students may obtain information and register for the club.

Seven Yell Leaders Chosen Yesterday

Cheerleaders chosen by Traditions board yesterday for the coming school year include Patti Forzley, Seattle; Sue Hodges, Great Falls; Lynn McCaffery, Butte; Cara Bogess, Libby; Marilyn Shope, Missoula; Dave Wyatt, Missoula, and Dick Riddle, Libby.

Miss Shope is a carry-over from last year's cheerleaders.

of a political and social organization of independents on the MSU campus.

Approximately 200 students attended the meeting which was the brainchild of Norm Nelson, Chino, and Hellinger. They got the idea a week ago when they heard a rumor that there would be a meeting for the purpose of organizing. When the rumor proved untrue they decided to call a meeting of their own.

Affiliated Students' Support

Support came not only from independent students but also from Larry Gaughan, Missoula, senior central board delegate and Boyd Baldwin, Seattle, Interfraternity council president. In a letter to Dean Hellinger, Larry Gaughan wrote that he was in favor of the meeting and thought that it would be a good thing for the university. Boyd Baldwin, who attended the meeting, said that he thought it was a necessary thing.

A similar organization existed on the campus in 1949. They ran candidates for office with some success.

After some discussion a motion was passed that a committee be selected to write up a constitution, the committee to be composed of three elected representatives from each class plus graduates.

These are the committee members that were selected.

Speech Activities To Highlight Meet

An oration by Lois Le Due, Libby, two oral interpretations by Marilyn Leary and Don Mosher, both of Butte, and two practice debates are on the entertainment schedule for tonight's meeting of the Debate and Oratory association at 7 o'clock in LA 204.

The first debate question: "Resolved that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China," will be handled on the affirmative by Larry Gaughan, Missoula, and Bill Huber, Lewistown, and on the negative by Lindy Ellefson, Billings, and Ronald Grayson, Antelope.

"Resolved, that Congress should initiate a policy of Free Trade with nations friendly to the U.S.," is the second question and will be debated by Joan Ward, Missoula, and Ed Stewart, Fort Benton on the affirmative, and Jerry Rutan, Great Falls, and Dean Hellinger, Devon, on the negative.

Candidates Appear On TV Tonight

Homecoming queens will be introduced tonight at 8:20 on KGVO-TV during a special homecoming program. Also on the interview program will be Harold Hanson, president of the state alumni association; Bill Campbell, homecoming chairman; Ted Delaney, a member of the homecoming publicity committee, and Johan Miller, Traditions board chairman.

Queen candidates will wear school clothes for the program.

"Independent Student Ass'n."

The committee held a short meeting after the main meeting adjourned and decided to name the organization the Independent Students association. The committee states that the purpose of the organization is not to fight fraternities and sororities but to encourage campus participation by independents.

The committee will meet at 8 p.m. Sunday in Craig hall lounge to draw up a constitution.

The next meeting will be Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Growlers Discuss Homecoming Plans

Plans for Friday night's bonfire and noise rally formulated at the Grizzly Growler meeting yesterday. Committees appointed to work and recruit workers include a group to collect boxes and paper for the bonfire, as well as Craig hall men to guard it.

Grizzly Growlers voted to participate in the homecoming parade, entering a caravan of freshman novelties, including a pep band. Beth Briggs, Missoula, is in charge of costuming.

Grizzly Growlers will congregate at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the head of the oval to form a snake dance through the residence halls preceding the noise rally.

Entrance to the Growler section at the homecoming game will be granted freshmen bringing a can of rocks for noisemaking and a beanie for identification. The section is on the 50 yard line in the east bleachers.

Stan Nicholson, temporary president, appointed Mary Travis chairman of the membership drive. Her co-workers are Edwin Foote, Jack Miller, Jerry Gaughn, Bob Hein, Kris Endereson, Sue Pearson and Elaine Paige.

Volunteers to confer with Jim Ryan about the card section include Kay Lund, Ruth Ann Christenson, Sue Garlington, Jane Jensen and Marcia Smith.

Du Mas Elected For Psych. Honor

Dr. Frank M. du Mas, assistant professor of psychology, was elected to membership in the Psychometric society at the September, 1954, convention of the American Psychological association, according to Professor E. A. Atkinson, chairman of the Psychology department.

Membership in the Psychometric society is by nomination only and is not open to all qualified individuals as are the various divisions of the American Psychological association. Dr. du Mas was nominated by Dr. Lowell Kelley, past president of the association. The nomination was seconded by Dr. Clyde Coombs, director of the Institute of Group Dynamics.

Men to Choose University Queen Today, Tomorrow

The weather will set the scene for balloting for homecoming queen candidates today and tomorrow.

Voting will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in front of the Student Union, weather permitting, or in the downstairs lobby between the coke store and book store if the weather is bad.

Only male members of the student body are eligible to vote. The homecoming queen will be crowned Saturday afternoon during the half time festivities of the homecoming game.

Can Independents Organize?

Years ago a group of students—30 strong—organized an independent movement on campus. Political reasons motivated this group. In later years the independents organized for other reasons, namely social and economical.

What Motivates Independents

In post depression days the independents were significant in all three fields—political, social and economical. As times got better the economical reasons were no longer present and the drive to organize became weaker. World War II shattered the men's independent organizations completely and since then there have been few strong movements.

The 1949 Independent Student association became strong at election time. Their candidates came close to upsetting the Greek monopoly on Central board. After the election ISA no longer showed any great significance in campus affairs.

Why haven't these independent movements shown any significance in the past? The answer is simple. Most independents by definition are not subject to control by others. They are not interested in organizing.

Large Crowd Meets

Perhaps the word independent is a misnomer for some of the non-affiliates at MSU this year. Monday night an independent meeting was held in LA 104. One hundred and twenty-five students were seated in the room, 40 were lined up around the walls, and several others looked in and left again because of insufficient space. This is indicative of the potential an independent movement has on this campus.

The group feels that its basic needs are social and political. It wants to work with the Interfraternity council, not fight them, according to one of the instigators of the meeting.

A Definite Asset to ASMSU

We feel that a strong independent group would be an asset to MSU. (1) It will give the non-affiliates something to do. (2) They will get more recognition in campus activities. (3) Interfraternity will get the competition it needs to terminate bickering and unite its own organizations. (4) The independents will conceivably have better representation in student government.

These things could happen if the newly organized independent group becomes strong enough. Judging from the past we doubt that it will become strong and remain strong. If it can, more power to it.—B.N.

Jim Nicholson, Helena, representative of the office staff of the MEA, will accompany Mr. Cooper during his stay here.

German Consul Discusses Culture Of Bonn Republic

"German culture and its development since the war instead of German military skill is what should be considered today," said Dr. Werner E. Oppel, German consul, in an address to the Liberal Arts club yesterday.

He continued that despite the totalitarianism which paralyzed the entire cultural life of the nation under the Hitler regime, and the desolated state of the nation in 1945, the Germans began immediately to rebuild their schools and universities, and to emphasize music, art, and the theater in their daily lives. "Since the war, they have made great progress in educating the people to enjoy these," said Dr. Oppel.

To illustrate his remarks, Dr. Oppel presented a movie showing some of the Germans' greatest monuments to art, which dealt primarily with the magnificent German cathedrals.

MSU Jacket, Crew Cut Conspicuous in Scotland

A University student is outstanding anywhere he goes, but especially if he wears a maroon and gray jacket and sports an American crew cut in a foreign country.

One rainy day this summer in Edinburgh, Scotland, the mother of Pat O'Hare, Stevensville, saw a man in the familiar University jacket disappear into a sports shop. When Pat came back from shopping she was a little dubious about the whole story, but, because her mother was so sure, she investigated.

She was quite surprised to discover Murdo Campbell, Great Falls.

Murdo was with his parents, visiting relatives, and was leaving the next day for the United States. Pat and her parents were just beginning a tour of the British Isles and the continent.

VETERANS TO ORGANIZE AT MEETING TONIGHT

Bill Lambert, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Jack Ryan, Wyckoff, N.J., both a part of MSU's 24 per cent veterans enrollment, have started a move to organize the University's 576 vets.

They have called a meeting for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in J 304, to form a veteran's group on the university campus.

IFC Delegates to Review MSU Fall Rush Program

Inter-fraternity council delegates will meet tomorrow night to review the fall rushing program and to consider changes for next year.

In brief, here is what happened this fall:

Of the 203 men signed up for formal rush, 136 or 67 per cent pledged fraternities. Four of the organizations, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, and Phi Delta Theta, pledged 104 of the 136.

Last year 141 men, 54 per cent of the 260 who went through rush, were pledged. Although the percentage for this year is greater, the total number of men who participated in rush is smaller.

In view of this, the IFC has proposed several plans to revitalize the rushing system. Two amendments were proposed in the Sept. 29 meeting and will be discussed tomorrow night.

One of the plans calls for delayed rush. This system, as used at other universities, restricts freshman pledging until after the fall quarter.

A new bidding system is also under consideration. Under this plan, fraternity preference cards would be eliminated. The rushee would make a verbal choice to an acting lawyer who would have a list of fraternity bids. A similar plan was used several years ago.

As of Oct. 12, Alpha Tau Omega had 9 pledges; Phi Delta Theta, 23; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 30 (Bud Thompson, Hamilton, Don Erickson and Jim Poor, Power, previously unlisted); Sigma Nu, 31; Sigma Chi, 20 (William McGovern, Chicago, previously unlisted); Phi Sigma Kappa, 8; Sigma Phi Epsilon, 8; and Theta Chi, 7.

If your hands rejoice in the precise balance of a fine gun or the sweet response of a racing sloop . . . then you owe yourself an hour with the Chevrolet Corvette.

You'll find it is, quite literally, like no other car in the world—a heart-lifting blend of the true sports car with all that is best in American engineering.

There is the velvet smoothness of a Powerglide automatic transmission (but with the classic floor selector-lever).

The trouble-free durability of a Chevrolet "Blue-Flame" engine (but with three side draft carburetors to unleash its flashing 150 horsepower).

The ruggedness of an X-braced box girder frame (but with the astonishing impact resistance of a glass-fiber-and-plastic body).

Luxurious seating for driver and passenger in deep foam rubber (but cradled in the traditional security of bucket seats).

Generous luggage room, the panoramic sweep of a deeply curved windshield, the flair of tomorrow's styling (but within the polo-pony compactness of a real road car).

The Corvette blends all this and more. For it is a driver's car . . . a low-slung torpedo with a center of gravity only 18 inches above the concrete . . . with outrigger rear springs that make it hold to the road like a stripe of paint . . . with a 16 to 1 steering ratio that puts needle-threading accuracy at your finger tips.

Frankly, the Corvette is a "limited edition," made only in small numbers. It is intended only for the man or woman to whom driving is not just transportation but an exhilarating adventure, a sparkling challenge to skill and judgment. If you are one of these, then you owe yourself an hour with a Chevrolet Corvette.

Popovich-Szakash Gridiron Duet Fine Combination

By BILL LARCOMBE

MSU has been blest with many fine football players throughout the years and perhaps one of the finest was Milton Popovich, Grizzly quarterback in the 1935 era. Popovich was a great runner, but there was a Grizzly fullback named Paul Szakash who played a role in Milt's success.

Szakash, an excellent passer, was used mainly as a blocking back for Popovich and, although "Popo" was the quarterback, it was Szakash that called the plays from his fullback slot. After graduation in 1937, Szakash played pro ball for the Detroit Lions, and returned to the University as a line coach under Doug Fessenden.

There's a saying around football circles that a back is only as good as the linemen in front of him and during the time of the Popovich-Szakash backfield combination, a guard named Aldo Forte was also making a name for himself.

Like Szakash, Forte came from Chicago and played for the Grizzlies from 1936 through 1938. Forte played either guard or tackle and was a mainstay in Fessenden's forward wall. Also like Szakash, Forte played professional football with the Chicago Bears and later for the Detroit Lions.

In case you're wondering where these former Grizzly stars are today—Szakash is head of the physical education department at Hamilton high school; Forte has been line coach for the Lions the past four years; and Popovich is working in Butte.

Sport Circuit

By J. D. Coleman

One sport in this nation has a reputation for always securing the best officiating available. That is, of course, baseball, more specifically, professional baseball. Brooklyn, for example, could play at Crosley field or Wrigley field or Forbes field and expect exactly the same type of officiating they would find at home in Flatbush. Pro football, too, is marked by the impartiality and objectivity on the part of officials. Why, then, is there so much unfairness shown by officials in intercollegiate sports, which certainly are in the realm of big business. And big business, in order to stay out of the red, certainly cannot let itself be endangered by the ineptness of a few individuals.

It seems that the men selected to administer and maintain intercollegiate sports should place top priority on the selection of competent individuals to officiate within their separate conferences.

And we think this would especially apply to the Skyline conference after what happened in Denver Friday night.

—O—
This week only six Skyline teams engage in league strife, with Brigham Young idle and Colorado A & M clashing in an intersectional battle with College of the Pacific. Last week all teams, with the exception of Montana, came through as expected. The results of last week's guesses were four completions and one miscue for an .800 percentage. Our season's record is considerably lower—six right and five wrong, a .545 percentage. This week introduces another innovation—a guest expert. Ken Byerly, a member of the Grizzly football team, dons the soothsayer's garb today.

Byerly: College of Pacific over Colorado A & M, 21-7; Utah over Denver, 26-21; Wyoming over New Mexico, 20-6; Montana State college over Colorado State, 33-14; and MSU over Utah State, 27-13.

Coleman: College of Pacific 32, Colorado A & M 13; Utah 27, Denver 20; Wyoming 13, New Mexico 7; Bobcats 36, Colorado State 20; Grizzlies 26, Utah State 19.

MSC Hoop Squad Loaded with Talent

MSU's chief rival, the Bobcats of Montana State college, are looking ahead to a basketball season with a squad graced by several of the top cagers from last year's prep squads.

Livingston's Ted Carter, who holds the state individual points-per-game record will undoubtedly see a good deal of action with the Bobcats. Wes Jandt, Bozeman, the high scorer in the Big 16 last year, will also be of considerable help, Lemm says.

Loren Sax, Sidney, the top choice on the AP all-star squad last year; Billy Gilbert, Helena; Ron Harcharik, Lewistown; Phil Tinsley, Livingston; and Bob Anderson, Missoula, round out the all-star list.

Grizzly Mainstays

Leading Grizzly linemen in Saturday's Homecoming battle with Utah State will be Paul Weskamp (top), 215-pound junior tackle, and Joe DeLuca (bottom), 205-pound senior guard. Weskamp, the team's fastest lineman, recovered a fumble two weeks ago to set up MSU's lone touchdown against Iowa.

An All-Skyline candidate, DeLuca will anchor the Silver-tip line Saturday as MSU seeks its first conference win.

Students Will Host Dads During Bear-Cat Dance

Students will honor their dads Saturday, Nov. 13 at the Grizzly-Bobcat game. Dads' day and the Grizzly-Bobcat game have been combined this year to offer a full program, according to Johan Miler, Fairview, Traditions board chairman.

Parents' day was begun in 1933, when the Utah Aggies played the Grizzlies. Living groups held special Thanksgiving dinners and independent students gave a "Turkey Hop" in the Women's gym, awarding turkeys to the parents giving the best waltzing and circle two step exhibitions.

Parents' day was later changed to Dads' day, an annual event during football season.

How is an oil well like a cow?

In many ways the similarity between an oil well and a cow has a great deal to do with the future security of your children.

Both well and cow give us vital products—petroleum and milk. But unless we withdraw those products at an efficient rate we can ruin our source of supply.

For it's as economically unsound to take a year's supply of oil from a well in a month, as it would be to try to obtain a year's production of milk from a cow in a day!

It's equally bad economically to underproduce a well or a cow. Yet, today, the American petroleum industry is underproducing—to accommodate the oil coming into this country from far-off places.

Obviously, if our own industry is to maintain its capacity to produce it has to be able to sell its products. Whatever interferes with this jeopardizes its ability to continue to satisfy America's need for oil.

Nor does it have the financial resources to drill wells and then shut them in until needed. You have to do business to stay in business.

What's worse, oil from distant shores creates a dangerous dependency. In a national emergency it could disappear overnight. And we can't slow our production down too much and expect it to be adequate when we want it.

In our opinion, there is only one safe way to keep this nation's rate of petroleum production up to any challenge it may have to meet. That's to encourage our domestic oil industry to constantly find and develop new fields in the Western hemisphere, where we can get at them if we need them.
