Reluctance' Stops Soviet Editors from U. S. Tour

In connection with the proposed visit of 11 Russian editors to MSU, Missoula, International Relations club president, read the following letter from Mr. C. Nagle, department director of special programs for the State of International Education.

I am writing to thank you for your letter concerning the possibility of a visit to your campus by Soviet editors of student and faculty publications. Their trip, which was to be begun on April 19, as you know, cancelled by the Soviet government on April 16, because the Soviets based their action on an inability to comply with the fingerprinting requirements, we cannot help but feel that cancellation stemmed from a general reluctance on their part to permit the editors the full exercise of the freedom, general education, and technical proficiency in this country.

We greatly appreciated your interest and that of 90 other colleges and universities throughout the country who wrote us about the editors' tour. The enthusiastic reaction of American academic institutions to the opportunity to accept the Soviets with 'American life' was hearty evidence of the vitality of our educational system.

Choir to Give Concert Sunday

The MSU choir will present its spring concert Sunday in the Unity theater. The program will include selections by the choir solos by members.

Opening the program will be an anthem, "All Praise to God the Father," arranged by Don Hardin.

Soloists will be soprano Berta Blum, Glendive, accompanied by Hartley, Billings, and baritone Ed Focher, Ballentine, accompanied by Katherine Crockett, Butte.

Hardisty will give a bongo drum and Don Schessler, Laurel, singing a tenor solo with the choir, "Go Down Death," a spiritual.

The final number on the program will be "O Clap Your Hands" the entire choir, the University choir, and pianist Hartley.

No Classes May 13-14

Classrooms will fold up for MSU students May 13 and 14 for the Interscholastic meet on Friday and Saturday, according to an announcement by Pres. Carl McFarland last week end.

Many persons on campus don't have it so easy, though, including the faculty members who have been asked to "stand by" to serve as judges in various contests and aid in the sale and collecting of tickets at the gates, as well as to give high school visitors information about the offerings at Montana State University.

Entries to this 49th annual meet are coming in. Opheim, with two entries for debate, was the first to register.

Offices will remain open during the mornings of Friday and Saturday, but members of the clerical staff will be given a half holiday on Friday afternoon.

Aber Contest Date Changed; Practice Scheduled Tonight

The Aber Memorial Oratorical contest, formerly scheduled for tonight, has been postponed until next Wednesday night, according to Ralph Y. McGinnis, associate professor of English.

Six students are entered in the contest, and Professor McGinnis said that entries will not be accepted after tonight.

Anyone still wishing to register for the event may attend a practice meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in LA 204.

The speeches must consist of 2400 words or less.

Prizes will be $20, $10, and $5 respectively.

Students presently entered in the contest are Jerry Rutan, Great Falls; James Roberts, Dillon; Sheila McDorney and Ronald LaBuff, Missoula; and Don Mosher and Bruce Cook, Butte.

Soph Honor Group Picks 39 Pledges, Has 31st Birthday

The pledging of 39 freshman girls by Alpha Lambda Delta tonight at 9:30 p.m. in the Eloise Knowles room will mark the 31st anniversary of the founding of the national sophomore girls' scholastic honorary.

ALD originated in 1924 at the University of Illinois "in order to promote intelligent living... and also to encourage superior scholarship among freshman women."

Tonight the MSU chapter will pledge the largest number in its history. The 39 girls each qualified for membership by making a cumulative grade average for fall and winter quarters of 3.2 or above.

Twice this year, freshman girls with this average were honored by the traditional ALD presentation of roses in the dorms. According to Marilyn Moore, Kallispeil, ALD president, names of the pledges will be announced tomorrow.

Since its founding in 1924, the ALD National Chapter roll has grown to 65 with over 16,000 members.

U. S. Will Agree To Mediation After Cease-Fire

By the United Press

Secretary of State Dulles said he regards a Formosa cease-fire as "indispensable" before there can be any talks with Red China on the Far East crisis. He also said the United States will not discuss the future of Formosa at a conference until Chinese Nationalist representatives are present.

President Eisenhower's... foreign trade bill has passed a crucial test by winning a 13 to 2 vote of approval in the senate finance committee. The committee passed the bill after adopting a compromise amendment that gives the president power to limit imports which might threaten industries vital to national security.

The Veteran's Administration... has outlawed GI home mortgages which require no down payment or closing fees from the purchaser. Officials explain that defaults have been higher on mortgages of this type.

Oil And Gas Institute In Billings May 21-22

A. W. Walker, an authority on oil and gas law, will speak at the Rocky Mountain Oil and Gas institute in Billings on May 20 and 21, Robert E. Sullivan, dean of Montana State University law school, announced recently.

The Oil and Gas institute is sponsored by the MSU law school in cooperation with the Montana Bar association and the Yellowstone County Bar association.

This first institute will cover the legal problems incident to the acquisition of a lease, the provisions and judicial interpretation thereof, and the regulation and taxation of oil and gas production, Sullivan said. Lawyers from the entire Rocky mountain area are expected to attend sessions held in the Science auditorium at Eastern Montana College of Education.

Advance registration may be made with the director of the Oil and Gas institute, Box 1224, Billings.

Flathead Leadership Camp To Open for 100 Attending Breakfast Friday Morning

By Bill Thompson

Over 100 of MSU's leaders will gather at the Lodge at 6:30 a.m. Friday morning for breakfast before leaving for the annual leadership camp at Flathead lake, according to Bobbie Atkinson, Missoula, co-chairman of the planning committee.

Miss Atkinson said the cost of the breakfast is included in the $10 paid by each delegate. She emphasized that today is the deadline for payment.

Most important items on the tentative leadership camp program are: Friday, 6:30 a.m., group breakfast at the Lodge and departure for Flathead; 9:30 a.m., registration at Flathead Lake lodge; 1:30 p.m., Professor Herbert

Bisno speaks on "Group Dynamics." An extensive program of discussion and activities has been planned for the remainder of the week end. The group will leave for Missoula at 12 noon on Sunday.

Speakers at the camp will be: Dr. A. S. Merrill, vice-president of MSU; Miss Maurine Clow, associate dean of students; Mr. John Toole, Missoula Chamber of Commerce; Andy Cogswell, director of the public service division; Tommie Lou Middleton, admission assistant; Robert L. James, assistant professor of sociology; Deane Fern, director of the School of Religion; and E. A. Atkinson, professor of psychology.

The estimated cost of the camp will be around $1,830. This will be partly offset by the 10 dollars paid by each delegate. Students who wish to pay this sum may do so at the General Accounting office in the Arts and Crafts building.

Delegates may be members of the student body, the president or social chairman of a living group, an ASMSU officer or candidate, or a member of Central board, junior sponsors, or a service club.

Entertainment will include tennis, an outdoor barbecue, swimming, boating, dancing, and movies.

According to Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of students, this camp gives those interested in leadership a superb opportunity to develop and learn.

Wanner Receives $500 Scholarship

Kennedy A. Wanner, Jamestown, N.D., a forestry senior, has won one of four $500 scholarships offered nationwide by the National Lumber Manufacturers association.

KENNETH A. WANNER

sociation. He will begin a 10-week training period in Washington, D.C., June 27, according to Dr. John P. Krier, assistant professor of forestry.

Wanner will get first-hand knowledge of current research at the Timber Engineering company laboratory.

The NLMA said the scholarships are set up to obtain more skilled technicians from outstanding forestry schools and "to further the industry's cooperation with schools of forestry."

Ice Rink Cut To Half Size

Glacier rink has been cut down to half-size because the compressors that supply the ice cannot adequately freeze the entire surface.

Two men from the Creamery Package company, builders of the rink, were sent to the campus to look over the situation. While they were here the weather turned colder and the rink equipment was working correctly. The day after they left the ice disappeared, according to Herbert L. Torgirson, assistant maintenance engineer.

Torgirson said that although the ice melted, the temperature was under the maximum for proper operation. The maintenance department has sent a letter to the office of the company in Chicago and is now awaiting an answer.

All the available data has been sent to the company, including the temperature at which the ice was lost, Torgirson reports. "We will just have to wait and see what happens," he added.

Interviews to Get Jobs Announced

Job interviews, like spring, are "busting out all over." Three were announced yesterday.

Two of these will require appointments with Mrs. Leona Peterson in the Placement bureau, Main hall 206. They are Hennessey's Department store, Butte, and the American Red Cross.

William Pitts, general manager of Hennessey's, will be on campus Thursday to interview June graduates. Two positions are open in the company's training program, one in advertising and one in merchandising.

Dorothy Taafee of the Red Cross' Pacific area office will visit MSU on Friday, April 29. Miss Taafee will interview graduating men and women who are seeking careers in recreation, welfare, or social work. Young women between 23 and 30 will also be considered for assignment in the clubmobile program in Korea.

The interviews will be in the Lodge May 9, 10, and 11 and will not require appointment.

Capt. William P. Heim will discuss the Marine Corps officer candidate programs with interested students. One program, the platoon leaders class, is open to freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. The other available program is the officer candidate course.

'bout the Size of It

Dean Linus J. Carleton of the education school will be the featured speaker at a luncheon meeting in the Silver room of the Lodge at noon today. All faculty members and students of the school are asked to attend.

Col. John A. Peterson, commander of the 9437th Air Reserve squadron, has announced a special Air Force reserve informational meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 1007 of the Federal building. The meeting will concern retention, promotion, retirement, and status in the reserve program under the new policies of the Air Force reserve.

Proposed Amendments

Amendment — to change Article III, section 4 of the ASMSU constitution to read "senior and freshman class presidents," and to substitute in Art. 7, Sec. 10 the words "a temporary president" for "temporary officers." (This amendment would remove class officers with the exception of the senior and freshman class presidents.)

Amendment — to delete clause 3, Section 3, Article V. (This would remove the alumni delegate to Central board.)

Amendment — to substitute in article XIII the dates May 5, 1956 for May 5, 1955. (This would extend the ASMSU Planning committee for another year. It gives Central board power to enact constitutional changes as by-laws which will be voted on in next spring's election. The article was passed to facilitate governmental reorganization.)

Three Fish Are Only Proposal Coming From Year of Debate

We assume you will be awake approximately 15 hours today. That gives you 54,000 seconds. If you spend 30 seconds reading the trio of proposed amendments to the ASMSU constitution printed to the left, you will still have 53,970 seconds to worry about droodles, brussels sprouts, and blackstrap molasses.

Central board has played toadies with these amendments for more than a year. The only one of the three passed last year, empowered the board to kill or give birth to any committees deemed necessary for needed governmental reorganization. A special planning committee resulted.

Reorganization proved more complex than anticipated so another year's grace is being asked. The special committee seems to have turned into a rheumatic debating society with nothing accomplished but debate.

We Have to Vote for Offices . . .

Three years ago several plans for a senate-type student government were advocated. This year's committee was expected to study the plans, initiate one, and give students a chance to approve its mechanics come spring elections. Planning committee somewhere along the line stubbed its herring boxes.

In spite of this overall failure, three amendments resulted and will appear on the ballot. On the surface they seem desirable. We can see no need for class officers, the alumni delegate has been kaput for probably a decade, and planning is as badly needed as ever.

We urge you to support these amendments next Tuesday. The only one even savored by controversy deals with class officers.

. . . Offices That May Die the Same Day

It's unfortunate that people are campaigning for offices that may soon be defunct. But class officers serve no practical purpose, distract interest from other, more important posts, cause disunity in campus activities, and cost money.

If there is honor tied to these vestigial posts, there is aura popularis inboasting over membership in ASMSU.

Greek Aber Day Seen Successful

The first Greek Aber day held Saturday at Montana Power park was a "huge success," declared Ken O'Brien, general chairman of the event, which was sponsored by Interfraternity council.

"More than 250 Greeks attended and despite the cold weather, seemed to enjoy the get-together," O'Brien said.

Jerry Schreuder, SPE, Worden, entertained with some vocal and guitar selections. A three-piece Sigma Chi combo composed of Rollie Grotte, Hamilton; Bill Todd, Billings; and Jim Snyder, Missoula, played a couple of numbers.

The Phi Sigma Kappa quartet, composed of George Wetherston, and Duwayne Dahl, both of Sidney; Ron Busby, Butte; and Dave McLaughlin, San Luis Obispo, sang a few numbers. Al Gjernes, Oklee, Minn., was the director of the group.

Assisting O'Brien in planning the program were Dick Riddle, Libby; George Bovingdon, Seattle, Wash.; and Judy Weaver, Red Lodge, representing Panhellenic. Jerry Bowlin, Great Falls, was food chairman, and John Vohs, Williston, N. D., acted as master of ceremonies.

Steam Valve . . .

To the Editor:

In a letter printed in Friday's Kaimin, Tom Needham, senior class president, advocated giving class officers something to do rather than to abolish the positions. This argument overlooks the reasons why Central Board approved the proposed Constitutional change.

As I see it, the object of the change is a more efficient and active student government. Central Board has many times in the past unsuccessfully tried to find unique functions for class officers. The only things which could be found for them to do are things which should prove more appropriately to given to committees. It has proven more realistic to provide student activity on the basis of the particular purpose to be accomplished rather than by class.

Most class officers, like Tom, have been sincere and hard working. Such persons would be of even more service to student government, and gain more experience, as chairmen or members of committees.

Larry Gaughan

SPORT CIRCUIT

By J. D. COLEMAN

The title-bound Utah Redskins gave Montana fans an exhibition brute force Friday—in hitting and pitching. The slugging Utes are to be a shoo-in for the western division crown, having six straight without a defeat in conference play. And, since Wyoming, the leading Skyline champs, are gobbling up the eastern division teams in equal abandon, it would seem to be a pretty safe bet to assume the Redskins and the Cowboys will tangle at Laramie sometime in the Skyline championship.

At this early date this corner would venture a prediction: that the Utes will surely win one game, but that Wyoming will win the title crown for the second straight year. The one game the Utes are to pick up will be one by the fireballing Jim Dokos. All-American shortstop Bob Jingling and company will crucify any Ute pitcher that ventures onto the mound.

The eastern division is rough this year, but the Cowboys, undefeated in four starts, are making a runaway of the race. Hitting .375 as a team against league opponents, Wyoming has scored a whopping 62 runs in those four games. The Laramie crew is also the best fielding team in the division with a .953 fielding average. The tight Wyoming infield has aged three double plays and startled Denver with a rare triple-kill. This is a far cry from the Grizzlies, who sport a .232 team batting average and .396 fielding percentage. There are quite a few weaknesses apparent on the Montana squad and most of them cannot be corrected. However, there is one weakness that could, and should, be corrected. That is the relatively poor showing the pitchers, as a team, have made at the plate. The corrective action—allow the hurlers to get in a few practice licks during the week instead of waiting until game time to introduce them to the business end of a bat.

This is, admittedly, a radical departure from the norm. So, before the traditionalists blow a tonsil screaming "heresy," a few facts and figures, in support of this thesis, are in order. The theory that pitchers do not need batting practice because their job is to pitch is one peculiar to professional baseball. Pro team managers and owners, presupposing that pitchers are notoriously weak at the plate, stock their clubs, whenever possible, with wealth of relief pitchers. This allows the manager the opportunity to lift a starting pitcher in favor of a pinch hitter, secure in the knowledge that a competent reliever will be ready to fill the gap on the mound.

Montana, needless to say, is not a pro team. Furthermore, Montana is not overly blessed with hurlers, relief or otherwise. The Grizzly and corps, at present, consists of two starters and three relievers, including Humble.

In the eight games to date, the pitchers have been at bat 21 times. They have four hits, three runs, eleven strikeouts, five walks, and one RBI. And in the process, they have left 12 potential scores stranded on the basepaths.

Item one—score was 3-8, one out; pitcher struck out with man on first. Item two—score was 0-4, two out; pitcher struck out with runner on second. Item three—score was 14-17, one out, runners on second and first; the pitcher hit an infield pop-up. In this case a would have meant the ball game. For if the pitcher had gotten on the following batter would have driven in two runs instead of one. This run, coupled with the run that scored in the subsequent inning, would have meant a Grizzly victory. Item four—score 5-8, one out on second; pitcher retired the side with a weak infield roller. It is not as if the Grizzly pitchers were weak hitters. On the contrary, they are fairly good with the stick. Last year Caine had the best average on the squad with .350. He had a triple and four RBI-batted-in. Biehl hit .238 in 1954 and had a double and two RBI's. The defense rests.

SAE'S Coach Says Pitchers Needed To Balance Squad

Coach Harry Manuel of the SAE softball team says, "my biggest worry is pitching." Manuel, not ordinarily a pitcher, has been dividing pitching duties with Bob McGuire. But Manuel says he needs a "stopper" to fill out the rest of the well-balanced SAE squad.

The infield is set with John Powell at third, Dale Sneidermiller at short, Mike Linn at second, and Milt Wordal and Bob Gilluly trading off at first.

Other infielders, some of them out for Grizzly spring sports, include Howard Johnson, Len Peklewski, and Don Welch.

The SAE outfield can be picked from Chuck Dorn, Jim Peterson, Art Lindstrom, and Bill Hammer. Either Wordal or Gilluly also play the outfield when they're not on first base.

28-Day Field Trip By Five Foresters Planned for May

James O. Klemmedson, instructor in forestry, will take five senior foresters on a 28-day field trip through the inter-mountain areas. The trip is an annual event in the forestry department curriculum of range management, and will be from May 1 to May 28 this year.

The five students are Frank Kirschchen, Baker; Merlin Leat, Missoula; Joseph Meuchel, Hamilton; David Owen, Missoula; and James Schoenbaum, Canton, Ohio. The group will travel in the University station wagon and carry their own camping and cooking equipment. Klemmedson said they would camp wherever it is convenient at the grounds of the forestry service establishments.

They will tour Idaho, Nevada, and Arizona, visiting range management stations, Indian reservations, and private ranches. The purpose of the trip, says Klemmedson, is to acquaint the students with the problems of range management in this area. However, he says, they will try to accomplish as much investigation in other related fields such as soil conservation and geology, as time permits.

Pillsbury Grants Award To Home Ec Department

The MSU home economics department has received two national research awards in Institution Management, Miss Helen Gleason, chairman of the department, announced yesterday.

Pillsbury Inc., has given the department a grant-in-aid to support research to find if a cake can be made as well and as economically from a cake mix as it can be made from a recipe of the institution. LaRue Arthur, a graduate student in the home economics department, will work on the project.

The cooking department has also been selected as one of five institutions in the nation to judge and test a series of recipes submitted in a national recipe contest sponsored by the magazine, "Institutional Feeding and Housing."

Both projects will be under the direction of Dr. Lendal Kotschevar at the Lodge.

Faculty Members Attain Promotions

The State Board of Education has approved the promotion of 15 MSU faculty members at their recent meeting in Billings, according to Pres. Carl McFarland. The appointments will become effective July 1.
