Faulkner Wins Pulitzer Prize

William Faulkner, recent guest speaker on campus, received the Pulitzer Prize yesterday for distinguished fiction in 1955. It was awarded to him for his novel "A Farewell to Arms" which is an allegory based on life in the World War I trenches in France.

This same book won for him the Pulitzer Prize in 1954. Faulkner, whose appearance several weeks ago was sponsored by the Central Arts club, is also a 1949 Nobel Prize winner.

Other Pulitzer Prize winners include Tennessee Williams, who received his second drama award; time for his play, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

The Pulitzer Prize for newspaper journalism went to the Columbus (Ga.) Ledger and Sun-Ledger-Enquirer, for its "complete news coverage and fearless editorial attack on widespread corruption in Phenix City, Ala."

Venture Staff Will Meet, Make Final Copy Selection

Although most of the Venture staff has been selected and has been sent to the printers, the Venture staff will hold its final selection meeting at noon today in conference room 3 of the Lodge, according to Ed Stenson, Spokane, Tor. Illustrations and the cover design will be sent to the engraver's week.

The spring quarter issue, including poetry, fiction, and non-fiction, will be published late in May.

Copies of the magazine will be sent to the Montana State Historical library in Helena. They are requested by the librarian. Copies will go on sale at local bookstands.

Any student interested in working on the Venture staff next year, whether as editor, business manager in a lesser position, should contact H. V. Larom, assistant professor of English, in LA 115 this quarter.

Health Center Opens Sept. 15; Will Have 30-Bed Capacity

Prefabricated steel flooring beams are being installed in the beginnings of the new Health Center, with construction progressing according to schedule.

The center will begin to serve the student body Sept. 15 with its present equipment and added facilities, according to Mrs. Lois Finley, head nurse.

Mrs. Finley says the new center will accommodate about 30 bed patients. The basement area, which will not be used immediately, will be constructed so expansion will double the center's capacity.

Four full-time nurses and one doctor, not yet appointed, will be employed. The doctor's position was left vacant by the resignation of Dr. John Scott. Dr. Scott accepted a position with a private hospital in Livingston.

In addition to two doctor's offices with adjoining examination rooms, the center will have three treatment rooms. One will be used for the microtherm machine. It operates on short wave radio waves and is used in the treatment of sinus, sprains, and strains. A license from the Federal Communications commission is re-

Flying Club Might Buy Another Plane

"Enough interest has been shown in the MSU Flying club that club members feel they can purchase another plane," according to Bill Neville, Missoula, president.

Articles of incorporation of the club limit the number to 20 men per plane, and the club is now at full strength.

Fifteen new members will be required before they can go ahead and purchase another Aeronca "Champ."

Anyone interested in joining the club is invited to attend the bi-monthly meeting of the club in Room 1 of the Lodge, tonight at 7:30.

Neville stressed that it is much cheaper to learn to fly in the MSU club rather than taking private flying lessons, through flying clubs.

Three Proposed Amendments, 49 Nominees Seek Approval in Today's General Election

Forty-nine candidates and three amendments to the constitution appear on the ballots today in the campus general elections.

The polls will be open at 9 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. Voting will be conducted at the table at the bottom of the stairs in the Lodge Grill, the same place as in the primary elections, April 21.

George Lambros, elections chairman, stresses that activity cards will be definitely required today before anyone will be permitted to vote.

Also, all who wish to help count the votes must turn their names in at the polls by 3 p.m. today. Counting will begin directly at 5 p.m. when the polls close.

All signs must be removed from the area directly around the polls before the election starts, according to Lambros. He said that they may be left where they are in other places.

The three proposed amendments to the constitution are to remove class officers with the exception of freshmen and senior class presidents; to remove the alumni delegate to Central board; and to extend the ASMSU planning committee another year.

To pass these amendments, 40 per cent of the active members on campus must vote, and two-thirds of those voting must approve the proposals.

Successful Leadership Camp Held at Flathead—Lambros

By RICK LEE

Asked if there were any changes he would make if he were planning a future Leadership camp, George Lambros, Missoula, said he would cut down the number of formal speeches and leave more time for individual discussion.

"Very successful" were the words Lambros, co-chairman of the planning committee, used to describe MSU's second annual Leadership camp, held last week end at Flathead lake.

The camp isn't a place where you can take specific problems and come out with cut and dried solutions, according to Lambros. Rather, it is a place to gain an understanding of leadership problems and get an insight into the techniques of leadership.

During group discussions, many of the leaders present found the solution to some immediate problems, but that was a sidelight, rather than the most important part of the camp.

This year's camp lasted a day longer than last year's. Lambros felt this was desirable since it gave more time for relaxation between discussions and speeches.

There was more information of a general all-around point of view at this year's camp, according to Lambros.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS BY DICK BIBLER

Personalities Not Platforms To Determine Election Today

Tonight, when the last ballot has been counted, the answer to what was probably the most important question of the current campaign will be revealed. The question is, of course, —have the independents finally rallied enough votes to match the organized greek opposition?

Regardless of who fills the important, policy-making posts in the student government they will not have won those positions because of the meaty issues they supported.

Both presidential candidates have had pathetically shallow platforms. The two vying for business manager have had no platform at all.

Both Candidates Agree . . .

Jystad and Hellinger both advocate the semester system. Both favor the abolition of class officers. Both approve study on the honor system. Presumably, both are in favor of motherhood and mildly against sin.

So what.

The problem of class officers, if it is a problem, will be dealt with today by the voting student body. All the study in the world on the honor system will not change student opinion about its chances for success. And both candidates can advocate the semester system until they are blue in the face, but unless the president and faculty of this institution see fit to approve and initiate the program, not a cotton-pickin' thing can be done about it.

. . . So What Will Determine the Vote

So where do we stand? How do the candidates feel about the present student store setup? What are their reactions to the proposed 1955-56 ASMSU budget? What will be their policies concerning athletics? What do they propose to do about the present antiquated, inefficient, and inequitable system of student representation in student government?

It has been alleged that class officer campaigns are mere popularity contests. This may or may not be true. But one thing is certain—when an uninformed student body goes to the polls today, its selection of ASMSU officers will be predicated more on personal popularity and the influence of the sometimes clever campaign posters than it will on the critical issues at stake.

in the Lodge by the Bear Paw organization, has arrived and is available for use. Records from the old Student Union are being catalogued by the Student Union and will be located near the machine.

Applications for Bear Paw membership will be available by the middle of May, according to Addison Carlson, Billings.
