The title for this year's affair is "Spotlight Review, with 'Over the Rainbow' as the theme. Arrangements and decorations are planned to carry out the theme through the evening.

President Eisenhower will stay within two hours flying time of Washington for the next two or three months... at least partly because of the crisis in the Far East, the White House reveals. Yesterday the Senate plunged into an angry debate on the resolution to give Eisenhower virtual blank-check powers to deal with the Formosa crisis.

Law Article By Briggs Is Published

Edwin W. B. Briggs, professor of law, has recently received letters of congratulations on his "Conflicts of Law" speech given to the American association of law schools at their December annual convention in New York.

Before a round-table made up of some of the country's leading law instructors Briggs summarized a thesis which he has been developing since studying as a graduate student at Harvard university.

His work was so well received that the "International Comparative Law Quarterly" of London has offered to publish his most recent paper on "Conflicts of Law" without seeing it.

The professor defined this particular field of law by saying: "In a law suit, when it appears that laws from several different states might be applied, 'Conflicts of Law' sets up rules which guide the court as to which law should prevail."

Briggs started the thesis while in his second year of graduate work at Harvard. His work was delayed several times but by 1943 he had had an article published in the "Mississippi Law Journal" and another in the "Harvard Law Review" in 1948.

In 1953 Briggs submitted an article to the "Vanderbilt Law Review" which brought him recognition from all over the United States and the invitation to speak at the recent convention in New York.

The Yale Law Journal carried another in the series last December bringing requests from Australia, England, France and Italy for reprints.

A committee chosen by the American association of law schools to select articles of outstanding merit in these fields of law also recently asked Briggs to allow his speech and several of his articles to be published in their periodical called "Selected Readings on Conflict of Law."

Community Service Class Attends Meet On Mental Health

"Juvenile Delinquency in Montana" was the topic for discussion at the annual meeting of the Montana Society for Mental Health held in Miles City, Jan. 21 and 22.

Registrants included 105 teachers, nurses, doctors, psychiatrists, industrial and vocational school directors, interested citizens and nine university students from the community service class.

Dr. Harold Tascher, associate professor of Sociology, president, presented the nature of the problem in Montana at a general session Friday morning. The meeting then broke up into common interest study groups to consider the state and local program needs for youth.

Saturday, after a general session, the group had luncheon at the Boy's Industrial school, and were shown through the school.

University students attending the meeting were Robert Higham, Belfry; Harvey Young, Fairfield; Fred Wilkinson, Lolo; Janet Tierney, Butte; Lou Marilyn Vierhus, Coalinga, Calif.; Doris Olson, Judith Gap; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard, Missoula; Donna Lott, East Glacier; and Helen Unruh, Perryton, Tex. Dr. Tascher accompanied the group.

Next year the meeting will be held in Butte, with "The Offender," as the chief topic.

Frost, Chumrau Resign, To Be Representatives For Investment Companies

Two Montana State University staff members, Benjamin R. Frost, assistant professor of Education, and Paul J. Chumrau, director of the placement bureau, have resigned to enter private business, President Carl McFarland announced today. Frost's resignation becomes effective as soon as a replacement can be secured; Chumrau's on March 15.

Poor Ticket Sales Cancel Kalispell Booster's Night

Kalispell Booster night scheduled for this Saturday, has been called off because of poor ticket sales.

Jim Abbott, Kalispell, Publicity-Travel committee chairman, put the Booster night machinery in reverse early this week when it appeared the $8.00 package deal wasn't selling.

He said that Bill Walter-skirchen of the Kalispell Chamber of Commerce was notified last quarter that the tickets would be only $5.00, but later the price was boosted because of transportation costs.

Abbott said the price boost may have been responsible for the lack of sales. Only eight tickets had been sold as of yesterday afternoon.

Abbott added that the post-game banquet, which was to have been in the Lodge, has been called off, but said the east bleachers in the Field House will be reserved until game time because some Kalispell fans intend to drive to the game.

Skaters Work For Opener

Although ice skating on MSU's new $50,000 rink is officially awaiting the opening ceremonies to be held this week end, there has been lots of action on the arena during the past week.

Skaters scheduled to participate in the official opening, practiced on the rink over the weekend with wobbly-ankled grade-school kids, tottering beginners, and flashing speed-skaters. Students and citizens alike, turned out to try skates that some hadn't used for years.

A glazing cart, constructed at half the market price, has been completed by the maintenance department, according to T. G. Swearingen, maintenance engineer.

The cart is actually a mobile water tank. Warm water from the tank drains slowly through pipes soaking lengths of canvas which drag the ice. Similar carts are used on all large hockey rinks, and apply a smooth new finish to the ice in a matter of minutes.

Health Center Reports Ski Weekend Injuries

The report made to a Kaimin reporter stating that no accidents occurred over the past ski week end at Whitefish was in error. The story appeared in yesterday's paper. The Health Center reports that Patty Bolton, Kalispell, broke her leg Sunday afternoon while skiing. She has been out of school all week but is expected to return next week. Another reported accident involved Christene Fairbanks, Buffalo, who sprained her ankle. She has now fully recovered.

Both men will enter the investment business, but as western Montana representatives for different companies. Frost will represent the Hamilton Management corp. of Denver; Chumrau the Murphy Favre Inc., Spokane.

Came in '46

Frost came to the University in 1946 and is well known in Montana education circles. He is a graduate of the University of North Dakota, where he took his bachelor's degree, and the University of Minnesota, where he earned his master's degree. He has taught in a number of Montana schools and during 1940-41 he was principal of the Robbinsdale, Minn., high school. He also spent three years in government service in Cuba, South America and the British West Indies, and during the war was a lieutenant in the Navy commanding an LST in the invasions of Iwo Jima, Okinawa and Iwo Shima.

Basketball Star

Chumrau, a University basketball star in the late 1930's, since December 1952 has been serving as athletic business manager as well as placement bureau director. For two years after his graduation in 1939 he coached and taught at Cut Bank high school, then entered the army during the period of World War II. Coming out of the army as a major, he entered business in Long Beach, Calif., later moved to Las Vegas, Nev., and finally came back to Montana, where he joined the University staff.

"My nine years at MSU have been wonderful ones," Frost said in his letter of resignation, "and I have considered a long time before making my decision to resign. However, the opportunities offered me in private business are much too great to ignore."

Regrets Leaving

Chumrau said in his letter, "It has been a pleasure to serve under your administration and I am proud to have been a part of what I consider to be the period of the University's greatest growth." He added, "I regret leaving the University which has been so good to me both as a student and as a staff member, however, the opportunities that have been offered me in my new position make it impossible to remain."

"The loss of Frost and Chumrau will be keenly felt," President McFarland said. "Both men have been fine members of the University family and have been very effective with both students and alumni. We naturally wish them the finest of successes in their new undertakings."

Fessenden's Book Praised by Texan

"For those who recognize the importance of good speech in every known profession," the book, "The Teacher Speaks," co-authored by Dr. Seth A. Fessenden, associate professor of English at MSU, is "invaluable," according to Thelme-deane Hutchins, book editor of the Lubbock, Tex., Avalanche-Journal.

"One of the most interesting and valuable sections," Miss Hutchins says, "is one called: 'Speech in Society.' The author points out that 'one's social effectiveness depends in great measure on his effectiveness in communication'."

Although the book is a textbook, she points out that it "avoids the 'dryness' of too many texts," by use of photographs and cartoons which help to put the points across.

Dr. Fessenden came to MSU in Autumn, 1954 from the University of Denver, where he was co-ordinator of the communication improvement laboratories.

Subscribe Reviews Golden Bobcat Era, Coaches Adams, Chinske Comment

By KEN BYERLY

The Golden Bobcats were a team," mused Harry Adams, Bozeman track coach. "They used to eat us with amazing regularity. Adams, who has been on the Montana sports scene since the World War, was referring to the Montana State college basketball teams from 1927-1930. Spearheaded by All-American John Thompson and Frank Ward, the Bozeman squad steamrolled opposition, winning 72 and losing three in 1928 and 1929. The 1955 version of the Bobcats was Thursday with high hopes again asserting the ancient rivalry that has brought them wins against 59 for the Grizzlies since the rivalry began.

Played Firehorse Ball
Thompson in his chair in the athletic department, Adams commented. "They played a firehorse kind of ball. Thompson led the break. He was rather short, fast, and an exceptional shot out front."

Adams was referring to the Thompson who, in his last three years, scored 1539 points. He was led by towering Frank Ward, in those same three years poured in over 1400 markers. Brick Breeden, until last year coach of the Bobcats, was the standout defensive performer on that unforgettable Bozeman five. Ed Chinske, Silvertip football coach, entered the room and joined the conversation. Chinske was a standout guard on the 1928-30 Grizzly hoop squads and played against the Golden Bobcats six times.

Thompson Uncanny Shot
"Thompson was an uncanny shot, but poor defensively," the former Grizzly three-sport performer said. "Ward was a great rebounder and he and Breeden fed Thompson when he was hot, which was most of the time."

Breeden was probably the best defensive man I have ever seen," Chinske continued. "He didn't shoot much and after starting the fast break he would hang back on defense."

Chinske paused a moment and then smilingly recollected, "Once Thompson was bottled up in the corner at least 30 feet from the basket. He turned his back toward the bucket and shot over his head. It just about went in."

Breeden Top Guard
A check of the records shows that in 1927, the Bobcats downed the Grizzlies 50-22 and 51-37. Thompson and Ward, though only freshmen, wowed the crowd. Thompson got 21 and 22 and Ward bucketed 16 and 14 in the two frays. After the first game, the Kaimin commented, "The giant Breeden was all that a guard should be and readily showed why he was picked as an all Rocky-Mountain guard."

In a slaughter still remembered by Silvertip fans, the Golden Bobcats waltzed to a 77-26 victory at Bozeman in 1928. The goliath Ward canned 21 points and the elusive Thompson 26. The Kaimin said, "Cat" Thompson shot

Phi Epsilon Kappa, Western Win IM Basketball Games

By JOE CROSS

Tuesday night intramural basketball saw Phi Epsilon Kappa run over Sigma Alpha Epsilon by a score of 53-28 and Western take a lopsided win over the Short Shots, 49-35.

After a cold first quarter when it was held to a 10-10 tie, PEK outscored its A division rivals, SAE, by large margins in the last three quarters. High point man of the game was Don Welch of SAE with 16 points. He was followed by PEK's George Frazier who canned 14.

In the other contest, a C division go, Western made it a team win over the Short Shots as every man on the squad scored at least three points.

the ball from every angle on the floor, and the Grizzlies found that when the ball left his hands it swished through the basket just from force of habit."

Led by sophomore guard Chinske, the Grizzlies narrowed the margin to 13 points at Missoula that year, falling 52-39. Thompson had one of his few poor nights, claiming but eight points and hitting only 3 of 27 shots. Ward paced the Cats with 21.

Chinske Was Whirlwind
Chinske, with 15, and Sam Kain, with 16, led the Silvertips. Chinske's performance prompted the Kaimin to say, "Eddie Chinske was a whirlwind, dribbling, passing and checking in All-American style."

Again in 1929, the Bobcats reigned victorious. At Bozeman they befuddled the Grizzlies, 68-18. The gold-dust twins, Ward and Thompson, each exceeded the Silvertip total with 20 each. Chinske was high for the losers with three points in a game that saw the Bobcats leading 21-1 at one point.

The incredible Thompson cut the cords for 23 points before a sellout crowd in the old Men's gym to spark a 54-38 Bozeman victory in the second clash of 1929. Chinske paced his mates with 13 markers, piercing the ring."

Golden Era Ended
Thompson and Ward were seniors in 1930 as the golden era of Bozeman basketball gleamed through its last year. A fighting Grizzly five went down 45-35 and 44-32 in bitterly contested games. Silvertips trailed by two points with four minutes left in the 45-35 clash, but the ever-ready Thompson hit three fast buckets to clinch the victory and give him 19 points.

The "Cat" hit for 11 and the bulky Ward connected for 14 in the blood-spattered 44-32 fracas. Chinske closed his career against his old enemies with six.

MSU Education School Initiated In 1900, Gets Last Name in '30

Ed. note: During the remainder of winter quarter the Kaimin will run a feature story each week on one of the schools or departments on campus. This week we are featuring the School of Education. These articles are designed to educate students and faculty on phases of the University other than the ones they are associated with.

An important school on the campus in terms of the future is the School of Education, located in the Business Administration-Education building. The primary responsibility of the School of Education is the professional training of teachers and administrators, with students broadening their education in other departments of the University.

The Department of Philosophy and Education, the forerunner of the present day School of Education, was established in 1900. By 1913, it was known as the Department of Education, and in 1918 a School of Education was recommended, but was not established until 1930.

A very high percentage of graduating students each year qualify for secondary school teaching certificates. Students may qualify either by earning a bachelor of arts in Education, or a degree in some other field, plus 24 credits in Education and a teaching major and minor.

In the past eight years, from one-fifth to one-third of each graduating class have met the requirements for teaching certificates. Last year, out of 422 graduates who received bachelor's degrees, 140 were qualified for teaching certificates. Of these, 37 were majors in Education. Conservatively estimating, this means 500 to 600 students on the campus at the present time will eventually qualify for teaching certificates.

School Recommends

The School of Education does not actually grant teaching certificates, but recommends graduates to the State Department of Public Instruction for certification.

The School of Education offers many services outside of training teachers. It works closely with educational groups within the state, such as the State Department of Public Instruction, the Montana Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the School Boards association. Other groups are the Montana Aeronautics Commission and the Montana Conservation Council, both of which conduct workshops and classes on the campus during the summer in cooperation with the School of Education to acquaint people with their particular activities. The American Automobile association and the Montana Highway Patrol association also work closely with the school in safety education.

Another function of the School of Education is educational research. This is done by both graduate students and the regular staff. As an interesting sidelight to this, it may be noted that 52 per cent of all Master's degrees awarded by the University since 1899 have been in Education.

Many Prospective Snarfs

There are presently 170 students working toward degrees in Education. Their courses must include an introduction to education, educational psychology, secondary school methods, and student teaching. In this latter course the students, for a quarter or more, actually teach in the classroom. The Missoula City schools and Missoula County high school provide student teaching facilities which are used extensively during the regular school year. Thirty-six students are presently practice teaching.

There are seven instructors on the staff of the School of Education. Dr. W. R. Ames has been in the school for 35 years. He specializes in educational psychology, measurements, guidance, and research methods.

Other instructors are Dr. James E. Short, director of student teaching; Dr. John F. Staehle, administration; Henry W. Knapp, audio-visual aids; Dr. Vernon O. Sletten, research and administration; and Ben R. Frost, measurements and guidance.

Carleton is Dean

The dean of the school is Dr. Linus J. Carleton, who occasionally fills in as an instructor.

Beginning next year, the School of Education is authorized by the State Board of Education to offer training for elementary teachers. A program of studies for elementary teachers has been studied and planned. This program will include broad preparation in liberal arts, and specific professional courses in elementary education. Additional staff will teach courses in elementary education and advise prospective elementary teachers.
