Course Description

The purpose of this course is to provide the student with an overview of working with children and families. The course prepares students to understand the dynamics within the family, and external forces of policy, culture, and community, which affect the family. Also, attention is given to social work practice implications for each topic to prepare social work students for the field of child welfare.

Course Objectives

1. Understand family dynamics, systems and strengths, and practice implications based on these areas.
2. Understand historical and cultural factors that have an impact on the family.
3. Examine how current social policy affects children and families.
4. Identify how the community affects children and families.
5. Understand the concepts and the practice implications of out of home care.
6. Identify limits and ethics for social workers intervening with families.
7. Synthesize the factors affecting families and write a social work case plan and policy based on the synthesis.

Content Areas

1. Family assessment and strengths perspective.
2. Historical perspectives of social work and the family.
3. The effect of the current child welfare system on the family.
4. Political and cultural forces which influence the family.
5. Out of home placement, foster care, permanency, and adoption.
6. Practice implications for social workers in the field.

Information Regarding Assignments

1. Class participation

Class attendance and discussion are an important part of your learning experience. Class attendance is mandatory. It is important to share your perspective not only for grading but also for the enhancement of others' knowledge.

Each student will be paired up and be responsible for leading the class in the discussion of one reserve readings. The discussion should be 15-20 minutes long. Specific direction will be given the first week of class.

2. Writing Assignments

There will be writing assignments. Presentations and discussions of your papers will also be required. The first paper will respond to a case presentation. The second paper will ask for an assessment from a video shown in class. The third paper will be a report on a community service or agency that works with families. The fourth paper will be based on foster care and adoption. Specific information and directions will be given in class.

Late assignments will be accepted but points will be deducted of the equivalent of one-half grade per day late.
