UM FACULTY MEMBER
PRESENTS PAPER TO
EDUCATORS IN SAN DIEGO

MISSOULA---

Dr. Robert H. Johnson Jr., director of educational research and services at the University of Montana, presented a key address during the National Conference of Innovative Educators, which ends today (Friday, Dec. 8) in San Diego, Calif.

His speech, entitled "The Superintendent and His Publics," dealt with many phases of public contact which a school superintendent must face in today's world--three of them being his board, his staff and the community he serves. The speech will comprise a major chapter in the conference proceedings, to be published early in 1968.
