Motion for U Building Program Adopted by House Committee

A motion was presented and accepted in Montana's house appropriations committee yesterday that bill be drawn to outline a 10 or 10 million dollar university system building program by floating a bond issue which would be voted upon by Montana's 1956 voters.

The bond issue would provide for an expanded building program of the six units of the system. Rep. Charles Cerovski of Fergus county made the motion and it carried unanimously.

A substitute motion was made by Rep. Fred Barrett of Liberty county that a special meeting be held this morning before the two chambers begin business. The governor will be at the meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the possibility of floating such a bond issue to take care of non-recurring items for the university system and to request immediate action on the proposed bill.

University leaders said that the two and one-half million dollars requested by the universities for building purposes could not be sufficiently covered by the proposed budget for the next biennium and still balance the budget.

The leaders said that the bond measures became the necessary solution.

Republican Hopes...

...were soaring and democratic confidence was ebbing on the eve of a showdown battle over reduced income taxes.

The tax plan, sponsored by the democrats, gives every taxpayer a $20 cut for himself and another $20 for each dependent. Republicans lined up votes against the measure yesterday and feel sure they will beat it when it comes to a floor vote today.

The democrats, once dead certain they would win, still seem to think they will, if only by a whisker.

Text Exchange Now Available To Students

If you have any books which you won't need after this quarter, you may now exchange them for ones which you'll use in your new subjects. This service, sponsored by the Independents, starts today in the lounge of the Lodge.

Dean Hellinger, Devon, announced that a drop-box is located at the lounge desk. Students with books for exchange will list them on file cards and deposit them in this box. These will be filed according to department or school. Cards 3"x5" should be used.

Students should put the following information on the cards in this manner:

Department or school of book
 Title
 (History, English, etc.)

Author
 Student's name and address.

A student looking for a book may use the file to see if it is up for exchange and who owns it. He may then contact the owner and arrange the trade.

Hellinger stressed that, to help the plan work, people who have gotten rid of a book should go to the file and remove the card.

Owners who wish to list their books before they are finished with them may do so, providing they note on the card the date on which the book will be free.

Final Week, Kaimin Editorial Discussed by Central Board

Spring vacation was heard at Central board meeting again last night, this time in regard to the stepped up final week.

The final schedule lists exams starting Friday afternoon (March 12) and ending the following Tuesday afternoon.

Original vacation plans approved by the board called for a final week beginning on Saturday morning (March 13) and ending the following Wednesday noon.

Some board members felt the hopped up schedule would put too much burden on students who have exams and classes on the same day.

Yesterday's meeting of CB was supposed to be with President McFarland. However, the president was held over at the legislature, and the joint meeting was postponed until next week.

Because of the rushed order of business for the next two weeks, a report from Larry Gaughan's special planning committee was put off until March 10.

George Lambros, Missoula, who has been working on the committee, criticized Tuesday's Kaimin editorial that chided the Planning committee for not having a report sooner.

He said, "The editor has been badly misinformed. He doesn't realize the amount of work that has gone into this thing."

The editorial pointed out the Planning committee has not had a report yet this year. The committee was set up by an all campus election last year to study possible constitutional changes. Central board was empowered to inaugurate any changes for the rest of this year so the student body could judge the new system.

Gaughan said his committee held weekly meetings all fall quarter and that much has been accomplished. The report with a recommendation for adoption will be submitted March 10, he added.

The idea of the Planning committee was to find a simplified structure for ASMSU administrative machinery.

Bill Hammer, Stanford, chairman of the Military Ball committee, requested that ASMSU funds be used to underwrite the $2,000 budget for this year's ROTC dance, but was turned down after lengthy discussion.

CB delegates said that the underwriting would set a precedent that would be undesirable in many cases, and that at the same time student funds would be placed in jeopardy on a project sponsored by only a fraction of the student body.

Prize Upped to $3 For Grill Contest; 'Magoo' Guesses

Bertha, the Foresters' moosehead, Dr. Frank DuMas, and Smokey the Bear were guessed yesterday in the "Mystery man" contest at the Grill. The drawing today for $3 has been moved up to 3:15 p.m. in order to allow the bigger crowd to participate.

Dean Ross A. Williams, forestry; Doyle Gerrard, Missoula, and "Mr. Magoo" made the three guesses yesterday.

Entrants in the contest guessed Don Chaney, Livingston; Don Bissell, Belt, and Miss Cyrille Van Duser, student employment secretary, at Wednesday's drawing.

"The 'mystery man' is a member of Montana State University," said Dr. Lendal H. Kotschevar, director of food services and residence halls, yesterday. A number of students guessed Bertha.

The contest will skip Saturday and Sunday, according to Dr. Kotschevar, and resume Monday. A dollar will be added to the prize each day of the contest.

Waring Praises Journalism Grads

"In the next four years, America needs 20,000 of its finest college men and women in the communications field," Houston Waring, guest lecturer at the journalism school, told more than 100 students and faculty members yesterday afternoon.

Waring, editor of the Littleton, Colo., Independent, delivered his second talk as part of the professional lectures program sponsored by the journalism school.

Most of the advances in journalism today are the result of journalism schools, Waring said, and added that the journalists role of critic has accounted for increased prestige to the profession.

Waring listed four pressures which may influence a newspaper. They are the church, friends, advertisers, and public officials in that order, and cautioned that not only the newspaper but also the reader should recognize them.

Admiring the confidence and energy of young graduates in the communications field, Waring urged them to stay with it and to "go forward with courage, humility, and dedication."

Few Days Left Civil Service Commissioners . . .

The Montana legislature is scheduled to adjourn until January, 1957, in another week, and still no conclusive action has been taken on behalf of appropriations to run the university system for the next two year period.

The first 52 days of the session have produced the introduction and killing of numerous bills . . . and a pay increase for the legislators.

Time Flies By

Much time has been devoted to highways—highway financing, operation, traffic regulations.

The governor has expressed his views on education in several ways. The first was his State of the State speech in which he said, "This upsurge of demands for education gives cause for close examination." Second, that we must not go so far as to require federal aid for the Montana school systems. Third, also from his State of the State message, "I could hardly believe it when the state controller's report indicated that the request for the university units totaled 19 millions for the next two years."

Governor Changes Stand

Yet, he sat on the Board of Education five months ago when that appropriation request was approved, and, he voted for it.

Mary Condon, superintendent of public instruction and head lobbyist for the school system, says the governor wants "non-educated morons driving down super highways."

The governor's and the legislators' views on the highway problem are entirely different. A substantial increase in appropriations is requested. The committees, under instruction from the governor, must weigh the need, taking potential revenues into consideration. He says that we cannot relax our efforts to try to reduce the accident and death rate on the highways.

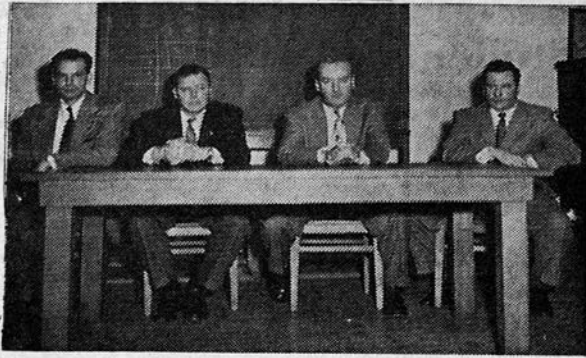

Highways Over Education

"Highway financing constitutes the number one problem in Montana," he said, later stressing the need to raise more money in order to secure more federal highway financial aid.

This is in direct variance with his views on education. Are those items which are not money raisers being minimized when business is substituted for politics?—E.S.

Tips, Cats to Battle in Tough Bozeman Series

By KEN BYERLY

Needing only one victory to clinch the state championship, 12 Grizzlies leave snowy Missoula at nine this morning for a two-game series with the Bobcats in Bozeman.

"The Cats are hard to beat on their home court," Silvertip Coach Jiggs Dahlberg commented. "We know they will be tough games."

Prodding the Bobcats will be the thought of revenge for the drubbings administered them in January at the Field House, 71-62 and 83-64, by the hot-shooting Silvertips.

"We will probably use the zone defense," said Dahlberg. "We were very successful using it against the Cats here." Fans remember how the Grizzlies copped the 71-62 contest despite the loss of Dave Adams, who suffered a broken collarbone in the free-fouling tilt. Howard's 20 points showed the way. Accurate 51.8 per cent basket-tossing and the clutch playing of reserves enabled the Tips to waltz away, 83-64, in the second game.

The recent practice-session injury to senior guard Hal Winterholler will handicap the University attack, Dahlberg admitted. "Hal has been playing first-team," he said. "However, I think our second-team men will fill the breach."

The Grizzly mentor said no tickets are available to University students or townspeople for the contest, according to Bozeman business manager, Hugh Cetton. "It's just a case of too many fans and too small a gym," Dahlberg said.

The Silvertips carry a 11 won, 12 lost record to Bozeman to tussle with a squad boasting an 8-14 mark. Bobcats lost two to Idaho State last week end while the Grizzlies were falling before Utah and Brigham Young.

Bill Salonen, hulking junior forward from Butte, is the leading Bobcat scorer with a 12.7 average per outing. He is followed closely by freshman centers Jack Oliver and Jack Roberts, senior guard Fred Ingaldson and freshman forward Ted Carter.

Grizzly center Ray Howard carries a 17.0 average and 392 points to Bozeman. Forward Zip Rhoades and guard Ed Argenbright back the 6'6" center with 13.0 and 13.2 averages respectively.

Statistics released by the NCAA reveal that the Grizzlies claim the Skyline's top rebounder. Ray Howard has plucked 184 balls from the backboards in 13 conference outings, an average of 14.2 per game.

Howard pulled down 20 rebounds against Brigham Young Saturday and 16 against Utah sky-scrappers Feb. 17 to vault into the lead.
